Yugoslav Military Charge Russia Studied Possibility Of Invading Their Country

Belgrade, June 1 — (AP) — Yugoslavia's military authorities charged today that Russia as long as two years ago investigated the possibility of invading this country.

The accusation was made in an indictment charging former Maj.-Gen. Branko Petricevic, 36, and former Col. Vlado Depcevic, 33, with committing treason in attempting to escape to Romania in August, 1948.

An alleged fellow - conspirator, Lt.-Gen. Arso Jovanovic, former army chief of staff, was shot and killed at the frontier by guards in the escape attempt.

As the two survivors went on trial before a military tribunal here today, Petricevic told the court after the reading of the indictment: "I feel guilty."

Dapcevic, according to the indictment, made contact with the Soviet military attache in Belgrade in 1948, seeking assistance for escape by himself and his colleagues.

Dapcevic, the indictment continued, was asked by the Russian attache, Gen. Georgi Stepanovic, for information on these three questions:

1. How would high army leaders feel in case of a Russian attack on Yugoslavia?

2. Is there movement of Yugoslav troops in the direction of neighboring Albania?

3. What are the conditions of roads in Yugoslavia?

JAPANESE REDS CALL FOR STRIKE IN RETALIATION

Tokyo, June 1: (AP)—Openly defiant, Japans communist party today ordered a general strike Saturday in reprisal for the occupation's rush trial of eight Japanese accused of kicking and [illegible]ning United States soldiers.

The strike call promised to bring to a head growing tension between Gen. MacArthur's occupation forces and the belligerent communists.

This tension, fueled by recent international communist charges that the Japanese Reds were too docile, erupted Tuesday — U.S. Memorial Day—in the first physical violence of the occupation against U.S. troops.

A captain and four soldiers, observers at a communist anti-American rally in downtown Imperial Plaza, were kicked, beaten and stoned. Only a few hours earlier, authorities had expelled the communists from the Plaza to permit Americans to hold Memorial Day services for their war dead.

The communist party howled that the Plaza incidents were caused "by systematic and organized provocations by spies" and thundered:

"Workers and students—rise [illegible] and start a general strike. . . [illegible]manding immediate release of the eight patriots."

If timed the reprisal strike to coincide with general strikes scheduled Saturday in the automobile, metal trades and heavy industry. The party's purpose in the latter is to influence the elections Sunday for the Upper House of Parliament.

No Way of Telling

There was no way of telling how effective the communists could make their general strike. occupation officials estimate the eds control 600,000 of Japan's 6,250,000 organized workers.

Police all over Japan have been placed on the alert for new outbreaks of red violence.

The occupation struck back swiftly after the Plaza incident. Before the communists had finished their parading and virulent [illegible]eech-making, American mili- [illegible] police moved in and arrest- [illegible] six Japanese. Two others were arrested later when a mob marched to police headquarters and demanded their release.

The eight were placed on trial less than 24 hours after the violent outbreak. They were charged with assault and defying occupation orders. The latter charge was dropped against seven after the defence successfully argued there had been no conspiracy.

CANADA TO TEST AIRCRAFT SPEEDS TO 3,000 M.P.H.

Lord Alexander Opens New Laboratory

Ottawa, June 1. (CP)—Canada lags behind no other world power in research in the field of superonics by which man pierces the sonic barrier and flies faster than the speed of sound.

This was disclosed Wednesday as the National Research Council threw open its establishment on the eastern outskirts of Ottawa for a three-day showing to the public. The occasion was the placing of the cornerstone of a new high-speed aerodynamics laboratory by Viscount Alexander.

The Governor-General said the laboratory, which probably will be opened late this year to test aircraft models at speeds up to 3,000 miles an hour, marked the beginning of a new era of Canadian research.

Canada, he said, now had reached a height in the sphere of aerodynamics and supersonic research which enabled her to make contributions to the welfare of her own people and to those of other nations.

Many countries now were building extreme designs of faster-than-sound aircraft including guided missiles, he said. The greater complexity of these aircraft necessitated greater investigation and apparatus to carry it out and that was the kind of work that would be undertaken in the new laboratory.

As invited guests looked over the dozen or more laboratories of the usually tightly-guarded establishment, a N.R.C. spokesman said Canada now is importing scientists from other countries on fellowships to help her with her research.

About 40 came from other western nations last year and the aerodynamics brains now working here are considered "among the best in the world."

TWO WOMEN INJURED

Oakville, June 1 (CP)—Two London, Ont., women, on their way to Toronto to attend a wedding, were seriously injured today in a highway accident near here.

Mrs. Fred Eggett and Mrs. Frank Clift, passengers in an automobile driven by Mr. Eggett, suffered cuts, loss of blood and other undetermined injuries. The car, swerving to avoid collision with another vehicle, crashed into a light standard on the Queen Elizabeth Way. Mr. Eggett and a third passenger, Lucy Birch, escaped injury.

Mexicans Furtively Smuggled Into U.S. for $1, Work for 25 Cents Hour

Mexico City, June 1. (AP)—It's a dark night on the Rio Grande. A man comes out of the brush on the Mexican shore. He peeks furtively through the darkness up and down the river.

Satisfied, he creeps down the bank. A dozen men, their left wrists tied to a long cord, follow him in line. He wades into the water, sounding with a long stick. They wade quietly to the far bank. The leader stays behind as the men cut themselves loose and disappear into the brush on the United States side.

Another consignment of smuggled Mexican farm workers has arrived in the U.S.

The leader is an "enganchador" (a "hooker"), so called because he pulls men out of the water. For two or three days he has been quietly talking to Mexicans camped along the shore. They want to go to the U.S. to work. Even at 25 cents an hour, they will make more in an hour than they could make in half a day at home.

The hooker finally completes the number he is willing to smuggle across the river. They pay in advance—how much depends on how much they have. The average is probably around 10 or 15 pesos—$1.10 or $1.65—a man. Then they start their crossing.

There is small penalty for failure. If the U.S. authorities catch them, the illegal migrants are merely sent back to Mexico. If Mexicans catch them, there is a fine of up to 10,000 pesos ($1,156) and two to five years in jail. But Pedro Garcia, chief of the Reyhosa Border Patrol, says he has only two men to patrol a hundred miles.

There are other types of "man smugglers". Sometimes boatmen will take the Mexicans across in small skiffs or on rafts.

The migrant is in danger from the time he leaves Mexico. He may step into a hole in the ford, or the current may wash him downstream. If he crosses in a boat, it may overturn.

So many bodies of aliens have been taken from the river that a U.S. sheriff in the lower valley complained that the free cemetery in his town was full of unidentified Mexicans.

Mexicans say that even if the migrant gets across the river safely, and finds a job with a U.S. farmer, he is still not well off. The authorities here say the illegal migrant is often paid less than the prevailing wage and that his food and sleeping quarters are sub-standard. If he complains, he is threatened with being turned over to U.S. officers.

Pakistan's Prime Minister Pledges Country's Friendship Toward Canada at Luncheon

Ottawa, June 1—(CP)—Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan said today his country is determined to throw all its weight into the struggle to maintain peace in the Asiatic continent.

Speaking before a Canadian Club audience, the Prime Minister reiterated a previous declaration that Pakistan, once at odds with its neighbor India "has no aggressive designs and certainly no territorial ambitions."

Pakistan was gradually developing its industries, Mr. Liaquat Ali said in a speech prepared for delivery. It now produced 75 per cent of the world's raw jute, though it had no jute mills. It also was producing quantities of cotton, hides and skins, wool, sugar-cane and tobacco..

"By the end of the year we hope to manufacture one-third of our requirements of cloth and yarn.

"Cheap electrical power is the basic need of our country and the work in progress in this field is aimed at giving us by 1957 sufficient energy for our industrial requirements, for modernizing our agriculture and for setting up a country-wide network of cottage and small-scale industries."

Although principally an agricultural country, Pakistan had "low productivity," the Prime Minister added. But it was going ahead with irrigation projects to bring more land under the plow and was purchasing tractors and modern implements as part of its development projects.

In a pledge of friendship to Canada, Mr. Liaquat Ali told the Canadian Club:

"We know that the people of Canada have faith in our democratic ideals. We bless your efforts as I hope you will bless ours."

At a reception Wednesday night in his honor at the home of Pakistan's high commissioner to Canada, the Prime Minister donated $1,000 of his own funds to help victims of the flood in Winnipeg and fires in the Quebec communities of Rimouski and Cabano.

Sees Episcopate One Difficulty In Way of Union

Toronto, June 1 (CP)—Insistence of the Church of England in Canada on keeping its system of bishops is one of the difficulties in the way of union between that church and the United Church of Canada, says Rev. Gordon A. Sisco, Secretary of the United Church General Council.

In an article written for the United Church Observer in connection with the 25th anniversary of the founding of the church, Dr. Sisco asserts that the United Church cannot accept any implication that its clergy is not a real and effective ministry, even without bishops.

"It is no secret that standing in the way of past proposals, and one which is difficult to reconcile, is the doctrine set forth by at least some Anglo-Catholics that the authority and commission of the church reside in an episcopate alone and that therefore a church which fails to believe this truth and to reply exclusively on its authority is not a church.

"To the extent that this group influences policy, it forces the Anglican Church into a difficult position on all matters pertaining to unity, here in Canada and elsewhere."

Negotiations concerning the union of the churches have been going on through a joint commission for six years.

Jet Airliner To Cross Ocean This Summer

Toronto, June 1 (CP)—Avro Canada today announced that its new jet airliner and jet-powered CF-100 fighter will fly the Atlantic this summer.

The two craft will be displayed at the Society of British Aircraft Constructors Exhibition at Farnborough, England, in September, and after that the transport will tour the capitals of Europe and possibly the Middle East.

The jet airliner made its first flight Aug. 10, 1949, and last April cut present airline scheduled times by half or more in flights to Ottawa, Montreal and New York, with a speed of more than 500 miles an hour. Performance of the CF-100 fighter is secret.

Crop Outlook Much Improved By Recent Rains

Toronto, June 1 — (CP) — Rains of the last few days have done much to improve the crop outlook in Ontario, the agriculture department said today.

Particularly heavy planting of corn is reported from several sections and spring grain is germinating nicely although more rain is needed.

High humidity in Lincoln county has caused some blossom rot in cherries.

Ontario county reports spring grain as showing a good stand and a much heavier planting of corn than usual. A start has also been made in setting out tomato plants.

Tobacco planting operations are general in Norfolk with plants being set out under favorable conditions, the department says. Prince Edward reports cheese production only about half of what it was last year.

Poor germination of canning pea seed is reported.

Reporter Leaves Czechoslovakia To Avoid Arrest

New York June 1 (AP)— The New York Times reported today that the newspaper's Prague correspondent, Dana Adams Schmidt, had left Czechoslovakia to avoid arrest.

Schmidt was among a score of Westerners named in the treason trial of 13 Czechs as having aided in setting up anti-communist underground ring aimed at overthrowing the government. Before he left Prague Schmidt filed a story in which he denied knowing the underground plotters with whom he was accused of being in contact.

The Times said Schmidt left Czechoslovakia for West Germany a few hours before he was to have been arrested.

The trial of the 13 accused Czechs opened Wednesday in Prague.

Semidt's departure left only three Western press correspondents in the Czech capital. They were Russell Jones of the United Press, Robert F. Biglio of Reuters and Gaston Georgs Fournier of Age Ce Frence-Press.

Nathan Polowetzky, American correspondent of The Associated Press, was ordered out of the country March 29. The Czech government charged him with "unobjective reporting." The same reason was given last January for the expulsion of Richard Kasischke, chief of the AP Bureau in Prague. Both Polowetzky and AP officials denied the Czech charges.

COMMONS OPENS MONTH DRIVE FOR PROROGATION

Members Will Sit Eight Hours Daily

Ottawa, June 1—(CP) — The Commons today is scheduled to begin an eight-hour working day in its drive towards prorogation.

Three sittings—11 a.m. to 1 p.m., 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. to 11 p.m.—replace the usual afternoon and evening sittings.

Still among the bulkiest items to be tackled are the estimates of expenditures of various departments. The sailing is expected to be a lot smoother once these items are cleaned up.

Before prorogation—some expect it by the end of the month—members will probably be asked to adopt the reports of several committees and deal with a half-dozen or more government bills, including a measure providing a new charter for Canada's Indians.

At an abbreviated sitting Wednesday, members gave third reading to a bill extending provisions of the War Veterans Allowance Act to Imperial veterans now resident in Canada. Also adopted was a bill making minor amendments to the Canadian Grain Act and a measure extending application of the Criminal Code to the new province of Newfoundland.

Prior to 1½-hour sitting, members of the Senate and the Commons were addressed by Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan. He declared that Pakistan is resolved to safeguard her freedom "at all costs."

At the House opening, J. Watson MacNaught, parliamentary assistant to Fisheries Minister Mayhew, said that a four-man team from the Fisheries Department has gone to Newfoundland to obtain information on the size of the undisposed surplus of the 1949 catch of salted codfish.

Resources Minister Winters said houses owned by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation in the flooded areas of Winnipeg will be brought into good condition as soon as possible.

During debate on amendments to the Canada Grain Act, which governs the handling of grains, H. O. White (PC - Middlesex East) asked Trade Minister Howe if soybean producers of Southwestern Ontario could be brought under its protection. The producers feared that an over-production of soybean in the United States might lead to dumping on the Canadian market.

Mr. Howe said he had put the question before the Board of Grain Commissioners, which administers the Act, and had just received a reply from them. However, the soybean problems could not be dealt with in the current amendments.

On the veterans bills, Veterans Minister Gregg said his department intends to set up permanent district authorities across the country to hear the appeals of veterans who feel they had not been dealt with fairly.

Col. A. J. Brooks (PC—Royal) said he did not favor such a plan. He had always obtained satisfaction from the board in Ottawa. Experience had shown that when such boards were put on a provincial basis they were inclined to look on allowances and the like as political patronage.

New Method to Dissolve Kidney Stones Employs Compound Used in Industry

Washington, June 1—(AP)—A new chemical method for dissolving kidney stones—employing a compound used in industry to clean boilers—was announced today.

The chemical is the sodium salt of a amino acid having the jawbreaking name "Ethylene-Diamine-tetra-acetic acid."

Used as a liquid, it is brought to bear on stones in the kidney or other parts of the urinary tract by means of a tube called a "catheter" which can be inserted into the urinary passage.

Dr. Robert F. Gehres of Sacramento, Calif., said the chemical was less irritating to the patient than others previously employed and effective against a wider range of kidney stones.

He told reporters that while the technique still is in an early stage, it offers promise of sparing surgical operations in certain cases, and of preparing for surgery certain other cases which otherwise might be inoperable. In the latter instance, he explained, the method offered promise of reducing very large stones to a point where operation could be undertaken.

Police Describe Tragedy As Double Murder, Suicide

Skulls of Man and Woman Badly Battered With Ax

Crowland, Ont., June 1 (CP)—While three children, ranging in age up to three years, slept, violent death overtook three Polish Displaced Persons in a humble, two-family shack here late Wednesday night.

Dead in what police describe as a double murder and a suicide are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Skrynnik and Leon Mroskowski. All are believed to have been about 40.

Police Chief William Wright said that Mrozkowski was found with his throat slashed from ear to ear on a chesterfield in the bed-sitting room of his section of the house. At his feet was Mrs. Skrynnik, her head battered. Body of the husband was found on the floor at the rear of the house, which was occupied by the Skrynnik family. His skull was smashed.

Police hold the theory that Mrozkowski attacked the Skrynniks with an axe and then took his own life. Three straight razors were found on a dresser beside Mrozkowski's body. An axe was found under a table in the kitchen of the Mrozowski section of the house.

Woman Discovers Crime

Discovery of the tragedy was made by Mrs. Mrozkowski as she returned home from working a night shift at a Welland textile plant. She ran screaming to a nearby store and Crowland police were called.

Two Mrozkowski children, Teddy, 10 months and Sylvester, 3 years, slept together in one bed through the carnage. The other child, 13-month-old Sophie Skrynnik, was in a crib.

Mrs. Mrozkowski and the children were sheltered in neighboring homes for the night.

Coroner Malcolm MacLean opened an investigation and ordered autopsies on the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Skrynnik.

Police say there is no known motive for the killings.

None of the neighbors on the lonely thoroughfare heard any commotion. Mrozkowski was last seen by a neighbor working in his garden about 8.30 p.m. Wednesday.

It is believed Skrynnik was struck down as he returned from a fishing trip. He was still wearing bicycle clips on his trousers when his body was found and two fish were found in a bowl in the porch.

In addition to her head injuries, Mrs. Skrynnik had shoulder slashes, believed inflicted by a razor.

The families came to Crowland from a Displaced Persons camp in Germany two years ago.

Bucked Church Together

The men found jobs in the textile mill. One left the mill and became a factory worker in a pipe-manufacturing concern, but was laid off. The other had not worked regularly for some time.

FIVE WILDCAT STRIKES CAUSING COSTLY DELAYS

London, June 1 — (Reuters)—Five wildcat strikes today were causing costly delays in London's docks, railway, power and building industries.

A total of 1,000 men were idle in the five stoppages.

1. More than 250 lightermen who man the small boats in the Thames are on strike in protest against dismissal of 91 men who, in turn, were fired for striking in support of 14 men suspended. The 14 had refused to work overtime. Several lighters and barges are idle in the port of London.

2. Five hundred men are on strike on London's Festival of Britain site, on the south bank of the Thames, as a protest against the employment of two non-union men.

3. More than 250 drivers and van guards are out at a railway goods depot in South London because they object to the promotion of a cartage foreman to inspector. They say another man, who has been there longer, should have the job.

4. Eighty-five electricians and laborers show no signs of ending their month-old strike at the vast Croydon power station, on the outskirts of London. Work on the power station is held up because of a dispute over the dismissal of a union official at the plant.

5. Forty carpenters have stopped work on government offices in the centre of London, because of a quarrel over whether skilled or unskilled men should fix windows.

Power Cut-off Due to Failure Of Insulator

Failure of an insulator on a main 44,000 volt line at the Sidney switching station of the Hydro Electric Power Commission resulted in a power cut-off in the city and immediate district during the height of yesterday afternoon's rain and electric storm.

Power in the east end of the city was off for 13 minutes, while in the west end of the city power was resumed after a total of 24 minutes. Every part of the city was affected by the cut-off as were areas adjacent to the city, including industrial plants such as Bakelite, Point Anne and Corbyville. Shut-offs at the district industrial plants was not as long as in the city, it was stated.

Lightning and the heavy rain was the cause of the insulator failure, it was reported by officials of the provincial hydro.

Cheese Production Down in District Says Crop Report

Cheese factories in the Bay of Quinte district are making only about half the cheese they were making at the same time last year, according to the weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

This was reported from Northumberland county and also from Prince Edward. Reason for the decreased make of cheese is due to few cattle in the district, and also due to the late season which has prevented many farmers from turning their cattle out to pasture as early as usual.

Seeding was reported to be in good shape with cereal grain up and fall wheat doing well.

Orchards are commencing to bloom and the first full week in June will be blossom week in the Quinte district. The cherry blossom is very heavy.

Farmers have commenced setting of tomato plants in Prince Edward county. A number of farmers have reported poor germination of canning pea seed.

Police to Crack Down on Speeders Within City

You wouldn't push your children off the top of a ten-storey building, says Police Chief Walter Probert, so when children are in your car, or in front of it, why take a chance on something just as disastrous—collision on the highway at 60 miles per hour.

"Speed can kill," Police Chief Probert states, "that's why we're going to crack down this summer on motorists in Belleville who fail to slow down to safe and reasonable speeds.

"Because you see a sign saying 50 m.p.h., or, in built-up area, 30 m.p.h., doesn't necessarily allow you to go that fast. If roads, weather, or traffic conditions make even the posted limits unsafe, drive more slowly or you may be prosecuted for careless driving."

The police chief points out that colliding at 60 miles per hour has the same impact as crashing your car from the roof of a ten-storey building; at 50 m.p.h. it's like falling from seven storeys up; at 40, four storeys; at 30 two storeys, and at 20 it's like dropping one storey.

"People must also realize that no one can "stop on a dime" the police chief went on. "Even at 20 m.p.h. good brakes won't prevent you hitting a child who steps out in front of your car 40 feet ahead. Your car will go another 22 feet before your foot touches the brake pedal."

More children are killed and injured during the heavy summer traffic when riding as passengers than are killed while walking or playing on the roads—fair warning that drivers should be extra cautious.

Gracie Fields Wins Audience With Stage Personality, Series Of Songs Grave and Gay

Gracie Fields, darling of the English stage and internationally famous comedienne won the hearts of well over 3,000 people in Memorial Arena Wednesday night in her first appearance on a Belleville stage.

The incomparable "Gracie" exuded a stage personality that had her audience practically 'eating out of her hand' as with songs grave and gay she played on the heart-strings with a lavish use of her glorious voice.

Her ovations were tremendous from the popular "Woodpecker Song" to the melodic beauty of "The Lord's Prayer," Miss Fields faced a wildly-applauding audience. She used the famous 'shawl' for her comedy numbers. Her "Lancashire" dialect was never heard to better advantage and many old country people and those who have visited England enjoyed the English comedy to the utmost.

Gracie Fields wins her audience by the human touch. Her famous "Biggest Aspidistra in the World" brought the audience to its figurative feet while her "Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean" and "Irish Eyes" brought the standard ballads out in near perfection.

Delightful Humor

Her sense of humor is delightful. Outside, thunder peeled and lightning flashed while rain staccatoed on the roof of the Arena.

"My goodness," quipped Miss Fields, "it's wet outside". The audience roared with laughter.

She told several stories. Stories touched with the wit of the Cockney, the folks of Lancashire, Yorkshire and Ireland. And through it all, comedy and ballad, the sheer personality of the artist stood out.

Her rendition of the famous number "Danny Boy" was a vocal masterpiece. She turned suddenly to the bright sparkling lilt of "If I'd Known You Were Coming I'd have Baked a Cake" while the audience clapped its appreciation.

Miss Fields sang about thirty songs during the evening. Many were given in groups of choruses, groups of the songs of Jerome Kern and included was the immortal "Make Believe" from "Showboat".

Changing Moods

Her moods changed with the type of song and she swayed rhythmically to the tuneful comedy numbers and displayed a remarkable histrionic ability in the serious scores.

The greatest impression was made on the large audience with her offering of "The Lord's Prayer", near the end of the program. The audience sat in a hushed silence as the glorious notes came crystal clear from her voice. The white-garbed figure standing in a pose of reverence with hands clasped in an attitude of prayer, which reached a state of poignancy as she stood with bowed head in the final 'Amen". In this number Miss Fields carried her audience with her in her petition to "Our Father, Which Art in Heaven".

Other numbers in serious vein which brought out the fine quality of Miss Field's voice were "Now is the Hour" which she used with her famous radio and stage theme song to close the program, "Count Your Blessings", "Forever and Ever". Her versatility was shown when she whistled the choruses of a popular number and several times she led the large audience in a community choral singing, as she spoke the words of succeeding lines. She sang the "Woodpecker Song" in Italian and English.

Time Has Been Kind

Time has been kind to Miss Field. True she perhaps is not quite the vivacious sparkling personality that veterans of the First War remember but her artistry is the same superb heart-touching thing that has made her a world-famous artist of stage, radio and screen. She gave a performance that was remarkable for its range, scope and variety. She won the audience immediately. Her personality reached over the "footlights" and held over 3,000 hearts until the National Anthem ended one of the finest musical entertainments presented to a Belleville audience.

"She loved the audience", she said, and voiced her sincere appreciation of its attention. Evidence of the hold Miss Fields held over the listeners was noted in her serious numbers, when one could hear the figurative pin drop. "Gracie" can come back to Belleville any time.

Marked Artistry

Displaying a marked artistry on her instrument, Miss Marguerite Learning, accomplished young violinist from Niagara Falls, who is Miss Fields' supporting artist gave a finished performance. Miss Learning's offering of "Intermezzo" took the audience to another musical world. She played with a deep resonance on the lower strings and her depth of tonal quality won her immediate acclaim.

The nineteen-year-old artist has won over thirty gold and silver medals with her magic instrument. She came to Miss Fields' attention ten years ago as a girl of nine. Her performance proved a perfect contrast to the lilting melodies of the Fields performance.

A brilliant musician in his own right, Mr. James Bailey piano accompanist for Miss Fields and Miss Learning offered a group of melodies to open the show. Coming from England with Miss Fields, Mr. Bailey proved himself an able accompanist and his renditions of classic and popular numbers won him well-deserved acclaim.

It was a show that will be long remembered by the large audience. Three outstanding artists headed by incomparable "Gracie" left an indelible musical impression that will not be easily erased.

Appreciation of the Kiwanis Club, sponsors of the show was evidenced in the presentation of floral bouquets to Miss Fields and Miss Learning. Little Bobby and Carolyn Franklin, son and daughter of President Taylor Franklin, of the Kiwanis Club, and Mrs. Franklin made the presentations and both were rewarded with a kiss of appreciation from the artists.

POLICE COURT

Provincial police are continuing their drive against motorists who make the mistake of not keeping their cars in good operating condition or who otherwise make infractions of the Highway Traffic Act.

Today in county magistrate's court a total of 20 cases were listed, all but one for alleged infractions of the traffic act.

Two motorists paid $8 fine and costs for speeding on the highways, while another paid $13 fine and costs for operating a motor vehicle without having an operator's licence.

Two motorists were charged with driving a car with improper lights and paid fines and costs ranging from $5 to $8.

Still another driver paid $8 for parking on the highway. Evidence was that the driver had stopped his car to pick some flowers along the roadside.

One driver paid a fine and costs of $13 for careless driving, while two other charges of careless driving were laid over until a later date. Another driver pleaded guilty to operating a vehicle while drunk and will serve the next seven days in jail.

Charge Engineer Ran Train at Too Fast Clip

Sylacauga, Ala., June 1. (AP) —A quick getaway in a locomotive while under arrest will switch Engineer Jason McCullom into court here Monday.

The highballing railroader faces charges of speeding, resisting arrest, and escaping from police.

The speeding charge, said Mayor Ed. Howard, was filed against McCullom because he ran a Louisville and Nashville passenger train through Sylacauga at too fast a clip.

Police rushed to the next stop and placed McCullom under arrest.

When police allowed the engineer to return to the train "for just a minute", McCullom opened the throttle, the mayor said, and highballed out of town so fast he almost got away without the conductor.

Once more the police set out after the train. At the next town down the line McCullom again was placed under arrest, and released in $300 bond.

POLICE BLOTTER

The old adage that a person should look twice before he leaps, has more than one meaning.

Yesterday a resident in the north end of the city reported to police that a cornet left on the steps of the Pine Street school had been stolen.

Today there was another report on the blotter. This time to the effect that the cornet had been recovered by the owner—inside the school door, where it had been placed for safety.

A drunk said by police to have smashed the glass out of the beverage room door at a Front Street hotel with his fist was taken to hospital for repairs. The man cut his wrist on the jagged pieces of glass.

A Marysville woman had damage amounting to approximately $125 done to the rear of her car when she stopped suddenly on Pinnacle Street only to have a truck run into the rear of her vehicle. The woman told police that she had been forced to stop suddenly to avoid striking a car in front.

BUCCANEERS' CLAIM

Drenching Rains Visit District, Total Fall is 1.66 Inches

Not a farmer in the Bay of Quinte district will agree but that the month of May was a dry month, but by the same token he will also agree Dame Nature did her level best to make up for things before the month actually ended.

That "best" was Wednesday afternoon and evening when it total of 1.31 inches of rain came down, most of it in a comparatively short space of time.

Sullen skies during the early part of the afternoon indicated that rain was in the offing but not even the most optimistic visualized the downpour which materialized. In the course of a very few minutes streets were drenched with puddles lying in every direction. Again in the evening there was another heavy shower, while an additional one third of an inch of rain fell after midnight. Total rainfall for yesterday and last night was 1.66 inches, according to records kept at the water filtration plant on Trent Road.

But farmers, as well as city residents, appreciated the rainfall. Spring grain crops, pastures and meadows were in need of rain, while today even flower gardens and lawns in the city are appearing fresher.

Total rainfall for the month of May was but 2.11 inches, while the average May rainfall during the past 42 years has been 2.37 inches.

JUNE

June is here, ready to round out the spring season with its infinite charms and so usher in the full sweep of summer about a week before the end of June. No other time of the year has such variety of charm to please the sense and heart of man and to inspire all forms of life on this planet. The great growing time of the year is come when nature expands with all her possibilities to be shared by man and beast and fowl and plant and tree life. Yet the coming of June means that the year is almost half gone.

June had an auspicious entry following the drenching downpours of rain. June has to round out the early harvests and to serve nature's plan of the coming crops. An infinite variety of products is the result of the forces of nature at work to create the annual new wealth of food which the growing season offers.

The charm of this month is one of the highlights of life on this globe. Earth takes on its richest appearance and offers new produce with that generosity which nature knows how to distribute for man and for all forms of life.

ALMOST AS FAST AS LIGHT

Atomic particles can be made to travel at almost the speed of light in a new research instrument which has started operating at the atomic establishment, at Harwell, England. The new machine — a travelling wave linear accelerator — will make possible a big extension of important research work in the design of atomic piles, including those for the production of power. It generates energies of three-and-a-half million electron volts, and radiation of such an intensity that it has had to be installed in its own shelter, in which the thick walls and roof are made of brick and concrete.

BUSY BEES

To turn out one pound of honey, it is estimated that honey bees must have taken in the nectar from more than 62,000 clover blossoms, and to accomplish this there would be required some 2,750,000 visits to the blossoms by the bees.

In other words, to collect sufficient nectar to make up one pound of honey, a bee must proceed from hive to flower and back again 2,750,000 times.

When one considers distances honey bees sometimes traverse in search of clover fields in some cases a mile or two from the hive, one begins to obtain an idea, in a slight degree, of the number of miles the industrious little creatures must travel in order that man may possess a pound of honey. — Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

JUNE

June is the month of lovely brides
And lovely garden blooms,
And I would add, in fashion clad,
The month of nervous grooms.

Miss Riley writes with gifted pen
Of palm and flower-filled rooms,
The brides arrayed in rich brocade,
But overlooks the grooms.

Oh, June, where'd be those lovely brides
Whose hair the rose perfumes;
Who'd wear those veils which she details
Without those nervous grooms!

Let others write of lovely brides,
To me the duty looms
This verse to pen. It's June again!
The month of nervous grooms.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GRATITUDE

I have always contended that mental and spiritual medicine far surpasses anything that the druggist or physician can supply, in many a case. Gratitude is one of those medicines that I would recommend as one that can bring hope, health, and happiness, to many a person unaccustomed to it!

To give gratitude costs nothing but the effort, but its effect upon the one deserving of it is instantaneous and soul stimulating. I believe that we all do things for which we neither hope nor expect anything in return but just pure gratitude.

No one gives out to the world more unselfish service, all frosted with love, than do the mothers of the world, and if they get in return the gratitude so deserved, they are happy and feel well repaid for all their giving and sacrificing. I am always happy to have Mother's Day come around each year, for it is a wonderful thing to concentrate ones thoughts upon our Mothers at that time. It helps to make us appreciative of all that they are to us every day, and for so long as we live. We can never be too grateful to the Mother who gave life to us.

We can never be too grateful to those who early taught us at home, in school, and in the school of life. To all those who have encouraged us on our way through life we owe gratitude, and never should we fail to express that gratitude at every opportunity.

Two of the easiest words to utter are these—Thank you! We work more for genuine appreciation than anyone suspects. When I read a great book, that has inspired me, I like to write to the author and thank him. It sets him up no end. I have such a letter from a famous woman writer to whom I wrote in appreciation of one of her books, and she told me it was the finest tribute paid to her book. I was glad that I wrote for a little while later she died. I like roses that are sent to the living.

There is no gift like praise and appreciation given at the right time. It has made every difference in the world to many a one, hungry for it. We should be grateful to God every morning that we awake, and every evening we should be glad to say from our heart: "Lord it has been good to have lived today!"

NAZI CONVICTED

Munich, Germany, May 31 (AP) —Heinrich Hoffman, one-time personal photographer to Adolf Hitler, today was convicted as a major Nazi offender by a denazification court.

His wife yelled "heil Moscow!" as he was led from the court which forbade him to work as a photographer for 10 years. The court also confiscated all of his property except 5,000 marks (about $1,200), and sentenced him to five years internment in a labor camp but suspended the sentence since he had already served the time.

DUTCH STRAWBERRIES

Hamilton, June 1 — (CP) — Two hundred tons of Holland-grown preserved strawberries arrived in Hamilton by ship Tuesday. The shipment was bound for two local jam manufacturers.

A spokesman for one firm said the Dutch berry was superior to the domestic fruit for jam.

Last year's domestic crop was down by some 60 per cent, and pack from the crop for jam is possible to get now. Most of the berries for jam are normally shipped from British Columbia.

Strawberries were imported from Holland before the war, the manufacturers said.

Whitehall Notebook:

After 100 Years of Effort U.K. Parliament Gives Up Trying to Make Profit on Meals

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 1 — (CP) — Britain's Parliament has finally given up on a problem that is at least 100 years old.

With an air of exasperated calm, its representatives admit that making a profit on parliamentary refreshments is something that just can't be done.

The result is a recommendation, published as a white paper, that the British Treasury should make up the losses. It should either bear the interest on a parliamentary overdraft for refreshments, or provide working capital without interest.

The proposals appear in a special report of a select committee, appointed to inquire into catering arrangements for members of Parliament.

Permanent Staff

"The main cause of the present financial difficulties," says the report, "lies in what the committee considers to be the proper decision to pay wages to a permanent staff throughout the whole year, whether the House is sitting or not."

The committee would like to see the treasury relate its catering subsidy to the number of days in which Parliament does not sit.

In 1949, there were only 137 days of trading for the kitchen department of the House of Commons. Thus, 54 per cent of the department's income was paid out in staff wages and costs.

The committee contends that refreshment service is indispensable, should be provided at reasonable rates and in surroundings compatible with the dignity of Parliament.

Chipped Cups

The report also complains that the cafeteria is unsatisfactory and minor economies, such as keeping chipped or cracked china, had "trifling" financial results and alienated members.

Money was the main theme. The refreshment department now has an overdraft of £32,000 ($99,200). The problem was at least 100 years old, and nobody had been able to solve it. As long as members and visitors expected standards as high as those in outside establishments, it seemed the only thing that could be done was accept the loss.

Mackenzie's Column:

Moscow Willing To Ship Russian Grain to West

By SIGRID ARNE
(Associated Press News Analyst)
(For Dewitt Mackenzie)

All through the post-war years the western European powers have worried over some means to revive their old trade with middle Europe.

Russia wrote the sort of postwar trade treaties with its satellites in middle Europe that siphoned off large portions of their goods for Russia. There was little or nothing left for the west.

Now, for no announced reason, Moscow is willing to consider shipping Russian grain to western Europe again—in return for commodities as yet unnamed.

The offer scarcely raises a cheer among Washington trade experts. There are several conjectures about Russian motives.

This shift in Russian trade strategy arose after the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe, headed by Gunnar Myrdal of Sweden, put out a feeler last November on possible greater trade between the non-communist and communist halves of Europe. Moscow has just replied that the feeler is "favorably received" insofar as a possible grain swap might be concluded.

On the surface, it appears that Moscow is moved to shove the iron curtain aside a little. But U.S. government wheat experts point out there is much reduced need now for Russian or middle European grain, much as it was needed in the grueling years of 1946 and 1947.

Basic Needs Cared For

Europe's basic needs on wheat are cared for. It's possible, however, coarse grains and that Europe might need them enough to get a new east-west trade channel open.

What could have motivated the Russian move?

No one in the U.S. commerce or agriculture departments in Washington, or at Marshall Plan headquarters, believes that the move is based on normal trade thinking as the west knows it.

Many guesses are that the Russians have had more trouble than they foresaw either in manufacturing or buying the kind of machinery they want.

U.S. trade experts say the Russians have never bid for consumer's goods for the Russian people or for machines to turn them out. Rather they want the sort of heavy machinery that could be turned to war use.

This they are not likely to get, even on this new bid to reopen old trade channels. The United States has a long secret list of articles that may not be sold to the soviets or the satellites, things that might be used to make war goods.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

The first of June is the date that warnings start out all over America, from scores of organizations, regarding safety on and in the water. As statistics begin to mass up from many years, and from the widest possible diversity of water on the continent, one cause of drowning is forging ahead of all the others.

And that cause is letting go of an upset canoe or boat.

One of the leading swimming teachers in New York starts all his pupils in the tank in a canoe. Their swimming lessons begin by being upset from a canoe.

"Before I give them the very first words of instruction," he says, "I pile them into a canoe right in the tank. Then I tell them that no matter how well they learn to swim, they must never, never forget the cardinal rule: if upset, never let go, even ten yards from shore. Swim the canoe ashore. But never let go. Then I order them to upset the canoe. And these startled kids discover that the canoe floats, and they can hang onto it with perfect security. I have them propel the canoe to the side of the tank and climb out. It is the first lesson in swimming. And I hope, by that little drama, to implant the lesson for keeps in their minds, and save some of them from drowning. For the fact is, swimming does not save from drowning. It is far too often the cause of it."

The shock of an upset disturbs the heart, the nerves, the muscles and the personality. It is as stunning to strong young people as to old. The person suddenly flung into the water from an upset craft is not at all the same person who deliberately dives off a wharf.

One of the most expert guides in Canada has pieces of strong cord tied to the end of each cross thwart of his canoe, the two ends dangling a foot. What for?

"To tie around my arms above the elbows," he says, in case I am upset and get too tired to hold on."

THE UNCHANGING MORAL ORDER

Some people have the idea that morals and customs are identical. Whatever is being done is right.

No more insidious or ruinous conclusion can be arrived at than this. Sins widely practiced are not thereby turned into virtures. A thing does not become right because everybody does it.

In fact precisely the opposite is true. The average level of human conduct is always below what it ought to be. Only a comparatively small percentage of people have high ideals and try sincerely to live up to them. A multitude of people — perhaps constituting a majority—go along from day to day doing what they want to do and never paying much attention to moral [illegible] as to whether it is right or wrong.

The age in which we live is particularly characterized by a lack of zeal for definite moral standards. We plead the excuse that we are in an age of transition and that it is very hard to tell what is right and what is wrong. This of course is an excuse rather than a reason. It is no harder today to tell right from wrong than it was a hundred or five hundred years ago. The truth is that we just do not want to draw fine moral distinctions which would subject us to do the discomfort of discipline.

Natural laws do not change from century to century. Ages of transition in no way affect their nature If we were wise we would see that the same thing holds true [illegible]

MAGIC MEDICINE FROM NEVER-NEVER LAND

2. Sweating

Is a turkish bath advisable for a person who has been on a hard drinking bout?

A good many drinkers believe it is. They think the profuse sweating "gets the alcohol out of the system" and so prevents ill effects the drinker would otherwise suffer.

As a matter of physiological fact when large amounts of alcohol are taken from 88 to 90 percent of it is oxidized, burned up in the body. The small proportion that is not burned up is excreted mainly through the kidneys and the lungs, and only traces of alcohol are excreted in the sweat.

Therefore the notion that profuse sweating "gets the alcohol out of the system" is wrong.

Moreover, the harm done by alcohol in any quantity is lasting if not permanent, although all of the alcohol is burned up or excreted within several hours, as a rule. The dimwit who thinks he or she can drink to excess and avoid the destructive effects of the poison by "getting the alcohol out of the system"—well, he or she was mentally defective to begin with, else why resort to alcohol at all?

There is a widespread belief that profuse sweating, induced by applications of heat, hot baths, drugs, etc., is good treatment for acute illnesses of various kinds. The Wiseacres imagine the body "throws off" or "eliminates" whatever poisons, impurities, germs, toxins, acids or waste products their favorite charlatans may regard as the cause of such illness.

In my opinion the best all-around first aid treatment for child or adult coming down with any such acute feverish illness as the grippe, acute sore throat, acute coryza, acute sinusitis, acute earache.., acute toothache (ulcerated tooth), tonsillitis, acute bronchitis, acute pleurisy or pneumonia, "just a bad cold" to you, lamebrain, is H. M. F. B. That means a hot mustard foot bath administered to the patient in bed, and I mean in bed between blankets, not sitting up. No one can take H. M. F. B. himself.

Of course a hot mustard foot bath may produce more or less sweating, but that is only incidental. It relieves or moderates the severity of the illness by equalizing the circulation, reducing congestion, and so diminishing irritation and perhaps soothing or relieving pain.

But the quantity of poison, toxic waste matter, acid impurities or metabolic by-products present in a gallon of sweat induced by heat is considerably less than would be present in a teaspoonful of blood — and although it does no harm to take a few fluid ounces (say 30 or 40 teaspoonfuls) of blood from a vein in almost any case, no one would seriously urge such bleeding as a routine method of treatment for the C-R-I (common respiratory infections) today.

Nine out of ten intelligent laymen—if men are intelligent who have skipped physiology or studied it only s aaminoefrueatr died it only as a minor feature in a oourse in biology—have only vague or confused ideas about the nature and purpose of sweating.

Because a great deal of unhappiness, needless worry and anxiety and, in my opinion, ill health is due to this popular ignorance of elementary physiology, it may be well to devote this space tomorrow to defining the difference between active and passive sweating.

Trenton Firm Shares Profits With Staff at Annual Banquet

Trenton (Special) — Six thousand dollars was distributed among the 52 staff members of Morton Parker Limited at the company's fourth annual banquet held in the Queensway ball room Tuesday night.

In presenting the cheques, company president Morton Parker told employees, "It is to your credit because you helped to make it." Mr. Parker believes in treating his staff "not as workers but as part of the company. I am endeavouring to make my employees a conscious of business as management has to be," he said in urging his staff to think not only of themselves but "to think businesswise."

Mr. Parker has a very valuable asset that does not show in the company balance sheet—the loyal support of his 52 employees, said His Worship Mayor Couch who acted as master of ceremonies for the evening. "I don't think there is another captain of industry in this community who enjoys the confidence of his employees as does Mr. Parker" declared Mr. Couch.

Staff Share Increased

The cheques handed out at the banquet represent 18 per cent of the firm's total profit. Mr. Parker said that while the company had done 10 per cent more business this year than last, it had made the same amount of money "because it cost more to do business and more money had to be spent in getting business." In spite of this however, Mr. Parker said he had decided to increase the staff share to 18 per cent as compared with the 15 per cent distributed last year.

Expressing confidence that the company would be able to increase its sales again this year, Mr. Parker pointed out that "Business is becoming much more competitive. We are now at the stage where the man who offers the best price, quality and service gets the business."

Example For Others

Frank Wilson who was the first man on the payroll when the silverware company started a little over four years ago, thanked Mr. Parker on behalf of the staff. "We have achieved a goal that other plants in town haven't even thought of, let alone reached. There is not another plant in Trenton that is doing what Mr. Parker has done and is doing for us," said Mr. Wilson.

Workers Must Co-Operate

In congratulating the company on its achievements during the past year, A. J. Boorne, Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce said that only with the cooperation of workers would management be able to "face up to the new and challenging conditions of today. Workers also have a responsibility to management. With rising costs and keener competition, workers must give full value for wages received. Only in this way, can management continue to face these changing conditions," said Mr. Boorne.

Following a chicken dinner, Tony Vicklisky and his five-piece Batawa orchestra lent an old world atmosphere to the occasion with their European dance selections. The evening concluded with community singing and dancing.

Other guests at the head table were, Mrs. Morton Parker, Mr. Ted Parker, J. Bowman Boyter and Robert Pringle, K.C.

Debentures Sold At Good Price By Corporation

Trenton (Special) — Trenton has sold $130,000 in debentures to Dominion Securities Corporation Toronto at par, clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry announced Wednesday morning.

"This reflects an improved opinion by bond houses of the town's financial position," said Mr. Larry in making the announcement. The last debentures issued by Trenton in February 1949 were three and one half per cent bonds and "paid par 75."

The present issue is broken down as follows: $126,000 are local improvement bonds bearing three and one quarter per cent interest coupons. These bonds are for a period of from one to 15 years. The remaining $3,200 are general debentures at three per cent for a period of from one to five years.

As July 1 is on Saturday and Monday July 2 is likely to be a bank holiday, the debentures will probably be dated July 4, said Mr. Larry.

Church Requests For Right to Vote Poses Problem

Trenton (Special) — Since only property owners are entitled to vote on the June 12 hospital referendum, an unusual legal problem involving the legal status of church property has arisen as the result of requests from two Trenton churches for permission to appoint "nominees to vote on their behalf," clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry said today.

"It is understood that churches are not entitled to vote on their tax exempt property, said Mr. Larry. "But there is a question as to whether they are entitled to a vote on their tax paying property such as a clergyman's residence."

The two requests received to date are from St. George's Anglican and St. Andrew's Prebyterian churches.

Mr. Larry has asked the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs for a ruling on the matter.

Principal of High School Deplores Lack of Facilities For Students in the T.H.S.

Trenton (Special) — Charging that "too many children are not going to have the opportunities they should have," High School principal W. G. Spencer said last night that the Trenton High School is "as crowded as any secondary school in a municipality this size anywhere in Ontario."

Mr. Spencer made his remarks in an address to grade eight students at the Dufferin Public School and to the Dufferin Home and School Association at the association's second annual parents' night held at the Dufferin Public School Wednesday night.

Deploring the lack of facilities in the school Mr. Spencer told students and parents that "other towns the size of Trenton," offer a greater variety of courses than is possible under present conditions in Trenton.

"Options are fewer than in any other school of its size. We have no library worthy of the name; no assembly room.. no room for musical instruction or for a guidance program. We have only one laboratory of ancient vintage and no place for cadet equipment.

"The present Board is fully aware of conditions from a recent survey and it is already known what changes must be made in the next five years. They are doing everything they can but it is up to you as parents and voters," to see that conditions are improved.

Mr. Spencer went on. "Owing to the foresight of the present Board, which recently made changes in the salary schedule we have the best staff for the 1950-51 term that we have had for years. This will alleviate the situation somewhat," he concluded.

KNOCKED FROM BIKE

Witnesses said that neither the truck nor the bicycle had lights.

Golden Jubilee Convention of I.O.D.E. Ends

Montreal, June 1 (CP)— The Golden Jubilee convention of the National Chapter of Canada of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire concluded Wednesday night with election of officers and a declaration of the Order's ideals and principles.

Some 1,000 members from across Canada attended the week-long sessions.

In the declaration, the Order reviewed its progress during the last 50 years and reiterated its purpose and policies.

Its purpose is to promote unity between the Empire and its Colonies, loyalty to the King and Queen, care for the widows, orphans and dependents of British soldiers and sailors who died at war or are incapable of caring for their kin, and to promote study of the Empire's history.

Until the Federal Government decrees otherwise, the Order said, it will recognize the Union Jack as the official Canadian flag and the standard of the Order.

The declaration said the order a non-political organization, believed in democracy, condemned communism and other forms of dictatorship which destroy freedom of regimentation, and believed in the Empire and Canada's full and loyal participation as a nation of the Commonwealth.

Gov't. Criticized

At final sessions, the Order criticized the Federal Government for deleting the word "Dominion" from the country's name.

It also protested a proposed amendment of the policy in selecting a representative of the King for Canada. The present system of choosing a Governor-General provided a link with the Commonwealth and the Empire. The custom which existed since Confederation should be continued, the Order said.

Mrs. John H. Chipman of Toronto was chosen president.

Vice presidents are Mrs. K. I. G. Drope, Mrs. L. B. Smart, Mrs. S. E. Wedd, Mrs. A. K. Richardson, Mrs. Fred W. Bates and Mrs. B. B. Osler, all of Toronto, and Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., of Oakville, Ont., as well as all provincial presidents.

Mrs. J. D. Detwiler of London Ontario, was chosen educational secrtary with Mrs. Hugh Macmahon, also of London, as her assistant.

Home and School Must Work Together

Sarnia, June 1 (CP)—Parents should assume greater responsibility in the education of their children in the future, C. D. Prentice, retiring president of the Hanna Memorial Home and School Association, said at Wednesday night's annual meeting.

"We expect educational institutions to carry too much of the load of the child's education in the short time that they have them," he added.

"One of the places in which we fail is in developing emotional stability in the child. The Home and School must work together to bring about this desirable condition."

FATAL SHELL BLAST

Lueneburg, Germany, June 1 —(AP)— Seven West-German children were killed Wednesday by an explosion of a wartime shell they picked up to sell to a scrap dealer. Six were boys from three to 13 years old. The seventh child was a 12-year-old girl.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?

Egg breaking is a skilled female art.

In egg breaking plants girls have always been employed because of their speed and dexterity. A good worker can break 120 dozen eggs an hour or two dozen a minute.

Separating eggs is naturally a slower process. A first class operator, separating the whites from the yolks, can do about a dozen a minute.

An army of skilled egg breakers is needed to supply eggs for bakeries and for manufacturers of noodles and mayonnaise.

The ability to keep eggs whole, under certain circumstances, is also a highly developed skill. American airmen, during the Burmese campaign, learned this when they parachuted fresh eggs, packed in excelsior, from airplanes to ground troops. As a rule only two or three eggs in a crate were broken.

You needn't be a professional egg breaker to make a good omelette. In this case, don't separate the whites from the yolks. Beat the whole eggs only until the whites are no longer visible. Excessive beating can make the omelette tough.

Omelette with Chipped Beef and Scallions—Serves 4.

Place 1-4 pound chipped beef in a saucepan with cold water to cover. Bring to a boil. Drain.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a saucepan. Remove from flame. Add 2 tablespoons flour, mixing well. Gradually add 1 cup hot milk and 1 chicken bouillon cube. Return to flame. Simmer 5 minutes.

Add drained chipped beef to sauce. Add 1-4 cup scallions cut into small dice. Add salt and pepper to taste. Simmer 5 minutes.

Prepare 4 individual omelettes of 2 eggs each or 2 omelettes of 4 eggs each. Beat eggs only until yolks and whites are blended. Heat fat in a pan until a drop of water will sizzle. Add eggs. Use a fork to lift cooked portion of omelette from pan and permit liquid egg to flow to bottom of pan.

While eggs are still somewhat soft, add several tablespoons creamed chipped beef to centre of omelette. Fold omelette in half.

Turn omelettes on to serving plates or platter. Add balance of chipped beef alongside omelettes.

Spinsters Parlay Small Investment Into Large Fortune

Chalvington, Sussex, England, June 1 (CP)—Three English spinsters have parlayed an £80 ($24[illegible] investment into one of England's greatest herds of Guernsey dairy cattle.

The herd has just been dispersed in the greatest Guernsey sale Britain has ever known. Thirty-six head brought £48,216 ($140,460), for an average of £1,339 ($4,150).

Margaret and Avril Andrews and Janet Spencer were in their 20s when they founded their herd with the purchase for £80 of the bull Rose Lad 2nd of Maple Lodge.

Last year Avril Andrews died. Death duties were heavy and the spinsters decided to sell the farm.

A crowd of 3,000 attended the sale to watch S. C. Gilchrist pay a record price of £2,200 ($6,820) for nine-year-old Chalvington Primrose Bloom.

Then two women—perhaps figuring they can duplicate the feat of the selling spinsters—topped that figure with £2,730 for five-year-old Beauty's Honoria.

Lord Beaverbrook was among the purchasers, paying a record price of £2,625 for a yearling Guernsey bull.

Hint at Change Of UC Ordination Vows is Given

Peterborough, June 1 (CP) — Hint of a change in the vows given in United Church ordination ceremonies came Wednesday at the Bay of Quinte Conference's meeting here.

As the names of two candidates for the ministry were advanced for Wednesday night's ordination Rev. E. G. Pugsley of Norwood said he didn't think the vows were sufficiently binding in doctrinal matters.

Although nothing was said directly, it is believed the possible change will be the result of the wrangle between the Peterborough Presbytery and the Rev. W. N. Crandall, Bethany minister who refused to adhere to the church's policy of infant baptism.

The matter of the Bethany minister was referred Tuesday to a special committee on ministerial relations, which has yet to make its report.

"I think it ought to be clear when a man is being examined just where he stands," said Mr. Pugsley.

Chairman of the special committee, Rev. Dr. G. A. Brown of Kingston, said that "certain events" have pointed up the need for changes in the vows.

Ways of change had been considered "to the satisfaction of the committee."

"We have accepted without question," he added, "that two things happen when vows are taken: 1. That the candidate has acquainted himself with what is in the vows, and 2. That the candidate has acquainted himself with what is in the doctrine of the church.

Dr. Brown said he believed every minister should study United Church doctrine more closely. He said he didn't think all of them remembered everything they might.

Report on Mr. Crandall and two other ministers, the latter believed to have gone into the Presbyterian Church, is expected today or tomorrow.

Two U.S. Tourists Severely Injured

Windsor, June 1 — (CP)—Two United States tourists were severely injured when their automobile collided with a truck about 20 miles east of Windsor today.

Brought to hospital here, they are tentatively identified as John Kubicek of Yonkers, N. Y., and Irene Duben of Cleveland, O. Extent of their injuries has not been determined.

Truck driver Roy White of Tillsonburg was treated at the scene for burns after his truck was destroyed by fire.

Police said they believe Kubicek fell asleep at the wheel of his car. White told police the car edged onto his side of the highway as it approached him. The heavy tractor-trailer jack-knifed in attempting to avoid the collision.

Passers-by had to pull the wrecked car from the burning truck before they could remove Kubicek and Miss Duben.

The truck burned so strongly that wrecking crews had to use acetylene torches to cut the metal and remove parts from the roadway.

Mother Kills Only Daughter

New York, June 1—(AP)— An attractive 30-year-old mother pumped a .32-calibre bullet into the head of her sleeping four-year-old daughter early today to spare her being "pushed around the way I was". She did not elaborate.

The little girl, Toy Tom, daughter of an Irish-German mother and Chinese father, is in critical condition at Bellevue Hospital. The bullet apparently is still lodged in the girl's head, police said.

The mother, Mrs. Emma Curtis Tom, was booked on charges of felonious assault.

The child's father, Jimmie Tom, is employed as a waiter at a Chinese restaurant. The couple have been estranged recently.

Norwood Bridge At Winnipeg Is Re-Opened

Winnipeg, June 1 (CP)— Norwood bridge, closed by the flood for more than two weeks, will be re-opened today.

The bridge, a vital link between Winnipeg and St. Vital, across the Red River, was closed to all but essential traffic early in the flood crisis, and banned for all but army ducks May 20. Street car lines will be resumed over it.

Provencher Bridge, open for the last week, now will be closed for removal of a temporary ramp. The ramp was built at the Winnipeg approach when water threatened to cut off traffic.

Meanwhile Provincial Highways officials said Highway 75 south to Pembina, N.D., is open almost to Morris, 41 miles south.

Trapped in Cab, Truck Driver Burned to Death

Dundas, Ont., June 1 — (CP) —A truck driver was burned to death Wednesday when trapped in the blazing cab of a tractor-trailer on Highway No. 8 near here.

The body was identified as that of Ralph Galloway of Toronto, a driver for the Raltar Transport Company, Waterloo. He was married and father of two children.

It is believed he fell asleep at the wheel of the heavy vehicle which plowed its way along the ditch for some 200 feet and then turned on its side, trapping the driver in the cab.

The truck, proceeding from Hespeler to Toronto with a load of lime, burst into flames and the cab was an inferno before members of the Greensville fire department could extinguish the flames.

Police said they thought the accident occurred about 5.30 a.m.

The truck felled a hydro pole in its path along the roadway, causing service to some rural consumers to be affected. Crews from the rural hydro, Dundas, helped police to cut through the burned and twisted metal of the cab to remove Galloway's body.

Two-City Dragnet Scoops up 11 In Money Probe

Winnipeg, June 1. (CP)—R.C.M.P. cracked down on Wednesday simultaneously on bogus money "pushers" in Winnipeg and Toronto, scooping eight men and three women into a two-city dragnet.

Insp. J. B. Harris said here that forces in both cities swooped down to break a ring which would have flooded Winnipeg and Southern Manitoba with thousands of dollars in bogus $10 bills.

Three men, including William Ignatt, 33, of Winnipeg, were arrested in Toronto. Investigation over the last month had led the police here to have him watched. Two companions were also taken.

The Winnipeg raids started at 5 a.m. today. Eleven residences in all parts of the city were searched. Fourteen bills were discovered and five men and three women arrested. Their names were not made public.

Insp. Harris said there was little doubt the bills found in Toronto were earmarked for distribution here. They are much the same, he said, as other phoney bills past in the last few months, except for removal of wax over the series numbers and a better inking job.

He said they could be spotted by the "wet finger" test—which smears the red numbers.

Indications were that they were printed in the United States. Toronto officials said they were made by a ring operating from Buffalo, smashed two weeks ago.

The three arrested in Toronto were remanded on charges of possession of counterfeit money; those here were remanded without charge.

Conference Asks Reduced Hours Of Cocktail Bars

London, Ont., June 1 — (CP) —A reduction in the hours of Ontario's cocktail bars, higher taxation on alcoholic beverages and the establishment of a royal commission to investigate the whole liquor industry were asked in resolutions approved by the London conference of the United Church.

Meeting for second day sessions of their 26th annual meeting in First St. Andrew's United Church conference delegates heard a blistering attack on the evils of liquor, gambling and Sunday sports.

The attack was made by the Rev. Dr. J. R. Mutchmore, secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Services of the United Church.

Dr. Mutchmore charged that Sunday was "being sold down the river for commercial gain."

He claimed drunkenness in the province was increasing by 10 per cent a year. It is in the later hours of drinking that drunkenness occurs, he claimed, supporting a resolution for reduction of the hours of cocktail bars.

Delegates approved a resolution requesting Premier Frost to ask Prime Minister St. Laurent to place the question of a royal commission on the liquor industry before the next Dominion-Provincial conference and further requesting Premier Frost to support the establishment of such a commission.

Other resolutions approved called for a higher provincial tax on alcoholic beverages "to reduce consumption," and requested the provincial government to reduce the hours of cocktail bars from the present closing hour of 2 a.m. to 10.30 p.m.

A third resolution urged United Church ministers to join temperance workers in opposing any increase in the number of liquor outlets. They were asked to lodge their protest and send delegations before forthcoming hearings of the Liquor Licence Board, scheduled to hear applications in Windsor June 23, Kitchener July 5, and Sault Ste. Marie June 20.

NEW TRADE AGREEMENT

Paris, June 1 — (Reuters) — A $39,200,000 trade agreement between Finland and France was announced Tuesday night. Finland will export more than half the total figure to help pay off her debt to France.

Shakespeare Scholar Believes Earl of Derby Was Dramatist

Winchester, England, June 1 — (Reuters) — Shakespeare scholars, waging wordy battles down the years concerning the bard's real identity, are soon to meet a new challenger — Dr. Arthur Titherley, a scientist who believes both Shakespeare and Sir Francis Bacon are imposters.

The 72-year-old doctor's candidate for immortality is William Stanley, Earl of Derby.

"I am convinced," he said, "that Shakespeare was in fact the sixth earl."

Working in the study of his old manor at Itchen Abbas, near here, he has compiled nearly 200,000 words in evidence of his theory.

Search for Manuscripts

After 30 years' intensive study of Shakespeare and patient search for manuscripts and reports of Elizabethan life, Dr. Titherley, one-time Dean of the Science Faculty of Liverpool University, has collected what he considers overwhelming evidence.

Among it is a copy of a surviving Shakespeare manuscript in a hand which he claims is identical with that of a letter from Stanley, his father-in-law.

Contemporary documents also show that Stanley, born four years before Shakespeare, was a well-educated and widely-travelled man.

In 1591, as canopy - bearer to Elizabeth, William Stanley visited the Earl of Hertford's estate to watch a fairy play held in the grounds. The plot, described in local records, is the same as that of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

William Shakespeare, according to the doctor, was one of the Earl of Leicester's players, and has been described in records as a "boasting usurious fellow." He visited the Derby House in 1587 and almost certainly met Stanley.

"I believe," Titherley said, "that Shakespeare the actor was no more than an agent to Stanley, who used the name to hide his real identity."

Baconian Undisturbed

But Valentine Smith, Honorary Secretary of the Francis Bacon Society, is unperturbed.

From his Surrey home he sent a message saying "There will always be claims to authorship, but we remain confident that Bacon is the real playwright."

Though Bacon, claimed by some Baconians to be a son of Queen Elizabeth, has long been chief claimant, other rivals for the top place in literature have been a Duke of Rutland, and the 17th Earl of Oxford.

Lord Oxford, whose second title, Viscount Bolebac, had as heraldic cognizance a lion shaking a spear, has novelist Mary Bowen convinced of his authorship.

Slogan Protested By Archdeacon

Toronto, June 1 (CP)— One of the slogans used in an Anglican appeal for funds is "The King's Business Requires Haste." It comes from the 17th chapter, 1st Samuel, and it was called Wednesday "a damnable lie from the lips of King David."

Archdeacon W. P. Robertson of Peterborough protested the slogan. He said that "churchmen who know their Bibles would be indignant and appalled at the use of these words."

He said that David had used them in a falsehood to obtain weapons with which priests were put to death for arming him.

Some of the delegates to the Toronto Anglican synod laughed when the Archdeacon protested. "It's no laughing matter," he snapped.

The incident arose during a report on plans to canvass every member of the church in the coming year.

The synod endorsed an intensified campaign to visit every Anglican during the coming fall, and to appeal for funds for national use.

PROHIBITED FRONTIER

Budapest, Hungary, June 1 — (Reuters) — The interior ministry announced establishment of a prohibited frontier zone 10 miles in depth along the Hungarian-Yugoslav frontier. Travel in this zone will be permitted only with special police passes as of July 1.

Price of Nickel To be Increased

Toronto, June 1 (CP)— International Nickel Co., of Canada, Ltd., Wednesday announced an increase in the price of nickel, effective immediately.

For Canadian consumers the new base price for electrolytic nickel is 51.40 cents Canadian a pound, F.O.B. Port Colborne, refinery, compared with the previous price of 42.5 cents.

For United States consumers the new price is 48 cents a pound, which is parity with the Canadian price, after adjusting for exchange rates and United States import duty. The previous price was 40 cents.

Corresponding increases have been put into effect by the Mond Nickel Co., Ltd., the company's subsidiary in the United Kingdom.

Nickel oxide sinter and other forms of nickel, including rolling mill products, will carry correspondingly increased prices.

Canadian Collection Of Stamps Wins

London, June 1 — (CP)—Philip George Gilbert, London schoolboy who spent the war years in Vancouver, won the main junior award at the International Stamps Exhibition here.

Gilbert, now 15, won the prize with Canadian stamps, which he started collecting while a war evacuee in the west coast city.

Fruit Production Will be Down From Last Year

Kelowna, B.C., June 1 (CP) — Soft fruit production this year will amount to less than five percent of last year's crop, it was reported here Wednesday by competent fruit authorities.

In the agricultural rich Okanagan Valley, chief centre of British Columbia's fruit-export industry, hundreds of peach, apricot and cherry orchards have been winter damaged.

Last year the Okanagan produced 1,830,000 cases of peaches and 501,278 of apricots, as well as many thousand cases of cherries.

Thousands of trees have been permanently injured in the roots. Fruit has developed to the size of a matchhead in some orchards, stopped growing and dropped. Peach trees came into leaf, but wilted under a hot sun.

Canners will have a short season and most of the run will be devoted to vegetables and tomatoes. Soft fruits will go to the fresh fruit market to command a higher price than in 1949.

Synod Rejects Report

Toronto, June 1 — (CP) — A report which suggested that restriction of liquor outlets is not the way to end excessive drinking was rejected Wednesday by the Toronto synod the Church of England in Canada.

Introducing the report, Rev. F. H. Mason said:

"We believe citizens have the right to drink alcoholic beverages and that, provided they do not drink to excess, they do no wrong."

The Synod adopted an amendment expressing concern at the increased use of alcoholic beverages.

Breaks Way out Of Upset Truck, Escapes Flames

Dixie, Ont., June 1 (CP) — Edward Hill, 43, of Owen Sound, smashed his way out of his overturned truck Wednesda after it jack-knifed near this community, about eight miles southwest of Toronto, and burst into flames.

Hill was taken to hospital for treatment of burns to his face, arms and hands. His condition was described as fairly good.

"For one nightmarish second I thought I was through," Hill said. "I made a shove on the door and failed to get it open. Then with all my strength I hurled myself at the windshield. It broke and I scrambled to the highway. Behind me was a ball of flame. I can't realize yet that I escaped from it."

Brawling Group 100 Teen-Agers Quelled by Police

Toronto, June 1 (CP) — Police Tuesday night used night sticks to quell a brawling group of about 100 teen-agers who blocked a north-end intersection and molested passers-by.

Four youths were charged with creating a disturbance.

Residents of Mount Pleasant district said the youths blocked the street and "made more noise than a herd of elephants." One bystander said "the police would have been justified in shooting them. They acted like animals."

Police said three youths attacked an officer who tried to disperse the mob and knocked him to the ground. Seven other policemen helped clear the street.

Young girls who cheered on the fighting youths wept when the police reinforcements arrived.

Chrysler Strike May be Averted Says Spokesman

Windsor, Ont, June 1 (CP) — With next Monday's strike deadline approaching, negotiations of [illegible] Chrysler Corporation of Can[illegible] and the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.) met Wednesday in an attempt to reach settlement on the Union's pension and contract demands.

No word of any progress was forthcoming from the meeting, where the company's bargaining team met the negotiating committee of Local 195, which represents some 3,600 U. A. W. members in Chrysler's three plants here.

A company statement Wed., said there is "hope that a strike can be averted" as long as negotiations proceed.

Disagreement continued over getting top union and company negotiators together at the bargaining table in a downtown ho[illegible]

The union has charged that the company spokesmen have refused to meet with the four - man negotiating committee of Local 195, and holds that present company spokesmen have no power to decide policy.

Wednesday's company statement said the Chrysler group, headed by A. F. McDonald, has "full authority to negotiate and .conclude a settlement."

George Burt, Canadian U.A.W. director has said he will not take part in the talks until E. C. Row, company general manager, agrees to meet the local's bargaining committee.

$150,000 Fire Origin is Probed

North Bay, June 1 (CP) — Cause has still not been determined in Tuesday's $150,000 fire which wiped out the storage warehouse of the Imperial Oil Company here in a spectacular three-hour blazes.

A probe by company investigator is continuing.

Full extent of the damage is also unknown. A company auditor, Ford Lucas, of Toronto, arrived and is making a complete study of the files to count the loss which Imperial Oil officials estimated at $150,000.

One unconfirmed report was that the fire was started by a spark from an electric motor in the barrel-washing room. Resident manager A. R. Watt said that the company plans to rebuild the destroyed warehouse as soon as possible. "A group of engineers is expected here shortly to look into this matter."

SAILS FOR NORTH OUTPOSTS

Halifax, June 1—(CP)—Ready for her second voyage to the Arctic, the Hudson Bay Company supply vessel Rupertsland sailed Wednesday for Montreal and the outposts in Canada's northern regions.

The ship, laid up during the winter months, has an 18-man crew. After loading additional supplies at Montreal, the Rupertsland will head for the Labrador coast and then Hudson Bay Company outposts on Baffin Land and Melville Island. The trip is expected to take about four months.

Average Index Canadian Wages 205.1 in 1949

Ottawa, June 1 (CP) — The general wage index of Canadian wages advanced 4.7 per cent in 1949 over the previous year, the Labor Department announced Wednesday.

Logging, was the only industry to show a wage index decline during the year.

The department issued a preliminary index of wage rates for 1949—basis 1939 equals 100—showing the general average last year at 205.1 compared with 195.8 in 1948.

Preliminary index figures for 1949 in the principal industries with 1948 figures in brackets:

Logging 216.0 (218.8), mining 185.8 (181.9); manufacturing 219.1 (205.9; construction 184.2 (176.3); transportation and communication 175.8 (174.3); service (laundries) 194.8 (183.0).

Transportation Study Completed

Ottawa, June 1 — (CP) — The royal commission on transportation today completed its inquiry into Canada's national transport problems.

Almost exactly a year from the opening of its hearing the three-man body under Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon concluded the reception of evidence and arguments and adjourned to prepare its report.

The commission began hearings at Winnipeg a year ago tomorrow. Since then it has travelled to both coasts. Today's sitting was its 137th.

Final argument today came from the governments of Alberta, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Alberta told the commissioners that she is not asking federal help in meeting its share of freight costs under existing rate levels.

J. J. Frawley, Alberta counsel, suggested however that the application of a new freight-rate increase might bring about the necessity for a transportation subsidy to balance up additional costs that might be added to the western provinces in relation to Ontario and Quebec.

Risks His Life To Save Pigs

Smiths Falls, June 1 — (CP) — Farmer Newman Edwards Wednesday risked his life to rescue four pigs.

He dashed into a flaming barn on his farm a few miles on the outskirts of this Eastern Ontario town, made his way out with one of the squealers and then dashed in to rescue the three others.

Two men, part of a district brigade, brought together to fight the blaze, rushed forward to help Edwards, but were forced back by the intense heat and flames.

The fire, started, through an electrical wiring short, destroyed two barns before it was brought under control.

HEAD CAUGHT IN LOOM

Toronto, June 1—(CP)—Arthur White, 45, suffered severe injuries Tuesday when his head caught in a loom.

White, a machinist, was operating the loom in the Lester and Burton Ltd., factory here. His head was inside the machine when someone turned it on. The machine was shut off after a short run but White was not discovered for some time.

Britain Checks Up On Teeth, Glasses

London, June 1 — (CP) —People who want a new set of store teeth under Britain's National Health Service will have to do some tall talking in future.

Under a new ruling, the government will pay for repairs and replacements to sets of artificial teeth only when loss or damage is due to "circumstances beyond the applicant's control."

The same thing applies to eyeglasses.

The Health Minister, acknowledging that local optical and dental committees have been instructed to tighten up on assessing claims for free repairs and replacements, said it has no information how much this service has cost the country.

In the past there have been frequent reports of applicants claiming new glasses because they left their old pair on a bus, or new teeth because the old pair "fell into the water when I sneezed on the docks."

60-Indictment Information Is Returned

New York, June 1 (AP) — A New York County Grand Jury cracked down today on Frank Erickson, admitted operator of a multi-million dollar gambling empire.

It returned a 60-count information against him, charging him with conspiracy and bookmaking. Erickson, 54, recently testified before a senate investigation committee that he netted $100,000 a year from his far-flung gambling activities.

Conviction on the multi-count information carries a maximum penalty of a $500 fine and one year in prison on each count. One count alleged conspiracy and the remaining 59 charge bookmaking. The information charging conspiracy covers a 20-year period from 1930 to 1950 but the booking charges go back only two years.

Erickson was arraigned today and Justice Nathan D. Perlman set trial for June 12. Erickson was paroled pending the posting of $10,000 bail.

Pension Cheques From Province Are Reduced

Toronto, June 1 (CP)— Between 7,000 and 8,000 of Ontario's 90,000 old-age pensioners will have their pensions reduced because the Ontario Government previously was too lenient in enforcing federal regulations.

This was the explanation at Queen's Park of reduction in pension cheques, disclosed Wednesday. An official of the provincial old-age pensions commission said "we have been lax and they (the pensioners) have been lucky. We were trying to give a break to old people who had been thrifty or who were trying to earn a little on their own initiative."

The amounts due those affected may be reduced from $40 a month to as low as $7.

For years the Ontario government has not been enforcing section 11A of the Federal Act and as a result the aged in this province received maximum pensions. But Federal auditors last December completed an investigation of the Ontario system and suggested that Ontario enforce the regulations.

In the case of a home-owner, four percent of the assessed value of his home now must be regarded as income, deducted from his pension. If the home is valued at $2,500, for instance, the deduction is $100 from the maximum annual pension of $600.

In the case of a pensioner receiving income from rental of rooms, one-third of that income is deductible.

Ontario government officials claimed that even with imposition of the full regulations, this province still has the most lenient pension regulations. British Columbia, Alberta and Manitoba deduct five percent of the assessed value of homes as income. Quebec deducts five percent on property where the pensioner's equity is $3,000, and the scale slides upward at one percent per $1,000 valuation over $3,000.

Chernov occupied important teaching posts in the social science field.

Boichenko, though confined to his bed almost continuously since 1931 by a severe illness, was reported active in party work.

Good Sales Mark Opening Days Of Trade Fair

Toronto, June 1 (CP)—Good sales have marked the first days of the Canadian International Trade Fair, which opened Monday, and in general buyers seem to be getting down to business earlier than in the fairs of the last two years.

Last year talk of devaluation of currencies was in the air and many buyers held off; now, the devaluations have taken place, currencies promise to remain steady for a while, and buyers can make up their minds.

Scottish exhibitors report orders for linen, glassware, children's clothing, hand-woven tweeds and tartans. An English toy manufacturer also reports orders and, encouraged by his success last year has established a branch plant in Canada.

Guatemala coffee exhibitors say they will be back next year with more central American products. A Canadian exhibitor in the Manitoba group has sold women's suits to an American buyer and a Canadian sock manufacturer reports good domestic contracts.

Views, of course, are tempered by individual experience.

Much Better

South Africans say things are much better than last year. India hasn't received as many jewelry orders as expected, but admits that it is early yet. French Morocco sardine and handicraft are attracting attention but suffer from inadequate shipping facilities to Canada. Australian furs are selling well but its fruit cannery exhibit is doing poorly.

Senor Joaquin Bachs of Spain is gloomy because liquor laws won't allow him to give away 500 gallons of wine and brandy which he had hoped to serve free to fair visitors.

Prince Alexis Obolensky, of Russian nobility, has served 5,000 cups or more of Costa Rican coffee on behalf of the firm of which he is vice-president. He states that people who sample this coffee probably are drinking "straight" coffee for the first time. "Most coffees are blended."

United States buyers are especially prominent, representing about 30 per cent of visitors to date.

Three Killed When Trailer Crushes Car

St. Ignace, Mich., June 1 (AP) — A trailer loaded with coal broke loose Wednesday from its tractor and crushed to death three Canadians in a passing car.

Police identified the victims as Hillis Foster, 36, of Woodstock, Ont., a woman they presumed to be his wife; and Wilbert Hillis Foster, 68, of Granton, Ont., who police believe was the father of the younger man.

The accident occurred three miles west of here.

The passenger car was telescoped by the impact with the heavily-loaded trailer. Bodies of the victims were removed three hours later after the twisted wreckage was cut with acetelyne torches.

State police said the passenger car had Ontario licence plates.

The truck was headed east and the passenger car, a sedan, was going west. The truck was owned by the Barret Logging Company of Newberry, Mich.

Ted St. John, 28, of Newberry, driver of the truck, told State Police he heard a snap of the coupling pin holding the trailer. The trailer ran wild and crashed head-on into the passenger car.

Orillia, June 1. (CP)—A proposed town grant of $200,000 to the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital was voted down Tuesday, 77 to 609. The hospital had intended to use the money to build a new maternity wing, renovate the present maternity section and put up a new boiler and laundry building.

Three Russian Trawlers Arrive In Skagerrak

Copenhagen, June 1 — (AP)—Three modern Russian trawlers showed up Tuesday in the Skagerrak, the broad channel between Norway and Denmark, the Danish Navy Press Bureau announced Wednesday.

Naval authorities said they believed the trawlers were part of a Russian fishing fleet which popped up in the English Channel less than two weeks ago during hush-hush naval manoeuvres of Western Union Alliance ships. British fleet manoeuvres are to be held in Danish waters soon.

The trawlers were sighted by Danish fishermen who reported them to the Coast Guard at North Jutland. Sailing slowly westward through international waters, the trawlers disappeared from sight, the fishermen reported.

No messages were received by Danish authorities from the trawlers.

Cheshire Town Hit By Bubble Trouble

Stockport, Cheshire, England, June 1 — (CP) — This town has an epidemic of bubble trouble.

So many homes and factories in the district are using soap substitutes that the plant that disposes of the waste water can't "break it down."

Instead the machine is blowing bubbles — "as big as this," said Alderman A. Foukes, waving a clenched fist.

It's the size of the bubble that's causing the trouble. And there are hundreds of them. Some of the spheroids are two feet in diameter.

Said the disposal plants deputy-manager, E. R. Jones:

"They're likely to terrorize the countryside for miles around. Besides, they're liable to be reported as flying sausages."

Meanwhile as bubbles gurgle daily from the plant, experts experimenting on how to solve the problem.

'Met' Manager for 15 Years Edward Johnson Retires

By PAT USSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York, June 1 — (CP) — Edward Johnson's first intention on retirement as general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Association is "to get my brain purged" of all the complicated problems with which he has grappled during the last 15 years in that capacity.

Tomorrow is the day the Canadian-born tenor formally turns over the direction of the "Met" to his successor, Rudolf Bing.

To start with, said Johnson, he plans to spend the summer in Italy. He is sailing June 16, accompanied by Mrs. George Drew and two grandchildren, son and daughter of the Drews. Mrs. Drew is the wife of George Drew, National leader of the progressive conservative party.

He expects to be back in New York in the autumn.

"I'll be an enthusiastic watcher on the sidelines to see how the new management goes," he said, referring to the Vienna-born Bing who is 48 and who formerly was head of the Glyndebourne Opera Company in Britain.

"I am sure it will go well, as everyone hopes," the retiring general manager added in an interview on the eve of his retirement. His connection with the "Met" dates back 28 years. It was in 1922 that he joined the organization as a leading tenor.

Johnson still has close ties with Canada and particularly with his birthplace, Guelph, Ont. The artist and impresario still maintains his father's house in Guelph.

He said he doesn't know yet where he will settle down. He lives at present in Manhattan.

Edward Johnson, Guelph-born tenor who has been general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Association for the past 15 years, is retiring this week. His duties officially end May 31. (CP Photo.)

Johnson is silver-haired, ruddy-complexioned and stands straighter than many a younger man.

Vigorous, Alert

Why is he retiring now, while still vigorous and alert?

"I'd much rather leave here now, with my full faculties, than hang on until I became dilapidated and old, or had to be taken out in a wheel chair—or a square box," he said with a warm smile.

"Moving out now leaves me with a sense of acomplishment."

Asked what qualities it takes to be general manager of an organization of the size and reputation of the "Met", the impresario said:

"I had one big advantage—that of coming up through the ranks. My approach has been that of a colleague rather than a boss - - -

"There has to be great enthusiasm for the work. I've always enjoyed the job. When I took over, the organization was flat on its back, without artists and without money. Now there are 14 United States cities on our touring list.

"We have Americanized to the extent that 66 per cent of our artists are American and that our audience has expanded from 2,000 to 3,000 to several millions of listeners over the air. In other words we have developed into a national organization."

He will retain a close interest in the "Met" through his position on the board of directors.

One of his major interests, Johnson said, is that of helping young artists of talent go about making musical careers for themselves.

Plenty of Talent

"We have an enormous amount of such talent in the United States and Canada, but how to select, train and teach such people is only the beginning of their problem."

In Canada particularly, he is anxious to see "standardized examinations," in music—that is tests which would be accepted by all provinces and universities. An example would be a student passing a musical examination in Ontario and thus acceptable for a musical post in any of the other provinces.

For would-be professional singers, he had this to say: 'get into a church choir, with a good choirmaster who has a thorough classical background. That's the best way to acquire the classical background every good singer needs.

"The voice is a gift, but it needs the application of technique to develop and make the best use of it. Many young people want to sing before they are ready."

Here he was speaking with a personal knowledge. The impresario started his singing career as a boy in the choir stalls of Guelph churches.

His last big task as general manager was handling an eight-week tour this spring by the Metropolitan Opera Association which covered 14 cities in the United States.

It went well, he said, despite some inevitable hitches.

For instance, in one town the company arrived without a tenor; in another the scenery was delayed in arrival because a baggage car was late and consequently the curtain rose one hour behind schedule; while in a third place the company was temporarily stranded by a short-lived railway strike.

It was a case of "no tenor, no scenery and no train," Johnson chuckled.

North Atlantic Pact Powers Will Meet Shortly

London, June 1. (Reuters) — Representatives of the 12 North Atlantic Pact powers will meet here during the next two weeks to prepare for the Atlantic executive planned by their foreign ministers earlier this month, reliable sources said today.

The "temporary deputies" will give effect to a proposal by the North Atlantic Treaty Council for the establishment of a permanent organization to achieve "tangible results."

Sir Pierson Dixon, who recently returned to London from the Prague Embassy to take over as deputy undersecretary in charge of western organization at the foreign office, is a likely "temporary chairman" for the preliminary meeting.

The London ambassadors of the other 11 powers would, it was believed, act as "temporary deputies until their countries appointed permanent representatives.

Music Man Plans His Own Picture

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 1. (AP)—Weary of movies that paint a false picture of the band business, music man Stan Kenton is planning to make a picture of his own.

"Hollywood has never done right by the band business," said the 37-year-old promoter of "Progressive Jazz". "There were a few good scenes in a picture called 'Syncopation' a few years ago, but the rest of it wasn't so good. I haven't seen 'Young Man With a Horn', but the boys in the band tell me it's not so hot."

So Kenton will film his own production when his band goes on the road next season.

"It will be a documentary," he declared. "We'll start when the first bookings start to come in. Then we'll show the boys being fitted for their uniforms, the band rehearsing new numbers and finally hitting the road. We'll take the audience right backstage and show the wives knitting and talking together while the show goes on. We'll show everything."

WANTED IN STABBING

Toronto, June 1—(CP)—Police are seeking a young woman suspected of stabbing Lloyd States, 26, with a spring knife after he slapped her across the face.

States suffered a deep throat wound and a severed artery.

The stabbing took place after an argument in a hotel Tuesday night. The woman fled the hotel, knife in hand.

Council Gives Man Back Job He Lost for Driving Truck Into Queen's Procession

Bebington, Cheshire, England, June 1—(AP)—The city council took pity today on Sidney Cooper and gave him back the job he lost for driving his garage truck in Queen Elizabeth's procession.

Cooper fell from grace May 3 when he manoeuvred his bright orange garbage truck into the procesion only three cars behind the Queen as she passed through here on her way to Birkenhead for a ship-launching ceremony.

The city health committee which fired the 46-year-old driver last week, accused him of taking bows for cheers intended for the Queen.

Cooper, father of eight, denied it. He said he just got caught in the traffic and couldn't get out.

Friends sent a petition signed by more than 1,000 persons to Buckingham Palace asking the Queen to intervene on Cooper's behalf. They received a formal acknowledgement, but the council said there was no royal request to put Cooper back on the job he had held for 17 years.

He was re-hired and his right to a pension restored, the council said, as an "act of clemency" to start the term of the new mayor.

Hitler's Escape Baseless Rumor, He's as Dead as Attila Says Judge

By J. R. TRIPLET

New York, June 1 (AP)—The Russians are suppressing certain material evidence, but Adolf Hitlser "is as dead as Attila and Grengis Khan," Michael A. Musmanno says in a book recently published.

The book is "Ten Days to Die" ((Doubleday) a 264-page study cf events in the Fuehrer's air-conditioned Reichschancellery bunker as the Russians battled their way into Berlin five years ago. The title refers to the 10 days following Hitler's 56th birthday April 20, 1945.

A human jaw-bone taken by the Russians from the shell-churned garden above the bunker is described as the most positive physical evidence supporting German testimony that Hitler died a suicide, broken in the defeat he regarded as a personal betrayal by his generals.

Hitler's dental technicians said the jaw-bone was his, but the Russians repeatedly have denied proof of his death.

"Russia's attitude on the subject warrants the observation she is not willing that the entire truth about Hitler's disappearance be known," Musmanno writes, suggesting the facts are withheld for some propaganda purpose.

Unfounded Rumors

Musmanno contents the evidence from other sources proves baseless recurrent rumors that Hitler escaped. His book goes into detail, citing accounts by scores of Germans from Grand Admiral Kral Doenitz to Hitler's chauffeur Eric Kempa:

The evidence indicates that Hitler feared the Russians would seize him for exhibition and torture. He made a suicide pact with Eva Braun, and married her 48 hours before the end. They killed themselves in Hitler's study shortly after they learned two German armies ordered to relieve Berlin had retreated westward to the Elbe River. Staff members burned the bodies with gasoline and buried the charred remains in the garden.

Hitler is described as "one of the greatest mass orators of all time," but a self-centred coward who never visited a fighting front or a military hospital.

Musmanno is a Pittsburgh judge who served in the Second World War as a naval captain and later was a member of a U.S. War Crimes tribunal in Germany. He is the author of seven books.

Madras Police Seven Persons In Gun Battle

Madras, India, June 1—(Reuters)—Madras police killed seven persons described as "underground communists" in a gun-battle on the outskirts of the Konanki forest, in the northeast border district of Guntur Tuesday.

The police party, combing the jungle near where there had been an unsuccessful attempt to derail a train recently, was ambushed by 12 persons, five of whom escaped under cover of fire.

Scotch Livestock Will Help Restock Flooded Lands

Glasgow, June 1 (CP) —Scotland will send top-quality livestock to help restock flooded lands around Winnipeg.

The decision was taken Wednesday by the directors of the Royal Highland and Agricultural Society, which instructed a committee to work out details of the best way to aid distressed Canadian farmers.

The action followed a letter from the agriculture ministry in London urging that everything possible should be done to help restore Canadian homes and farms.

W. J. Reid of Laurencekirk, Kincardineshire, urged the society to send only the best. He suggested that Scottish gifts should take the form of pedigree livestock of different breeding—"something to show Scotland off to the best advantage."

Risks Life to Save Screen Actress

Dawsonville, Ga., June 1 (AP)—An alert studio chauffeur risked his life Wednesday to save screen star Susan Hayward from almost certain death when she lost her footing at a tall waterfall.

Miss Hayward is on location in North Georgia for the filming of "I'd Climb the Highest Mountain." She had a day off from the cameras yesterday and went out to photograph the 729-foot Amicalola Falls.

The red-haired star lost her footing, but was caught by William Gray, studio chauffeur. Both fell into the water above the falls, but escaped with minor injuries.

10,000 Commie Youths Start Homeward

Luebeck, Germany, June 1 — (AP)— Ten thousand sleepy communist youths, marooned for two nights just inside the Soviet zone started moving toward their West-German homes today after calling off their sitdown strike.

The blue-shirted boys and girls accepted West-German police demands that they give their names—so they could be traced if an epidemic broke out— or submit to medical examinations before crossing the border.

They had been camping in the chilly border "no man's land," refusing to heed the police orders, since Tuesday night when they reached the East-West zonal frontier after attending the communist Whitsun rally in Berlin.

The youths capitulated after a sleepless night during which they piled their straw bedding on campfires in an attempt to keep warm. This morning they shuffled past lines of police and German doctors who gave them a quick lookover for any possible contagious diseases contracted in their crowded Berlin quarters.

No Incidents

There were no incidents in the early hours. Western police said doctors found no illness.

After the border medical checkup, the young Reds wound in a long column toward Luebeck's main railway station where they were to take trains to the West-German homes. They appeared too tired even to chant communist songs as they had done Wednesday.

Elsewhere along the East-West zonal frontier all was quiet.

The youths had passed through the iron curtain almost a week ago to hail Prime Minister Stalin in Eastern Berlin. But en route home those who reached Luebeck loudly defied orders that they turn in their names or take a medical examination.

SOME PROGRESS MADE

Windsor, Ont., June 1 (CP)—"Some progress" was made Wednesday in negotiations between Chrysler Corporation of Canada Limited, and Local 195, United Automobile Workers (CIO), a union spokesman said Wednesday night.

However, no details of agreement reached to date were announced by the bargaining groups which met for the second full day this week to discuss union demands for company-paid pensions, health and social security

BRITISH SEAMAN RELEASED

Capetown, South Africa, June 1 — (Reuters) — A British seaman, jailed last Saturday for consorting with a Negro woman, was released Wednesday by order of Justice Minister Charles Swart.

Ernest Hicks, 41, was sentenced to four months for breaking the new "immorality law," which forbids sexual relations between white and colored persons.

But the court suspended three months of the sentence to allow Hicks to rejoin his ship when it returns from South America.

His defence was that it was his first visit to South Africa and he knew nothing about the new law.

The woman with whom he associated was jailed for four months.

Welsh Denies City's Claim That Gambling Licences Issued Without Police Check

Toronto, June 1 (CP)—Controversy between Toronto Municipal and Ontario Provincial government officials arose today over the gambling situation in Toronto.

Provincial Secretary Welsh contradicted both Mayor Hiram McCallum and Toronto Police Chief John Chisholm Wednesday over the matter of the Ontario Government granting charters to clubs. The mayor had stated that at least six professional gambling syndicates are operating in Toronto and intimated that city police were hamstrung in the matter of clubs operating under provincial charters.

To Mayor McCallum's claim that the city had repeatedly protested the granting of provincial charters to groups known to be linked with gambling syndicates, Mr. Welsh said this was untrue On the contrary, the Ontario Minister said, his department had co-operated closely with the Toronto Police Department for the specific purpose of preventing gambling in incorporated clubs.

Mayor McCallum said that Mr. Welsh's statement was rather surprising. "His information conflicts with information in possession of the Toronto Police Commission and which I have personally," said the mayor. "If Mr. Welsh is available I am going to invite him to the police commission meeting Thursday so that he can examine our information personally."

No 'Floater' Charters

The provincial secretary also denied statements by Chief Chisholm that provincial charters were not issued for specific street addresses or municipalities, and that these charters "floated" from one location to another.

Mr. Welsh said that for more than a year now, no charter has been issued to any club unless it contained an anti-gambling clause.

He said also that all provincial charters specified the community where the club could operate.

Until a little over a year ago a few charters had been issued allowing the legalized gambling and rake-off by the club proprietors, said Mr. Welsh. But these charters were issued only after close investigation. And no charter of any description had ever been issued to Toronto or any other municipality where the police had protested, he said.

their time putting imitation brick on the parish hall of the Catholic church here. Mrs. Skynnik minded the children; Mrs. Mrozkowski was the breadwinner.

The families themselves built the cottage they occupied.

Little Sylvester Mrozkowski was spattered with blood when police took him from the house. Officers believe the child crawled out of bed after the slayings, walked around the living-room for a few moments, and then went back to bed.

Nazi Torture Blamed

Mrs. Mrozkowski today blamed Nazi torture in a concentration camp for her husband's deed.

"This is a tragedy of war," she told a reporter. I know in my own mind that my husband killed his two good friends and then took his own life. I thank God that he spared the children.

"The reason for this shocking crime goes back to the early war years when my husband was seized by the German army in Poland and placed in a concentration camp. He suffered terrible tortures, the remembrance of which he never got over. His nerves were shattered by the inhuman treatment he received for over four years in a prison camp.

"I was in a concentration camp myself for two years and after our release we married and came to Canada, which was to be our land of hope. In the last year Leon's nerves had been gradually getting worse. He used to beat me when he would go into a nervous state caused by his memories of the internment camp.

"He never knew what he was doing when he took these strange disorders. He loved his children and myself and he thought the world of the Skrynniks.

"I intend to carry on in Canada with my two children. I don't know how I am going to do it, for I have no money and I know so few people. Little Sophie Skrynnik will be taken into a Catholic orphanage, because I will not be able to handle all three of the children."

Cards, Smarting Under 9-8 Loss to Brooklyn Recently, Seeking Revenge in Series

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Memo to Brooklyn — beware of St. Louis Cards.

Cheeks still burn on the Cardinal bench at the memory of the May 18 horrors of Ebbets Field when St. Louis blew an 8-0 lead and lost to the Dodgers 9-8.

The experts wrote the Cards obit the next day.

Next time the Cards played a game they rallied with six runs in the eighth inning to knock out Warren Spahn and Whip Boston. The next victim was the Phillies' Robin Roberts.

And so on down the line. Since the black day in Flatbush they have won nine of 11, hotter than any club in the National League. Now they're in second place, one game behind Brooklyn.

Tonight the Cards get their chance to get even with Brooklyn They open a three-game series with the Dodgers at Sportsman's Park.

Like the Dodgers, the New York Giants also begin their second Western tour. The trip is important for Leo Durocher's charges in a different sort of way. The Polo Grounds wolves are howling for Leo's scalp although his contract runs through 1951. Going into tonight's twi-night doubleheader at Cincinnati the Giants are running a dreary seventh, nine games off the pace.

Chicago, still two games over the .500 mark is the first stop for the deflated Phillies who were knocked from first to third Tuesday.

Tigers Come East

Boston finds Pittsburgh reeling under an 8-game losing streak.

American League box scores will be studied for the next few days to find the effects of the big Chicago-Washington deal.

The White Sox move into Yankee Stadium for a night game with New York which has won 17 of its last 20.

Eddie Robinson, coveted by the Yankees during winter, is to play first for Chicago. Ray Scarborough and Al Kozar also are to be with the club.

Washington will parade its new stock—second baseman Cass Michaels, outfielder Johnny Ostrowski and pitcher Bob Kuzava before the home folks.

Back home, the third place Boston Red Sox, five games back of the Yankees, may perk up again when they take on Cleveland Indians. The Red Sox slipped under .500 on their road trip.

Detroit comes east for the second time, trailing New York by three games. The Tigers' first stop is Philadelphia.

Manuel Ortiz Loses Title To Vic Toweel

Johannesburg, South Africa, June 1 (AP)—Manuel Ortiz, the gritty little California Mexican, faced an uncertain future today while the ring world acclaimed a new bantamweight champion—South Africa's Vic Toweel.

Toweel, a 23-year-old former wood carver, wrested the crown from Ortiz with an undisputed 15-round decision Wednesday night in Johannesburg's Wembley Stadium.

The finish presented a paradoxical picture. Toweel, the victor, was bleeding from over one eye and his nose. Ortiz, the vanquished, was unmarked.

But there was no question of the outcome in the minds of 27,000 fans, who stormed the ring afterwards singing, "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," or ringside observers, who gave Toweel from 10 to 12 of the 15 rounds.

Even Ortiz, a battle-weary former champion at 33, conceded he was a licked man.

"Toweel's a great fighter but his punch was not hard enough to hurt me," said the pride of Elcentro, Calif.

Ortiz' manager, Ray Luna, said there was "no doubt about the decision" and added:

A Bit Green

"Toweel's a bit green but he was too good for Manny tonight, have no plans yet about Manny's future."

A bid to recapture the crown appeared unlikely. Ortiz showed definite effects of his advancing age and his 12 years in the professional rung.

He seemed unable to get going in the early stages and Toweel, a sharp if not a murderous puncher with fancy footwork, piled up a big edge through the first seven rounds.

Ortiz, weighing 116 pounds and 12 ounces to his foe's 117 pounds and one ounce, showed only flashes of his old punching prowess.

Ortiz won the crown Aug. 7, 1942, by beating Lou Salica. He lost it to Harold Dade Jan. 8, 1947, but won it back two months later.

Front-Running Waterloo Tigers Are Cooling Out

(By The Canadian Press)

The front-running Waterloo Tigers appear to have cooled off from their blistering early-season pace in the Intercounty Senior Baseball League.

After winning their first eight games, Tigers dropped their third in a row Wednesday when Kitchener Legionnaires handed them a 5-3 defeat.

London Majors beat St. Thomas Legion 11-8. A scheduled game between Brantford Red Sox and Galt Terriers was postponed to tonight because of rain.

At Waterloo Yank Lipke, junior right-hander from Toronto scattered six hits to earn the decision for Kitchener. The Legionnaires jumped on Waterloo's ace, Al Dumouchelle, for nine hits and and all five runs in seven innings before he was relieved by Stan Kaczmarek.

An injury to second baseman Jim Muldoon caused a shake-up in the Waterloo infield with the result the Tigers came up with six errors, more than they had made in all earlier games.

Second-baseman Bain led the Kitchener hitting with three for five. Waterloo's third baseman, Fisher, with two hits, was the only Tiger getting more than one bingle.

At London the Majors survived a late opposition rally to defeat the St. Thomas Legion. Majors got off to a big start with a six-run splurge in the first inning, but they needed most of that edge to gain the verdict.

Tommy White pitched his 4th victory in as many starts despite none too good support afield. He yielded nine hits. London got only eight hits off three St. Thomas' pitchers, the first inning harvest of runs coming at the expense of Doc Doherty. Jack Weeks and Pat McCullough followed Doherty on the St. Thomas mound.

Wilson, three for four, led the St. Thomas hitting while McFadden and Black were top London hitters, each getting two in four tries.

Argos Cannot Begin to Match West Salaries

(By The Canadian Press)

Bob Moran, president of the Toronto Argonauts Football club said Wednesday that "our club couldn't begin to match some of the fabulous salaries" which he said Western football clubs are spending for gridiron talent.

"I'm inclined to believe they're going crazy out West," Moran told a Toronto luncheon for club members and sports officials tendered by Harry Doughty, new member of the Argo executive.

Moran was referring to some former Argo stars who have trekked West, but he didn't mention any names. Outstanding among these is Royal Copeland, now with Calgary Stampeders.

"Football is a business proposition, as you all know," said Moran. "But who in business would expend money knowing full well that at the end of the fiscal year they had to suffer a loss? That's what it amounts to out West. They're spending money they haven't a hope of recovering."

Argos will play an exhibition game with Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Toronto between August 19 and 21, and another exhibition against Sarnia Imperials at Toronto Aug. 26. Both games will be for charity.

Bob MacFarlane, Canadian track star from London, Ont., who beat Arthur Wint in the White City 440 yards Monday, raced Wednesday night for the first time on grass, at Dublin's Ainsdown Road, and scored two victories.

In two events, the 440 and 300 yards, he went within three-tenths of a second of taking over records held by D. Bolen, United States Olympic runner, and McDonald Bailey, the Trinidad and British Olympic star.

In the 440, MacFarlane won by four yards in 48.8 seconds.

MacFarlane sportingly agreed to run in an extra event, the 300 yards, and took on the star French sprinter, E. Bally, who had won the 100. The Canadian led by two feet in 31 seconds. The record established by Bailey last year was 30-7.

A record prize of $57,458.63 was paid Wednesday night to Johnny Parsons, Van Nuys, Calif., for winning the 34th 500-mile Indianapolis speedway race Tuesday.

It was the top prize out of a purse of $199,435 announced by the Indianapolis Motor Speedway at its victory dinner for the drivers. The Speedway added a $58,000 bonus to its $75,000 guaranteed race purse.

Besides that $133,000, the prize fund included $8,300 in qualification prizes, $13,600 in refunded entry fees, accessories valued at $24,525 and $20,010 in lap prizes.

Because rain ended the race at 138 laps (345 miles), the lap prize fund paid off at $145. In a full 500 mile event, drivers are paid $100 for every lap they lead.

All prizes are actually paid to the car owner, and the driver's share is a private deal between the two.

Eight Canadian and eight open international events will highlight the 1950 Canadian Secondary Schools Rowing Association Regatta over the Royal Canadian Henley courses at St. Catharines Saturday.

Races will be over one mile, and will be run at 15-minute intervals.

Oarsmen from St. Catharines Collegiate are entered in 12 of the 16 events.

At Toronto, wet grounds Wednesday forced postponement of Wednesday night's scheduled Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game between Brampton and Mimico. The game had been billed as the season opener.

Big-League Ball Attendance Down From Last Year

New York, June 1 — (AP) — Whether it's the weather, television or lack of ready cash, big-league baseball attendance continues to dip.

Last year the average attendance for a major league game through April and May was 18,123. This year it's 15,714. That represents a 13-per cent decline.

At this date a year ago the two majors had drawn a total of 5,056,425 as compared to 3,928,509. This is a 22-per cent drop. However, the clubs have been able to play only 250 home dates this spring compared to 279 last year.

Only club of the 16 majors to show an increase is Philadelphia Phillies. Buoyed by the fine early showing of Eddie Sawyer's crew, the Phils attracted 219,773 at home in their first 14 dates. Last year they had 10,785 for 19 dates. The increase is not startling but it is an increase.

Look at New York Giants. They're 200,000 behind but have five more dates to play before they will be even in games with the 1949 record.

All three big money - makers in the American League — New York, Cleveland and Detroit — are behind their 1949 figures.

And St. Louis. Something will have to be done there. The Browns are doing worse than last year when they wound up with only 310,000 for the year.

The Browns hit bottom for the year Monday afternoon when only 624 paid to see them play Chicago. It wasn't much better for the Memorial Day holiday doubleheader that attracted 3,527.

New York, June 1 — (AP) — Larry Macphail will sell nine of his yearling thoroughbreds at the Saratoga auctions this summer - - - He'd get better prices if he could persuade his Brooklyn successor, Branch Rickey, to act as auctioneer - - - Baseball scouts at the United States National Collegiate playoffs will have their eyes on who batted .369 for Ohio University this spring - - - Seems that Biskup can sock that old biscuit - - - Baseball experts are looking for the White Sox-Senator trade to touch off a whole series of deals. But the two clubs claim they'll keep what they've got - - - And, speaking of trades, Al Dark, who now is in a terrific slump was the reason that the Giants-Braves lead took so long last winter. Braves owner Lou Perini didn't want to part with Al.

Toronto Leafs Upset First-Place Rochester Wings

(By The Associated Press)

"Is that the same Bill Kennedy who used to pitch for Cleveland and St. Louis in the American League?"

That's the question fans throughout the International League are asking today about Bill Kennedy, towering lefthander of the Baltimore Orioles.

The fans' amazement is easily understandable when the part of the box score which lists "bases on balls off Kennedy" is studied.

Kennedy, who walked 190 batters in 297 innings while in the American League in 1948 and 1949, has passed only 11 in 46 1/3 innings for the Orioles. In his last three starts Kennedy walked only one batter in each game and struck out 27.

The southpaw, who set a minor league record when he fanned 456 batters for Rocky Mount, N. C., in 1946, turned in his third victory against one defeat Wednesday night as he pitched the Orioles to an 11-6 victory over Syracuse Chiefs.

Kennedy walked only one batter and fanned eight. He yielded his first run in 22 innings in the third when Claude Corbitt homered.

The Orioles, who now have won 11 out of their last 13 starts, pounded four Syracuse pitchers for 16 hits.

In the only other game, Toronto Maple Leafs upset the 1st-place Rochester Red Wings, 9-3.

The Wings knocked Paul Stuffel out with two runs in the first inning but Max Peterson came on and stopped the Wings on seven hits the rest of the way to pick up his second victory.

Dick Bokelmann opened for Rochester but departed under fire in the second when the Leafs scored five runs to clinch the game.

The game between Springfield and Jersey City was rained out.

Major league baseball games in 1949 drew 20,215,365 fans in the United States — 10,750,647 to the American League and 9,484,718 to the National League.

At Picton Bay, on Lake Ontario, the shark-nosed Miss Canada IV eased into open water. It was Oct. 2, 1949. The sleek, 33-foot racer was out to bring Canada an international speed boat record.
With twin engines roaring, the craft hurled over the measured mile . . . then thundered back for a second run. Times were tallied. Miss Canada's speed had averaged 138.648 m.p.h. —a new North American record!

FRANKFORD

Frankford Hands Trenton 12-1 Defeat In Valley League

Frankford — Frankford Merchants, Intermediate Softball entry in the T.V.L., got off on the right foot Monday night, as they handed Trenton a 12-1 drubbing. Although a little wild at times on the control, Don Boyle was really master of all he surveyed in the clutches, striking out a total of 18 Trenton batsmen. Chase walloped a tremendous home run for the victors, with Boyle and Murphy coming through well at the plate. Frankford plays next in Campbellford Friday night.

An organization meeting of the Sidney Softball League was held in the School House in Centenary Tuesday evening. Five teams, Centenary, Johnstown, Wallbridge, Frankford, and Frankford Legion were represented. As yet, it is not certain whether or not Batawa will enter a team to complete the six team circuit. The possibility of playing all games in Frankford was discussed, and if arrangements can be made with the Parks Commission of the Lions Club, it is quite possible that this will be the case. The league is glad to welcome Wallbridge back again, after an absence of one year, during which time they played in Stirling. It is expected that all games will be played on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Wall-Eyed Pike, Maskinonge Die From Over-Eating

New York, June 1 — (AP)— Turkeys and ostriches generally are recognized as the most stupid of all non-human life when it comes to matters of self-preservation.

But there is nothing compared to fish when it comes to committing suicide by over - eating — even if the fish never are biting when your line is in the water.

Two examples of greed were encountered in a single afternoon on a recent trip to the Georgian Bay area of Ontario. The first was the finding of a three-pound wall-eyed pike threshing on the surface in obvious distress. An examination, after the fish's capture, showed it was trying to swallow a golf ball.

Less than a mile further down the bay a muskellunge was seen lashing about. Approaching closer, the tail of a large fish could be seen hanging from the muskie's mouth.

Unfortunately, the muskie was killed as the fishermen tried to help him. However, that brought a chance to weigh both the big fish and his fatal tid-bit The muskie weighed a fraction less than 39 pounds, the death morsel was a three-pound dogfish.

Speed versus strength could well be the key-note of Friday night's feature wrestling clash between the massive, powerful Yukon Eric and the fast, perpetual-motion Ray Villmer at the Memorial Arena. Yukon Eric, the be-muscled Alaska lumberjack, is one of the biggest and strongest men in sport, while the jet-propelled, pocket-Hercules, Villmer, is one of the swiftest and, at the same time, forceful, grapplers in the game. All things considered, this smash should produce something unusual and exciting in the way of ring action.

Ray McClarity will tackle Toar Morgan in the semi-final and Bill Stack will oppose Al "Krusher" Korman in the first bout to complete the all-star card.

Safecrackers Get $27 in Peterborough

Peterborough, June 1 (CP)— Thieves took a crack at two safes here during the night, opening one with no trouble and failing in the second. The total loot was about $27.

There was nothing to indicate whether or not the same thieves had worked at both places. At Peterborough Metal Company the burglars either knew the vault combination or the door had been left unlocked.

From the vault they took $17 kept in a metal box. The rest of the money they collected in desk drawers they forced open.

The second attempt was made at Winslow's service station. Using the garage's acetylene torch they cut out a section of the door around the combination dial but got no further.

Inside the safe was between $150 and $200. One of the service stations employees, told police he saw a flashlight in the garage about midnight but thought it was a policeman checking and didn't bother to investigate.

Clouds, Dew Give Temporary Relief In Forest Fires

Halifax, June 1 (CP)— Low clouds and a heavy dew came to the aid of firefighters in Halifax County early today but the weatherman predicted the relief would be only temporary.

A monster forest fire continued in the eastern part of the county. The weather bureau predicted low clouds until this afternoon when the weather again would turn sunny.

The big blaze in the upper Musquodoboit area has destroyed some 15,000 acres of spruce in three days. However, the flames veered away from the threatened villages of Dean and Musquodoboit. The fire already has destroyed more timberland than all of 1949's outbreaks and is being fought by a force of some 1,500.

Meanwhile, minor outbreaks were reported from a dozen other places in the eastern part of the province. Chief Forester D.A.S. Dyer said some of the fires "have the semblance of being purposely set." Others were caused by careless smoking, burning of brush and fishermen's campfires.

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

June, the month of brides—and roses! I'm not going to concern myself with brides, but am greatly interested in discussing roses. This universally popular flower should be in every garden in at least one of its varied forms. It is wise to grow hybrid teas and hybrid perpetuals massed together in solid beds. Ramblers, pillar roses and climbers can be used to advantage on trellises or pergolas.

Plans for different types of supports abound. Two trellises and two arbours are shown. If you are not anxious to tackle the curved archway, then stick to a design which has straight lines.

If you are a rose enthusiast or would like to become more familiar with rose culture, why not join the Ontario Rose Society? We would be pleased to forward to you the particulars for joining this active organization.

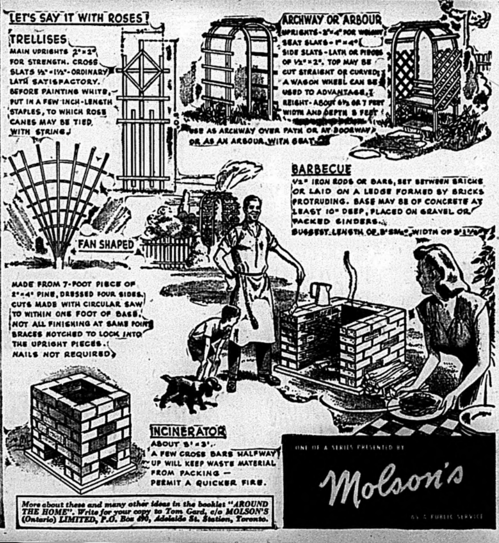
For Outdoor Living

Nothing tastes so good as food cooked in the open over an outdoor fireplace. My teen-age daughter kept at me until I finally broke down and built a barbecue in a secluded corner of the garden. Ever since it was finished there has been a continual round of weiner roasts, picnics and impromptu gatherings in our back yard. I must admit its use has not been restricted to teenagers!

Refuse Burner

It was a toss-up whether I would include an incinerator with the brick barbecue or not. Saw a combination arrangement — barbecue at one side, incinerator at the other — in Kingston over a year ago, which was very effective. Because of the layout of my garden I decided on two separate units and intend to follow the incinerator design shown. It should help keep debris about the place to a minimum.

This marks the halfway point of this present series. I'd be delighted to hear from you if you have any comments to make on any of the suggestions already presented here or in the booklet "Around the Home".



LET'S SAY IT WITH ROSES!

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Bridge masters handle a deal like a pro handles a golf ball. The toughest going looks easy the way they do it. Almost as if no effort was required. As in this tournament deal:

NORTH
♥A Q 3 2
♦A 8 2
♣A J 9

WEST
♠Q 10 3
♥None
♦Q 9 7 6 4
♣K Q 8 7 4

EAST
♠A 9 8 6 4
♥J 9 6
♦J 5
♣10 6 3

SOUTH
♥K 10 8 7 5 4
♦K 10 3

North became the declarer at a small slam contract of six in hearts. No ordinary player should be in a slam. It can be defeated with any one of various leads from either direction.

However, the opening lead was from east who cashed his ace of spades at once and then led a trump. It still looked full of dire results for declarer. But it was no problem for this one.

Opponent trumps were pulled in three rounds of that suit. A spade was led from dummy, south. This was successfully finessed with the north jack. Spade king was cashed, south sluffing a club.

Ace and king of diamonds were cashed. Two more trumps hauled in a couple of tricks. On these were shed a north diamond and now the south dummy was in the lead.

By this time the south dummy had left a trump, a club, and the diamond ten. North was left with A J 9 of clubs. West found it best to hold diamond queen and K Q of clubs to protect these two suits.

Here is where south led the last trump and dumped thereon the north club nine. It matters not what the east player does with his remaining rags. But what can west do on this 11th trick?

Should west shed his diamond queen?? If he does, south will have a good diamond ten. This with the north club ace will take what is left of the tricks at the table.

Would you have west let go of his queen or king of clubs? Oh, no. If he does, north will take the last two tricks with his ace and jack of clubs. And there are no other alternatives.

Like shooting birdies.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 1 —(AP)— After two months and 200 noses, they've finally found a schnoz for Cyrano.

Hollywood has always had a yen for superlatives, whether they have concerned the physical attributes of Joe E. Brown, Eddie Cantor, Clark Gable or Jane Russell. So when it came to filming the story of Cyrano De Bergerac the big-beaked hero of literature, the search for a nose had to be a big thing.

Producer Stanley Kramer assigned makeup technician Gus Norin and his sculptor-father, Josef Norin, to the job. They carried out the project with the thoroughness of nuclear physicists.

"It's always a problem with prosthetic (artificial parts fitted to the body) devices," said Gus. "The nose has to fit the face perfectly or the dramatic illusion is lost."

The Norins made a plaster cast of the face of Jose Ferrer, who will star as Cyrano. Then some 200 noses were designed.

"It had to be just the right nose," said Ferrer. " 'Cyrano' is a tragic comedy, so the nose could not be tragically grotesque, nor thoroughly laughable. It had to fit the character—a gallant man handicapped by a monstrous nose. He was a man big enough to sit in a room alone and laugh at the size of his own nose."

Humorous Proboscis

The actor pointed at some of the sketches of rejected schnozzles. "That's a basil Rathbone, that's a Louis Calhern," he'd say. "And this one is so large that the man would retire from society entirely."

Finally he came to the acceptable one. "Ah, that is the nose," he said. "See how the base of it points straight out, as though shooting at the moon. And yet it narrows out at the end so that it is profoundly humorous."

The Norins created a series of plaster casts of the nose until the final product was achieved.

Everything But Sweat

"The nose blends right into the skin," said Gus. "It is movable and expressive. It will do everything but sweat."

The schnoz is so designed that Ferrer may even apply his hankie should he get the sniffles.

BANDED UNDER ONE GROUP

Peterborough, June 1 — (CP) —A resolution recommending that laymen's organizations of the United Church of Canada be banded under one fellowship was passed by the Lay Association of the Bay of Quinte Conference Wednesday.

The fellowship would be known as the "United Church Men." It would gather under one head all existing men's clubs, Bible classes and other groups in the United Church.

'No Accident' June Drive Opens At Point Anne

Participating in their annual June "no accident" campaign, some 225 workers of the Canada Cement Company plant at Point Anne will be particularly safety conscious for the next 30 days.

During the month of June employees of the Point Anne plant, and all 139 other cement plants in America, will do their utmost to make their plant accident free. June some years ago had been the worst accident month of the year for cement company employees. Today, June is the best month.

Inaugurating their June "no accident" campaign, workers at the sprawling Point Anne plant Wednesday noon congregated on the lawn in front of the superintendent's office, where they heard brief addresses from plant superintendent J. H. Legate and other officials on the importance of safety.

Started 24 Years Ago

Mr. Legate told his workers that the June "no accident" campaign had been commenced 24 years ago when the prevalence of accidents during that particular month demanded something be done. The campaign is now annually observed by the 135,000 cement workers in the 140 plants in America.

Today, he said, there were few accidents in the cement industry but unfortunately when accidents did occur they were usually serious. The four reasons given were 1, moving machinery; 2, electricity; 3, railroads, and 4, high places.

Urging his workers that constant precautions against accidents should always be taken Mr. Legate observed that it was but "common sense and good judgment to prevent accidents."

Mr. Legate also referred to the Manitoba Relief Fund noting that the company would "match dollar for dollar" with contributions by the employees.

Union President Heard

President of the plant A. F. of L. Union, Art. F. Whitehead, also urged plant workers to be on guard against accidents, pointing out the fact that unhappy home conditions were a contributing factor toward accidents.

Assistant Plant Superintendent A. O. Drysdale stressed the importance of first aid knowledge and its use on the job, at home, and on the highway. "Every man in a plant should have first aid training," he said.

Chairman of the June "no accident" campaign, J. M. MacKay, presided over the ushering - in ceremonies which among others saw the following seated at the speakers' table: Fred Clarke, general foreman; Earl Anderson, outside foreman; Harry Brown, plant chemist; Tom Bowler, safety supervisor; W. Armstrong, chief clerk, and G. D. Dies, plant engineer.

First aid training awards have recently been made to the following plant workers: Robert F. Strahan, 1st year certificate; Jack P. Hart, Charles E. Lloyd, Jack E. Finlan and Keith H. Lloyd, 2nd year vouchers, and Frank L. Insley, who received his first medallion label, signifying four years training in first aid.

Taximan Battles ApparentMadDog To Save 82 Pupils

Atlanta, Ga., June 1 (CP) — A taxicab driver, father of five children, wrestled with an apparent mad dog Wednesday to save a group of 82 terrified kindergarten pupils.

"Any man with kids of his own would have done exactly what I did," said 28-year-old Rick Parker, shrugging off his act of bravery.

Parker spotted the dog, running wildly and foaming at the mouth, as he drove past the school. Classes were changing and the youngsters were on the grounds.

The cab driver threw his car in reverse and put it between the mongrel dog and the children. He shouted at a patrolling policewoman to get the children inside.

Then the dog darted around the cab and Parker flung himself upon it. As the children watched from windows, he wrestled the dog down the street. A youth finally killed the dog with a rifle. Parker was bitten on one hand and was given an anti-rabies shot.

FIVE STUDENTS KILLED

Harlan, Ia., June 1 (AP) — Five high school students— three boys and two girls—were killed Wednesday night when their car rammed into the rear of a six-ton truck. The students were celebrating graduation exercises held earlier in the evening.

Kingsridge

By Alice Ross Colver

He had said furiously, fumblingly, and with a strange note of crumble self-esteem in his tone, "Well, he'll never see me again. In a spot like that, I mean. I'm through." And he had turned and swung toward the door. There he had paused. "And I never meant anything more," he had growled back over his shoulder.

The Judge had believed him. Yet without Gerry's fortunate — unfortunate—discovery the affair might not have ended so well or so soon. That he had to believe also.

He sighed. Nothing was ever clear-cut good or evil he thought. And he came back to the Reverend who was speaking.

"Susan may help him in that respect" he was saying.

The Judge followed Joe's glance to the centre of the floor where his granddaughter and Gerald were dancing together and a sudden rebellion engulfed his heart. A girl at least a girl like Susan shouldn't have to "help" make a man worthy! He should be worthy from the start. Moreover could she change him? Or was the pattern of his character already too firmly set?

"Perhaps," he agreed, with skepticism and changed the subject abruptly as he saw Audrey coming toward him.

"Do you know where Frank is?" she asked as she reached his side.

Steven looked around. "I don't see him." But I do see Alicia, his eyes added. She's talking to your mother in the corner. Don't worry.

She nodded. "Perhaps he's doing something about the drinks," she said. "I'll go out and see.

Audrey moved toward the dining room and the swinging door that led into the pantry, her thoughts on Frank. ' She had watched him all evening, drifting like a big, shy, self-conscious boy among the guests but steering clear of Alicia.' What had happened between them? She could not guess. Her father had told her of his reaction to Gerald's discovery of him but while that had been comforting it had not made clear whether his relinquishment of her had been willing or not. She simply felt that his infatuation had ended and she told herself the reason was unimportant. Yet he was still not himself. He was better, to be sure, now that he was at work again at his old business of exporting and importing, but he— well, he had just never come back to her. There was between them none of the old intimate camaraderie they both used to enjoy.

She nodded smilingly to the Bairds, answered Donald's wolf-whistle to her with a lifted eyebrow of mock disdain as she went by him and Janie and reached the swinging door, thinking "I must just wait. Not notice. Not ask. Not be impatient. If he's been hurt, and I guess he has, that will take time. So just wait. Well, I should know how to do that by now."

She pushed through and saw Frank at work before bottles, lemons, ice cubes, the sugar can and a punch bowl. He looked around at her, said "Hello," and went on with his measuring. "Did you want me for anything?" he asked.

She leaned against the shelf beside him. "No. Nothing special. I missed you and . . ." Her heart skipped a beat as he shot her a quick sharp glance. "I wasn't checking up on you," she added hastily, and then could have bitten her tongue out for that give-away of her thoughts.

He put down his glass and his eyes met hers. In that exchange he knew that she knew, that she had known all along, and yet she had never given any intimation of her knowledge by word or look. Reasonable he thought, remembering her words with a shamed, applauding wonder.

He said quietly. "I know you weren't."

Frank busied himself again with the drinks, not sure whether he felt more discomfited or relieved. Was he so transparent that Audrey could see through him? Because the Judge, protecting her, and showing, at the same time, a man's loyalty to another man, would never, he was sure, have said a word. But however it was, it was better to have it come into the open. Indeed recalling it, the whole affair held a nightmarish quality now, his passionate desire a craziness he did not like to think about and could never explain.

For Alicia had not meant to stir it in him. The realization had left him, stunned and frustrated there in the hotel room. She had not known on that wintry afternoon in December when he had surprised her in her car on top of the hill, what she was saying or what effect her words were having on him. She had not even remembered when he drove her home from the Fergusons about that day, which, to him, had been such a milestone. "What day?" she had asked, and he had rushed to remind her instead of knowing then, instantly, that to her the moment had held nothing at all of what it had held for him. She had merely been speaking out of her own deep misery.

"How does this taste?" he asked, coming out of his thoughts and offered Audrey a sample.

She sipped.

"Not enough something or other I don't know what."

"Sugar," he said. "I'll fix it."

His mind went on.

If he hadnt known then, he should have known when she turned so strange in the elevator. It had been as if some spell had been put on her. He had talked, and she had not heard him. She had just stood staring. In the same kind of trance, she had walked down the corridor toward his hotel bedroom, but in there she had come to sudden life.

"No," she had said, backing away from his reaching arms. "No. I can't! I can't, after all. I must have been out of my senses to say—to make you think —I'm sorry. I'm terribly sorry. But. . . but I must go." And she had fled.

Well, if she had meant to cure him, she had done it all right. After his first shock of rage and disgust, he had felt released from some awful pressure. Not for him anything like that ever again. Easy enough to promise the Judge it was ended! All he had wanted since and all he wanted now was to get back on the tracks of his own life. If he could just make Audrey believe it. Had she been too hurt? When he thought what he had done to her because of Alicia, how he had acted, and before that, how he had acted with that mess about Susan.

Susan! God. He had been a brute with her regarding Susan.

He said, his voice suddenly gentler than she had heard it in months. "You know, I don't really blame you for anything that's happened between Susan and Gerry. It hasn't been your fault at all. I. . . Well, I realize that. I've wanted to tell you for a long time."

"I'm glad to know."

"Sometimes," he said, not looking at her, "we can't direct our own affairs, much less those of our children. I suppose we'll just have to call this business between them life."

"Yes," she said.

He stirred the contents of the bowl, sipped, nodded, and was satisfied. Then he turned toward her and she saw him giving her all his concern, all his thought, as he tried to find words of comfort for her.

"You said to me 'Leave it to time.' Do you remember?"

She nodded.

"Well, there's still time. This engagement may not stick, you know."

She murmured uneasily. "If I could only forget the way he looked at me that night."

"What night? Where? When?" He had her by the arm and was shaking her. "How did he look at you? Why, I'll knock his block off!"

She stared up at him, not answering any of his questions, not minding his grip that hurt, hearing only the fury in his tone, and saying in surprise "Do you care?"

"Care! Hell. You're my wife, aren't you?"

And suddenly, in the silence that followed that brief explosive exchange, everything was all right between them.

Elizabeth was saying to Alicia "there's just one thing that seems odd to me. After all your early interest in Gerald, you seem suddenly to have lost interest in him completely. You haven't entertained him but once, and that was way back in December. Does he eat with his knife?"

Alicia tipped back her head and looked down out of hooded eyes at her old enemy. "You should know. He's been here enough."

"Here he's perfectly well-mannered." A little late Elizabeth remembered he might soon be her granddaughters husband. "That was more a figure of speech than anything. I just thought, well, that he might have done something you didn't — or Lester didn't. . ."

Alicia interrupted this probing calmly.

"Whatever you thought was wrong. And I haven't lost interest in him at all. The thing is, rather, that having arrived where he wanted to get, he has lost interest in me." Her glance sought and found him dancing with Susan and in order to turn the knife in Elizabeth's heart, she turned it in her won too. "They look very well together, don't they?" she finished. And, with a nod, she moved to meet Lester who was coming toward her with two glasses in his hand.

Can Eat Meals Without Fear of Gas, Sour Acidity

Suffered Stomach Troubles for Years, Then Got Relief by Taking Syntona, Says This Woman. Now Nerves Relaxed, Free of Headaches, Constipation.

"For years I suffered misery with stomach disorders, but since taking Syntona I can eat most anything I want," said Mrs. A. Uberig, 8 Clifford Street, West Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent report.

"Awful gas and distress in my stomach used to be so bad I was afraid to eat. Often at night sour risings would come up in my throat making me cough and keeping me awake with a smothering sensation. Constipation, headaches, and dizzy spells were almost daily worries to me and my nerves were always on edge. I couldn't get my proper sleep. I felt rundown, and especially in the mornings I just had no energy.

"But that was some time ago, before I began taking Syntona and I have found this medicine to be so wonderful for me that I can now enjoy all my meals without fear of gas, sour risings, or any distress afterwards. It has also relieved constipation; I am free of headaches and dizzy spells and my nerves are so much improved that I sleep well and awaken mornings feeling rested and refreshed.

"I think every person who suffered this way should try Syntona. It has certainly been wonderful for me.

New A-Weapons Give Planners Fresh Confidence

West Europe Can be Made Secure Without Bankruptcy

By MAX BOYD

Washington, June 2 — (AP)—The United States has developed atomic artillery shells and atomic warheads for guided missiles, it was learned today.

News of these revolutionary weapons comes in the wake of Defence Secretary Louis Johnson's report to President Truman March 31 that this country is developing a variety of new atomic missiles which may have tactical as well as strategic significance.

That means they can be used against troops in the field as well as against industrial targets.

Reports of the new weapons are giving Atlantic Pact military planners new confidence that western Europe can be made secure against possible aggression without bankrupting the United States and its allies.

Atlantic Pact planners do not regard tactical atomic weapons as a substitute for stronger conventional ground and air forces in western Europe or for stronger air and naval forces in the United States.

Strengthened Forces

They believe that strengthened ground and tactical air forces in Europe are essential to force the Russian army, in case it attacks, to concentrate in mass formation and thus be vulnerable to atomic weapons.

Atlantic Pact military planners have feared that the absence of real military strength in western Europe may invite Soviet attack a few years from now—unless the void is filled in the meantime.

What the new weapons are like has not been announced. One is reported to be an A-bomb capable of being carried by a jet fighter-bomber. Another may be a weapon about which Gen. J. Lawton Collins, the U.S. Army's Chief of Staff, told a National Guard audience recently.

Collins said the army has a weapon which, mounted on a light or medium tank, is capable of knocking out any known tracked vehicle. That would include Russia's thousands of tanks, which are among the best in the world.

New Light Tank

The army chief of staff also reported a new U.S. light tank was just getting into production, but he said production of a planned heavy tank would not be started until the army became convinced that the mobile light tank and its new weapon could not do the job.

A composite of other phases of the Atlantic military situation, as viewed by Atlantic Pact military men who prefer not to be quoted by name, is as follows:

The strategic air force and atomic bombs of the United States have kept the peace in western Europe and are still doing so.

There now is a military void in western Europe. When Russia has a substantial stock of atomic bombs—expected to be in the next few years—this void will be an invitation to aggression. If it has been filled in the meantime, and economic co-operation has increased, the chances of war will be less.

YOUTH IS FREED IN KNIFE-SLAYING OF HIS FATHER

Cornwall, June 2—(CP)— On the basis of what the trial judge called "absolute defence," 15-year-old Maurice Leger Thursday was freed of a charge of manslaughter in the knife-slaying of his father, Morris Leger.

The boy, a partial cripple since birth, told the juvenile court hearing that he and his father had fought bitterly. Judge P. C. Bergeron said: "This court feels this case does not warrant procedure by indictment. With regard to manslaughter, the force used by the accused was not meant, to cause the death of his father, but rather to scare him off after he had threatened to kill the boy. This constitutes an absolute defence.

"He submitted as much as he could to abuse and blows of his father. This boy is not to blame and I can do nothing but release him and dismiss this case."

The boy's mother, Mrs. Mildred Leger, testified that her husband and son become involved in a fight April 15.

She said her husband had consumed five pints of beer and a bottle of wine before Maurice came in for supper. She managed to separate them but the fight was resumed after the father had brought the boy back from a neighbor's home. Mrs. Leger said her husband threatened to kill Maurice, and her evidence was corroborated by another son, 10-year-old Roger.

Trying to Hold Off

The accused youth said. "I was just trying to hold him off. After he hit mother and came at me again I held out the knife, expecting just to scare him, but he came on and the knife went into his side. I didn't mean to stab him. He just seemed to stagger into the knife.

"When he staggered back I dropped the knife, I don't remember where. I thought he was still chasing me and I ran most of the way to the police station. I didn't realize what had happened."

Crown Attorney R. P. Milligan asked the youth: "couldn't you have run instead of using the knife?"

"No, I was pinned in beside the table. He said he was going to [illegible] me several times and I was [illegible] he would. I thought he was crazy".

Believe Brown Rats Entered Senneterre On Freight Cars

Val D'Or, Que., June 2 (CP)—Residents of the nearby town of Senneterre were warned to keep a close eye on their children today following a report that the area is swarming with hungry brown rats.

The rats, reported to Val D'Or Chamber of Commerce by J. C. Pepin, a neighboring townsman, are believed to have come into the area on freight cars.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, June 2 (CP)—Synopsis: More rain is in prospect for Southern Ontario. Thickening clouds 'over the mid-western states will advance across the province today, bringing showers and scattered thundershowers with likelihood of a more general rain developing in central and southern Ontario tonight.

Cooler air accompanied by gradual clearing will advance across the northwestern sections Saturday morning and cover the entire province by evening.

Stream of Lava Two Miles Wide Flows Into Ocean From Mauna Loa

Honolulu, June 2—(AP)—Mauna Loa, the world's most active volcano, erupted Thursday night after 18 months of uneasy quiet.

The civil air patrol said a river of red-hot lava poured into the ocean on the Kona cost of Hawaii Island near Honaunau village. This is about 20 miles from the volcano summit.

There were no immediate reports of damage.

Hilo, Hawaii police reported by radio that the river of boiling lava hissed into the ocean about 3½ hours after the eruption.

This would cut off telephone communication between Hilo and the Kona, or Southwest, Coast, Honolulu police said.

A Pan-American pilot said Mauna Loa shot a smoke cloud 30,000 feet up.

"It looked like an atomic explosion mushroom," said Gilbert B. Blackmore. "We could hear pieces of what was probably ash hitting against the plane.

Blackmore said the main lava flow was two miles wide.

The air patrol quoted Sherwood Greenwell, rancher at Kealakekua 5,000 feet up Mauna Loa's slope, as saying the volcano erupted in three places. Lava and gas spewed out at the 7,000, 10,000 and 12,000 foot levels, Greenwell reported.

The massive volcano rises 30,000 feet from the ocean floor and towers 13,680 feet above sea level. For the last 150 years, it has erupted on an average every 3½ years.

The last eruption was in January, 1949.

REPORT OF PLOT TO ASSASSINATE MACARTHUR FAKE

No Extra Guards Assigned to General

Tokyo, June 2—(AP) — Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby said tonight ocupation headquarters had received Japanese reports of another plot to assassinate Gen. MacArthur, supreme allied commander in Japan, but he called them "an absolute fake."

MacArthur's intelligence officer, said an "excitable" Japanese policeman had informed occupation headquarters that police had arrested a Japanese Thursday who "apparently was a paranoic"—a man who thinks the world is against him.

Headquarters "refuses to accept this story as evidence of a plot," Willoughby said. He added that no extra guards have been assigned to MacArthur.

Another American source said the alleged plot as told to occupation headquarters was this:

An unidentified Tokyo organization, reported to be left-wing, planned to kill MacArthur near downtown Hibaya Park, not far from headquarters.

Postponed Until June 4

The date originally was set for May 14 or 15 but was postponed until June 4 to coincide with the Upper House of parliament elections.

The man arrested supposedly was involved in the plan but it was not clear whether he was to be the assassin. There was no information concerning the organization ana no details as to how the killing was to be done.

MacArthur rides past a section of Hibaya Park four times daily in commuting between his office and his American Embassy home. He continued his regular schedule today.

At least two assassination plots against MacArthur have been reported during the occupation. One involved an elderly insane Japanese who rushed at the General with a wooden sword and scabbard which was found to contain a petition for sending his son to an American school.

The second, a reported plot of a secret organization, failed to materialize.

Marked Gasoline Found in Cars Says Detective

Hamilton, June 2 —(CP) — Wholesale theft of gasoline from the Hamilton Street Railway by a number of employees was disclosed today when six men pleaded guilty to theft charges. A seventh man requested a remand until June 9.

Police who investigated the complaint from officials of the company that gasoline was disappearing from the railways garage gave the Crown evidence.

Detective Clifford Dean said a marker was put in the gas used by the company for city buses. Thursday night the police visited the garage and tested the gas in all private cars on the premises. A quantity of 'marked' gas was found in several employees' cars.

New Foreign Aid Arms Plan Urged on U.S. by Acheson

Washington, June 2 — (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson today urged Congress to approve a new $1,222,500,000 foreign arms aid program to help free peoples protect themselves against "those who would enslave them."

Acheson said the United States must continue its military assistance to Western Europe in order to preserve the North Atlantic area from aggression.

He said the western, anti-communist coalition already has made great progress in economic and political co-operation and in defence preparations.

Forceful Action Needed

But, the secretary said sharply: "If any one of us let down, or slacken our efforts, the result could well be disaster. Only by forceful, concerted action along the lines which have been initiated can the countries which practice democracy preserve democracy."

Acheson's prepared testimony was presented to a joint session of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committee.

It followed by a day President Truman's message asking Congress for the new funds to keep flowing the $1,314,010,000 of American munitions already being sent abroad in this fiscal year. The new money would provide arms aid for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Acheson reported to Congress members personally Wednesday on his recent diplomatic talks in London.

The secretary reminded the two committees that he had reviewed in that appearance "the very significant progress" being made by the 12 North Atlantic treaty members, including the United States, toward "making the treaty a working instrument" for peace.

Acheson said in his prepared testimony today:

"Much, of course, remains to be done. Further progress will continue to depend on the unslackened effort of all 12 partners. It is perfectly clear, however, that if the treaty members are to be able to preserve the North Atlantic area from aggression, the United States must continue with its military aid to those countries.

He said that by unifying their seperate strengths, the Allies "can preserve the peace by confronting a potential aggressor with conditions under which resort to war would be clearly disadvantageous."

On the whole, Acheson said the efforts of the Europeans to build up their might "are encouraging."

"There is a new spirit in being" he said, "which is characterized by the conviction that the defence of the Atlantic area is a real and attainable objective. In spite of the continued importance of pursuing the task of economic recovery. . . Our European partners are progressively devoting more funds to their defence budgets."

Couple Failed to Register in UK Husband Dies of Neglect, Wife Keeps Body in Room 6 Weeks

Norwich, Norfolk, England, June 2 (CP) — A 66-year-old widow who neglected her 72-year-old husband and then kept his body in a darkened room for six weeks after he died of malnutrition, today was committed to an institution.

Mrs. Rose Ellen Register, said to have been afraid to call a doctor because she failed to register under Britain's National Health service, was bound over on a charge of manslaughter on condition she went to the institution.

Police found the emaciated body of her husband on a mattress on the floor of the room. The shades were drawn and windows and door tightly shut. There was both food and money in the house.

Pressed by the court for an explanation of the woman's conduct, her counsel said neither Mrs. Register nor her husband was enrolled in the National Health Program, and had not paid the prescribed fees. Because of the omission, he added, she feared calling a doctor for her husband because of possible punishment.

Pretoria, South Africa, June 2. (Reuters) — Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts, ill here with pneumonia, was reported today to have had "a better night".

An official medical bulletin said his condition still was "unchanged". The former South African Prime Minister recently observed his 80th birthday.

A bulletin Thursday said the statesman's heart showed "some signs of embarrassment." And a leading South African specialist, Dr. Frank Forman, flew 1,000 miles from Capetown to his bedside.

Smut's daughter, Mrs. Irene Nabcraft Clark, arrived Thursday night by air from London.

Barbecue Likely If No One Buys 26 White Deer

Gloucester, England, June 2—(Reuters) — Unless someone wants to buy a herd of 26 white deer there is going to be a giant barbecue of roast venison at Brockhampton Park, Gloucestershire, this summer.

Maj. C. E. Cannon, who acquired the herd when he bought the Cotswold Country Club and its 63 acres of parkland last November, has advertised the sale of the herd in a New York newspaper.

He say's he will accept "any reasonable offer" for the whole herd because he cannot afford to maintain the 10-foot-high stone wall around the park to keep the herd in.

Cannon has tried to sell his herd in Britain, but no private collector here wants more than a pair and the London Zoo has no room for a herd.

Thames Bargemen Rail Workers Out on Strike

London, June 2 — (Reuters)—Strikes by Thames bargemen and railroad workers today threatened food cargoes in the port of London and paraylsis of movement of goods to the continent.

More than 550 lightermen who man river barges were on strike because 91 bargemen had been fired after striking in sympathy with 14 men suspended for refusing to work overtime.

About 460 of the 4,000 lightermen in the port stopped work Thursday, tying up numbers of small craft and delaying unloading of cargoes from freighters anchored in mid-stream.

Fears were expressed that the lightermen's dispute might herald another widespread stoppage in the port, where a government-appointed mission has only just begun an investigation into the big dockers' strikes of last summer and earlier this year.

South of the Thames at one of London's biggest rail depots, 250 cartage workers this morning decided to continue their two-day strike in protest against the promotion of a foreman to an inspector and to call on 1,750 other workers to support them.

The depot is the main rail centre from which goods are sent to the continent and the three southern counties of Kent, Sussex and Hampshire.

LOT OF DOLLARS SPENT DURING DAY'S SITTING

Natural Resources Estimates Debated

Ottawa, June 2 — (CP)—The Commons got down to ducks, dams and a lot of dollars Thursday.

It was the first day of a three-sittings-a-day prorogation drive unofficially aimed at June 30. Almost everything in the broad scale of Canada's natural resources was touched as the House went through the estimates of Resources Minister Winters.

The House got a lot of work done in the process. Departmental estimates totalling almost $18,-00,000 were passed. Discussion ranged from national parks to Labrador Eskimos.

When a halt was called for the night they were near the end of the Resources Department estimates totalling some $26,000,000. But controversial items such as the Trans-Canada highway, emergency shelter housing and the National Film Board were still untouched.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, urged during the long day which began at 11 a.m., and ended at 11 p. m., that the government bring down legislation to provide more scope in dealing with national emergencies, such as the Manitoba floods which he termed the greatest disaster ever to hit Canada.

Most of the time Resources Minister Winters was engaged answering questions and assuring members he would do his best to preserve and develop parks in their areas.

No Decision Reached

At the morning House opening, Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced the signing of a joint Federal - Provincial agreement covering irrigation projects on the St. Mary's River in Alberta.

Two are Rescued As Mudcat Tractor Founders in Squall

Morris, Man., June 2—A sailor and a soldier were rescued when their amphibious "Mudcat" tractor foundered in a squall and sank.

The two —Tpr. Ray Elliott and seaman Red Styles, were crossing the Morris River to pick up livestock feed when a three-foot wave swamped their craft.

They were part of a navy clean-up force working in this flooded town, 41 miles south of Winnipeg, to keep the Red River from doing further damage.

Elliott and Styles were pulled aboard an amphibious duck. The "Mudcat" was to be salvaged today.

Title of Nobility in Germany About as Useful as Punched Ticket

B RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

Frankfurt, June 2 (AP)—A title of nobility in Germany today is about as useful as a punched meal ticket.

This used to be a land of pomp and circumtances. The pomp is gone and circumstances are tough.

A prince or a duke or a count used to eat pretty high on the hog. Nowadays most of them are content with the hocks—if and when.

The war and the hard times which followed put the nobility business on the skids. It has been going downhill ever since.

Some of the old nobility seems to be doing all right. It's a safe bet, though, that most of them would just as soon be plain Gus Schmidt with a steady job.

Take the case of Oscar Von Hindenburg, son of Paul Von Hindenburg, once Reich president.

Oscar is 67 years old now and he makes his living in a small village near Lueneberg, British zone, by doing odd jobs. These include hauling coal and potatoes.

It is reported that Prince Alexander Ferinand Von Preussen, a grandson of Wilhelm II, makes his living selling textiles and folding beds.

They say Duke Earl Alexander Von Wuerttemberg has entered a cloister near Beuron on the U.S. zone, and now is known only as "Brother Odo."

Many of the old nobles don't care to talk about themselves or their friends. They feel the less said the better.

Prince Otto Von Bismark, grandson of the "iron chancellor" now is living on his small estate. He apparently has sufficient funds from an inheritance to keep him comfortably.

A brother, Count Herbert Von Bismark, has interested himself in refugee problems and now devotes much of his time to helping refugees. In the hard days of 1945-46 Count Herbert laid aside his title, picked up an ax, and earned his living chopping wood.

Crown Prince Ruprecht Von Bayern, 80, lives in relative comfort in his Bavarian castle. It was reported that he recently contributed money from birthday presents to build small homes near his castle.

It is tougher for people like Count George Von Bassewitz-Behr. He was police chief of Hamburg. In 1947 he was tried for alleged war crimes and acquitted. Then the Russians extradited him. He has not been heard from since.

Three Gold Bars Valued at $75,000 Stolen at Delnite

Precious Metal is Carried Away With Small Safe

Timmins, Ont., June 2 — (CP) — Three gold bars, weighing nearly 2,000 ounces altogether and with a total value of approximately $75,000, were stolen Thursday night from the Delnite Mine five miles south of here.

Inspector I. R. Robbie of the Ontario Provincial Police described the robbery as the largest theft of pure gold in the history of the Porcupine goldfield.

(In Toronto, top officials of the Provincial Police assigned Inspector H. H. Graham of the Criminal Investigation branch to the investigation. Inspector Graham left Toronto by Trans-Canada Air Lines plane at 11.10 a.m. and was expected to reach Timmins about 2.30 p.m. EDT.)

Provincial Police said the robbery was reported by J. J. Mangan, officer manager at the mine.

Robbery Discovered at 7.30 a.m.

Mangan found at 7.30 a.m. that a walk-in vault at the mine had been entered and a small safe containing the three bars had been removed.

The thieves apparently forced open a ground-floor rear window. The small safe with the gold is out the front door, which could be opened from the inside. Police examined the gravel roadway and a lawn outside the building for tire marks.

Police arranged road blocks at strategic points on the single highway—No. 11 — through the northeastern section of northern Ontario. Blocks were established at Cochrane and Hearst to the north and northwest and toward Swastika where the road leads to the south.

A general alarm was broadcast on the provincial police short-wave radio network.

It was not clear immediately how the robbers—police are convinced more than one man was involved—obtained entry to the mine office.

The $75,000 valuation came from police. It was based on the official price of $38.50 an ounce for gold. Mining men said if the stolen gold were sold on the free market it would command a much higher price.

Single Road Through Bush

A single road through the bush leads from Timmins to the Delnite property in Deloro township.

Delnite's annual report, just issued, reports bullion output worth $1,410,083 in 1949. Its net profit was $395,256, 13.3 cents a share.

Gold is usually held in the company safe for several week, pending shipment to the mint in Ottawa.

The mine property is several miles from the outskirts of Timmins. A skelton crew is kept at the workings at all times and several company executives live on the mine property.

All-Out War Against Gambling Will be Waged

Toronto, June 2—(CP)—An all-out war against gambling and other organized vice in Toronto will be waged by Ontario provincial police and Toronto city police.

Premier Frost, in making this announcement Thursday, said the fight against the rackets would extend to the whole province if necessary and every municipality with its own police force will be offered provincial police aid.

Details and strategy for the campaign against Toronto rackets will be worked out in strict secrecy, the premier said.

His announcement came after a conference with Mayor Hiram McCallum, Chief Constable John Chisholm of Toronto, members of the Toronto Police Commission, the Anti-gambling Squad of the Ontario Provincial Police, Attorney General Porter and Provincial Secretary Welsh.

The conference was called after three days of disclosures regarding gambling in Toronto. They started Tuesday when Mayor McCallum said at least six gambling syndicates were operating in Toronto and that there were more than 2,000 places where bets could be placed.

Following the conference, Premier Frost made his brief announcement to the press.

"We have made arrangements for a very close integration of effort between the two police forces. It means that the majority of law enforcement agencies in the province — an enormous police force—will be brought against the gamblers."

Sits Weeping in His Small Car, Doesn't Try to Hide Broken Bottle

He sat in his small car outside a down town office building.

Tears trickled down his face. Disappointment was registered in his general attitude.

In front of the car lay the smashed remains of a bottle. Liquid trickled in small streams between pieces of broken glass.

Passersby paused, looked, smiled and went on their way. Two or three compassionate souls stopped to offer their condolences.

But he never said a word. He pointed to the smashed bottle several times, but he could not express his chagrin and sorrow.

He made no effort to get out of the car and hide the remains of the wrecked bottle.

He was definitely heart-broken and after a while he began to cry unashamedly.

After all, what could you expect a six-month-old baby boy to do, who had just dropped his bottle of formula from his baby carriage.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 2 — (CP) — Penny mining stocks traded briskly for moderate gains in an otherwise weaker market on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. A handful of low-priced golds accounted for a large share of the heavy volume.

Aquarius Mines, Porcupine Peninsular, Buffalo Canadian, Omega and Mosher Long Lac were among leaders in low-priced golds. Senior and junior producers slipped in continuation of Thursday's losses.

The three-day advance in industrials into new high price ground received a setback today. Profit-taking in market leaders depressed the list. Papers, leaders on the upturn, were lower and liquors, constructions and a few steels eased. Utilities pointed higher.

Base metals eased with International Nickel, Smelters and Noranda down fractions.

T.D. Ruston Visits Children's Homes In Great Britain

Mr. Tom Ruston, former superintendent of the Children's Aid Society here and at present holidaying in England, took time out to visit some of the scenes and places he knew before coming to Canada.

The Shipley Guardian (Yorkshire) quotes Mr. Ruston and his nephew Mr. John Simpson as visiting institutions in that part of England.

"During Monday morning" the Guardian says, "Mr Ruston and his nephew accompanied by Councillor Mrs. Wilcock visited Otley Court Children's Home, and Farfield, Addingham."

"Mr. Ruston," the paper relates, "was most impressed by the beautiful surroundings. The County Council had bought a country residence and turned it into a children's home. 'It is much more of a home that our places in Canada' said Mr. Ruston. The surroundings are beautiful and the rooms and furnishings ideal."

"We have nothing like this in Canada," he said referring to the Farfield home. "There we build a new building and it has not the same atmosphere. However, we in Canada can beat you on kitchen arrangements."

POLICE COURT

Convicted on 6th offence drunk charge as well as on a charge of doing wilful damage, Francis Nafin, Dundas Street, was sentenced to four months in the county jail when he appeared today before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Nafin was given four months on the drunk charge and one month concurrent sentence on the wilful damage charge. Police told the court that Nafin had smashed a glass in the door of a beverage room at a local hotel.

Francis Donahue, a frequent offender of the LCA was given four months in jail on a third offence drunk charge.

Other cases before the magistrate at the morning court session included offences against the local traffic by-laws, including parking and failure to stop at "stop" streets.

POLICE BLOTTER

A five-year-old girl escaped injury Thursday afternoon when she was knocked to the pavement by an auto on West Bridge Street. The little girl, whose name was given as Marie Annette Gardiner, claimed that she was unhurt.

Local police apprehended Clifford Aitkens on a false pretences charge. The man was arrested on a warrant from Kitchener police and will be held awaiting escort back to that city.

PAKISTAN AND CANADA

Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan, a nation of great importance as a part of historic India, has been in Ottawa during the past week. His visit like the visit of the head of any people in this day is of the greatest importance, especially oecause of the close relations which have existed between India and Britain and all the Commonwealth nations. He comes from a country of the greatest importance on account of its strategic position in Asia. Pakistan became independent in 1948.

The visiting Prime Minister can point to the fact that last year Canada bought only $1,306,000 worth of the products of Pakistan which bought $7,775,262 worth, thirteen times as much as Canada bought from his country. In 1949 the spread was even more marked, Pakistan's exports to the Dominion soaring to $18,096,811 while Canada bought only $1,200,000. This ration is continuing in 1950 as figures for the first three months indicate, the figures being, from Pakistan to Canada nearly $3,350,000 in goods while from Pakistan Canada imported less than $250,000. So Pakistan is buying thirteen times as much goods as she is selling to Canada.

At this time Pakistan is showing at the International Trade Fair in Toronto and Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan visited the exhibition himself on Friday.

It is the hope of the two nations that there will result a trade treaty which will narrow the gap.

Pakistan has bought from Canada in the past year defence equipment, stores, vehicles and clothing to the amount of over fifteen million dollars, ships, $630,000, newsprint $160,586; clocks and parts $52,788; plows and parts $32,880; and films, $13,164. On the other hand Canada's purchases in Pakistan are jute, black tea, wool and cotton.

The attraction of trade and the goodwill between the two peoples are shown in the fact that Canada has been invited to take part in the Trade Fair at Karachi from September 1 to October 10.

TEN YEARS AFTER DUNKIRK

Already ten years have passed of that immortality of time during which the great deeds done at Dunkirk will be remembered among the greatest events of world history. To that miracle free men of the world thousands of years hence will look back and pay their tribute to the gallant men who in 1940 performed what many feared would be impossible but which was not impossible when fired by the spirit of the men who defended the liberty of mankind at that time.

The days before Dunkirk were full of anxiety for the free world and days which to the enemy looked just as if they were achieving one of those feats which would assure the Nazis such a victory as would go far to lead to a Hitlerite victory.

But at Dunkirk was to be won a victory which not only cleared the path leading to the victory of the Allied arms against the aggressors, but has made it possible for freedom to be maintained down the long centuries ahead for the good of mankind.

The removal of 330,000 troops from Dunkirk in the face of the foe while Germany was waiting for the news of a Hun triumph, was accomplished. Doughty Britain who had won many victories now won a victory the like of which the world had never seen, one that will go down the ages as long as men and women admire courage and love of country.

Dunkirk was a blow from which the enemy could never recover, it was a triumph in the face of what seemed to the enemy the guarantee of victory.

The moral effect on the world of the successful evacuation was at once felt. It meant hope for nations that looked with fear upon what might come, it was a great step towards the final goal — the downfall of tyranny.

Though Britain lost a vast amount of equipment and supplies the physical and moral victory over the Hitlerites achieved on the beaches of Dunkirk inspired the free world with hope and courage.

PAVEMENT PAINTING

Money spent on painting traffic lines on pavements is well spent. It is a precaution against accidents.

Even though motorists know where the centre of a street is, it is a reminder when a painted strip is there to emphasize it. Many who otherwise would have no hesitation about swinging over to the wrong side of the road will hesitate when they see a line warning them not to cross.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

(Copyright, 1950, Edgar A. Guest)

JUDGE WHO WOULDN'T JUDGE

They give their children loving care,
Good neighbors all are they.
Not one of them herself will spare,
Ask duty what it may.
I should have known I should refuse,
Before the time drew near,
So hard a task when asked to choose
The mother of the year.

They all obey the golden rule,
To cheer the sick they call,
And weekly both to church and school
They take their children small.
The one who wins and those who lose,
At heart, alike appear.
I cannot find the way to choose
The mother of the year.

Their homes with love and laughter glow,
By friends they're all adored.
They cook, they sweep, they nightly sew,
They love and serve the Lord.
And so, as one of judges three,
To keep my conscience clear,
I voted every one to be
The mother of the year.

Mr. Bob Chadwick motored to Toronto today to spend the weekend.

30 YEARS AGO

June 2nd., 1920.

The Grand Trunk Railway Company is willing to remove the tracks on Pinnacle Street from the side to the centre of the road, if given a bond of indemnity against damages through increase of hazard or property damage caused by moving the rails.

Last night the planking on the lower bridge caught fire, but was discovered before much damage was done.

Mrs. J. R. Bucke of Sarnia, formerly of Belleville, has returned here to reside.

Mr. John Elliott is attending the convocation in connection with Toronto University.

June 2nd., 1910.

We are told that it will probably be next week before the footbridge will be open to the public. Even in its present state of repair a few adventurous persons wend their way across it. Those who are used to walking on scaffolding find no trouble in getting over on a few planks, but others who are more at home on terra firma, make one trip across and then decide it would be better to use the other bridges, until the footbridge is repaired and safe to cross. The bridge is a great convenience; however, we are told by old timers that there was great opposition to it being built in the first place.

The steamer Brockville took a large excursion from here to Trenton today.

The schooners New Dominion and Freeman are in the harbor with cargoes of coal.

Mr. M. J. Hendrick, United States Consul here, and Mr. Cameron Brown of the Belleville Daily Sun, spent yesterday in Toronto.

Mr. M. Bird of Stirling was in town today.

Thirty four years ago tomorrow nearly 400 of Belleville and vicinity's bravest sons left here for the St. Lawrence frontier to repel attacks of the Fenians.

Mr. H. Corby, M.P., took a party of friends to Picton today on his handsome steam yacht the Skylark.

SILENT FRIENDS

An English author, Richard King, many years ago, sent me his little book, called "With Silent Friends." It was a collection of interesting essays upon everyday topics — an inspiring little book — but his preface was most interesting to me for he spoke of the large number of "silent" friends that his book had brought to him.

Said this writer: "My book has given me friends in all parts of the world — and for this friendship I am, and shall always be, eternally grateful." Every writer, or author, always feels this way. He never knows where his words are liable to fall. Only this week a gentleman called at my office, from Lima, Peru, to tell me of the inspiration gained from my first little book, "You Can." This gentleman had purchased it somewhere over twenty - five years ago!

Every time I go into my library I feel I am in the presence of hundreds of silent friends. Books once were men and women and in their books they live on. They are our silent friends, to whom we may talk at any hour of the day or night. They can entertain, instruct, inspire, and comfort us, and meet us in any mood.

When we read a helpful book, we are, for the time being, taken out of ourselves, conducted into many a strange land, given new viewpoints, and enriched both mentally and spiritually. That's the use of books. And besides we have those silent friends, who have given to us much pleasure and profit to think about long afterwards.

It is sad to miss from life so many of those whom we have loved and known, for we ourselves die a little each time a beloved one leaves. But silently they still live within us, and their memory is precious to us. As W. H. Hudson has so beautifully expressed it, "the world is just as beautiful as it ever was, and our dead as much to us as they have ever been, even when faith was at its highest."

How can we complain with so many silent friends at our beck and call, friends who are still of us a part, though eternally hidden in shadow.

TRANSPORT COPTERS

Toronto, June 1—(CP)— One large aircraft will carry three small ones when three U.S.-made helicopters, distributed from Toronto, will be transported to Alaska in a C-46 transport. The big ship leaves Oshawa airport this weekend to take the 'copters for service in the Yukon and along the Alaska Highway.

NAVAL DEMONSTRATION

Halifax, May 31 — (CP) — A spectacular naval demonstration off this port Tuesday took the Canadian-United States defence board away from paper work and one of the joint chairmen—Canada's Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton — said he was grealy impressed by the anti submarine wallop packed by the Canadian Navy's Atlantic squadron.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

PETER PANIC

Every now and infrequently, as some of you may remember, I send a bottle of champagne and a pound of Romanoff caviar to the actor or actress who comes up with a performance which hits me where I thrill.

Well, as of immediately, an old family retainer (he retains about a quart of my Scotch a week) is tying several yards of red grosgrain around a package of fizz and fish eggs, and before moonrise tonight it will be delivered to Miss Jean Arthur whose performance as Peter Pan at the Imperial Theatre strikes me as the most titillating and triumphant acting job this season.

Miss Arthur, according to "Who's Who," was born—sssh!—42 years ago, but for three hours last night I watched her impersonate a 12-year-old and it never once occurred to me that she was a day over 12. What's more, I was convinced I was only 12 and would continue being just that as long as she remained on stage.

But enough of this purple prose. Let's see if I can't shake the stars out of my eyes and one-two-three my reasons for picking Jeanie-with-the-Light-Green-Tights as Miss Buskins of 1950.

To begin with, it's a fair-to-middlin' miracle that the movie star got to do the play at all, even though, as I get the story, she has been wanting to appear in it for a long time and in Hollywood often posed for fan photos in a Peter Pan outfit.

A couple of years ago, at an age when most actresses begin to tear up their birth certificates and demand soft lights, Jean walked out on her movie career and enrolled in Stevens College in Missouri to study the things she'd never had time for as a hard-working glamourpuss. On the faculty at Stevens, as it turned out, was a once-great lady of the theatre named Maude Adams who for many years had been the classic exponent of—you guessed it—the Peter Pan role, and though Jean tells me she never discussed the Barrie play with her, it's my hunch that being on the same campus must have put a fine edge on her long-standing appetite for the part.

Last year when ex-newspaperman Peter Lawrence decided to revive "Peter Pan" he ran into plenty of casting trouble, and was about ready to chuck the project when he happened to come across an old movie magazine shot of Jean in a Peter Pan costume. The rest, as the squealing kids and parents who pack the Imperial these nights can tell you, is history.

I didn't know anything about this background story when I saw the show, but what belted me where I breathe was the amperage that crackled all over the theatre the moment La Arthur put in an appearance. When she flew in through the window — here comes that purple prose again—it was the greatest display of aeronautics since Kitty Hawk, and when she came downstage in Act Two and asked the audience ot applaud if it believed in fairies, the heat generated by 2,800 thumping hands darn near set the sprinkler system going. From curtain to climax, her performance was out of this adult world—as heartening as sunlight, authoritative as thunder and right as rain.

Well, now that I've shaken the exclamation points out of my pen, I'd better sign off and check on whether the package with the pretty ribbon is ready to be delivered to Miss Arthur's dressing room. n case you haven't guessed, I intend to send it over by special messenger—myself.

MacKenzie's Column:

U.S. Will Vote Against Seating Chinese Reds

By SIGRID ARNE

(Associated Press News Analyst)
(For Dewitt Mackenzie)

The question of whether the 400,000,000 people of China will be represented in the United Nations by Communists or by the Nationalist Government is going to cut a lot of different ways.

It looks now as if the decision may be taken this month in the U.N. Security Council. But it could be put off to the Assembly in September.

Whatever the date, here's the position the United States will take:

Will vote against seating the Chinese Communists. But it will not use the veto.

However, the U.S. will have to fight, inside the Security Council, for the kind of vote in which a veto cannot be used.

This is the first time the U.N. has been asked to decide this kind of issue.

China is granted a permanent seat, as a major power on the United Nations Council. The issue to be decided now will be what group of politicals represents her in the U.N.

On this ground the U.S. will ask the Security Council to consider the issue as merely a sort of family decision, inside the council; as such, the vote would have to be only a majority vote —seven among 11. No veto could be cast.

Moral Issues Involved

But there are plenty of U.S. officials who are concerned by the moral issues involved on that sort of vote.

When the U.N. votes to take in new members a veto can be cast, and Russia has cast several. She has barred, so far, membership for Italy, the Republic of Ireland and Switzerland, among others.

These European countries are all governed by groups who were put into power by majority votes in the elections. On the other hand, the Chinese Reds control their country by force of arms.

Plenty of European governments have been willing to recognize such an accomplished fact. But the U.S. traditionally has held off recognition until it felt convinced that a government was moving in the direction that most of the people wanted.

For example the U.S. still refuses to recognize that the Russians have gobbled up three Baltic States, Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia. All three still have diplomatic representatives in Washington.

Two Tillsonburg Youths Killed In Plane Crash

Tillsonburg, June 2 — (CP) — Two Tillsonburg youths were instantly killed Thursday in the crash of a light airplane near the Tillsonburg airport, 30 miles east of London.

Victims were Bob Laur, 19, believed one of the youngest licensed air pilots in Canada, and Dalton Murr, 18.

The plane, a Tiger-moth owned by Laur, crashed on a farm a mile north of the Tillsonburg airport.

Laur, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Laur, had been practising in preparation for dusting tobacco crops from the air and was flying low.

Clarence Trout, working at the airport, said he saw the plane "and I thought they were going to crash, they were flying so low." He said the motor seemed to be running smoothly but that the plane dropped suddenly.

Glen and Earl Prout, on whose farm the plane crashed, said they saw the plane but because of the wind direction they could not hear whether the engine was operating normally.

Strength for the Day

RESISTING EVIL

Moral breakdowns for the most part occur when people allow themselves to become careless regarding little moral safeguards. They count of infinite value things that are shoddy and coarse. They respond to ambition which appears to be leading them into a fine future, and they find at last that it involves compromise and eventlally ruin. They laugh at the appeal of some passion and jauntily allow themselves some little measure of indulgence, and the day comes when they experience the blight of an addiction.

We are told that our bodies frequently harbor very deadly germs. But these germs never do us any harm until we get into a rundown condition and are unable to resist them. When resistance becomes low, they get us. It is the same in moral matters. They are temptations all about us, and any one of them, if they pounce down upon us, could destroy us. But they dare not pounce down upon us if our moral resistance is strong. They wait, as the deadly germ does, until our resistance is low. Bad company, evil thoughts, and trifling little indulgences are the most certain factors by which our spiritual resistance is lowered.

Filled with the Spirit of God, we can resist anything; filled with the spirit of the world, we fall victim of all the world's moral undoing.

MAGIC MEDICINE FROM NEVER-NEVER-LAND

3. Active and Passive Heat

If anyone immediately after undressing proceeds to the more violent movements before he has softened the whole body and thinned the excretions and opened the pores, (wrote Galen 1700 years ago) he incurs the danger of breaking or staining some of the solid parts, but if beforehand you gradually warm and soften the solids and thin the fluids and expand the pores, the person exercising will run no danger of breaking any part.

We can pardon Galen for his notion of "pores"—but not you ninnyhammers who sound off about closed or open pores today. A pore is an opening or orifice through which something is or can be absorbed. Nothing of the sort in the human skin. The skin, if unbroken, never absorbs anything.

Galen's advice to athletes or others who engage in vigorous or violent exertion of any kind is still sound. It is the way of all physical trainers. It prevents "charleyhorse"—rupture of muscle fibres by sudden violent contraction of the cold muscle. It is one reason why all baseball pitchers "warm up" before going to the mound. Also why athletes require a period of moderate exercise before any race or contest. The other reason for "warming up" is of course, to get the circulation, respiration, oxidation process, metabolism into the state of great efficiency.

Immediately following a period of hard muscular work or play it is advisable to put on sweater or other clothing, avoid wind or cool draft and take only a warm bath if any. Then, after a rest of an hour or so, either lying down and napping, or sitting or moving or strolling idly about, it is advisable to go for a brisk walk of a mile or two or take some other moderate general exercise. This should be repeated several hours later. All of this is the best way to prevent muscle soreness or lameness or stiffness from developing the day after the game, race or contest.

Please knuckleheads, do not show your ignorance by ascribing the development of such muscle soreness as "catching cold." There is no illness involved and no particular danger of any. Not even rheumatism, if you have any quaint fancies about that.

Whether the athlete sweats much or little is of no particular importance so far as preventing muscle soreness after exertion.

Such soreness or other unpleasant consequence does not occur from careless or deliberate quick cooling after one has become overheated artificially, say from a hot air bath or from confinement in overheated room or from exposure to extremely warm weather. Abrupt cessation of sweating in such circumstances is perfectly harmless. Nothing in the sweat but salt and water—nothing of any special significance. No overproduction of combustion products in muscle tissues to be removed through circulation. Therefore not the slightest danger attends quick cooling of the body after passive overheating, if one finds quick cooling refreshing or comfortable.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Phony "Doctor"

Amused by your talk about raw eggs. It may come as a surprise to you, but Dr. ——— had told us that since the coming of the X-ray we do know that the white of egg taken raw cannot be digested, so... (M. W. R.)

Answer—Nothing the phony "doctor" tells his credulous prospects would astonish me. Raw egg white is not so completely digested as cooked egg white, but it is digestible enough if you prefer raw egg to cooked.

Phlebitis

Never any mention of phlebitis in your column. Please write something about this horrible malady. (Mrs. M. C.)

Answer — I have carefully avoided mentioning it. Why frighten people needlessly. Phlebitis means inflammation of a vein. It occure in any case of varicose vein where a leg ulcer develops. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet Varicose Vein and Varicose Ulcer.

Hay Fever

Is it true that hay fever is not contagious? My husband has a severe case of it and I don't know whether it is safe to let the children go too close to him. (P C. J.)

Answer—No, it is not communicable. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet on Hay Fever.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

There is only the one way properly to realize you are getting a little old. And that is to meet somebody you have not seen for years and who was young when you were young.

Your wife and your familiar friends can grow older with you, and you are entirely unaware of what is happening to them and to you. The change is so gradual, it is imperceptible. The inside of people stays young. Oh, it is true you don't feel like going downtown for a Chinese dinner as often as you used to. But that is perhaps because the novelty is wearing off. True, you find yourself evading certain physical exercise you used not to mind; but that is because you find yourself developing a humorous toleration of laziness in yourself.

It isn't a sense of age you feel growing inside you, but a kind of sophistication. You suppose you are taking it easy, because, by golly you prefer to take it easy. At fifty, you begin to feel like a bad boy.

Then comes this meeting with somebody you knew long ago, and haven't seen in years. What on earth has happened to the poor guy? He is a heck of a sight. The remembered features of his face have caved in. He seems withered as by some loathsome disease. His hair is grey. His shoulders have thickened and humped. He grins at you with almost a ghoulish familiarity.

It is at this moment, when you are on the point of taking offence at the sight of a man so gone to pot, that the shocking realization comes that he is your year-mate. In his eyes, you can detect the same flicker of revulsion you are trying to conceal in yours.

But in most of us, the bad boy within is soon after able to think up some quick alibi. The inside stays young, despite such encounters.

Money Spent on War Preparations Should be Used for Education Speaker Tells Trenton Audience

Trenton—(Special)—Money that should be spent on education and building schools in towns like Trenton is being spent on preparation for war, declared Mrs. W. W. Marjoribanks, vice president of the Toronto Branch of the United Nations Association in Canada.

Mrs. Marjoribanks was guest speaker at the second annual parents' night sponsored by the Dufferin Home and School Association held at Dufferin Public School Wednesday evening. Mrs. Marjoribanks who has recently returned from visiting the United Nations General Assembly at Lake Success, spoke on her impressions of the UN.

Good Education Essential

If war came tomorrow, billions would be found for war. That is why we should keep on urging your school board and the Department of Education to build a better school." It is your duty to make sure your children receive the best possible education in order that they may acquire an enlightened international outlook which is essential if we are to avoid another war, said Mrs. Marjoribanks. (Earlier in the evening, W. G. Spencer, principal of Trenton High School, had deplored the crowded conditions existing at his school.)

Mrs. Marjoribanks is a member of the World Understanding Com. of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations and is also active in such organizations as the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Women's electors and Toronto World Federalists.

Urging support for the UN, Mrs. Marjoribanks told her audience, "This work for peace is more important than any other. Every part of Home and School Association programs depends on peace."

Denies UN Failure

Rather than scrap the UN because Russia has reduced its effectiveness and crippled the Security Council by using the veto indiscriminately, Mrs. Marjoribanks pointed out that a far more sensible solution would be to strengthen the Security Council by abolishing the veto.

"Those who claim the UN is a failure, are basing their judgment on the work of the Security Council. They should examine the specialized agencies," the speaker continued as she outlined the achievements of such organizations as UNESCO, WHO, FAO and UNICEF.

Instead of replacing the UN with a world federal government "with power to make laws and enforce them," Mrs. Marjoribanks believes that this end can be accomplished within the present structure of the UN.

Vishinsky Can Laugh

One of the surprises Mrs. Marjoribanks experienced during her visit was "that Vishinsky can laugh", as she observed the explosive Russian diplomat chatting with other delegates in the UN lounge.

Describing the UN Assembly as "an international safety valve where nations can let off steam, the speaker expressed the opinion that little harm was likely to result as long as "they continue to get together and talk things over."

Mrs. J. G. Minielly introduced Mrs. Marjoribanks, Sqdn. Ldr. M. G. Holdham thanked the speaker on behalf of Trenton Home and School Associations.

Crests Presented

Crests were presented to the grade eight students by Flt. Lieut. G. B. Randall. Retiring President Mrs. H. A. Langdon was presented with a gift by the Dufferin Association in appreciation of her efforts during the past year

Three Trenton Boys to Attend Scout Jamboree

Trenton—(Special)— Final arrangements for this year's Boy Scout Camp which will be held at Little Lake, Brighton, were completed at the Wednesday night meeting of the local Boy Scout Association. The meeting was held in the offices of Downs Coulter and Co. Ltd.

The local association also agreed to pay the transportation costs of three Trenton Scouts who will represent the town at he American Scout Jamboree being held in Valleyforge, Pennsylvania this summer. Mr. S. Mowbray, secretary of the local Scout association said the cost of sending the boys to the jamboree would be about $21 per boy. The association has also agreed to buy "certain necessary equipment for the boys."

The boys who were chosen to represent Trenton are: John McConnell, Paul Davis and Leroy Wannamaker.

50 Boys to Attend

It is expected that about 50 boys will attend the Little Lake camp during the period from July 1 to July 9. There will be a charge of $1 to each boy attending, the deficit being paid by the local association.

Arrangements were also made for the annual meeting to be held on September 25. The next regular meeting of the Association takes place on September 12. This will be a dinner meeting.

Wing Commander Hows, presiden of the local association was in the chair. The secretary was instructed to send a letter to District Scout Commissioner R. S. McInnis who underwent an appendicitis operation at Kingston General Hospital last Thursday.

WEDDINGS

BUSHELL—KELLY

On Saturday, May 27th., at 2 p.m., a pretty wedding was solemnized at Bridge Street United Church parsonage, Belleville, by the Rev. D. C. Amos, when Marjorie June Kelly, only daughter of Mrs. Gordon MacNeill, Belleville, R.R. 6, became the bride of Alan Laurence Bushell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Bushell, of Belleville, in a double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Arthur McNeil, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of blush pink silk crepe fashioned with sweetheart neckline, lace yoke, and peplum with matching lace. Long white gloves, large lace picture hat and white accessories completed her ensemble. She wore a corsage of cream roses.

Miss Marjorie Thompson, of Belleville, R.R. 6, was bridesmaid, wearing turquoise taffeta, featuring fitted bodice and bouffant skirt, with white accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Lee Collier, of Belleville, was groomsman.

Following the wedding ceremony, a buffet luncheon was held at the home of the bride, which was tastefully decorated with tupils, narcissi, lilacs, pink and white streamers, and pink and white wedding bells.

Mrs. MacNeill, mother of the bride, received the many guests, wearing a gown of grey silk crepe with navy accessories, and corsage of red roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Bushell, mother of the groom, who wore a patterned gown of blue silk with grey accessories, and corsage of Talisman roses.

Those who served at the luncheon were, Mrs. Elsie Cowan, of Rossmore, and Mrs. Marion Mondeville, of Belleville, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Robert Atkins, of Belleville, step-sister of the bride, assisted by Mrs. D. Atkins and Mrs. R. Sweet.

Following the reception, the happy couple left for Toronto and Niagara Falls. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Bushell will reside in Belleville.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a double strand of graduated pearls; and to the groomsman, a gold tie clip. The bride's gift to her attendant, a gold pendant.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the recipient of many lovely gifts, and honored by a miscellaneous showers given by Mrs. York Bushell, and Miss June Scriven.

Graduating Class of Nurses Receive Pins and Diplomas At Exercises in Collegiate

Last evening in the Collegiate Auditorium, which was filled with relatives, and friends, a most impressive and beautiful ceremony took place when 12 girl graduates of the Belleville General Hospital received from the hands of the Director of Nursing, Miss Dorothy Potts, and Miss Ivy Dickens, president of the Hospital Women's Auxiliary their pins and diplomas, tangible evidence of three years of intensive training in the care of the sick.

Lovely as a June garden were the sweet girl graduates in their immaculate white uniforms and black banded caps, their arms filled with sheaves of dark red roses, tied with the emblematic red satin ribbon, as they, preceded by the nurses-in-training, filed slowly to their places on the auditorium stage, with its tall, white standards and baskets of red, pink and yellow tulips, and fragrant white lilacs, and over all, the soft, sweet tones of the processional so pleasingly rendered by the organist, Mr. C. E. Templer. Mr. P. C. McGuire, chairman of the Board of Governors, presided.

Superintendent Brings Greetings

Following the invocation by the Reverend J. Goforth Hornsby and the softly intoned "Lord's Prayer," by the nurses' choir, composed of those graduating and those in training, Mr. H. W. Wakefield, superintendent of the Belleville Hospital brought greetings to the class of graduates, and to the Board of Governors, taking the place of his Worship, Mayor H. J. Allin, who was unavoidably unable to be present, after which Dr. G. H. Stobie, of the hospital medical staff, congratulated the graduates of 1950, and gave to them a most comprehensive outline of the nursing profession from its earliest inception down to the present time.

Dr. Stobie stressed that knowledge alone was unavailing, unless along with that went the ability to make use of what they had learned during the past three years. "Knowledge unused was like a bin of coal. Only when used for the furnace, did it give heat to the house." The chief aim of nursing was to comfort and alleviate the pains of the sick, and restore them to health.

Comes Long Way

Modern nursing today had come a long way from its first advent when nurses were those who had been picked up from the streets by the police and given their choice of either going to jail for ten days, or to the hospital to nurse the sick, as happened in the first hospital in North America, Bellvue Hospital, in New York. Today the training of nurses is vital; as is cleanliness which destroys disease germs. The intelligent application of scientific medicine by well trained nurses is a modern 'must'.

The nurse must have a good social background, must have at least four years of high school; be sympathetic and understanding. Modern nursing is a contemporary of modern medicine. Dr. Stobie closed his address with the words, "bring the best you have, whatever that may be, that God's work may be better carried out."

In her full and detailed report of the Hospital's activity, Miss Potts told of the outstanding achievements which had taken place during the 55 years since the hospital's founding in 1886. An eight-hour day had been instituted; the study of psychiatry, which gives a sympathetic attitude toward those who are sick, many of which benefits had been instituted during the time of her predecessor, Miss Johnson.

The activities during the year had consisted of 8,900 admissions; 1,000 out-patients were treated; 1,176 new babies born; two bursaries had been established for girls without means who desired to enter the nursing profession. These bursaries had been given by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, and by the Alumnae Association.

Extends Thanks

She extended her thanks and gratitude to the Board of Education for their co-operation; to the doctors for their lectures; to the superintendent, Mr. Wakefield, for improved facilities for the hospital. There are now X-ray rooms; a fine library; good surgical appliances; to the dietician for nourishing meals; to the maintenance staff; house-keeping staff; and to the bedside nursing graduates, and to each and all who had so nobly given of their best for the betterment of the many departments of the Belleville Hospital.

Miss Potts advice to her graduating class was, to thrill at health; the marvel of birth; to be sympathetic toward those who sorrowed; to be faithful to their trust; to hold in confidence all personal matters entrusted to them; and to devote themselves to the welfare of their patients.

At this point, Mr. Alec. Cunningham, the guest soloist, pleasingly rendered, among other selections, "I Shall Not Pass Again This Way," which was both fitting to the occasion, and lovely in sentiment.

Queen's Chaplain Heard

The guest speaker, the Reverend A. M. Laverty, Chaplain of Queen's University, Kingston, was introduced by Mr. Wakefield superintendent of the hospital. In his opening remarks, Mr. Laverty addressed the graduating class on the subject of time, stating that one cannot find time; the only time you have, is the time you make; you have all the time there is, and simply decide what you are going to do. No one can take your time, so use it for things of top priority; the only time you can count on, is now. No one can count on tomorrow.

The two things worthy for the nurse is the cultivation of the quality of integrity, for it is the highest of integrity that is required of those into whose hands we place our loved ones; when something is to be done, do it, don't leave it to "George."

The second quality that needs to be cultivated is the understanding that patients are people. Show by heart that you have understanding, for the measure of your understanding in this makes a great deal of difference to the welfare of your patient, and the third requisite is that you preserve your sense of humor. It revents you from taking yourself too seriously, from standing on your dignity, which, said Mr. Laverty, "is never lower than what you are standing on." When things get too warm, learn to tell jokes on yourself, and thus save the situation. In these three things abide the best attributes of good nursing. Mr. Laverty used several humorous stories, which brought out his remarks, making them indelible, both on the minds of the girl graduates, and of the attentive audience.

Pins, Diplomas Awarded

Following the vote of thanks to the guest speaker, by the chairman, the pins and diplomas were awarded to the following graduates: Miss Mona Bell, of Cherry Valley; Miss Lorraine Brant, of Shannonville; Miss Eleanor Freeman, of Yarker; Miss Kathleen Mills, of Colborne; Miss Margaret Lenfesty, of Ottawa; Miss Ruth Kellar, of Belleville; Miss Eleanor Newman of Belleville; Miss Jessie Findlay of Ottawa; Miss Jessie Fox, of Belleville; Miss Joyce Potts, of Marmora; Miss Velma Middleton, of Thistletown; and Miss Harriett McLean of Montreal.

Miss Lorraine Brant presented Miss Potts with a gift of appreciation on behalf of the graduating class.

Valedictory Address

The valedictory address was given by Miss Ruth Kellar, who exhibited fine oratorical ability. Miss Kellar began at the first day of hospital work, and told of the apprehension, the fearfulness of the occasion, and how frightened the 16 new nurses-to-be had been. Then came the highlights during the three years training, the time when they were juniors, the candlelight service when they received their caps; then the time of seniorship, and now the climax of all, the longed-for time when they would be graduates. She spoke of the looking-ahead time, of that untravelled world whose borders fade for ever and for ever as they approach, and of her desire never to rust out, but rather to be burnished from much use.

Following the valedictory address, Miss Lorraine Brant presented on behalf of herself and the graduating class, a gift to Miss Potts, for her great kindness and understanding in their time of preparation. Miss Potts graciously expressed her appreciation.

The presentation of , special awards brought to a close an outstanding event in the history of Belleville's General Hospital.

Gold Medalist In Nursing Course Miss Jessie Fox

Miss Jessie Fox, of Belleville, was the Gold Medalist at the Nurses' graduation exercises of Belleville General Hospital, held last evening in the Collegiate auditorium, winning the highest award for general proficiency in nursing. This was awarded by the Board of Governors, and presented by Mrs. P. C. McGuire.

The second highest award, that of the Silver Medal, was won by Miss Margaret Lenfesty, of Ottawa, for general proficiency, awarded by the Medical Staff, and presented by Dr. F. R. Ross.

Three prizes were given for the highest standing in medical, surgical and obstetrical nursing. The winner of the medical nursing was Miss Harriet McLean, of Montreal, presented by Dr. F. R. Ross; of the surgical award, Miss Jessie Findlay, of Ottawa, presented by Dr. G. H. Stobie, and of the obstetrical award for highest standing, Miss Velma Middleton, of Thistletown, and presented by Dr. R. S. Gibson. These last prizes being awarded by the Medical Staff of the hospital.

Woman's Career Gathering Lore And Folk Songs

By ROD CURRIE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Dartmouth, N.S., June 2 (CP)— A woman who makes a career out of gathering age-old folk songs and folklore says that Nova Scotia has an endless supply — probably the most fascinating in Canada.

Every summer she packs her car with tape recorder, typewriter, notebooks and pencils and goes on a "collecting" tour of fishing villages and hamlets.

She collects recordings of folksongs, ballads and dialects and also makes notes of historical interest. A number of her collections of folk stories, traditions, witch craft, legends and ghost stories have been published.

Miss Creighton's latest book "Folk Lore of Lunenberg county" was published recently.

The attractive, neatly-dressed woman says her books are designed mostly for university use and for other collectors.

The soft spoken historian, who does most of her writing sitting before a huge bay window overlooking Halifax harbor, has been awarded three Rockefeller fellowships. She used two of them to continue her studies at Indiana University, and the third assisted her in the recording aspect of her career.

Original Legends

While all the ballads published in her book were found in this province, she said that none of them originated here. They were brought to this country by early settlers. However, the province is rich with original legends.

Miss Creighton, who admits she isn't "too good a musician," says when she first started her collection she used a melodeon, and had to take the music down by hand. Since then the United States congressional library, for whom she has done a great deal of work, supplied her with a recording machine.

She now uses equipment supplied by the Canadian government and all recordings are sent to Ottawa to be archived and transcribed. The folklore notes she makes are also sent to Ottawa.

One of Miss Creighton's most difficult jobs is investigating the foundation for some of the many stories and traditions she picks up.

"Many times," she explained, "residents of a hamlet will tell me a story of a particular event that the believe happened in the village many years ago. Often I find it actually happened in the old country and the story was brought to this country by settlers."

Beside her job with the government, she is a Fellow of the American Anthropological Association, represents the American Dialect Association and is correspondent in this area for the International Folk Music Council.

ST. ANDREW'S WOMEN'S GUILD

The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Guild was held on Tuesday in the Sunday School hall with Mrs. H. Elvidge presiding. Psalm 19 was read by Mrs. W. M. Barlow. Letters of thanks from "shut-ins", for flowers received, were read by the secretary. Included in the announcements was a garden party to be held at the home of Mrs. George K. Graham, sometime in June. A cash donation is to be given to the Manitoba Relief Fund.

Mrs. Bell's group had charge of the program during which through the courtesy of Fine Foods of Canada Ltd., the technicolor film "From Good Earth to Good Tables" was shown. This proved interesting and instructive.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. C. Templer's group.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

How much freedom is too much?

How much freedom is a husband entitled to have?

No wife, of course, would be so foolishness to object to his going out the boys for on evening of bowling, or a day's fishing, or some such wholly innocent pastime. But is there such a thing as too much even of this?

One 22-year-old wife thinks there is, although she is unselfish enough to wonder if she is wrong.

She and her husband, she writes, have been married for two years. Her husband is also 22. "We live with his family," she goes on to explain, "because we e saving to buy a home of our n. My problem is that in the couple of months, my hus- seems to have drifted from Lots of times during the he comes home later after because he goes to the store and talks with the He does this on Saturtoo. Sunday mornings he ys baseball with the same s, and I don't see him until nday afternoon, when we both out. I let him go fishing every er Sunday during the summer. hen he is gone, I always worry about him."

Both she and her husband work, she tells me, every day except Sunday. She is on a late shift every other day, and for a year and a half after their marriage, her husband always met her on the late nights to take her safely home. Now he has stopped doing that, and she has to walk 12 blocks alone home from the bus, late at night. When she protested about this, her husband told her that she was making him "hen-pecked", and in her eagerness to be amiable about the matter, told him not to bother meeting her any more. Aside from these things, she has no complaints. "It's just that I hardly see him any more, and I love to be with him," is the way she puts it, "and he can't understand that".

It seems to me that this young wife is trying to be very fair about her problem, but I think she has a real point here. She is obviously quite willing to be reasonable, but is hurt, and quite understandably so, that he apparently fails to give her interests proper consideration.

It seems only right that when she works late at night he should make a point of seeing her safely home, and I think he could well afford to limit his candy store visiting so that he would get home in time to have most of his evenings with his wife.

One trouble in this whole situation, of course, is that this couple is living with his family. All the girl has to do is is keep their room clean, and do her own and her husband's laundry. Otherwise, she has no domestic responsibilities. If she were in her own home, her time would probably be so fully occupied that she would not have a chance to feel as lonely as she does now when her husband is away.

On his side, if he were in a home of his own, he would undoubtedly find so many interesting jobs to do around the house that this would take care of his leisure time to a great extent. As things are now, nothing seems to be expected of him at home, so he has too much time on his hands.

If at all possible, I would think it very wise for these young people to take at least an apartment by themselves right now, even though it meant postponing getting a home for a longer time than they had hoped. The important things is for them to have a common interest in making and maintaining a home of their own. It is quite likely that this would take care of the whole problem.

The only thing I can see that would help the situation is for the wife to get out and get busy with some outside interest that would fill the hours for her when her husband is off playing with his friends.

Convention Spending Averages $50 a Head

Vancouver (CP) — Don't sniff at that man with the badge and funny hat who clutters up the hotels this time of year—he's probably on a convention and he's spending money.

Officials of the Vancouver Tourist Association said the 4,400 convention-goers will kick the gong around at these mass get-togethers will have to spend well over $200,000 here by the end of 1950.

Through surveys, they have concluded that each delegate to a good-sized convention spends an average of $50.

Association officials said that because of its unhappy geographical position "at the end of the line" Vancouver has fewer conventions than many cities of comparable size.

They figure, however, that this city will get a national convention once in eight years; a Pacific Northwest convention once in six years; Pacific Coast conference in seven years, and an international conclave once in a lifetime.

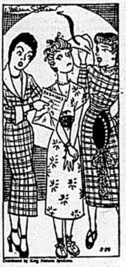
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Men prefer you to be pretty



Dress sense can be developed.

When a fellow takes a girl out stepping he wants to be proud of her. That's why the cute little trick never has to sit around and wait for the phone to ring; she has all the dates she can crowd into her social calendar. A girl can have a fine mind, nice manners and an interesting personalitl, but, if she is a frump, she will lack dates. Too bad, but that's the way it is.

Every young woman isn't gifted with dress sense, but it can be developed. It is possible to achieve that undeniable sartorial charm called chic. It isn't so much a matter of having the wherewithal for shopping sprees as it is to be blessed with good taste, to understand line and color, to know what is becoming to one's type.

Besides chic clothes you have to have a chic face. Does that sound goofy? It isn't. Faces change with the fashions. If the short hair cut it in vogue, then wear it, even though you love your pigtail material. Keep in step with what is going on. Don't ever say "I don't wear what is fashionable, but what is becoming." If your clothes and get-up are not of the present mode, they are not becoming. Whatever happens, don't look as if you were sitting on the sidelines, watching the perade. Pick up your heels and march.

When a woman walks toward you and she is perfectly groomed, smart from her hat to her shoes, she is a sight that gives you pleasure. If she also has good features and a slender shape, you are twice grateful for a glimpse of her. After all, woman is a spectacle; she should be a lovely one.

The perfect composition includes a good complexion on which artifice has been laid with a restrained hand, hair that is beautifully clean, lustrous and arranged without a single loose whisp. Teeth should be white and regular, hands well cared for.

There are certain good-looks duties that must never be sidestepped. Skip them for even a short time and you'll never catch up. Hair that isn't shampooed frequently will acquire a dull, forlorn, Cinderella look. The complexion that isn't creamed and given a light friction every day will lose freshness and color. Hands must be lotioned and lubricated, or they will look old even if one has not started to worry about birthdays.

Greater changes take place in figures than in faces. That is whey every young woman should have a certain amount of exercise every day, get out in the sunshine.

Then there is the good old health formula to keep in mind—the balanced diet, plenty of sleep, emotional control.

Fashion Flashes

NOT IN EVIDENCE for so long that it looks new, is the stole of silver fox. With gray or black suits many women are wearing single skins of silver fox, usually very densely silvered with a light gray cast.

TAKEN FOR GRANTED as a major fashion is the bare-top dress with its cover-up jacket, the two adding up to a smart street costume when desired. Dacia tan chiffon for a pretty costume, with cross-bar tucking for the dress to below the waist and all-over on the short bolero. The dress has a bouffant skirt and the straps are detachable from the curved bodice.

FINE STYLING and new techniques in weaving, has given new impetus to pin wale corduroy. At an advance showing of Autumn fashions, a beautiful evening dress by Howard Greer used rayon pile pin wale corduroy in shrimp pink. A fitted torso, flared skirt and a halter bodice, the front filled with velvet and silk flowers shaded from palest pink to crimson, mark an outstanding dress.

THERE'S FLATTERY in the wide neckline, therefore it is a continuing fashion. Paper-thin silk taffeta in deep navy is used for a pretty afternoon dress, its very wide neckline finished by a cuff fold of the fabric. The three-quarter length sleeves have pointed cuffs, the skirt is moderately gathered.

THERE'S NOTHING like a red hat to point up Summer clothes, so red hats are doing fine. Red milan straw for a pretty profile bonnet with a side trimming of red silk poppies, with black or white centres.

SLIM LINE suits are favored by the most fashion-conscious woman. A beauty of a suit is tailored and slim. The jacket is of brown Glenurquhart plaid, the up or down collar faced with the dark cocoa brown wool of the straight skirt. Jacket fastens snugly with six buttons placed rather low and has slanted pockets welted and outlined with hand-stitching.

KEEP COOL!

For in the hot Summer days ahead you need to be cool. To look cool you need fresh, crisp, clean clothes. Send them to us for quick, prompt service.

Over 400 Ladies Attend Annual Convention Of WA and LA Societies

Over 400 ladies attended the 18th annual convention of the Women's Association and Ladies' Aid Societies of Prince Edward and Hastings counties, of the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church of Canada, convened in St. Paul's United Church, Stirling.

Mrs. J. Wood, president, presided. Community singing was in charge of the Stirling group with Mrs. Walter Elliott as song leader.

The devotional period was in charge of the Salem (Ivanhoe group). The scripture was read by Mrs. Heagle, and the "Lesson Thoughts" by Mrs. McGee. Mrs. Sine read a poem. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Murphy which showed a balance on hand of $145.63.

Mr. Cecil Macklem extended a cordial welcome to Stirling and hoped that the combined meetings would be profitable to all. She also read an address of welcome, to which Mrs. N. McKibbon, of Picton, responded, thanking Stirling for their kindly welcome and hospitality. Greetings were brought from the Belleville Presbytery W.M.S. by Mrs. F. Wilson.

How to Live

The president's address was given by Mrs. J. Wood, who asked "What are we going to do today? Are we going home inspired to live as God would have us live?" Let us look back at Jesus' three years of ministry. He had just so long to preach and teach and yet He turned the world upside down. He healed the sick, restored sight to the blind, and did everything to make this a better world.

The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Morley Davidson and the story of the year by Mrs. A. Pyear, of Carmel, who gave reports from 70 W.A. societies having a total number of 2,268 members. Visits made, totalled 3,071, and the amount of money raised, $35,612.14. This was an increase over last year. Following this report, Mrs. Baker, of Stirling, favored with a fine vocal selection, "Count Your Blessings."

The temperance topic was taken by Mrs. Farnsworth, of Belleville, the motto being, "For God and Home." She said, it was a pity so much money was spent on alcohol, gambling, movies and tobacco. The church comes fifth. More money is spent on each of the others than on the church It is the women of this country who set the standard and if women would respond against the evil, they could overthrow it. Let them join hands, and under God's leadership, to protect the boys and girls across Canada."

Faithful Women

In her address, Mrs. Gage, of the Salvation Army, Belleville, said that in Jesus' time the women were His greatest followers. They were not looking on, they were ministering to Jesus and His deeds. They were storing up His presence and deeds in their memories. Jesus came as a guest of Simon, but he was not given the courtesy usually extended in those eastern homes, of a basin of water to wash His weary sore feet.

Mary came with the precious alabaster box of ointment and breaking it, anointed Jesus' feet. Jesus said that she had done a good deed, but Judas said the ointment had been better sold and the money given to the poor. Mary loved her Lord, and the expensive gift of ointment was her way of showing it. Let us not keep our alabaster boxes of love sealed up from our friends, but tell them now; give the flowers while they are still here to appreciate them.

Mary had to deny herself of other things to give Jesus that which was worthwhile. Have we poured out our best on our crucified Saviour? May we not neglect in doing the things that lie before us before it is too late

It is believed the Garden of Gethsemane was owned by the mother of Mark who loved her Lord. She and her son were both followers of Jesus. Jesus went to the garden so many times alone to pray; what wonderful thoughts Mark and his mother must have had in that garden!

It was also women who were the last from the cross, and the first to the tomb. They planned the removal of the stone and the anointment of Christ's body; they were the ones who were faithful to His ministry. Women today have just as much to give if they are only faithful.

Mrs. Gage also told a story of a woman who travelled to a far country to see a beautiful picture, but after arriving at the art gallery, was unable to find it. Disappointed, she was about to leave when she saw a large crowd around a huge table in the centre of the room whose top was covered with a beautiful mirror in which was reflected the picture she had wanted to see. In the dome it was small, but readily seen in the reflection.

So may our lives reflect and bring our gifts of love and service to Jesus." This address was an inspiration to all who were privileged to hear it.

Following the morning session, the ladies of Stirling, served a delicious dinner which was enjoyed by all present.

At the afternoon session community singing was in charge of the Stirling group.

Mrs. Embury, of St. Ola, was called to the platform and Mrs. Wood extended congratulations to her as Mrs. Embury has been a member of the W.A. for 54 years.

The devotional period, under the supervision of Bethel, was taken by Mrs. Ernest Way and opened with a poem. The Scripture was Matt. 12. Mrs. N. Crawford presided at the piano. Mrs. Folkard favored with a solo, "His Eye is on the Sparrow".

Mrs. Harry Alder led in prayer and "Lesson Thoughts" were given by Mrs. Norman Crawford. Today one hears much about the open Sunday. God blest the Seventh Day. One of the commandments states we are to remember the Sabbath Day to keep it Holy. When Sunday ceases to be a day of rest it will become a day of unrest.

A solo by Mrs. Scott, Shannonville, "Bless This House", was specially pleasing.

Church Must Advance

Mrs. Garnet Dobbs introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. C. H. Searles, of Sarnia. She said, "There is an undercurrent of the church for a rededication, we must advance". Mrs. Searles had attended a convention of the council of the church women in Milwaukee, of 84 Protestant denominations. Hence the need for a body of women to speak as one voice. Ten million women can change the course of the world. On Sunday there were 43 Protestant churches in Milwaukee occupied by 43 women as speakers at their Sunday services.

At this convention 2,500 women met in one large auditorium whose theme was "Thy Kingdom Come". The Hands of Chrirt reach out to the torn nations of the world. Most women are capable of living nearer to God than men. It will never again be repeated, the Birth of Christ; but every woman has a great responsibility to her home, her family, and her church.

The purpose of the W.A. is to assist the pastor in his pastoral work. The W.A. is the parent or the mother of the church. The W.A. will be a training place for all officers, and by all means train young women to pray. Women don't know how to pray.

Need For Real Prayer

A missionary from Japan said, "going to a prayer meeting in Canada was like taking a cold bath in December." She said if you wanted to hear women pray you wanted to go to Japan. Women, what are we giving our children to live up to? How many children ever hear their mother's voice in prayer? The W.A.'s responsibility is to the parsonage. All must make it a thought and a prayer. It is our task to welcome strangers into the community and church. We must assist in the pastoral work, spiritually, and socially, by knowing God ourselves. Do others looking at you see God in you? The majority of people today are Christian by name only. A new spirit must infuse humanity. We must develop spiritually in our home, church, community and nation.

Dr. Sisco said that on his return from Europe "we haven't the slightest idea of the sin and suffering in the world today. We must help socially by being a friend to all, putting the love of God in our work. We must release the Christ in us to others. The W.A. and the W.M.S. are the largest units in Canada and must work together." In closing she told of the large audience in Milwaukee at eight o'clock in the morning when they met and had communion.

A beautiful solo was then rendered, "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?", which stirred the hearts of each one present. What are we going to do when we go to our homes? Mr. Searles closed this wonderful address with prayer.

50th Anniversary of West Hastings Women's Institute Observed at Stirling Meet

The fiftieth anniversary of the West Hastings District Women's Institute was fittingly observed and celebrated, Thursday, when 150 delegates and members from the eight branches comprising the district, met in the Stirling Community Hall for their Annual meeting.

Mrs. Roy Bush, Stirling, district president, and Mrs. E. B. Finkle, Halloway, district secretary-treasurer, welcomed the guests assisted by Mesdames W. C. West and H. Cooke of Stirling, who were in charge of registration.

With Miss Lugo Prest, Halloway, at the piano and Mrs. H. Rodgers, Stirling, as song leader, community singing, followed by The Lord's Prayer opened the morning session.

President Presides

The district president presided throughout the day and presented a prize to Mrs. C. Jeffrey, president of Bay of Quinte Women's Institute, for the largest number of members present (16) from that branch.

Reporting the activities and projects of the branches for the past year through its standing committees, the conveners congratulated the Institutes on their achievements. Mrs. Milton Grills, Frankford, convener of Agriculture and Canadian Industries, and a delegate from the district to the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario Conference at Guelph, reported Institutes are Canadian conscious using home grown fruits and vegetables and Canadian made articles in their homes. She urged a study of the government Farm Loan Act and that recommendations for its improvement be forwarded the provincial government. Conservation of food was stressed, along with methods to combat soil erosion, as increased food production would mean the nation's security.

Reports Given

Mrs. Harold Phillips, Belleville, R.R. 2, reported for Citizenship and Education. New Canadians were being welcomed and invited to display and demonstrate their arts and crafts at Institute meetings. Local schools were visited and women are accepting their franchise responsibility. A survey was taken at an Institute meeting where all women present but one had voted, and that person was not an Institute member.

Historical Research and Current Events were reported by the convener, Mrs. Alex. Tanner, Stirling. The film "Let There Be Light", depicting the story of the growth of the Women's Institutes of Ontario during the fifty years since its organization has been used in nearly all Institutes. Addresses were given on "Air Conditioning"; "How World Has Changed Since 1900"; "The History of the Automobile", and "Seed Drill".

A debate "Resolved that times 50 years ago were more enjoyable than today", was enjoyed by one branch, while another discussed "Grandmother's Problems vs Mother's of Today". Mrs. Tanner complimented the branches on the Tweedsmuir Histories each is compiling.

Urges Further Study

Mrs. Percy Utman, Stirling, convener of Home Economics and Health, reported all branches interested in labor saving devices and handy kitchens. At one meeting a demonstration on "How to Make Windows Attractive", proved interesting and helpful. She urged a further study of mental health.

Reporting for Community Activities and Public Relations, Mrs. Clarence Holmes, Belleville, commended the branches for the various ways they were presenting and reporting Institute activities to the public. She urged friendly contacts and co-operation with other organizations, and a campaign for legible names on rural mail boxes, attractive entrances to farm homes, with name of farm displayed.

Miss Jean Morris Frankford, R.R. 2, reported for the Sidney Junior Institute.

Financial Report

Mrs. Finkle gave the financial report showing $4,177.25 had been raised by the branches through social evenings, catering at Belleville Fair, auction sales and collections. Mrs. Fred Campbell, Foxboro, and Mrs. Harry Coulter, Foxboro, reported for the auditors.

The president gave a resume of her activities during her year of office and spoke of the Conference at Guelph, she had attended as delegate from this district.

A motion of appreciation for her outstanding leadership and the efficient services rendered by the secretary-treasurer, was duly received.

At noon, the hostess branch, Stirling, served an anniversary dinner to the delegates and members. The tables were attractively arranged and there was a profusion of flowers throughout the hall, the blue and gold colors of the Institute predominating. A large gold birthday cake with 50 blue candles graced the head table, flanked on each side by candelabra containing blue and gold tapers.

Mrs. George Burkitt, Frankford, 1st vice president, read a complete list of Charter members and those five present were presented to the meeting and given a suitable ovation.

District presidents during the past fifty years gave highlights of Institute achievements during their terms of office. Those reporting were, Mrs. S. W. Lloyd, 1900-1902; Mrs. E. B. Finkle, 1921-27; Mrs. Kenneth Faul, Belleville R.R. 2, 1933-35; Mrs. Clarence Holmes, 1935-38; Mrs. Casey Ketcheson, Trenton 4, 1938-41; Mrs. W. C. From these summaries of projects attempted and successfully culminated during the past fifty years, one realizes the scope immensity and importance of the Women's Institute in the community today and to this organization much credit is due for the raising of the standard of living for the rural family.

Hospital Given Cheque

A district project of the past six months was terminated when Mr. W. H. Ireland, chairman of the new Trenton and Vicinity Memorial Hospital, was presented with a cheque for one thousand and twenty-five dollars by Mrs. Finkle. Mr. Ireland was overcome with gratitude for this voluntary gift and in thanking the district, reminded us we were building for the future. Rev. Mr. McLean, Trenton, addressed the gathering briefly, saying atheists never promote new hospitals, schools or churches. They are built by men and women who consecrate their lives to help and succor those in need. The new hospital in Trenton will be, indeed, he said, a living memorial to our boys who defended the cause of freedom.

Memorial Service

Mrs. Clarence Holmes conducted a memorial service for those Institute members, who during the fifty years had given leadership and service, but who had just gone on. She was assisted by Mrs. Bush and Mrs. Finkle. This impressive service was concluded with a solo "Crossing the Bar", by Mrs. Don Rose, Halloway, with Mrs. Roscoe Vanderwater, Foxboro, at the piano.

Mrs. Finkle read congratulatory messages from Miss Anna P. Lewis, director Women's Institutes of Ontario. Mrs. Futcher, St. Thomas, provincial president, Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario; Hon. Miss Irwin in her address reminded the district that homemaking clubs had been in existence sixteen years, and last year had reached an all time high record in attendance and achievements.

131 Girls Completing the Project

The girls' project for next year is "Cotton Accessories for the Girls' Bedroom". The Canadian Council of Boys' and Girls' Club Work have issued certificates for club leaders of over five years' service and two of these were presented by Miss Irwin to Mrs. Louis Rodgers, Stirling, and Mrs. E. B. Finkle, Halloway.

The past district secretaries, Mrs. Bronson, Stirling; Mrs. Mary Vandervoort, Stirling, R.R. 4; Mrs. Morley Sine, Frankford, Mrs. E. B. Finkle, Halloway, Mrs. Frank Treverton, Thurlow, assisted in the birthday cake lighting ceremony while Mrs. Harold Phillips, secretary-treasurer, Belleville convention area, extinguished them.

To Mrs. S. W. Lloyd, first president, fell the honor of cutting the cake.

Mrs. John Reid, Trenton, 2nd vice president, read the Mary Stuart collect, after which "Bless Be the Tie That Binds", was sung concluding a delightfully arranged anniversary ceremony.

Mrs. James Black then addressed the meeting, bringing greetings from the Provincial Board of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario. She gave a detailed account of the Spring and Fall sessions of the Board, with recommendations for the improvement and success of this district. She urged all Institutes to bring their Tweedsmuir Histories up-to-date and from this record, send on to the department by June 20, a brief summary of their organization—when organized—officers, outstanding projects, etc.

Mrs. Black urged use of films owned by "Children's Film Library of Canada". These are 16 m.m. film and have been carefully screened. "Cultural Activities in Communities", should be sponsored by Women's Institutes. A gavel will be presented at the Belleville convention to the Institute with the greatest percentage increase in attendance and membership. The Provincial Board will maintain a tent at the Provincial Ploughing Match in Simcoe County and request Institute members to visit this spot.

Appeal for Fund

An appeal for the continued support of the Scholarship Fund was made. Any Institute raising two thousand dollars may have an individual scholarship named for their branch. These scholarships are used for sending junior rural girls to Guelph for a course in Home Economics.

A two-week' holiday at the O.A.C., Guelph, is planned for Institute women begining July 10th. All, expecting to attend, are asked to register by June 25. The fee is $3.50 per day. Outings, sight-seeing tours, addresses, music festivals etc., are arranged for the enjoyment of the vacationers.

Mrs. Black closed her address with a plea for further study on the questions of the day. We must be well informed to intelligently promote projects."

Miss Hamilton graciously presented the Co-operative Program to the delegates with the result — "Brighten Your Home With Color" was unanimously chosen. This one-day course will be held at Bay of Quinte, Uniondale and Stirling Institutes.

The courtesy committee comprised of Mrs. Harold Morgan, Stirling; Mrs. Gerald Herrington, Frankford and Mrs. Frank Finkle Foxboro, reported through their convener, Mrs. Morgan.

Ottawa — (CP) — Sticky June weather makes people think of things like tall frosted glasses and crisp salads when they think of food.

It's time for the housewife to toss up such confections as frozen fruit salad as a special luncheon treat. Incidentally this is an excellent dish to serve the weekly bridge club when your turn comes around.

Ingredients: one cup stiff mayonnaise; three cups stiffly whipped cream; one teaspoon gelatine (dissolve in two tablespoons boiling water; three cups diced fruit (pineapple, canteloupe, bananas, cherries, and so on.)

Combine the whipped cream and mayonnaise. Add gelatine and fruit. Put in mould and place in the refrigerator for at least four hours. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves with mayonnaise or fruit dressing.

Grapefruit Salad — Ingredients: 1 1-2 tablespoons gelatine; one-quarter cup cold water; one-half cup boiling water; one-half cup sugar; two tablespoons lemon juice; one cup apple (cut in cubes) two cups grapefruit pulp and juice; one-half cup pecans, broken in pieces.

Soak gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Add boiling water and sugar. Stir until dissolved. Add apple, grapefruit, nuts and lemon juice. Mix thoroughly. Put into individual moulds which have been dipped in cold water. Chill. Remove from moulds and arrange on crisp lettuce leaves. Garnish with whipped cream dressing and whole pecans.

As a refreshing dessert after a heavy meal mother might be able to coax the refrigerator to produce some apple ice cream.

Ingredients: Two cups grated apples (four medium apples) one-half cup fruit or fine granulated sugar; one-half pint whipping cream.

Grate the unpeeled apples. After grating a small amount of the apple measure and sprinkle with part of sugar to prevent discoloration. Continue grating until two cups of apple have been measured. Whip cream and fold into apple mixture. Freeze. Serves six.

Apples also may be used in apple and salmon salad.

Ingredients: two tart apples (diced); two cups flakes salmon; one cup diced celery; one-half cup grated raw carrot; salad dressing (about half a cup.)

Mix the ingredients lightly. Pile in nests of crisp lettuce. Serves six.

Lobster, tuna fish or cold ham, veal or chicken, may be used in place of salmon.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said no decision has been reached on whether the government's thousands of civil servants will get a five-day week in June, July and August this year.

[illegible] the Senate, 30 bills were [illegible] royal assent by the Acting Deputy Governor-General, Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret. They included two western gas pipeline measures—bills to incorporate the Alberta Natural Gas Company and the Prairie Transmission Lines, Limited, which want to build pipe lines from Alberta to British Columbia. The bills had been blocked in the Commons for months by members demanding assurance of an all-Canadian route for the pipelines.

Wants Better Legislation

In proposing legislation for better Federal handling of such emergencies as the Manitoba floods, Mr. Drew said an act should be brought down at this session, if possible. It should provide for effective co-operation with other agencies in such emergencies and should allow the Federal government to declare a national emergency when one existed.

The Progressive Conservative leader said the Federal government should announce what financial aid it proposed for Manitoba flood victims, should in some way help handle their return to evacuated homes and should emphasize to United States authorities the need for flood control along the American section of the Red river where the flood waters rose.

Three Not Signed

During the day, Resources Minister Winters told the House expenditures of his department in 1950-51 would provide employment in all provinces if the provincial governments signed agreements in such fields as the Trans-Canada highway and housing. So far Nova Scotia, Quebec and Newfoundland have not entered into the highway agreement and no province has concluded a housing agreement, but the funds were there, waiting.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver-Quadra) complained it was a "tragedy' 'that Canada had "no policy" for development and use of her iron-ore deposits. Mr. Winters said his department was concerned with resources of a continuing nature, not those capable of depletion.

The House spent some time discussing wildlife. Mr. Winters said ducks and geese settlings on provincial feeding grounds became the responsibility of the province.

He also said in reply to numerous questions about season-setting, that this was done in collaboration with the provinces and no changes in dates were made unless at the request of a province.

Council in Committee Authorizes Clerk to Apply to Municipal Board For Final Approval School By-Law

City council in committee meeting Thursday evening approved a recommendation authorizing the city clerk to apply to the Ontario Municipal Board for final approval of a council bylaw authorizing construction of a new public school at a cost not exceeding $300,000.

The by-law has been given two readings in council and had been given tentative approval by the Municipal Board. The by-law was held up, however, when members of city council by majority vote declined to issue debentures to allow the Board of Education to construct the school by the second lowest tender.

Council will purchase a small piece of property from the Foley Foundry on Front Street to provide access to the roadway along the bank of the Moira River.

Absorbed by City, Township

Value of two building lots in Reynolds Crescent, off College Street, which were used for a roadway instead of for building purposes, will be absorbed equally by the city and Thurlow township. The lots in question were sold to the housing contractor at $200 each but were not built on.

The township will pay the city $200 while the city will "write off" the balance of the $400.

The city engineer was authorized to prepare specifications for the construction of sidewalks in the veterans' rental project on the former County Home property. Tenders will be called for June 10th with the mayor, city engineer and housing committee authorized to award the contract so the work can be completed as soon as possible.

Will Construct Sewer

Construction of a sanitary sewer on Burrell Street from Gt. St. James Street to Station Street was approved by council.

The Public Works Committee was authorized to carry out spraying operations on city property for the control of mosquitoes cost of the work not to exceed $500.

Council voted to commend the local branch of the Navy League of Canada for its plans to patrol and service the Belleville harbor during the 1950 navigation season. In recognition of the fact that the efforts of the Navy League will undoubtedly result in considerable attraction for marine tourists, council voted an amount not exceeding $250, the money to be charged to the tourist and publicity budget.

Mayor H. J. Allin was authorized to declare the week of July 3-8 as recreation week in the city.

Appointed to Board

Alderman A. M. Haig was appointed to the hospital board of governors for an interim period of three months.

A committee was recommended appointed with the view of investigating present zoning and restrictive by-laws, the by-law to be consolidated, bringing in whatever recommendations deemed advisable. The committee will have power to retain qualified assistance, the expense not to exceed $250.

A committee of Aldermen Haig, Hyde, Argue, Butler and Armstrong was appointed by Mayor H. J. Allin to meet with the Board of Education as a fact-finding committee regarding the proposed establishing of the Quinte High School Area. The committee will report to council.

SCHOOL OBSERVANCE

Montreal—(CP)— Students of Mount St. Louis College, a bilingual high school, recently observed "Student's Week". Organized by the students, the week featured addresses outlining the purpose and program of the various college organizations and courses.

Check Airplane Movements

Police launched a check of airplane movements in the district. There was a possibility of thieves had fled by air.

Investigators said the vault was drilled and nitroglycerin was used to blow it. Then the safe about two feet by three feet, was carried out.

No one lives close to the mine office and the explosion apparently went unnoticed. Police found a drill and other tools, not belonging to the mine, in the office. The tools will be examined for fingerprints.

The biggest previous gold robbery in Ontario was staged more than two years ago, when a gang of robbers broke into the Dome mines office here and took gold valued at $40,000. Police recovered all the loot and two men were sent to penitentiary for five years for retaining stolen gold.

MAN IDENTIFIED

Paris, June 2 —(Reuters) — Scotland Yard men in France have identified the man who placed a bomb which exploded in the Paris-London Viking plane April 13, according to the newspaper Aube today.

The man was believed, Aube said, to be an ex-convict, several times imprisoned for smuggling and well known to Continental police as a member of smuggling gang. He now was in France and was being closely watched.

This man placed the bomb in the Viking because the gang wanted to get rid of one of their number who was one of the 27 passengers, said Aube.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, JUNE 2, 1950.

Outstanding Talent Combines In Presenting Variety Show For Manitoba Relief Fund

Outstanding talent from the city and outside points will combine in presenting a topflight variety show in the Memorial Arena on Sunday night in aid of the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund.

A special program has been arranged by Producers Bill Stovin and Bill Arnold of Radio Station CJBQ and a highly entertaining evening is in store for lovers of good music and other attractions.

Belleville's Municipal Band under the direction of Bandmaster Ted Robbins, regarded as one of the outstanding organizations of its kind in this part of Ontario heads an array of imposing talent. The band will offer several selections in a variable program in its own manner that has long pleased Belleville and district audiences.

Bill Arnold's crack quintet of instrumentalists will add to the general musical delight as will Bob Daniels and the Northern Electric quartet.

Outstanding Talent

Bill Navin, popular pianist, who was always in demand when he resided here will come from Toronto to assist with his efforts. A gifted pianist Navin is also an outstanding entertainer and he will offer a number of selections from his lengthy repertoire.

Ethel Smith, who has delighted audiences here and the district with her outstanding performances on stage and radio will also contribute her talents as will Lorraine Marsh, Trudy Scott, Glen Hjalmarson and Ken Ryan.

Lovers of organ music will delight in the renditions of Charlie Cawker and Glen Tamblyn whose unusual and gifted arrangements are outstanding in their special field. Dean Whalen has kindly consented to act as the program accompanist.

The show will get under way at 8.30 p. m. and tickets priced at fifty cents are on sale at Cook's Cigar Store and various parts of the city.

Chairman Issues Appeal

Chairman John M. Wood of the Belleville branch of the Manitoba Relief Fund issued an appeal today to the public of the city and district to attend this outstanding presentation of talent. It will not [illegible] be a musical feast but the entire proceeds will be devoted to the Relief Fund.

Artists and others have donated their talents free and Chairman Wood is confident that the public will respond in such a manner that a substantial sum of money will be added to the fund.

He also reminds the public that through the generosity of Mr. Sam Pappas and the members of the Trent Valley Ramblers orchestra a mammoth dance will be held in the Club Vanity Fair, Front Street, on Monday night. Mr. Pappas has donated the use of the club to the fund and the musicians of the Ramblers orchestra have also tossed in their talents for "free".

Stories of Flood

Stories of the terrific damage caused by the flood and the heart-breaking experiences of the victims continue to come in from Winnipeg and other flood-stricken areas.

Three days marooned upstairs in a flooded house, with nothing to eat but crackers and cheese, bread and syrup.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Third, and their son George, of Morris, Manitoba, met just that fate before they were evacuated from their flood stricken home.

At 7 o'clock in the morning of the day the flood arrived, there was no water in the basement of their house. The river burst through at 6 o'clock in the evening, collapsing the cistern in the basement and leaving them without clean water.

By the following morning, Mr. Third told a reporter of the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund, they were driven upstairs. There they lived for three days on the cheese, crackers, bread and syrup that was all the food they had in the house when the flood broke through.

Floated Away

Their fuel floated away along with a great part of their furniture and personal belongings. In the haste of their evacuation they forgot their daughter's fur coat, which was hanging in a dry cupboard upstairs.

The Third family escaped the 1948 flood. They felt secure this time, expecting a rise of about two feet, but when the flood hit them, it made all their precautions futile. Theirs is an especially needy case since Mr. Third, a janitor by occupation, has been forced to retire because of ill health. Since his retirement Mrs. Third and their four children have painstakingly converted a barn into a home, covering walls with beaverboard purchased a sheet at a time.

The Manitoba Flood Relief Fund has been organized for the rehabilitation of the Third family and thousands of others like them.

Winnipeg Pianist Needs More 'Give'

By WILLIAM BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 2—(CP) — The fingerwork of Canadian pianist Freda Trepel impressed London critics, but they told her to use more "give" in her playing.

The 31-year-old Winnipeger recently made her London debut at Wigmore Hall.

Like other programs offered by this year's crop of Canadian debutantes, hers was essentially romantic. Schubert, Schumann and Chopin predominated.

Miss Trepel's technique, applied to a broader program, might have exacted greater tribute from the reviewers.

The Times spoke of her "natural aptitude for the instrument" and her "serviceable technique," while the Daily Telegraph said she had "real technical agility" and the Daily Herald noted that "her finger work was dexterous and fluent."

Reservations

Then all three entered their reservations.

Noting that it was "a predominantly romantic program," the Times said "she was inclined to play too fast, which is often a symptom of heartlessness."

It added: "a new sonatina in the hard-boiled style by Walter Kauffman suited her better."

Said the Daily Herald: "Her tone lacked variety."

The Daily Telegraph pointed up her need for "a wider variety of tone color." Also, her undoubted technical competence "led her to adopt exaggeratedly fast tempos".

Dr. J. MacLachlan Named President Of the O.A.C.

Toronto, June 2 — (CP)—Dr. John Douglas MacLachlan, Professor of Botany, has been appointed President of the Ontario Agricultural College, at Guelph, Agriculture Minister T. L. Kennedy announced Thursday. He will take over his duties Sept. 1.

He succeeds Dr. W. R. Reek, who retires June 30.

Dr. MacLachlan was born on a dairy farm in the vicinity of Burritt's Rapids. With his father, he operated a cheese factory on their farm in Eastern Ontario.

After graduation from high school, he attended Normal School and taught for two years in public school, Ottawa, and then taught science for one year in the Continuation School at Carp, a small Eastern Ontario village.

Dr. MacLachlan attended Queen's University where he obtained his B. A. in 1931, graduating with honors. In 1933 he obtained his Master's Degree from Harvard and his Doctor's Degree from the same university in 1935, specializing in plant pathology. He was awarded the Sheldon Travelling Fellowship which took him to Jamaica to carry on research on pimento rust. Following this he returned to Clemson College, South Carolina, U. S. A., as Assistant Professor of Botany.

Dr. MacLachlan joined the botany department of O. A. C. in 1939 and was appointed head of the department in 1948.

It Clucked, Laid, Then Crowed, Now It's Got Spurs

Kingston, June 2 (CP)—Two weeks ago it was just another hen on Reginald Kirkham's farm at nearby Eastview. It clucked. It laid eggs.

Then one day it crowed. It stopped laying. It started strutting. It's growing spurs and a comb.

Kirkham, badly confused, has no explanation, although he's heard this sort of thing happens once every 4,000,000 chickens.

Says Mrs. Kirkham knowingly: "Retarded development."

Husband is Given Divorce for Neglect

Cincinnati, June 2 (AP)— In the opinion of a judge, it's a mistake for any man to turn over his entire pay cheque to his wife.

Judge Charles S. Bell said so Thursday when he granted John Ismael, 52, a divorce decree for neglect. Ismael said he and Elsie Ismael, 51, were married in 1919 and until last August he had turned over his entire pay cheque to his wife.

Nine Members Of Two Families Crawl to Safety

Adrian, Mich., June 2 (AP)— Nine members of two families crawled to safety through a basement window Thursday night after a gasoline truck plowed into their cement house here and turned it into an inferno.

The truck driver's body was pulled from the wreckage so badly charred it could not be identified.

The driver had swerved to avoid a car coming out of a drive in theatre and the truck raced out of control about 40 feet, police said.

Inside the house were Mr. and Mrs. William Black and their four young daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Hough and their three-week-old son.

They had only a moment's warning of the crash. Nine-year-old Nancy Black, standing at the window, screamed:

"A truck's coming at us."

"About that time I heard a thud," Black said later. "I looked outside, and there was a mass of flames. Fire was running down the driveway. I knew we couldnt get out the front door."

Nearly $10,000 Raised by Show For Flood Relief

Niagara Falls, June 2 (CP) — Manitoba's Relief Fund sponsored here by the Evening Review, was close to $10,000 richer today following a variety show held in the arena Thursday night.

Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto, Lotta Dempsey, Toronto Globe and Mail featured writer, and Ronald Poulton, Toronto Telegram staff writer, gave eye-witness accounts of the Winnipeg tragedy before an audience of 5,-000 Niagara area folk.

"We must save Winnipeg," Mryor McCallum said. "We must carry the message of the grim conditions in the Manitoba area into every heart and home in eastern Canada."

Mayor William L. Houck introduced the distinguished visitors, including Mayor J. Mruk of Buffalo and Mayor William Lupton of Niagara Falls N.Y.

"The spirit Canadians are displaying in aid of the flood victims," Mayor Mruk said, "is badly needed everywhere in the world. When mercy instead of might rules the action of men — just the kind of mercy you are displaying toward your needy brothers in Winnipeg—we will have no further fears of wars."

The review's appeal fund had reached the $8,500 mark before the variety show.

B.C. Exporters Taking Steps To Protect Selves

Vancouver, June 2 — (CP) — The Vancouver News - Herald in a news page story today reports that British Columbia exporters are taking steps to protect themselves against loss in event the Canadian dollar is returned to par with the United States dollar.

"It is authoritatively stated that during the last 24 hours the Foreign Exchange Control Board here, through chartered banks, has 'covered' well over $30,000,-000 in B. C. business with the U.S. against such an eventuality," the News-Herald said. "The parity rumor hit Vancouver Wednesday and spread quickly throughout the city's business world."

The story says that exporters — chiefly those dealing in lumber, pulp and paper, fertilizer and base metals — led a stampede to city banks to take out "cover" on all their American orders on which payment is outstanding. They did so by paying a premium to protect themselves for short-term periods on the existing rate of exchange on money owing them.

"The cost works out to 1/32nd of one per cent for each 15 days. In the case of one company, this premium is reported to amount to 4,000 each 15 days. These agreements can only be entered into in regard to business at hand on firm orders with the maximum single cover period being 180 days."

Sells 25,000 Books Collected By Minister

Toronto, June 2—(CP)—Some people collect stamps for a hobby, others save match folders. Rev. Salem G. Bland collected books.

When he died recently Dr. Bland, eloquent and social-minded United Church minister, left a magnificent private library of 25,000 books which are now being sold.

A glance at the titles of some of the books show the breadth of the veteran Dr. Bland's interests. Although religious works predominate, there are also in abundance books of history, biography, poetry, art, philosophy, economics and politics, geography and travel.

The ancient classics mingle with such modern works as Stuart Chase' "The Tragedy of Waste" and Ross Munro's "Gauntlet to Overlord," the history of the Canadian army in the Second World War.

Dr. Bland had 22 volumes dealing with Abraham Lincoln. There is even a 25-center on physiognomy—the appraisal of character from facial features, and Freud's three-inch-thick "Psycho-pathology of Everyday Life." And with this heavy fare is mingled some leavening fare from the pen of Stephen Leacock.

Covers Everything

"The library covers everything under the sun," said Rev. John Hardwicke of Teeswater, Ont., long-time friend of Dr. Bland who is conducting the sale. "There's even one titled 'The Natural history of Ice and Snow.' "

Mr. Hardwicke said the books are being sold at about one-third original cost. choosing a few bargains at random, he picked up "Italian Pleasure Gardens," originally $10, now $3.50; Hastings Dictionary of the Bible in four volumes, $75 when new, now selling at $15. Harmsworth's $75 eight-volume History of the World knocked down to $6.

Proceeds of the sale—an estimated $40,000—will go to Mrs. Bland.

Being a minister, Dr. Bland was not wealthy. Mr. Harwicke explained the mystery of his ownership of so many books this way: "Some of the books were given him for review, but the majority he bought. He spent over half his income on books.

Stepping onto a sandbag dyke in flooded Winnipeg from a small boat in which he toured the inundated area, Prime Minister St. Laurent is greeted by Ralph Maybank, M.P. for Winnipeg South Centre. Surrounding them are dyke workers and servicemen. Before leaving Winnipeg the Prime Minister heartily endorsed the aims of the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund, for which contributions are being solicited.

Insurance Fund Still Growing

Ottawa, June 2 (CP)— Canada's unemployment insurance fund, a major bulwark against depression, has kept right on growing despite the biggest splurge of unemployment since the war, Arthur MacNamara, Deputy Minister of Labor, said Thursday.

His figures indicated, however, that it was a close race between the fund's costs and its income in the last fiscal year. Mr. MacNamara also said there is a good chance fishermen will be made eligible for benefits as the result of a survey now proceeding.

He told the Parliamentary committee on old-age security the fund now totals $585,000,000 and that payments out in fiscal year ending March 31, 1950, amounted to some $85,824,000 an increase of nearly $36,000,000 over the previous fiscal year.

He later told a reporter that in the 1949-50 fiscal year about $100,000,000 was paid into the fund in the form of contributions or $15,000,000 more than was paid out. In only two months of that year was the amount being paid out exceeded by the amount coming in.

Dairy Farmers Will Advertise Their Products

Ottawa, June 2 — (CP) —The current dirve by dairy farmers to get Canadians to buy more of their, butter, cheese, milk and other dairy products Thursday drew support from Agriculture Minister Gardiner.

In a statement he commended the Dairy Farmers of Canada for collecting funds to launch a Canadian advertising campaign for their products and said it was "one of the most commendable steps which has been taken by any farmers organization in Canada."

Funds for launching the campaign were launched through the collection of a cent on every pound of butterfat or milk equivalent produced by farmers during June.

Member Suggests More National Parks in Canada

Ottawa, June 2 (CP)—George Fulford (L-Leeds) suggested in the Commons Thursday night that the National Parks Board should purchase islands in the Rideau Lake system with a view to turning them into National Parks.

This, he told Resources Minister Winters during consideration of departmental estimates, would be a "fitting monument" to the British engineers who built the Rideau Canal system.

He said the islands parks of the Thousand Islands in the St. Lawrence had proved the success of such projects. No parks were giving more pleasure to Canadians than the Thousand Islands and they were also attracting thousands of American tourists.

Mr. Fulford suggested that the government should see what could be done about the purchase of Hill Island, the island on which the Canadian span of the International Bridge rested. Its beauty was being neglected and much timber was being cut from it and he believed it should be preserved.

28 Elderly Chinese Taken From Hospital

Montreal, June 2 — (CP) — Twenty-eight patients, many of them elderly Cinese, were evacuated Thursday from the Chinese hospital in midtown Montreal when fire swept through an adjoining building, driving more than 60 employees into the street.

The fire occurred about two blocks from the scene of another major Chinatown blaze which claimed eight lives two months ago.

The building where Thursday's fire broke out housed the sturdy Steel Machine Products Corp., and brought all available city ambulances and fire fighters from 10 stations.

No patients or workers were injured but three firemen were overcome by smoke and another suffered facial cuts from flying glass.

The hospital patients, separated by a thick wall from the blaze, were evacuated as a precautionary measure.

Nelson Bailey, vice-president of the firm, said he could not give no estimate yet of the damage.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Before God Gets Through

By ROY L. SMITH

There is an old proverb which says, "Be good and you will be happy," by which it is meant to say that if we are good enough we [illegible] insulate ourselves against tr[illegible].

[illegible] trouble with the proverb is that it is not true. The world about us provides an almost uncounted number of illustrations of good people who are in dire trouble.

One of the most common cries the preacher hears as he mingles among his people in the hour of their trouble is the result of their unthinking acceptance of the proverb. "What have I done that this terrible thing had to happen to me?" they sob!

Ancient Light on an Old Problem

The Old Testament book of Job undertakes to deal with this very problem. It tries to find an an[illegible] to the question, "Why do go[illegible] men suffer?"

But the philosophers and wise men among the Hebrews were not the only ones who tackled the problem. It is the very heart and core of one of the most profound books produced by the Old Testament prophets.

> The Sunday School lesson for June 4: "Habakkuk Teaches Trust in God," Habakkuk (1:1-4, 12-13; 2:1-4; 3:17-19).

Habakkuk, one of the bravest and most courageous thinkers of the ancient Hebrews, has given us a thrilling declaration of faith. Unfortunately it is one of the lesser known books of the Bible, and the average person probably finds it difficult reading because he knows little of the circumstances out of which it came. But once we get under the surface w[illegible]cover that it throws a great de[illegible] of light on an old problem.

Two Difficult Problems

The prophet Habakkuk was a layman, completely unassociated with any formal religious organization. He was neither a priest nor a man employed in any way about the temple. Rather, he was a patriot of profound religious convictions, who loved his nation, his fellow countrymen, and his native land, and who studied the problems of his day from the religious angle.

He faced two extremely baffling situations. In the first place, the life of the little kingdom of Judah had become terribly corrupt. Justice had failed, the forces of law and order had broken down, wicked persons seemed to be in command of the nation's destiny. In the face of all of this God seemed to be doing nothing.

In the second place, the little Kingdom of Judah, bad as it was and deserving of punishment, seemed about to suffer at the hands of a powerful enemy that was entirely unscrupulous. Habakkuk could understand why the Hebrews might be punished for their wickedness, but he could not understand why a much more wicked nation was allowed to administer the punishment and then go, itself, unpunished.

The Religion of an Honest Man

Confronted by these two problems which seem strangely modern, Habakkuk dared to face God with the question. "Why are you not doing something about all this evil?"

Ever since the days of Amos who linked justice and religion, honest men have insisted that God is as much interested in right and justice as they are. Sheer honesty compels them to ask the question, "Why doesn't he do something about it?"

The Prophet's Answer

To raise a question without answering it calls for no great intellectual effort. It is just here that a great many skeptics make their most serious mistake. They assume that they have shown superior mental ability when they have asked a question. They forget that when they have raised an issue it becomes as much their responsibility to answer it as it is that of the religious man.

Skeptics can laugh at the answers that religion provides but if they are to reject one answer they are still under the necessity of finding another—and a better answer—if they are to maintain their own intellectual and moral integrity.

The prophet Habakkuk dared to ask the question—"Why doesn't God do something?—but he pursued his query until he found an answer.

The righteous will be saved by their faithfulness:

The word "faithfulness," or "faith", in the Old Testament is used in the sense of trustworthiness and honesty in conduct — moral character, in other words.

The psalmist had come to the same conclusion when he wrote, "The way of the ungodly shall perish."

There is a quality of permanency in upright character which circumstances cannot destroy, and there is a fundamental weakness in evil which spells its ultimate doom.

Here then is a modern nswer from an ancient source. No matter how troubled our world, or how discouraging the outlook, the righteous man and the moral God are together doomed to win. There may be bad days—terribly bad days—before God gets through, but the victory will be His in the long run, and the man who holds steadfast with Him will share in the triumph.

Wellington on the Lake

Oh! the sunshine is so gladsome,
And the sky it is so blue,
And the lure of other springs is in the air,
Down the lane the maple blushes
In the meadow bright with dew,
Gleam and sparkle wondrous gems and jewels rare.

'Mid the dark-browed firs and cedars,
There's a tint of lighter green
Where the summer trees have changed from drab and gray,
And in all the new enchantment
That is heard and felt and seen,
Is the glamor of the springs of yesterday.

—Helen B. Anderson

After long delay, May-time weather has come to this village, and flowers, especially tulips, are bursting into bloom. These flowers, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ford, are making a fine showing. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton were in town for the funeral of the late Mrs. Howe, and following the service, called on Mrs. W. H. Anderson, Maple Ave.

Wellington Public School was closed on Friday, the teachers attending the convention in Belleville. The Minister of Education, Mr. Dana Porter, addressed the meeting.

The members of the Hillier and Consecon Guilds of the Anglican Church, were entertained at a tea by Mrs. (Rev.) Kingerly, at the United Church parsonage, Consecon.

W.A. Meeting

The W.A. of Wellington Anglican Church held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. Craig Platt, Maple Ave. The meeting was well attended. The president, Mrs. W. A. Davern, occupied the chair. Mrs. Charlie Carter gave a report of the annual W.A. convention in Kingston. At the close the hostess, assisted by Mrs. W. Ainsworth and Mrs. G. Upton, served refreshments and social hour was enjoyed.

Mr. Elmer Carley spent the 24th in Peterborough.

Mrs. L. Anderson and friends visited Mrs. George Baitley in Kingston Hospital on Monday.

Friends were shocked to hear of the sudden passing of Mrs. Sam Forsythe, a former highly esteemed resident of Wellington. Her husband passed away some months ago, after a lingering illness. Mrs. Forsythe's funeral service was held on Sunday.

Mrs. Alberta Smith spent a recent Sunday as guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morton, Melville. Friends extend sympathy to Mrs. Morton, who suffered a broken arm.

Polymer Corp. Making Money

Ottawa, June 2 — (CP)—Operation of two Crown corporations — one a "deficit" undertaking, the other a thriving money-maker — was outlined Thursday before the Commons Public Accounts Committee.

The money-maker, reported the Auditor-general, Watson Sellar, is the war-born Polymer Corporation Limited which operates a synthetic rubber plant at Sarnia. Mr. Sellar said he had no adverse comments to make on the operation of the government-owned company which is "improving all the time."

He told Gordon Fraser (PC — Peterborough West) that the corporation had a net profit of more than $400,000 in 1949 and that sale of goods in the United States and purchases from that country had resulted in "a net surplus of $3,000,000 in U. S. dollars."

But the auditor - general said he believed some improvements could be made in the way in which the deficit corporation — Canadian Arsenals Limited — reported in its balance sheet fixed assets originally costing $90,571,113.

He suggested that the assets, shown only in a footnote on the balance sheet, might more appropriately be included at suitable depreciated values with other assets appearing in the report.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

SIC 'EM!

"There is," cackled Herbie the Henn, "no such thing as a packed team in this "A" Section of the Commercial Softball League — unless my coaching confrere one known as Cy Barriage has garnered the stars of the city and is operating them under the moniker of Howe and Hagerman."

"Furthermore", the Sudsmen manager opined, "contrary to some opinions my lads are not receiving extra coin of the realm for their services. They are in the sport purely for the love of it — and they have no intention of challenging the Tip Top Tailors for the world's title."

"True," murmured La Henn, modestly, "we have plenty of ability and that will be proven when he meet the Aitch and Aitch Plumbers come July 11, Coach Barriage to the contrary"..

Coach Barriage turned the remark aside with a shrug of his shoulders. "Coach Henn," he smiled, "had better look to his remarks. There is only one way to win any athletic contest and that is on the playing field and not in a gabfest. We shall demonstrate that when my boys clash with these foam-barterers in July."

La Henn ruffled his feathers at these remarks. "What Mr. Barriage thinks of my team is his own business. He is of the opinion that his pipe-plucking plumbers can take these innocent lads of mine, but after all opinions are one thing and, the actual game is another."

THE BIG GAME!

Sid Smith

Meantime the two coaches with Gordie Booth of Stewart Warner are gathering their brains to line up a team to face Turk Broda and his National Hockey League All-Stars here on June 14th in an exhibition game to aid the Kinsmen Club Swimming Pool Fund. Just who will face this potent puck-chasing team will not be known until the day of the game. Some eighteen players will be lined up by the local master - minds with probably a fresh squad being thrown in at half-time. All players of the Commercial League have indicated their willingness to help the good cause as have the men of the masks and pads. A letter from the Turk to President Don Lee of the Commercial League states that his team will include such stars as Bill Ezinicki, Chuck Websters, Jimmy Morison, Ray Timgren, Bill Duesberry, Bill Quackenbush, and others. And they do say that the Broda crew rank with some of the best softball squads in the province.

UNDER THE LIGHTS

The first night baseball game of the season takes place tonight at Exhibition Grounds when the Cannifton squad hooks up with the Belleville Cubs. Cannifton went down to a 7-0 defeat before the strong Sixardee team the other night, but they figure they can give Speedy St. Louis' Belleville crew a real run for the money. The Cubs have lost one and tied one in their last two starts and are rarin' to go to get into that win column. We could not get any information as to whom will get the Cubs' pitching assignment, but it is likely that St. Louis will trot Bobby Bunton out there. Bob had a bad first innings in that first game, but feels the 'flipper' is behaving better and will be in shape to hurl the Cubs' first win.

Parks Board Commissioner Jack Devine informed us that there is a possibility of the game being called off, due to the conditions of the lights in the park. Notice of postponement will be published elsewhere in this edition, if and when it is ordered.

SHOULD BE A GOOD SHOW

Tonight's Goliath and David wrestling show between the huge Yukon Eric, pride of the Seal-Walrus League up around Alaska way and the mighty atom of rassledom, Ray Villmer has caused quite a stir in the ranks of the faithful here. Villmer has gained quite a following in the city after his defeat of towering Hi Lee and his defeats at the hands of villainous Strangler Bob Wagner. Yukon, who enters the ring garbed in dungarees, and a lumberman's shirt kicks off his timberman's boots and goes to work in his bare feet. A huge bloke, his muscular development especially in the biceps and chest is well-nigh an immovable object for the opposition. However Villmer figures he can wear down the big boy with his agile action and heave him for the fall. His favorite weapon is the airplane spin and when he picks up the huge Eric — if he does—and whirls him aloft — that is something we must see. Ray McClarity meets Toar Morgan in the semi-final with Al Korman meeting Billy Stack in the opener.

SPEEDING IT UP!

The National Hockey League Governors have moved, through minor rule changes, to place more emphasis on effort in Big Top hockey of the future.

A meeting this week in Montreal decided to call for a "delayed whistle" when a team at full strength ices the puck. This is to give opportunity for a fast skater on the team icing the puck to retrieve it before the defending team can get to it. If that occurs, play goes on without any whistle.

A league spokesman said: "This means that the defending players will have to hustle back to get an iced puck instead of proceeding lazily after it, knowing that a whistle is coming anyway. It should speed up play."

Another rule change: When a short-handed team flips the puck high out of its home area and toward the opposing zone and it is knocked down by stick or glove by the opposition, the face-off will take place in the opposition zone. Heretofore the face-off occurred where the offence took place.

The governors also cracked down on the players who squawk long and loud over receiving a minor penalty and delay play. Henceforth the penalized player must proceed immediately to the penalty box. If there is to be any protest, it can be made only by the team captain or his alternate.

They also ruled that if one player at a face - off insists on jockeying about, the referee can call for another player to take the face-off instead. Should both players facing off engage in jockey tactics, they can be given minor penalties.

Marty Marion Proves Old Cardinals Don't Die With His First Grand Slam Home Run

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Old Cardinals never die. Take Marty Marion for instance.

For 11 major league years, Mr. Shortstop went quietly about his business. Never did he hit a home run with the bases loaded. Never, until Thursday night.

Marty waited until they really needed one. With Brooklyn in town and the Cardinals scrambling to wipe out the May 18 horror of blowing an 8-0 lead and losing 9-8, Marion hit his grand-slam homer. The resulting 5-2 victory hoisted St. Louis into a first-place National League tie with the Dodgers.

Howie Pollet, another Cardinal of 1941-42 vintage, backed up Marion's clout with a five - hit pitching job. It was Howard's first 1950 conquest of the Brooks, a club he used to whip regularly.

The sixth straight Cardinal victory may have been expensive. Two regulars, catcher Joe Garagiola and third baseman Tommy Glaviano were forced to leave the game because of injuries. Garagiola suffered a shoulder separation when he tumbled at first base. Glaviano injured an ankle at third.

Philadelphia Phils and Boston Braves both closed in on the Dodgers and Cards with afternoon victories. The Phils racked up Chicago 8-4, moving to within a half game of the leaders.

Simmons Wins Seventh

Curt Simmons, with his customary aid from reliefer Jim Konstanty, grabbed his seventh victory at the expense of Frank Hiller, routed in a five-run second inning.

Sid Gordon's grand - slam homer started Boston on its way to a 14-2 rout of Pittsburgh. It was the Pirates' ninth straight loss, their longest losing streak in 11 years.

Cincinnati and New York split a twilight - night doubleheader with the Reds taking the second game 5-2 behind Ewell Blackwell. A four-run rally in the 9th inning gave the Giants the opener 8-7.

Rain washed out the Detroit at Philadelphia and Cleveland at Boston night games in the American League.

Coming from behind to tie in the ninth, the Yankees finally whipped Chicago's White Sox 6-5 in 10 innings. Joe Page who followed Allie Reynolds and Bob Porterfield to the mound, picked up his third victory by working only the 10th inning.

Three successive singles enabled St. Louis Browns to nip Washington 5-4 in 12 innings. The Senators, somewhat provoked when Bob Kuzava and Cass Michaels failed to show up after their recent trade, apologized to the fans.

First Baseman Turns Pitcher, Does Good Job

Pittsburgh, June 2 — (AP) — Things are tough at Forbes field these days, what with Pittsburgh's Pirates wallowing in their worst slump in 11 years. But it wasn't sheer desperation that prompted Pirate manager Bill Meyer to send first baseman Jack Phillips to the mound for a five-inning pitching chore against Boston Thursday.

Meyer had been grooming Phillips for twirling work since Pittsburgh Hornets bought him from New York Yankees last August.

Phillips got his first call after the Braves had run up a 10-0 lead over the slumping Bucs at the end of the fourth inning. He got off to a shaky start, dishing out a double to Tommy Holmes, singles to Bob Elliott and Walker Cooper and a wild pitch, permitting Elliott to score.

Then the six-foot, four-inch right-hander bore down and retired the side, striking out dangerous Sid Gordon in the process.

With his powerful delivery zipping along in a variety of fast-breaking curves and tricky drops, Phillips retired 11 consecutive Boston batters. He ran into trouble in the eighth, but his infield mates pulled him out with a double play.

In the final frame Boston scored another run on a pair of hits for a 14-2 final score and ran the Bucs consecutive losing streak to nine games,

Although he had done some pitching in college, Phillips broke into organized baseball in 1943 as a first-sacker and stayed there.

After Thursday night's game, Meyer enthused:

"The big boy showed me an extra good fast ball. It might even be the best one I've seen from any of our hurlers."

Braves' manager Billy Southwarth remarked:

"Our boys thought Phillips looked good. He had a good sinker but experienced a lot of trouble with his curve."

Henrich's Sore Knee Something Beyond Cure

(By The Canadian Press)

A doctor told Tommy Henrich Thursday that the main trouble with his sore knee is something beyond cure—age.

"After 13 years of baseball he told me I've got to expect some wear and tear," the 33-year-old New York Yankee veteran reported after examination by Dr. George Bennett at Baltimore.

It was the second time in less then two months the noted healer of baseball players' ailments looked at the left knee of one of the game's greats.

"No change, no change," repeated Henrich coming out of the office after an hour and a half.

"He just told me to go on playing as much as I wanted and to take it easy as much as possible. No special treatment."

Dr. Bennett told the big first-baseman and outfielder the same thing April 10. Since then Henrich has been forced three times to the bench by the knee trouble.

However, he's played in 21 of the 38 Yankee games and belted the ball at better than a .350 clip to drive in 20 runs.

At Victoria, B.C., the touring English Football Association team Thursday night defeated Victoria All-Stars 3-2 before 4,200 fans but on the run of play the result should have been five or six goals to one.

Victoria's two goals came from penalty kicks, the second against goalie Stan Hanson.

The English team held the crowd spellbound with their scintillating footwork.

Featherweight champion Willie Pep was ahead all the way Thursday night in winning a unanimous 10-round decision over Terry Young, 138½, New York, in a non-title bout at Milwaukee.

Pep, who weighed 131, threw the hook at Young, who kept coming on all the time in the face of repeated rapier-like left jabs and straight rights.

William Woodward's Prince Simon, second in the Epsom Derby, Thursday was made a 2-to-1 favorite in first betting on the Sept. 9 St. Leger, second of the English flat-racing classics. Double Eclipse, owned by Lady Zia Wernher but trained in the same stable as the American-bred Prince Simon, was a 7-to-1 second choice.

Jersey Joe Walcott, American heavyweight boxer, flew into Rome Thursday from Germany to see Pope Pius.

He arrived with this trainer, Dan Florio, and said he wants "to see the Pope and how Rome looks during Holy year." After a few days in Rome, Walcott will visit Stockholm, where he is expected to hold three exhibition matches.

Wings' Advance Due to Hitting Of 'Hoot' Rice

(By The Associated Press)

One of the reasons advanced for the rapid rise of Rochester Red Wings to first place in the International League is the batting of Hal (Hoot) Rice.

Rice, a 26-year-old outfielder, has whacked the ball at a resounding .511 pace in the Wings' last 13 games to bring his season mark up to a lofty .382.

During the 13-game hitting span Rice has 23 hits in 45 trips to the plate, including eight home runs, two triples and three doubles.

Rice, who never hit more than seven home runs in any of his previous four playing seasons, started the Wings to an 8-3 victory over Buffalo Bisons Thursday night.

The lefthanded hitter socked his ninth homer of the season in the first inning and the Wings were never headed.

Don Richmond followed up with a three-run homer, his seventh of the year, in the third and Russ Derry drove in the Wings' final three runs on his ninth-round tripper and a pair of singles.

The home-run barrage enabled veteran Johnny Wittig to coast to his first victory of the year.

Baltimore and Springfield were rained out. The other teams were idle.

Navy Stages Good Fight Card In Armouries

Top-flight entertainment for lovers of boxing is scheduled for the armouries tomorrow (Saturday) night when the Royal Canadian Navy (R) stages its initial show here starting at nine o'clock.

Ten fast rounds are on the card headlined by clever Jimmy Wise, 123 pounder from the Police Athletic Club, Brockville, who meets Maxie Males outstanding puncher from the Diamond Athletic Club, Toronto. These fighters are said to be evenly matched and hold impressive records. The bout will go five rounds if not terminated otherwise.

The five-round semi-final sees Dick St. Louis crack fighter of the Trenton RCAF meet Gene Powers, another clever slugger from the Diamond Club, Toronto. They will battle at 160 pounds.

What is expected to be a standout fight of the evening is scheduled between Donny Spears, featherweight champion of the Maritimes and Bombardier Bobby Smith of the RCAS, Picton. This is a special feature match and might easily "steal the show."

Other bouts include Herby Pare of Picton and Hal Hamelin, of Brockville; Sgt. Don Blair, Brockville and Johnny White, Kingston; Sig. "Nick" Procemko and LAC Langlois, Trenton RCAF; Ray Ansom, Vimy, and Pat Fraser, Trenton RCAF; "Shorty" Hunter, HMCA Cataraqui, Kingston, and Johnny Bell, Kingston; Don Plane of Napanee and Dell Smith, of Kingston and "Butch" Durant of Brockville and Eddie Casselman, Brockville.

Referees are Sgt. "Hub" Smith, Trenton, and Sgt. Frank Smith, Kingston. The bouts are being staged by the kind permission of Lt.-Col. G. W. McGregor, officer commanding the armouries and Commander H. K. Hill, RCN (R) commanding HMCA Cataraqui.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, June 2 — (AP) — It must be the weather. Shag Shaughnessy, the International league president, was putting in an off-day cussing the elements and chuckling over some recent major league player trades - - - "Rain," he said. "Del Webb tells me in Kansas City they haven't played a home game where they could have batting or fielding practice. They've had to keep the tarpaulin on the field right up to game time - - - But we got by Memorial Day all right and had some nice crowds - - - It was real nice to be sitting there in the sunshine." - - - (Maybe that's the next baseball novelty —playing games in the afternoon with the sun as a big selling point.) - - -

"What do you think of that White Sox-Washington deal " Shag asked, and without waiting for an answer be continued: "They were trying all spring to sell those two pitchers, and they were going to hold out for big prices - - - So they wind up having to trade with each other - - -

Some of the writers are saying Ray Scarborough will go to the Yankees - - - After putting out a lot of money for Fred Sanford and Dick Wakefield, I don't think George Weiss will ever buy a player again." - - - He looked out the window again at the rain.

Cleaning the Cuff

Maurice Podoloff is heading for Europe to check up on Harlem Globetrotters series of sellout basketball games and maybe pick up a few ideas to help building attendance in the National Basketball Association - - - Maybe he'll bring back a folies Bergere routine.

St. Catharines Fighter Wins Close Decision

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 2 (AP) — Fritzie Pruden, 146, St. Catharines, won a close 10-round decision over Don Williams, 146, Worcester, Mass., Thursday night in the feature fight at Fort Hamilton Arena.

One judge scored it 5-5. Another judge and Referee Teddy Martin gave Pruden the edge, 6-4.

It was a rugged battle all the way with no knockdowns but stiff punching by both the welterweights.

Fort Hamilton promoters said a return engagement would be sought at an early date.

Pruden brought blood to Williams' nose midway of the fight and in the eighth opened a gash over the Massachusetts fighter's eye.

The wounds bled profusely in the ninth round. Between the ninth and 10th rounds a doctor examined the damage to see whether it would be advisable to stop the bout.

After considerable consultation, it was decided to let Williams continue.

Pruden had a gash over his right eye at the finish.

The two battlers stood toe-to-toe, punching away at each other. The referee had to break few clinches.

Dromers Win Double-Header In Bowling Loop

Belleville Bowl-O-Dromes pulled an "iron man' stunt last night when they won both ends of a double-header in the Quinte Bowling League. They defeated the Trenton Guays by a 4-3 count in Trenton and then went on to Brighton where they defeated the village team by a 5-2 score.

Bill Bateman, of Bowl-O-Drome stood out for his team, bowling triples of over 700 and 800 respectively.

The Dromes are now tied for first place in the league standing with the Trenton Guays.

Sunday Sport Issue Starts ArgumentonFloor

Peterborough, June 2—(CP)—A resolution on Sunday sport from the committee on Evangelism and Social Service started a difference of opinion Thursday on the floor of the 25th Bay of Quinte conference.

The resolution recorded the conference's judgment that the recent amendment to the Lord's Day Act permitting sports on Sunday is "contrary to the principle of the Fourth Commandment, to Canadian criminal law, and is liable to lead to confusion respecting observance of the Lord's Day throughout the province."

Prominent conference lay member, Elmer Davis of Kingston, said "we have not all the facts before us; I sincerely hope this resolution will be deleted."

Rev. M. J. Aiken of Peterborough said "the law is not a thing to be understood only by lawyers —it is for all the people..

"We have the right to express an opinion when we think something is wrong. We don't have to wait until some expert lawyer expresses an opinion for us."

Rev. Dr. G. A. Brown of Kingston asked for a show of hands of those who had read the amendment to the act.

There were no hands raised.

The resolution concerning the amendment was referred back to the committee.

Hitters' Night In Intercounty

(By The Canadian Press)

Tuesday was hitters' night in the Intercounty Baseball League.

In the two games played, 43 hits were chalked up.

At Stratford the home team squeezed a 14-13 win over St. Thomas Legion by virtue of George Boniface's single in the 10th. At Brantford Coach Bob Whitcher of the Brantford Red Sox pitched his team to a 4-2 win over Galt Terriers.

Stratford included two home runs in the 11 hits they collected from Wally Wilson who issued 13 walks, hit three batters and unleashed two wild pitches. Three Stratford pitchers — Arnie Jarrell, Moe Sporn and Vern Richardson — were shelled for 12, with Richardson getting credit for the win after taking over in the 10th inning.

Although Galt found Whitcher for 12 hits, he was able to tighten up in the pinches. Righthander Johnny Krall from Louisiana, pitching his first game for Galt, allowed nine hits before Don Keller replaced him in the eighth.

At Kitchener announcement was made Thursday of the signing of infielder and utility man Orville Cott, recently placed on the voluntarily retired list of the Lockport Reds of the Pony League. In addition, Don Lavelle, right-hander from Canisius College, Buffalo, has been signed.

Three games are scheduled for tonight: Guelph at St. Thomas, Galt at Stratford, and London at Kitchener.

BREAKS SPEED RECORD

Cleveland, June 2 — (AP) — The lake freighter Wilfred Sykes broke a speed record in making the 837-mile trip from Superior, Wis., to its home port at Indiana Harbor, Ind., in 54 hours and 35 minutes, the Lake Carriers Associated announced Thursday.

The association said the previous record trip is about 69 hours. The Sykes, largest ship on the Great Lakes, carried 17,655 tons of iron ore.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Many a bid and made slam should never have been there. The fact that it was made does not prove anything. The odds against it being a success is so great that it comes under the head of foolish.

Again see this duplicate deal:

NORTH
♠K J 2
♥A Q 3 2
♣A J 9

WEST
♠Q 10 3
♥None
♦Q 9 7 6 4
♣K Q 8 7 4

EAST
♠A 9 8 6 4
♥J 9 6
♦J 5
♣10 6 3

SOUTH
♥K 10 8 7 5 4

North became the declarer at a contract of six hearts and made it. The reason he made it was because he got a lucky opening lead. And because he brilliantly worked out the squeeze that won.

The rule bidding goes like this:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 H	Pass
2 H	3 D	Pass	Pass
3 H	Pass	3 NT	All Pass

If south prefers to stretch a little, he might go to four in hearts. But he would be overbidding his hand by one trick if he did so. Therefore, it would be practical but not rule.

As the cards lie, four hearts can be made with a finesse in spades even if east starts with a club lead that is small. But give east the west queen of spades and four hearts could be defeated.

On the other hand, there is no lead that will defeat three no-trump. Not that this makes the bidding correct. What makes the bidding correct is the actual following of rule.

This will no doubt bring me a number of protests. But only is such protests offer mathematical proofs, are they worthy of any serious acceptance. And the bids shown above can be proved.

Two raises in number by south consume his four tricks. North has only the five tricks promised by his opening. But he has one voluntary no-trump bid with his fifth high card.

No substitute for proof are sneers and jeers and spoof.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 2—(AP)—Bud Abbott and Lou Costello are celebrating their 11th anniversary and Lou says "we're planning on 15 more."

Explaining the long and stormy association, Lou—he's the fat one—added: "we just couldn't bear to be separated; Siamese twins have that trouble, too."

How long have they been in movies?

"Fifteen years," said Bud.

"Ten!" rebuked Lou. "Ten years in the movies, dope!"

This sort of banter goes on constantly. For although the comics are partners, they are competitors as well. Whether they are on stage in a "who's on first?" routine or offstage, in a cut-throat rummy match, they are constantly at odds.

Constant Competition

"Whatever Bud gets, Lou wants too—only bigger. As a result, both have outside businesses that rival those of Crosby and Hope. The competition reached the point of a split-up five years ago. But after a few months of name calling, they reconciled.

The duo first met while performing separate acts in burlesque. Lou had worked unsuccessfully in the movies and Bud came from the circus. They teamed up and their violent comedy became a sensation.

Despite the sneers of arty film critics, A and C continued to rate high in the box office polls. They placed just below Hope and Crosby in last year's list of money making stars. Their studio figures that the boys have brought in $70,000,000 in their decade of film making.

Capsule Reviews

"Mystery Street" (M.G.M.) is well above the average run of crime detection films. This modest little picture is a fascinating study of how a rookie detective (Ricardo Montalban) with the aid of a Harvard professor, solves a murder. Intelligent scripting and direction holds the attention throughout.

"Curtain Call at Cactus Street" (U.I.) doesn't pretend to be anything but entertainment and it generally succeeds in its purpose. It gives Donald O'Connor a chance to display his many talents, aided by Gale Storm, Eve Arden, Vincent Price and Walter Brennan. The story concerns an acting troupe in the west. Lively entertainment but short of being a hit.

TAXI DRIVERS STRIKE

London, June 2 — (AP) — Taxicabs were scarce in London today as 4,000 hacck drivers went on strike to enforce demands for a bigger slice of the fares.

About 2,300 cabs operated by owner-drivers were not affected by the strike but virtually all union members refused to work.

Taxi fares went up one-third Thursday and the drivers said they had less business and smaller tips. London cabbies receive no salaries and in the past have retained one-third of the fares plus tips. They are striking to get a 40-per-cent slice of the fares as compensation.

The principal male actors in the film are Patric Knowles and Sessue Hayakawa.

Plumbers Coast To Second Win In Softball Loop

The Stephens Adamson entry in the Commercial Softball League found the road to softball glory full of rocks last evening as they went down 16-0 in front of a strong Howe and Hagerman team in a regular league fixture at the Alemite field.

It was the plant crew's second loss in the "A" section of the league and marked Bob Hunter's second win on the hill for Howe and Hagerman.

Howe and Hagerman took advantage of several SACO miscues in the early frames to build up a commanding lead and then coasted on to win. Manager Cy Barriage threw in 13 of his charges to give most of his potent lineup a workout.

Home runs by Roger Mallory and Ed Donovan, and triples by Wardhaugh and Spafford featured the plumbers 13 hit attack against three SACO hurlers.

Day started on the mound for SACO and though he limited the opposition to two hits in three innings, three walks and three errors gave the plumbers six runs and Day was replaced by Wright. Wright pitched through the seventh giving up eight hits and two walks for seven runs and Dempster went the final frame being tagged for three hits and three runs.

Neither in Danger

Bob Hunter started on the mound for Howe and Hagerman and in five innings limited SACO to two hits and no walks, while striking out four for no runs.

Al Adams came in for some practice and over the rest of the route gave only three hits and one walk for no runs and was never in danger, as he kept the shutout intact.

Line Up: SACO— Trueman, ss; Temple, 1b; C. Frain cf; Page, replaced by Orr in 9th, lf, 1b; Deline c, lf; Day, Wright, Young, p; Palmer, replaced by Moult in 9th, 3b; Sinclair 2b; Rivers rf.

Kingsridge

By Alice Ross Colver

Susan was floating on a pink cloud. Never, never, she told herself, had she been so happy. It had been wonderful to have her her grandfather turn out to be a darling, after all. She had felt in her bones all along that he would be. But she had never dreamed of his finding the place for Gerry that he had found in Lester Brandt's plant. Of course Alicia must have had a hand in that, too. But anyway, it was simply super. It was near at home for one thing. When she and Gerry were married, it would take him only half an hour to drive up the river from wherever they were lving to his work. For they'd have a car by then. A cute little Austin, maybe. And on the days that she wanted it, he could take the bus the way he did now. None of that awful commuting to New York. He was lucky!

Lucky in other ways too. It was a good set-up there. Donald had been viewing it with hopefulness for himself. More than once he had remarked that with Lester and Alicia having no children there was a swell chance there for some bright lad. Well, maybe in the near future, Gerry and Don would take over together Imagine! Oh, such a thing was a long way off, of course. But it was definitely a possibility.

She moved closer in Gerry's embrace and laid her cheek against his coat, humming the music to which they were dancing.

He looked down at her. "What are you thinking?" he asked.

"About you. Us, I mean."

"What about us?"

"Lots of things. Where do you think we'll live—for one?"

"I don't know. I hadn't gotten that far." His eyes held a little surprise that she had.

"You'd better begin to get that far, then!" She tipped her head back and looked up at him smilingly. "Don't you realize we're announcing our engagement tonight?"

years of college ahead of you."

He nodded. "But you have four

"That's what the family thinks.'

"Don't you?"

"Nunh-unh. Not more than two at the most. Maybe only one. It depends on you. On how fast you get raises." She snuggled against him and her words became a whisper. "Sometimes, Gerry, I can hardly wait."

He pressed her to him. "Neither can I," he said. "Neither can I."

They danced in silence a moment. Presently she sopke again.

"Remember the last time we did this?"

"Danced you mean?"

"Yes."

"It was at your school."

"Oh, I didn't mean then! I meant the time before. Here. At the Christmas party. Then everybody was staring at you so curiosly! So cruelly, Gerry, the way Kingsridge people can when a stranger appears. A sort of 'Who-are-you - and - how - do - you dare - come here?' look. You know? They discredited you. That's why I planned the announcement this way tonight. I wanted a big party again and the same people here who were here before. I wanted them all to see that you're one of us. Accepted." She lifted her eyes. "Was that mean of me, do you think?"

"It was adorable."

"You like it really?"

"I love it!" They stopped as the music stopped, and he stood looking down at her seeing as he had seen her at their first breakfast together at the Inn, someone wholly beautiful, wholly desirable, with a spirit burning for justice like a white-hot flame. "I love it," he repeated. "And you."

She put her hand on his arm. "Darling," she said, "when you look at me like that, and speak to me like that, you make little bubbles run up and down my backbone. It's marvelous. But I don't think it's too good for me. Not yet!" She laughed a little. "So considering that, and also all that Alicia has done for us, don't you think you ought to ask her to dance with you at least once? That will give me time to recover."

For the merest fraction of a second he hesitated, then he nodded. "Perhaps you're right," he said. "Will you excuse me?"

Gerry stood before Alicia and bowed low with mocking gallantry.

"May I have the pleasure, Mrs. Brandt?"

Alicia turned toward Lester. "You don't mind do you?" And without waiting for an answer, she rose. Because how could he mind? With Gerry accepted so many places now, even in Lester's own plant, he was helpless. This would silence Elizabeth too. She put her glass down on the small table beside her, and lifted her arms with lazy grace to Gerald.

They danced without speaking. He had not seen her since that night two months ago at the hotel when she had disappeared up the elevator with Frank. He had not wanted to see her. It had been only by staying away from her and keeping her out of his mind that he could hold down the unreasoning rage that stormed through him over that act of hers. But why did he care, he would ask himself? She was nothing to him. Nothing at all.

They moved with beautiful rhythm across the floor, both aware of Lester's following flat, cold eyes. Presently she gave a low,, throaty chuckle.

"What's so amusing?"

"I'm just enjoying the moment."

He spoke without looking at her, his tone holding a sharp edge. "You seize them and enjoy them as they come, don't you?"

"I have to."

"Why?"

"When you live on the edge of a volcano you have to learn to enjoy the sparks that fly your way."

"Don't you ever get burned?"

She put her head back and met his yes. "Yes," she said. "I was burned once pretty badly."

"You got over it quickly enough." There was a savage note in his voice that she had been hoping to hear. She said, very low, "I didn't get over it."

"I saw you with Frank! Going up in the elevator. You know it."

"But you didn't see me coming down five minutes later alone. I asked for your room number at the desk and they told me you had canceled it. You had gone."

His arm tightened. His whole face tightened. "I don't believe it."

"Yes, you do. You know you do."

He exclaimed harshly, "but why? Why the whole business then?"

She looked around. Someone—the Fergusons, bless them!—had come between her and Lester and were talking to him. She spoke to him with swift urgency. "Where can we go? I want to talk to you. I must."

He made no answer. But he moved with her into the hall and through that to the dining room. There was no one there. It was too warm for much dancing and most people had drifted out onto the great screened veranda. He said, "in here," and opened the door to the back hall. A moment later they were in the unlighted conservatory.

They walked, without speaking, to the far end. But the feeling they invariably stirred in each other did not need words. It was there. It had always been there. And the silence about them and their sudden isolation made a denial of it useless.

2 HIGHWAY WORKMEN KILLED AT MARYSVILLE

Guay Implicates Others in Death Of 26 on Plane

Convicted Jeweller 'Talks' Awaiting Death Sentence

Quebec, June 3 — (CP) — Jeweler J. Albert Guay — the man who time-bombed an airliner to kill his wife — has made a statement to police and reports have it that he has implicated several other persons.

Premier Duplessis admitted Friday Guay had talked, thus confirming rumors he had made a confession.

Guay, who did not testify in his own defence at his trial and who decided not to appeal the verdict of guilty returned against him March 14, is scheduled to be hanged June 23.

The Premier, who did not reveal the nature of Guay's statement, announced that a decision would be made next week in the matter.

The man who will probably be called upon to make the final decision — whether other persons said to be accused by Guay should be prosecuted or not — is Hon. Antoine Rivard, Quebec Solicitor-General, a noted criminologist.

Mr. Rivard prepared the prosecution of Guay in collaboration with Chief Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion.

During his trial, witnesses related how Guay, infatuated with a 19-year-old waitress, arranged to have a time-bomb manufactured and placed aboard an airliner on which his wife was a passenger. The plane exploded over Sault au Cochon, killing Guay's 26-year-old wife and 22 other passengers and crew members.

Reports that Guay had talked began soon after he was moved to the death cell of Montreal's Bordeaux Jail to await execution.

Police sources at the time said that the value of any statement by Guay, implicating other persons, would have to be dependent on other evidence police might be able to gather backing it up.

A crown attorney, explaining the bearing of a statement from Guay, said that, in law, it was the evidence of a convicted man, and that to be of value before a court it would have to be supported by independent evidence and independent witnesses.

One angle to be considered was the possibility of revenge as a motive for Guay's statements, this crown source said.

The first step the crown will take, if it is felt that Guay's own testimony is necessary in any further trial, will be to ask the Superior Court to grant a stay of execution.

'MARCH ON TOKYO' BY COMMUNISTS COMPLETE FLOP

Tokyo, June 3 (AP)— A communist "march on Tokyo" flopped today. So did a communist-called general strike for all Japan. Both had been set to protest the trial of eight Japanese who attacked United States soldiers Memorial Day—May 30. The eight were convicted this afternoon.

The communist failure here was complete. There wasn't a show of violence anywhere in Japan. Japanese police pulled the rug out from under communist plans by banning mass demonstrations outdoors.

The big blowout in Tokyo and the general strike were scheduled in retaliation for the arrest and quick trial of eight Japanese who stoned and roughened up five American soldiers.

The arrests grew out of Red demonstrations Memorial Day. They called a rally for the Imperial Plaza at the same time American troops were using it for Memorial ceremonies. Japanese police prevented the Reds from using it. The communists howled "suppression."

Later that day they rallied at Hibiya Park. Four soldiers of the U. S. Counter Intelligence Corps were assigned to observe. A signal corps photographer was there. They were attacked.

All Eight Convicted

The eight Japanese subsequently arrested were charged with assault and disobeying occupation orders. An American military court this afternoon convicted all eight on the assault charges.

Kaneji Onishi, also convicted of disobeying the occupation, was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment at hard labor. Six of his fellows got seven years, another five.

The only retaliatory show the communists pulled off today was an indoor union meeting that attracted about 5,000 persons. It opened and closed with the singing of the "Internationale," approved an open letter to MacArthur demanding release of the eight "patriots." There was no anti-occupation or anti-American talk.

The communists were meek enough in the face of 27,000 police. Some 2,000 of these were assigned to the Imperial Plaza and Hibiya Park.

The called general strike was a washout. The reds heralded in advance they would pull out about 400,000 of Japan's 6,250,000 union workers. Actually, an estimated 100,000 walked out.

Japanese students also issued a country-wide strike call for today that followed the communist party line. They had boasted that more than 20,000 would assemble. They mustered about 3,000 outside Tokyo, at Kawasaki about half way between here and Yokohama.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, June 3 (CP) —Synopsis: The second general spring rain in three days swept into Ontario Friday afternoon. Showers were still reported this morning in the lower lake regions. Northern Ontario has cleared and the rain was expected over in the southern sections by noon today followed by gradually clearing skies.

Drier and cooler air advancing from the Manitoba area already covers the Kirkland Lake and White River regions and will reach the lower lakes by early this afternoon. Prospects are for a sunny but cooler Sunday throughout the province.

Hormone Injections Can Break Up Alcoholism, Drug Addiction

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

New York, June 3—(AP)—Hormone injections can break up alcoholism and drug addiction, two physicians reported today.

They said evidence that both alcoholics and drug addicts suffer fro mthe lazy or impaired adrenal glands. Sleeping pill addists even show the same mental patterns as alcoholics, they said.

In both addictions, the glands apparently don't produce enough of the hormones that come from the outer covering (cortex) of the adrenal glands, they said. The injections overcome this lack. The hormone used is ACE.

The report was made by Drs. Harold Lovell and John W. Tintera of Flower and Fith Avenue Hospitals, New York, to the American Geriatrics Society. Geriatrics is the medical specialization in problems and diseases of old age.

The hormone injections "eliminate the torturing drying out period in alcoholism and lesson significantly the recurrent craving for alcohol," they said.

The physicians urged a triple treatment for alcoholism. One, the hormone injections. Secondly, a diet low in starches and sugars, rich in proteins, and medium in fats. And third, joining alcoholics anonymous for moral support.

The hormone shots successfully overcome addiction to barbiturates or sleeping pills, and to narcotic drugs, they said. The treatment was much the same, but with more frequent injections of hormone. Sleep pill addicts were sent to hospital for 10 to 14 days, and narcotic addicts for at least three weeks.

Dr. Lovell and Dr. Tintera called alcoholoism a disease with both mental and physical sides that act and react on one another.

Their studies show the adrenal glands failure is one of the main factors involved. This failure may come from an inherited tendency, or can be acquired, they said. It affects blood sugar and may have other physical effects.

The gland failure might even start through mental stimuli, such as grief or worry, they theorized. The emotional upset affects the gland, and the reduced hormone output then causes more nervous or emotional troubles, which in turn lead to more physical effects on the gland.

There is also evidence, they added, that alcohol and certain drugs may either start or aggravate the gland failure.

ALL-TIME HIGH LIVING COSTS ARE UNCHANGED

Lower Coal, Clothing Prices are Recorded

Ottawa, June 3 — (CP) — Declines in prices for women's wear and anthracite coal offset rises in beef and coffee prices during April to halt of four-month climb in living costs.

The bureau of statistics reported Friday that the cost-of-living index remained unchanged during April at an all-time high of 164.0 The index is calculated on the basis that 1935-39 prices equal 100.

Helping to arrest the upsurge in living costs were a four-tenth-of-a-point drop in the clothing sub-index, from 181.2 to 180.8, and a half-point drop in the fuel and lighting group, from 138.0 to 137.5.

Countering these drops was a slight gain in foods, which climbed one-tenth of a point, from 204.5 to 204.6. A five-cent decline in butter and small decreases in eggs and pork couldn't offset an increase of four cents in cofee.

This group now is 4.6 points below the peak of 209.2 reached in July, 1949.

Price reductions in women's wear caused the clothing sub-index decline. This group has been declining steadily from its all-time high of 184.1 in September, 1949.

Decreases in the price of anthracite coal proved more important than advances in electricity rates in some Ontario centres during April to bing this sub-index down a half-point first drop from its peak of 138.0 in March.

Rents were not surveyed during May and the index remained unchanged at 132.7. The miscellaneous group, which reflects price changes from medical, dental and personal care, remained steady at 132.3. The index of homefurnishings and services, unchanged from March at 166.4, was down 1.7 point from the peak of 168.1 in April, 1949.

Typhoid Breaks Out In Bavaria

Munich, Germany, June 3 (Reuters) — Seven persons have died and more than 350 have been taken to hospital in Bavaria this week in a typhoid epidemic which has been traced primarily to infected meat and dairy products, health authorities reported here today.

Schools and other meeting places in widely separated stricken areas have been closed. Inhabitants in these areas have been ordered to report to emergency inoculation stations.

Common High Authority With Full Powers Will Direct Coal, Steel Pool

Paris, June 3. (CP)—Six European governments agreed today to the idea of putting their coal and steel into a common pool as a means of unifying Western Europe. A common high authority with full powers would be set up to direct the pool.

In a joint communique issued in Paris, the governments of France, Western Germany, Belgium, Italy, Luxembourg and The Netherlands said they had "decided to pursue a common action of peace, European solidarity and economic and social progress."

Britain, waiting to learn what details would be worked out for the pool's operation, did not sign the communique. But in a separate statement the French Foreign Ministry declared:

"We are happy to know that the British government accepts the proposition to be kept informed on the progress of negotiations."

(In London, a British communique on the coal-steel plan said that the British government did not feel able to accept in advance nor did it wish to reject in advance the principles underlying the French proposal.

(The communique added Britain finds it impossible to join the negotiations on the terms proposed by the French government.")

It was the first time in history that six independent countries had agreed to meet and to pool part of their national sovereignty.

Sources close to French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, the author of the proposal, said they were convinced Britain eventually would join the group and place its coal and steel production under the control of the proposed international authority.

European economic co-operation went forward in a wider sphere Friday night as ministers from the European Marshall plan countries authorized formulation of a five-year program of co-ordinated economic development.

The program is aimed at expanding European production to insure a brighter economic future after Marshall plan money ends in mid-1952.

The ministers said the two years since Marshal Aid began had "clearly shown that European problems are inseparable from those of the whole western world."

They voted to invite Canada and the United States to send permanent observers to their council meetings and said all activities of their future five-year plan "should be undertaken in close co-operation with the United States and Canada."

Church Spire Hit By Lightning, Catches Fire

Brantford, June 3 (CP)—Struck by lightning Friday night during a heavy electrical storm, the spire of Central Presbyterian Church was damaged when fire started about 120 feet above the ground. Only the alertness of a church member who spotted the fire prevented serious damage. Firemen fought the blaze for nearly an hour before it was brought under control. The church spire is the highest in the city.

Mrs. John McEwan, a member of the church, was watching the storm from her apartment window with a neighbor, Mrs. D. Chisholm. Torrents of rain fell, accompanied by heavy crashes of thunder and sharp lightning flashes. After a particularly loud crash Mrs. McEwan spied flames shooting from the spire and called her husband.

Mr. McEwan ran to the street and informed police.

33-Day Strike Against UP Is Settled

New York, June 3. (AP)—The 33-day strike by teletype operators against the United Press was settled Friday on the basis of a $2.21-a-week general wage increase.

The Commercial Telegraphers Union (A.F.L.) agreed to send its 265 striking operators and maintenance men back to work at midnight Saturday.

The Union said the company agreed to add $1.19 a week to the wages of operators who work before 7 a.m. or after 7 p.m.

The company did not reveal any figure but said it adjusted the night differential to match an agreement between the C.T.U. and the International News Service.

In addition, the U.P. agreed to reinstate the Union Shop and to pay the operators $2 a month toward the cost of hospitalization.

The Union said the package agreement added up to a gain of $3.90 a week.

The company did not estimate the over-all cost.

The U.P. said the settlement terms—except for the night differential—were the same as those turned down earlier in the week by the union.

Base pay before the strike was $90 for a 37 1-2-hour week.

The union originally demanded a $15-a-week wage boost. They dropped this to $6.50 at one point in pre-strike negotiations. The company's best pre-strike offer was an increase of $2.21 a week.

Liaquat Ali Khan Meets Members Of Defence Course

Kingston, June 3—(CP)—During the visit to Fort Frontenac, where Pakistan Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan met members of the Defence College course, staff officers of the defence and army staff colleges, he formally presented the crest of the Pakistan staff college to the Canadian counterpart.

The crest was accepted by Lt. Gen. Guy Simons and handed over to Col W. C. Dick, director of the National Defence College.

The Pakistan party stopped long enough to have coffee with the officers before leaving for Royal Military College where he addressed the National Conference of Canadian Universities.

Duplessis Clears Way for Leader To Take Seat

Quebec, June 3. (CP)—For the second time, Premier Duplessis has offered to clear the way for the new Quebec Liberal leader to take a seat in the legislature.

Premier Duplessis, backed by a heavy Union Nationale majority, said Friday his party would not oppose George Emile Lapalme if he should attempt to enter the House by contesting a seat vacated by one of the ten Liberal seats.

At the same time he described Mr. Lapalme's reply to his first invitation as "pureile bravado". The Liberal leader had asked for a general election.

The Premier took up the subject anew at his regular press conference during which he announced that the Rimouski-Cabano relief had so far brought in $400,000 in money and goods.

The Premier also announced that at the request of Archbishop Paul Emile Leger of Montreal, legislation giving a new charter to the University of Montreal, would take effect Monday.

"I renew the generous offer made to Mr. Lapalme, said the premier, "If a member of the opposition will resign to give Mr. Lapalme the opportunity to obtain a Quebec Legislative Assembly seat, election writs will be issued in the shortest legal delay and the Union Nationale will facilitate, in these circumstances, the election of Mr. Lapalme by acclamation by presenting no candidates in such a by-election."

The Premier said there was no reason to call general elections at present because the Union Nationale Party won 1948 Quebec elections with 82 of 92 Legislative Assembly seats.

GOVT. HANDLING OF FREIGHT RATES COMES UNDER FIRE

Members Had Field Day On Controversial Issue

Ottawa, June 3. (CP)—Federal handling of freight rates went through the wringer in the Commons, Friday.

Members had a field day on the controversial issue for seven hours, with the government and its rate-making agency coming under heavy opposition fire and with Liberal members coming to their rescue.

The debate was still in full blast as the House rose after a morning, afternoon and night of freight rates. Two votes on the question had to be put over until next week.

Transport Minister Chevrier announced that the two opposition motions, censuring the rate-regulatory Board of Transport Commissioners, would be taken as motions of non-confidence in the government.

This indicated a vote on straight party lines, with Liberals lining up against the three opposition parties.

The votes will be on:

1. A motion by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, to cut the estimate for Transport Board administration from $621,800 to $1.

2. A motion by Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) to cut the administration appropriation by $1—the traditional way of expressing dissatisfaction with a government agency.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, told reporters that, in the event of his group's move being defeated, the C.C.F. would support the motion of the Progressive Conservatives. The Social Credit Party announced support for the Drew motion and likely also would back that of the C.C.F.

Failed in Job Claim

A general complaint of the opposition speakers was that the Board of Transport Commissioners had failed in its job by accentuating inequalities in rates in various areas by applying flat percentage increases.

Both Mr. Drew and Mr. Coldwell accused the Board of incompetence, declaring this had been indicated in a decision of last week in which it admitted making an error in a March 1 rate decision involving $13,000,000 a year in rates.

Mr. Coldwell and John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) called on the cabinet to use its disallowance powers to revoke the increases in the form in which they were granted.

Transport Minister Chevrier said it was true that freight rates in Ontario and Quebec were lower than in other areas but that no evidence had been brought forward since 1933 to show where there was "discrimination."

Old-Fashioned Magic Lantern May Become Major Aid Tracing Criminals

Los Angeles, June 3 (AP)—The old-fashioned magic lantern has been converted into a sharp-eyed detector which, although not yet on the market, has won its first case in court.

Called the "identicast" the device actually is a mechanical portrait painter and can "paint" a picture of a face from a verbal description with amazing speed and accuracy.

Its inventor, Lieut. Hugh McDonald of the Los Angeles county sheriff's office, believes it will be a major aid in tracing criminals.

It did all right in tracking down Charles Hubler, 29, convicted Friday of kidnapping assault with intent to murder, and robbery.

Pretty secretary, Marilyn Danson, 23, was accosted on a dark street March 4, dragged into a vacant lot by a man and shot in the head.

In the first test of the identicast, Miss Danson watched while several front view outlines of heads were flashed on a small screen. She selected one resembling that of her assailant.

Then, while the head outline remained on the screen types of haircuts were superimposed over the scalp-line. Next came the ears—there are 20 variations of them. Then eyebrows, eyes, noses mouths and chin lines were added.

In each case Miss Danson chose the feature resembling that of her attacker. When she had finished she asked that the nose be moved up a bit and one eye moved down slightly.

An artistic deputy, Sgt. Charles Schaeffer, put the final touches on the drawing. It was compared with pictures in the files and strikingly resembled that of Hubler.

The types of features are drawn and photographed on film which is projected on a wall or screen by the small identicast. Types of shading also are on the film and may be added to increase the likeness.

Faces can be made up on the device in one to three minutes. It's just a matter of pushing a button. All the paraphernalia is carried in a small suitcase. It weighs but 31 pounds.

The identicast not only composes faces, it photographs its portraits so they may be sent to other police departments.

Napanee Men Back Into Side of Truck While Pulling Cable

One is Killed Instantly, Other Dies in Hospital

Death struck twice Friday afternoon on No. 2 Highway 15 miles east of Belleville when two employees of the Ontario Highways Department were killed as they backed into the side of a passing car transport.

Dead are George F. Richards, age 70, and Morley Kimmett, 45 both of Napanee. Richards died instantly while Kimmett died an hour after being admitted to Belleville General Hospital.

The two men were reported on the highway three miles west of Deseronto repairing guide rail posts. They were reported to have been pulling a guide rail wire away from the posts and as an eastbound Charlton car transport passed loaded with three vehicles the men stepped back into the side of the passing truck.

No Eye Witnesses

Police said there was no eye witness of the accident and the driver of the truck, James Smith of St. Oztique, Que., said he had not realized the men had been struck until after he had stopped his vehicle. Mr. Smith told police that he realized something had struck the side of his truck as he passed but thought it was the end of the wire being handled by the men.

A double inquest looking into the deaths of the two men has been ordered, the preliminary hearing being held this morning before Dr. D. C. McVickers of Deseronto. Dr. McVickers attended at the scene of the accident.

Jurors empanelled for the inquest are Tom Jury, Bill Doran, Thos. Colden, Elwood Dulmage, and W. E. Burham. Provincial Constables J. Thompson and I. Finkess investigated the accident.

Field Marshal Smuts Has Restful Day

Pretoria, South Africa, June 3 (Reuters) — An official bulletin issued today said Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, 80-year-old former South African prime minister now ill with pneumonia, has "maintained progress."

His doctor said Smuts was bright and talkative.

A bulletin last night said Smuts showed "a slight improvement" and added "the cough is easier and he had a restful day."

MEMBERS VOTE TO RETAIN NAME OF DOMINION DAY

Ottawa, June 3 —(CP)—Liberal and C.C.F. ranks in the Commons were split Friday night in a vote which reversed a decision made two years ago on the question of changing the name of Dominion Day—July 1—to Canada Day.

Members voted 73 to 39 to kill a bill that would have changed the name of the day on which the anniversary of confederation is celebrated. In 1947, a similar bill was adopted by the Commons but defeated in the Senate. Both measures were sponsored by Phileas Cote (L—Matapedia-Matane).

The division cut through the ranks of the Liberal and C.C.F. parties. The Progressive Conservative and Social Credit members voted against the measure.

Cabinet Ministers Divide

Works Minister Fournier, government leader in the Commons, voted for the measure. His cabinet colleagues — Veterans Minister Gregg and Resources Minister Winters— voted against the bill. Labor Minister Mitchell said he would have opposed it if he had not been paired.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and other members of the cabinet were not in the House when the vote was taken. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and Solon Low,, Social Credit leader, led their supporters in opposing the measure, which cant be revived again this session.

Only Bill Debate

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, also voted against the bill, but five of his supporters voted for it.

In a brief debate preceding the vote, Mr. Mitchell said that without "any mental reservation whatsoever, I can say that I like the word Dominion, and you can put on it whatever construction you like." He hoped he would never see the day when Canada was not a member of the great family of British nations.

2½ lb. Goldfish Caught in Net Off Point Petre

Wanted, a bowl for an oversize goldfish.

It seems there is no bowl available for the goldfish caught by Nelson Moore in a net off Point Petre the other day.

And there is a good reason. The "goldie" tips the scales at 2½ pounds.

The fish is now at Glenora Hatchery where it is being the subject of study.

A hatcheries official stated that when a goldfish is released to make its own way in life, it grows to a mature size. They have been found in the Detroit River and Lake Erie but it is believed the Nelson fish is the first caught in this district.

The fish has the same coloring as one raised in a bowl.

Albert College Dramatic Class Presents Plays

Under the direction of Miss Jessie B. Tuite, the pupils of the dramatic class presented three plays in Memorial Chapel at Albert College on Friday evening. They were assisted by the college choir, directed by Mr. J. MacKay, in three numbers, "Desert Song" and "I'll See You Again" by a choir of mixed voices, and "Passing By" by the male choir. These presentations reflected careful training and some excellent singing ability. Ron Guilfoyle accompanied at the piano.

In welcoming the guests, Dr. Bert Howard explained that acting was difficult work and was not accomplished in a few hours, but meant training throughout the year. "The enthusiastic spirit of an audience is caught by the actors," he said, and asked for a sympathetic hearing for the young Thespians. This was not difficult for the listeners, as the plays were lively with enough action and humor to hold the attention throughout.

The first play by the younger group concerned a young lad who was fascinated by the song of a mermaid and was almost lured to a watery destruction by her charms, but is saved by the intervention of his sister. The boy was played by Bobby Franklin, his sister by Carolyn Franklin, the mermaid was Deane Hales, and the mother, Mary Elizabeth Lally. The children were letter perfect in their parts and played their roles with confidence and assurance.

"Pearly Gates"

"Pearly Gates" was a presentation of sophisticated comedy. Two sisters, played by Vivian Cannon and Roberta Allen, are moving into a new apartment as the scene opens, and are helped or hindered in various ways by Aunt Aggie (Shirley Alyea) and Mrs. Lamb, a charwoman played by Helen Sulman. Things are further hampered by the arrival of the mother (Nancy David) who insists she has come to help, but whose help turns out to be critical contemplation of everything the others are trying to do. The harassed Monica is further troubled by the fact that her fiance has been escorting a movie queen named Pearly Gates (Marian Nevery) and she has broken off her engagement to him. A neighbor from downstairs comes in with complaints (Barbara Fargey) and the confusion is confounded, only to be saved by the arrival of Pearly Gates who explains things to everyone's satisfaction.

Maid of Orleans

The third play was in three scenes and concerned the statue of the Maid of Orleans in a play called "The Glorious Jeanne". The scene opens in a church square in Paris where a flower seller, played by Joan Torney, is talking to a a French police (George Mills) concerning the possibility of the statue coming to life on Christmas Eve. The French soldier decides to wait and see, and is joined by a British officer who puts a wreath at the foot of the statue and goes away, and later by an English Tommy with a Cockney accent.

At midnight the statue does come down and expresses her hatred of the English, but the French and British soldier explain that a sincere friendship now exists between the countries and they are allies. It carries a message of mutual trust and respect and the Maid is reconciled to the new status.

Pauline Cole had the difficult part of Jeanne; Frank Stakes was the British officer, and Drew McKee was the Tommy.

The characterizations were commendably done, the stage settings were simple but effective and the audience had an evening of good entertainment which made it enjoyable on both sides of the footlights.

On Thursday evening the graduating class of Albert College accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Hayman held their annual dinner and dance at the Bay of Quinte Country Club. Following the dinner, dancing was enjoyed to music supplied by the Blue Dot Orchestra. Several novelty dances took place with the prize for the girls' lemon dance going to Joan Liddle, and the boys' lemon dance to Eugene Broad. Winners of the spot dance were Jim Grieve and Midge Winter; and the broom dance, Shirley Paul and John Hayman. Eugene Broad and Teresa Lorimer won the elimination dance. Balloons and novelties gave added gaiety to the festivities.

Clubmen Armed With Axes, Saws Labor to Clear Site for Pool

Members of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville are not confining their efforts toward their proposed new community swimming pool solely to fund raising activities.

True, a general canvass by members of the club, together with other club activities, has raised over $17,000 toward their objective, but at the same time club members are putting forth some physical effort to get the site into shape and thus allow surveys and other preliminary work to be done.

Just this has been indicated on the last two night when club members armed with axes and saws have been seen downing the lush undergrowth and larger trees growing on the section of property purchased from Trinidad Leaseholds Ltd.

This particular piece of property lies immediately to the west of the former city tourist park on Dundas Street East, and with part of the tourist park will be the location of the swimming pool.

Although many of the club members possibly have not had too close an acquaintenceship with the tools of the trade, Kinsmen worked industriously with axes and saws for two nights. They downed the trees and piled the brush onto trucks for disposal at the city dump. There is still work to be done in cleaning up the site but club members vow they will stick at it until the work is completed.

Stage Set for Variety Show Being Offered Sunday Night In Aid of Flood Relief Fund

The stage is all set literally and figuratively for the tuneful variety show being staged in Memorial Arena Sunday night in aid of the Manitoba Relief Fund.

The two-bill committee (Bill Stovin and Bill Arnold) have lined up an imposing array of talent that should rate with the best presentations of its kind ever shown in Belleville.

Bandmaster Ted Robbins and his crack Belleville Municipal Band have dug deeply into their extensive repertoire and come up with a variable melodious program that will delight the hearts of band-music lovers.

Star-Studded Program

Included in the rest of the star-studded roster of vocal and instrumental artists are Bob Daniels and his Northern Electric quartet. Daniels and the boys have made an instant hit wherever they have appeared and tomorrow night, they promise the best offering yet.

Popular Bill Navin journeys here from Toronto for the express purpose of appearing on the show and his piano and vocal renditions with a line of comedy patter will be a special feature.

The beautiful voices of Ethel (Smith) Laurenson, Lorraine Marsh, Trudy Scott will be heard with those of Glen Hjalmarson and Ken Ryan. All are favorites with Belleville audiences and they have many tuneful numbers to offer Sunday night.

More Talent

Lovers of instrumental music will thrill to the artistry of Charles Cawker and Glen Tamblyn at the Northern Electric Hammond organ and piano. This duo have rehearsed several unusual arrangements and this number alone should be worth the price of admission.

The producers of the show are working hard to secure additional all-star talent and by the time the curtain rises, one of the best variety shows ever seen in Belleville should be ready for public presentation.

Patience Grooms Leader For Ranger Dog Team

By GRANT H. PEARSON

Those long winter nights I spent alone with only my husky sled dogs tied outside my shelter, as companions, made me realize their worth, not only as working partners, but as protectors. The distant plaintive howl of a timber wolf would always be taken up by the dogs, and many a night as I was sewing on that much-needed button or doing my washing, my spine would tingle at the mournful call of the wild.

The most important dog in any team is the leader. It generally takes at least a season to train one and the older the dog gets the better he becomes. Mike, my pride and joy, became a fine leader in a much shorter time, but it took years to give him the finesse that all good leaders should have.

He was one of a family of five Alaskan Husky pups, a dog that has a strain of wolf in his ancestry a little bigger than the Malamute, having straight pointed ears and tougher feet. Mike was dark gray in color with markings on his chest and rump, straight ears, and a bushy tail.

A Lazy Pup

As a pup he was lazy and spent a great deal of his time sleeping. That fall, I lived at the Toklat ranger's cabin, about 80 miles from McKinley Park Headquarters, making boundary patrols until freezeup. Mike was five months old then, and I took him with me for company and he gave me much pleasure in my spare time.

Huskies are seldom given the privilege of coming into a cabin, but one could not resist Mike's winning ways. I taught him to get under the table where he stayed hours at a time, his head on my stockinged feet when I sat at the table. From this habit, my friends, seeing his two beady eyes peer out from the shadows, dubbed him "Under-the-Table."

This was the beginning of a splendid career for Mike. I had great hopes that he would develop into a fine leader, as I had noted his reactions to commands. He was rather young to be put to harness, so I just let him run as a roving partner these final few months, all the time breaking him of the various habits a young dog always has and teaching him some special tricks.

Amusing Accomplishment

During the days when I left him inside, I taught him how to open and close the door. This was one of the most amusing accomplishments, well worth the time I spent teaching him. Sometimes he would become so excited that he would forget.

One time he was sleeping on the porch and woke me up in the middle of the night, scratching and whining. I grabbed my flashlight thinking that nothing but a pack of wolves could give him such a fright. He bounded in with such force when I opened the door that he almost knocked me off my feet.

I went outside, listening and looking for those shining coals that wolves' eyes make out in the brush. I found nothing, but close by I heard an owl hoot then again and again. That was what had scared this 65-pound pup. He looked at me with that quizzical expression as if to say "I can't see anything to laugh at, I'm scared," and crawled under the bed as far as he could get, and I let him stay.

Sympathetic Approach

Remembering how I felt when I first heard the soft swish of wings of the great horned owl and its plaintive, hair-raising call as I lay trying to sleep under the starry skies alone, I felt he had a right to be scared.

Mike loved candy, recognized the sound of a bar being unwrapped and would be on his feet apparently out of a sound sleep begging for a bit. Another delicacy that he loved was the sourdough's favorite—hot cakes.

After breakfast, as soon as I as much as moved a foot, Mike would saunter over and nudge me to remind me that it was his turn.

I always made several small cakes for him, and, after mauling him for a while, complied with his wishes. He had his share of bacon, too—one would not expect a ranger to have all the bacon and his dog go without.

When I was patrolling he was right at my heels. In fact he never let me out of his sight. When I sat down, he flopped down, too, to indulge in his favorite sport—sleep laying his head on my feet. The first few times I took him out, he wanted to chase game, but after a few gentle whippings and twice as many scoldings, he would just stand and gaze longingly at them.

The Moment Arrives

The snow began to fall after a month's stay at Toklat. This gave me the chance I wanted. I proceeded to build Mike a sled and to fashion gear for his harness.

It was an easy job to get him into harness so we were ready to go to work at once. He was curious about the contraption, but after taking a good look and a few whiffs, seemed to understand what it was for. It seems to be a natural thing for an Alaskan Husky to work, so he wasn't long before he was pulling the little sled whenever he went with me on my patrol trips.

Snow became deeper, making my patrolling more difficult, so I decided to go to headquarters for a dog team. Mike was getting on so well in his harness that a team would help complete his education as a team dog and I was sure he would become a good leader.

Off we started. I had to take enough food along for myself, fish for Mike, and my sleeping bag. The little fellow followed me, pulling his sled with a load of 25 pounds. It took about four hours to travel the 11 miles to the East Fork cabin, but when I unhitched him at the end of the day, he nonchalantly make several quick circles at top speed around the shelter as if to show me that there wasn't anything to that trip.

Good Time Made

We made good time over the tundra, around niggerheads, and fording streams—all good experience for the leader-to-be. Picking out the dogs for my team, next day, "Under-the-Table" Mike was first in line with his two brothers, Buck and Sox, and four other pups, Warbucks, Oyster, Wooley, and Jack.

This particular time, I used the old system of breaking in the pups by putting them next to a dog that knew how to work in the harness. That rascal, Mike, gave me more trouble than any of the rest which amazed and disappointed me.

When I got him in the team along with the others, it frightened him, he held back and wouldn't budge. The others were anxious to go as they loved to work, especially after they knew what it was all about, and anytime six huskies drag one lone pup along, he's bound to get some rough treatment. Poor Mike was so stiff next morning that it was several days before I tried to work him again.

Perhaps it was my handling him too much out in the park where no other dog was around that got him off to this wrong start. I just had to get him used to the other dogs before his education of the lead began, so the next time I hitched him up, it was with the two best dogs we had to break pups with, Bos'n and Skipper, two beautiful huskies, patient and understanding. It wasn't long before he lost his fear of being with the others and worked right along with them.

My biggest worry was not having a leader for this young gang. A dog is usually worked one winter before he is broken in the lead, and I had no such dog except an old veteran of 11 winters named Sandy, as faithful a dog never could be found, but it was doubtful whether he could keep up with the young blood.

Sandy Gets Tired

He had served his time as a trail dog and we used him only on short runs. However, I had to get back to my Ranger Station, so I decided to take him for a starter. Then after I was situated for the winter, I could train Mike.

The first day out, Sandy got tired and it took about twice as long to make the 10 miles to the first shelter cabin at Savage as it normally would. The pups were having a grand time and at the end of the 10 miles they had just warmed up. After four days of travel, making no speed record, we arrived at Upper Toklat relief cabin.

It was 25 miles down the river bar to Lower Toklat Rangers cabin, and the longest run I had made with the dogs. The old leader couldn't keep ahead of the younger pups, so when we got about two miles along, I unhooked Sandy from the tow line and made him a loose leader—a leader who continues to lead his team but does no pulling.

This was much easier on Sandy and he trotted along in front of his team, his tail up over his back proud as a peacock. He knew he was very special and seemed to understand why I did this for him.

We made the 25-mile trip in 3½ hours. The dogs had a 30-minute rest when we were about half the way.

Rest for Pups

But now I decided that Sandy wasn't going to work any more, not even as a loose leader. He had served his time and from now on, as far as I was concerned, he was to be pensioned off and enjoy himself, taking it easy. I rested the pups two days, then started to teach Mike some of the things leaders must know.

First, I snowshoed trails on Toklat River; in places I had forks in the trail. I hitched five of the pups to the sled with Mike in the lead, said, "All right, Mike," and he started right-off. When he came to the place where the trail forked, I stopped him by saying, "Whoa!" and stepping on the brake at the same time.

He passed the trail a few feet, so I said "Gee!"—the dog mushers' term to turn to the right. He looked around as if to say, "What in the world does 'Gee' mean?" I walked up to him and put him on the other trail, repeating the term "Gee."

When we came to another fork in the trail, we repeated the performance. The next step was to teach him that "Haw" meant "Turn to the left." The first day proved him to be a very intelligent little fellow as he understood "Gee," "Haw," and "Whoa," and responded perfectly to each of them.

Even where there was no sign of a marked trail, he knew these commands. This was very encouraging, and this was all I taught him the first day.

The next day, his schooling in leadership continued, and I taught him what "Easy" meant. I would step on the brake slightly to slow the sled down and say, "Easy, Mike."

Every time I say "Easy," I would step on the brake and he soon knew that that meant to slow down. After these few lessons, I never had to step on the brake when I wanted him to slow up his team. Then I taught him to turn completely around. This was done by saying, "Gee, Mike," and he would turn to the right.

I stayed back of the sled, holding onto the handle bars, and as he turned, I said, "Come here to me." He would then be making a complete turn with his team. I would say, "All right,' 'and he would continue back on the same trail on which he had been before he made the turn.

Must Be Kindly Treated

Only patience and understanding of pups can accomplish these important little tricks they must be taught. Any lover of dogs knows how quickly they respond to love and kindness, and how utterly impossible it is to accomplish anything in any other manner.

Whenever I stopped my team, I always made the dogs lie down. This lessened their chances of running away. There is great danger of their doing this at times, especially if they sight a herd of caribou. I had to teach my leaders to pay no attention to caribou.

Regardless of how eager the other dogs are to chase them, the leader must stay on the trail and keep his team on the job. It would take about 20 seconds for a team to upset the sled and destroy everything in it if they ever started after caribou, or any other wildlife.

The equipping, training and care of the dog team is only one incident in the day's work, and only incidental to the big job of a ranger who is not only keeping constant vigilance over his beloved country, but also in keeping in ever-ready condition, equipment for instant use whenever a situation demands.

But, being the only means of transportation during the long, cold winter months, it is only natural a ranger should have respect and admiration for the Husky or Malemute that helps him on his job of patrolling the borders and interior of his vast estate—the park.

Twenty thousand miles I have mushed over lonely trails, but each mile has been well worth the effort expended, and many a night as I sit before the roaring fireplace with my little daughter on my knee, enjoying the highest privilege of man—a home —a lump comes into my throat when I think of the loyal companionship of my dogs, so often my only companions, my only bulwark against utter loneliness.

MODERNIZATION

Montreal— (CP) — After 34 years, the Smoke Prevention Society of America has decided its name is outmoded. At the society's recent convention here, it was decided to change the name to the Air Pollution and Smoke Abatement Association of America.

THIS MODERN AGE

Stratford, Ont.—(CP)— Cars, yes. But horses, no siree. When a horse escaped from the stable of a local dairy recently it dashed into a garage. The mechanics took a look, dropped their tools and left. They remained out until a stableman came for the horse and took it back where it belonged.

In the garden with walls of green and a ceiling of blue of gray sky, growing flowers can be arranged to extend the season of bloom and effect the most pleasing color effects.

The domination of red in flowers such as red cannas, red salvia, red roses, red geraniums has been deposed as the principal color in the garden. It is useful against shrubbery backgrounds but bright red destroys the delicacy of garden arrangements which look best in combinations of orange and yellow, pink and yellow, blue and white. The most effective groupings display harmony by contrast. The above diagrams show what can be accomplished to obtain beauty of arrangement and color in your garden.

KILLING WITH KINDNESS

"They kill with kindness." That is exactly what many ersons, who would not willingly harm any person or thing oughtlessly do during early summer to numbers of baby wn deer throughout Ontario," say Conservation Officers the Department of Lands and Forests of Ontario.

"Unfortunately each year a large number of fawns are aken from their hiding places by people who think they re doing a humane act, but the truth is that these people re doing far more harm than good."

The authorities say that "for several days after it is orn the fawn is kept hidden by its mother in a secluded pot where the doe's instinct tells her that it will be safe rom marauding wolves, other predators and human bings, hile she is away foraging for herself. Often she will be nly a short distance away, possibly just out of sight.

"If the young fawns are handled while the parent deer absent the chances are good that the deer, on returning, ill be repelled by the human scent and because of her ild nature may desert her baby. Left to its own resources he fawn would probably not survive, officers explain, because it is almost impossible for it to obtain the proper ood, especially when just a few days old.

"With its silkywhite-spotted fawn-colored coat, delicate trembling legs, large ears and big questioning brown yes, the wilderness baby is especially hard to resist by omen and children for it looks so helpless and apparently ost in the wilderness.

"But these 'kind' persons would leave the fawns strict- y alone if they realized that their touch in itself might oom the baby deer to slow death from starvation, or if hey could realize how heartbroken its mother would be on eturning to find her baby stolen."

There are special cases, however, where it is known hat the mother deer has been killed by a train, car or dogs nlawfully left to run at large where deer frequent. When young fawn is found under these circumstances and aken home it is advisable to contact the local conservation officer at once who will issue instructions for its proper are or see that it is given a secure haven.

"Laws are provided for the protection of wildlife and is against the law to take or molest deer out of season— oung or old," is the reminder of game officers.

"ONLY 74," NOT OLD SOLDIER

"Only 74" years old a soldier wants to enlist. Old oldiers never die but this one does not even consider ading away. Robert Clayton presented himself in a soldier- manner at the door of the North Nova Scotia Highland- rs last week and demanded to join up with the Reserve nit.

When he was asked about his military experience, he aid, "a bit, a bit." That bit was more than 50 years' assocation with the Army. Including service with the ancient rd British West Riding Regiment at the turn of the cent- ry and five years with the Canadian Expeditionary Force uring the First World War, his Army record looks like six ards of market reports from the New York Stock xchange.

"Physical condition?" asked the medical officer.

"Good shape," came the reply.

"Any injuries, disease, or serious illness in your life- me?"

"Well, I froze my left foot while playing in the band at ir Charles Tupper's funeral (about 1889) and I had rheu- natic fever 58 years ago."

Subsequent examination proved Clayton to be correct. ffliction, five per cent disability of the left foot and per- yes, ears, glood pressure, etc., were all good. His only aps a slight reticence in admitting exact age. There are ome who say the age of 74 was a year Mr. Clayton enjoyed few winters ago.

TWO MORE FILMS ON ARMY LIFE COMPLETED

Two more films depicting life in the various corps of he Canadian Army have been completed by the National ilm Board for the Department of National Defence and ow are being shown to troops for the first time.

Although not restricted, the new films are primarily or military consumption and deal with the duties of the oyal Canadian Corps of Signals and the Royal Canadian rdnance Corps in peace and in war.

They bring to five the number already completed. At east that many more are planned. Earlier ones dealth with ife in the Royal Canadian Artillery, the Royal Canadian rmy Service Corps and the Royal Canadian Infantry. rench versions of the latter two have been completed and re now being distributed for showings in French-speaking amps.

Authorities say the films are proving invaluable in elping to indoctrinate and orient recruits and officer adets in the various duties of the corps to which they are ssigned.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NAMES

I rather like the idea of giving names to things that have seemed to me to be mis-named, or which, like an orphan, ought to be better named. The child can hardly own a trinket before it gives it a created name. Mere dolly is changed to "Pitty, Pitty."

Sir James Barrie used to call his stomach "Little Mary," and I read of another man who called his stomach "Alice." He would take out his watch at times, and remark: "It's time Alice had a bottle of stout!"

I am always intrigued by the names people give their Inns, or to their Summer cottages. I have even read of men giving their ties a name, saying: "I have my Attaboy on today." And people give their cars a name. I have a friend who calls hers "Gypsy." Many years ago I had a small, compact Franklin car that I named "The Little Baked Potato."

Curious, and famous, have been many of the names of Inns. I recall one in Boston called "The Bell-In-Hand," borrowed perhaps from some old English Inn, as so many of the early American names were.

Elbert Hubbard, in his day, created a most unusual Inn called the Roycroft, where I often visited for several days. Each room was named after a famous person, and everything in it had something—a book or pictures—to remind you of that person.

I think it a fine idea to give a personalized name to something intimate. I knew of a man who liked to carry a cane and called it "John." It made him feel less lonely as he took a stroll. A boat, or yacht, with an interesting name is always noted. The name gives character to it. I recall the name of one — "Wanderlust."

Publishers and writers give more time and thought to the naming of a book today than ever before. Often a name sells it, though it may not keep it alive! My first little book of talks was named "You Can." It went into twenty editions, over a period of more than 25 years, but I have always contended that the name did it.

I think the names of race horses sould be improved upon, but perhaps that would spoil the fun of those who love this "sport of Kings."

Milkmen Deliver Lectures on Use Of Empty Bottles

Liverpool, June 3 —(Reuters) —Dairy diplomats are trying to persuade Liverpudlians that empty milk bottles are not the place to keep tadpoles.

Liverpool milkmen have been worried for some time by the city's habits of holding up return of their "empties' 'to use them as turpentine, gasoline, oil and hair shampoo.

But, when they found that one bottle had been used for several weeks as the home of a shoal of tadpoles, they felt the thing had gone far enough.

Now, when a milkman finds a bottle has been used for some purpose other than containing milk, he notes the address. And later a tactful dairyman calls to deliver a doorstep lecture on the limitations of milk bottles.

Rejoices That Tractor Ousts The Horse

By Grace Luckhart, in The Vancouver Daily Province

I read some statistics the other day that breeders of heavy horses in England are disturbed at the serious falling off in the number of animals kept on the farms. They want the Heavy Horse Societies to increase the interest of young farmers in horses.

This story goes on to state that "it is felt young farmers and farm workers are suffering from what is described as, 'over-mechanism' and this is reacting to the detriment of the horse and the farm."

I think myself, that all this is a very healthy sign and shows that the young farmers of England are well aware of the benefits of mechanization. After all, the machine seems to be here to stay.

Before me is the classic example of my brother, who is still on the ancestral farm. It took him a long time to become tractor-minded. He liked his horses. Besides, during the war years and after, there was a shortage of machinery. He had to wait until a couple of years ago to get his tractor. And like a woman with her first washing machine, he can't imagine how he ever managed without one.

"What are you doing about your horses?" I asked him when he was here in the Winter.

"I sold one the day I left," he said. "I have the cheque for it in my pocket."

"That's good," said I, remembering the price of horses when I was young. "You can blow it in on this holiday."

"I can't blow very far on it," said he. "It's for $4.75."

"Good grief," said I, stunned. "It wasn't worth selling."

"I know, but I couldn't bear to shoot it. What could I do?"

Every time he gets to thinking about his horses, he can easily save himself from some grief by getting his mind on his beautiful tractor.

I'm glad the tractor has come into its own. I never was a horse fancier. I was scared to death of them. When we had a team that had enough "getup and go" to even live, it would run away. Either that or one by one they died on us.

In those days horses were a terrific price. Two or three hundred dollars. Dad would go over to Derby Township and buy a good-looking specimen, and no sooner would we get used to it, than it would take something and the "farrier" had to be sent for from Tara.

The animal usually died. Don't ask me why. We'd have liked to know that ourselves. And it usually died before it was paid for, which made the tragedy worse than ever. Of course, nobody had ever heard or even dreamed of a tractor in those days, except somebody like H. G. Wells; or Tennyson. I don't remember them mentioning tractors in their writings but if I could have had that dream, I'd have felt happier about the whole thing.

Another thing that has had a hallowed place in song and story is the plow and the plowman. When the poet Gray tells us that the latter "homeward plods his weary way" he doesn't mention that likely part of his weariness is that the plowshare has to be sharpened before he can do another furrow. He's likely carrying it.

If he lived as far from the blacksmith shop as we did, and had to transport as many as I had, he'd have been weary, too.

My father did beautiful plowing, especially in the West where the sod was broken for the first time. One job he undertook to do for some American neighbors was 100 acres of first breaking.

In that job you could get quite sentimental about the passing of the Red Man. You might even pick up a few arrowheads. You had to watch out for buffalo skulls and bones generally cluttering up your plow, and when you came to a buffalow wallow, you might get sentimental about it, but it didn't help to keep your furrow straight.

My father may have felt all this, but there was something he felt more. The people who owned the land abandoned the whole thing and he was never paid for his work.

Let's hope he got something from the background.

Old Rifle Going to The Museum

Cody, Wyo. — Buffalo Bill's historic old Winchester is coming home.

The famous old repeater used by William Frederick Cody, and symbol of the spectacular fighting days of the early West, will join other historic mementos of the legendary scout, hunter, Indian fighter, and showman in the Cody Memorial Museum here on July 4.

Private Collection

The rifle is from the private firearms collection of Col. Walter F. Siegmund, official of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company division of Olin Industries, Inc., and will be presented during the Frontier Day celebration, according to Mary Jester Allen, niece of Colonel Cody and founder of the Museum.

Buffalo Bill's rifle which he made famous as "the gun that won the West" is a model 73 lever action repeater. Cody described it as "the boss" for hunting and Indian fighting and said an Indian would give more for it than any other rifle. One of the first repeating rifles, it had a 1-shot magazine, and it was said that it could be loaded on Sunday and fired all week.

The Model 73 is also the namesake of the new motion picture "Winchester 73" with James Stewart.

Once in the Black Hills Cody saved his life with one of these rifles by firing 11 shots into a wounded bear that charged him from only 30 feet.

Frequently described as the "Buffalo Bill rifle," the Model 73 established the world-wide reputation of the arms company founded by Oliver F. Winchester in New Haven. A total of 720,610 rifles of this model was made until 1924 when it was discontinued.

Buffalo Bill's famous rifle is still in excellent working order.

Buffalo Bill, who was both a live hero and a legend during 48 out of the 71 years of his exciting life, was born February 26, 1846, in Scott County, Iowa, near the town of Le Claire and died January 10, 1917, in Denver, near which he now rests on a promontory of Lookout Mountain.

Long-Haired Chief

Cody who became known to the Indians as Pa-Has-Ka, the Long-Haired Chief, shot his first deer at the age of eight, his first Indian at 11, rode for the Pony Express at 14, and became a scout at 15. At the ripe old age of 23 he began a dual career as a picturesque live hero as well as the legendary figure who fought his way as a champion of law and order and upright living through the pages of more than 900 dime novels.

It was in 1869, when Cody was only 23, that Edward Zane Carroll Judson, better known as Ned Buntline, gave him the name of "Buffalo Bill" in the first of the 900 dime novel stories that described Cody's exploits. With Judson's death in 1886, Col. Prentice Ingraham, one of Cody's cronies who also had an intimate knowledge of his life, continued the dime novel saga that kept generations of youngsters pulsating to Wild West adventures which have been perpetuated in Western movies, radio and television programs and comic books.

Cody enjoyed the unique distinction of having an entire literature built around his life while he was still alive, and it was difficult to determine whether his experiences portrayed in the dime novels were more dramatic or incredible than those he lived.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis, or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letter should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address: Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.)

HOW'S YOUR LIVER COMPLAINT?

I have long suspected I might have liver trouble, snipes a masked person from ambush. What would you advise for it? The sniper, of course, does not sign his or her letter. Hence I do take it seriously. But it may serve as a theme for a few drizzletory remarks.

When I was a boy on Chapel Street in Canandaigua in the good old days there was little distinction attached to liver complaint. You could step into Simmon's drugstore any time, choose an almanac from the assortment kept in readiness, open it at almost any page and there you were.

Even along Chapel Street, which was never nearly so snooty as Gibson Street, although I daresay, a cut above some other streets we need not mention here, there was a case of two of lazy liver, sluggish liver, liver trouble, liver complaint, too much bile, thick bile, bile on the stomach, yellow bile, green bile or black bile in every house save one. That one unbilious house was the Brady place. We just couldn't afford liver pills, that's all, not when senna leaves and salts were so cheap.

For the record I'm proud of it now) let me repeat that in those days the Brady family, usually seven persons, lived and lived well on a monthly income of $35. That was a feat even when eggs were nine cents a dozen and round steak (better than any so-called steak you can buy today) was three pounds for two shillings.

This sniper's suspicion that he or she has liver trouble would not interest a doctor if the sniper removed his or her mask and consulted the doctor in the open

Such notions merely waste time when one seeks medical advice. You dumb laymen do not listen to what I tell you again and again, or, if you listen, you dismiss my advice as applying to other people's troubles, not to yours. Nevertheless I'll tell you once more. When you consult a physician leave your own funny notions as to the cause and nature of your trouble out of it. You are not paying the doctor for the satisfaction of impressing him with your superior knowledge or medical matters, are you? If you inflict your sophomoronic views upon him you may be sure you are boring him and when the doctor is bored in that way he cannot help wishing to get rid of you as soon as possible.

Don't approach the doctor with your asinine suspicion that you have liver trouble, bad nerves, too much acid in your system, eye-strain, weak blood, a sinus condition, high blood pressure, gout or mucous colitis.

A person with common sense begins the interview with the doctor by telling the doctor what ache, pain, fear, incident or other symptom or occurrence brings him or her for advice. In other words the patient should tell the doctor what he or she complains of, not what he or she thinks a doctor would diagnose. We are assuming, of course, that you consult a good doctor. Otherwise, if the doctor you select is one who likes to play along with gullible customers and wiseacres by agreeing with the ready made diagnosis and precaribing what he or she thinks the sucker wants ... well, that's your funeral.

Now that I have got this black bile out of my system maybe we'll have something more helpful to say about liver trouble in the next talk on this subject.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Chalazion

Chalazion in lower eyelid. Will it eventually impair vision? Is surgery the only treatment? Would it be dangerous to let it alone for a while? (Mrs. K. W. A.)

Answer—Removal of the mass through small incision in outer lid or through lid lining, according to the conditions present, is the best treatment, painless under local anesthesia. No particular danger to eye-sight whether surgery is employed or the trouble is let alone. But it seems silly to endure the annoyance, just because of childish fear of the doctor.

Hernia, Rupture, Breach

Kindly explain the difference between hernia, rupture and breach. If you have any advice about these troubles I'll appreciate receiving it. (J. L.)

Answer—They are three words for the same condition. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet.

MARTINETS AND MASTERS

The great maestro, Toscanini, appears to be coming to the termination of his career amid great triumphs. Or is it the termination? He is passed four score years and still holds the respect and affection of the musical world. No one complains that the old man is slipping and should quit.

Toscanini's greatness appears to a certain extent at least to reside in his firmness. He is said to be a terrific taskmaster. He lashes his players until their tongues hang out, but they all love him. Why? Because they say there is no man who can bring good musicianship out of his players like Toscanini. He brings out the best that is in them.

We should all ask ourselves, should we not, what effect we have on the people round about us. Some people have a genius for bringing out the bad in everybody. Other people have the glorious gift of bringing out the good. Some of the world's greatest teachers have been severe, tough folk. But every great teacher is a person who brings out the best in people he teaches.

Martinets sometimes achieve little triumphs, but truly great leaders succeed in transmitting their greatness to the people they lead.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Luck has a feel to it. A great many people love the sensation of luck. They thrill to the impact of luck on them, even in small quantities. This must account for the immense following horse playing, cards and other generally trivial forms of gambling have.

Luck in large quantities is another thing entirely. It is like a thunderclap or an avalanche. It must be very unsettling. But little luck, luck pattering down in small driblets and trickles, is somehow soothing to the human spirit. You feel Fate is gently smiling on you.

In the out of doors, people have hunted and fished for centuries: and apart from the sheer fun of being in the open air, this mysterious appeal of petty luck must play a large part in the attraction of such sport.

In recent years, the sport of bird-watching has been tremendously on the increase. It has taken the British films to give it a fresh impetus in Canada and the United States. Bird-watching now appears to be like a sport rather than a hobby. Like golf or skiing or fishing, it takes you out of doors. There is a technique to it, though your only weapons or implements are a pair of binoculars and a small pocket field guide to the birds. There is a score in it. Each day in the field, you try to run up a score of wild birds seen. But more than that, you are trying to increase your "life list." That is the chief score: the number of different species of wild bird, from whistling swan and eagle down to hummingbird, that you have spotted and identified in your life.

Here is where luck comes in. As you proceed through the years, luck lets you add a few new birds to your life score each season. But even when you become a great expert in your locality, with from 250 to 300 on your life list, luck still lures you on. For there are over 800 species not including sub-species, to be seen on this continent.

Uncle Dudley's Modern Fables

Kiddies I should like to tell you a modern fable about a poor boy with few connections who worked hard all his life and what eventually happened to him.

Broadrib Z. Blertz had every right to expect that someday he would be president as he had a very humble birth. A humble birth always seems to be a good start for a president.

Well, Broadrib prospered on the excellent medical advice that was available to him through the generous goodness of an all-seeing providence in the national capital who dispersed eight dollars monthly to his mother as a bonus for being a mother. This bonus was just what was needed by little Broadrib's mother to pay the increased cost of bread and milk and meat will all-seeing providence in the nation's capital had set as the basic minimum necessary for sound economy. It almost covered, but not quite, the extra income tax paid by little Broadrib's father who had been raised to a new wage level by the monthly munificence from the all-seeing providence in the nation's capital.

But Broadrib, uncomplicated by a knowledge of federal subsidies and the theory of federal tariffs on oranges, thrived and grew, gradually, into a strong young man.

Broadrib was quite a remarkable young man and though he wanted to go to college, he didn't feel he could because once he was twenty-one he would no longer be classed as a dependent and his father simply couldn't afford the expenses of college and the support of the government at the same time. So Broadrib went out to work.

Working in itself is usually a shattering experience until the unpleasant aspects of starvation due to not working are fully realized. But Broadrib took to work like a cow to a salt lick at the princely pittance of twenty dollars per week. His first pay envelope contained nineteen dollars and seventy-two cents. This narrow-minded bit of money-pinching on the part of the company astounded Broadrib who felt that when he contracted to work at twenty dollars per then be hanged he expected twenty dollars per.

But Broadrib was new on the job and thought that in a week or two the thing would right itself. Thus reassured he fell to with even greater enthusiasm.

The pennies were missing again the following week. Outraged at the thought of being robbed, Broadrib took his case to the management who explained that the money went to the government as unemployment insurance and that when Broadrib was out of work he could get his money back if a doctor gave him a certificate of invalidism.

Broadrib took it like a stoic until the day he found a little slip in his envelope telling him that he owed the government income tax on his salary as well as on the money he had already paid them for insurance. Adding insult to injury was not Broadrib's idea of a joke.

And then one day Broadrib discovered that the all-seeing providence in the nation's capital was spending his money to buy up surplus material so that the price to him could be maintained at its exorbitant level. He was outraged. Then when he heard that the surplus commodities were being sold outside the country below current world prices to countries who were spending his money which had been loaned them at no interest, he broke down and wept.

And that kiddies is just about all there is to tell, except to say that at present Broadrib is enjoying the social security so wisely provided by the all-seeing providence in the nation's capital as patient number 4B-23456 at the "Rest Home on the Hill." Tune in next Saturday for another of Uncle Dudley's "Modern Fables."

Some Rubbishy Statistics

(Saturday Night)

We do not know where the statistics about Canadian expenditure on charity cigarettes and liquor, which is currently running around in the press, came from, but we violently sent it. We do not at all object to the estimate of $930,0000,000 a year for liquor and cigarettes, considering the appalling price of these commodities, which is largely the result of the taxation that has been heaped upon them, that figure seems very reasonable.

It is after all only about $65 per annum per capita, or rather less than the price of 80 cocktails in an Ontario dining lounge; and while it is true that a lot of Canadians, includng those under 21, who do not drink cocktails as a general rule, we still feel that even with their cocktails distributed among the remaining part of the population the per capita allowance is unduly heavy, especially as every packet of cigarettes, smoked by a person addicted to that vice diminishes his cocktail allowance by half a cocktail.

But we do object violently to the estimate that the charitable contributions of the Canadian people amount to only $35,000,000 a year, and indeed to the whole idea that the charity of the Canadian people can be accurately expressed in terms of statistics. We do not know where this figure was obtained but it is absurdly low even for the charitable donations which are claimable as deductions from taxable income — and which, unfortunately, cannot be accurately stated because they are not distinguishable from donations to religious and educational enterprises.

But in spite of the fact that it brings no tax exemption, there is still an enormous amount of private person-to-person charity in this humane and kindly world, and even in this humane and kindly country of Canada, and most of the people who perform these acts of private charity do not know themselves how much they spend on them let alone being able to tell a statistician.

A very large part of this person-to-person charity is performed by individuals in the low-income groups whose income tax is not sufficiently burdomsome to make it worth while to bother with the exemption; and many of the rich who know that they will exceed their 20 per cent allowance for charity anyhow go on giving to personal cases which appear deserving without paying any regard to the tax factor.

The idea that Canadian charity is less than a measly three dollars per head per annum is preposterous. And of course a very substantial portion of what is collected from us by taxes goes to purposes which, if not describable as charity, at least replace what used to be charity and diminish both the need for charity and the capacity of individuals to be charitable.

The taxes we pay for old age pensions and children's allowances should certainly relieve us of part of our obligation to the aged and the prolific.

KLONDYKE NIGHT

Irvines Landing, B.C.—(CP)—The second annual Klondyke Night of the Pender Harbor Branch of the Canadian Legion found plenty of "suckers" playing games of chance in aid of a fund to build a new hall. feature of the festivities was the "hanging" of the "sheriff" — Legion president Ernie Cotton.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

FATHER FEEDS MOTHER

This is such a busy season for the birds. At first there is all the excitement of love-making, then finding a suitable site for a home, followed, in the case of most species, by the actual building of the nest. Finally both eggs and newly-hatched babies must be sat on continually in order to be kept warm.

This last duty is a full time job for one parent. Sometimes they take turns at the incubating. You have no doubt watched Mr. and Mrs. Robin changing guard: the bird on the nest suddenly looks alert, then flies off, just in time to give place to the other one. Very often the mother is expected to take complete charge. This is certainly very true of ducks in general, because once the eggs are laid the males desert entirely—they are not even within call.

However, it works the other way round with a few species. The black-poll female allows the male to feed the young, and poor Mr. Wilson's phalarope is/absolutely tied by household cares while his wife disports herself.

Some husbands are most attentive to their wives, especially when they are particularly busy brooding the young ones. Dear little Mr. Goldfinch brings food to his wife when she dares not leave the nest, and she thanks him in soft, murmuring tones. Father Blue Jay likewise feeds mother when she cannot very well get about to do her own shopping. When the young marsh hawks are still in the nest and mother is working at top speed to find enough mice, snakes, or small birds to satisfy their lusty appetites, father sometimes comes to the rescue in a most spectacular manoeuvre. On finding a nice suitable tid-bit he calls out to his wife to meet him and he will give it to her. Then, flying a little way above her, he drops the food, which she catches in mid-air.

A busy mother is not the only bird to receive food from another adult. Instead of presenting flowers or chocolates to their loved ones, both the common tern and Bonaparte's gull bring offerings of fish when they are courting. But do not be misled into thinking cedar waxwings are always making love when you see them passing a cherry from bill to bill. The fruit might be passed on to five or six different individuals. This may be from politeness, but the chances are it is owing to repleteness.

Chocolate Supply May be Affected by Cocoa Disease

By GRAHAM JENKINS

Accra, Gold Coast, — (Reuters) — In 20 years, it may be difficult to get a cup of cocoa or a bar of chocolate as it was to get a drink of Scotch or a pair of nylons during the war. "Make mine vanilla" may become the order of the day, for the world's largest cocoa-producing area is threatened with extinction.

Fifteen million cocoa trees, bitten by the tiny, virus-infected mealy bugs, are dying here every year. In 20 years, there won't be any more trees, experts say, unless they can find some way of successfully combatting the bug. Thus far, their efforts have been unavailing.

The only other cocoa-producing area of any importance is Bahia Province, Brazil.

British experts say that 50,000,000 of the Gold Coast's 400,000,000 trees are infected. The disease, known as swollen shoot, has devastated nearly one-third of this colony's cocoa-producing country since its discovery in 1932.

Only new planting has enabled the West African farmers to keep up production. Loss of the industry is estimated to exceed $600,000,000.

Scientists thus far have no cure for swollen shoot. Their advice to the cocoa farmer for years has been to destroy trees showng symtoms of the disease. But their advice has been largely ignored, in spite of government payments for every tree eliminated.

The government met the challenge by appointing a commissioner of cocoa rehabilitation to handle complaints, organize the cutting out and plan the containment of the disease. Now, 2,500.000 trees are being cut every year.

Since a cocoa tree may live for nearly 18 months after being attacked by the deadly bug, it has been difficult for rehabilitation officers to convince the conservative, illiterate African farmers that he should cut out infected trees immediately.

Experts have discovered that a bug which bites an infected tree can in 20 minutes pass the virus to another cocoa plant.

Oddly enough, the cocoa farmer is better off financially this season than ever before.

In the Gold Coast these facts provided by government sources make an ironic footnote to the story:

1. Farmers this year are getting a record price of $6.30 a load of fermented cocoa beans compared with $3.84 three years ago.
2. There is so much money in circulation that farmers are giving up food production and speeding the colony's inflation spiral.
3. This season's crop is estimated at about 250,000 tons, or only 30,000 tons less than last season's postwar bumper harvest.

But far-sighted officials and farmers say that this state of affairs cannot continue for long unless produces really get down to eradicating swoolen shoot, which, in spite of the colony's prosperity is costing about $15,000,000 a year.

Free Cars Annually For Senior Workers

Vancouver — (CP) — A Vancouver employer has hit on a unique way to get more work out of his employees—and they love him for it.

L. D. Dueck, president of an automobile firm, gives a new car each year to his 100 senior employees. Junior employees—those who have worked less than a year for the firm—get the use of a new car during their vacation.

Officials say there are no restrictions on who gets the car. They go to metal men and mechanics as well as department heads and foremen.

"The program means a continual, heavy capital investment," says Mr. Dueck, 'but we have found through experience that the investment is fully returned in first-class workmanship, greater plant efficiency and productivity."

Mr. Dueck started his scheme in 1942. He gave every employee a car during vacations. This worked out so well that in 1945 he decided to give senior employees the cars on a year-round basis.

The employees turn the cars in each year and receive a new one, equipped with licence and heater. There are no charges and no "ifs."

Alberta Politician Makes Fine Violins

Edmonton — (CP) — Because a bank clerk once traded boxing instruction for music lessons, Alberta's present cabinet includes a skilled violin maker.

He is C. E. Gerhart, provincial secretary and minister of municipal affairs.

The first fiddle he hand-fashioned is one of the most treasured possessions, appraised by at least one concert violinist at what Mr. Gerhart will only state is a "fabulous" figure. He is carving a second from the same pattern as the first. Three others are planned so that each one of his children and grandchildren will have one.

Mr. Gerhart first became interested in the hobby when he was a bank clerk at Stettler, Alta. An amateur boxer, he made a deal with a musician to teach him the violin in exchange for boxing lessons.

This led to the fiddle-building project. Bed-ridden with a knee injury, Mr. Gehart saw a violin pattern in a magazine. He started to work and in seven months had finished the job.

The second one is taking longer to complete, although in the meantime Mr. Gerhart had developed a set of precision tools for the job. These were fashioned from an old set of dentist's tools he begged from a friend.

The minister expects to complete his second violin by Christmas, and by then he expects to have the third started.

Mrs. Gerhart finds her husband's hobby satisfactory. Much of the work is so delicate that an entire evening spent at the hobby produces only half a teaspoon of wood shavings.

NIGHT WORK

St. John's, Nld. —(CP)—Residents were startled recently when they saw broom-wielding men out at midnight, erasing carefully painted traffic lines. It was not until the deputy mayor explained that he had ordered the erasure because the lanes were too narrow that the mystery was cleared up.

Air Stewardesses Have Long Hours but Wouldn't Change

By MARGARET ECKER FRANCIS

Vancouver, — (CP) — There's a pie in the sky for young Canadian women with an itch in their feet and a liking for people in their hearts.

As Canadian Airlines expand, there are more and more openings for air stewardesses — to take young women with the right qualifications from Montreal to London, from Vancouver to Tokyo, Hong Kong, Fiji and Sydney.

For the girl who yearns to see the world, it's a good life. At the same time, at the present, it is not an over-crowded profession. Like all jobs, it has its disadvantages: long hours; occasional risks; a salary scale perhaps lower than what the same qualifications might call for on the ground. But the girls in the trim uniforms of Trans-Canada Airlines and Canadian Pacific Airlines vow it's the best vocation in the world.

I flew recently from Vancouver to Nadi, Fiji, and back on a C.P.A. plane. On the way, I watched air stewardesses in action. When we left Vancouver airport in the dark greyness of early morning, the only alert and cheerful persons in the waiting room were the two stewardess — dark-eyed, freckled Helen McCraken of Toronto and Vancouver, and pert, petite Shirley Burgis, formerly of Sydney, Australia, now of Vancouver.

As the plane revved up, they served coffee and sandwiches until the "all aboard" was given. Then, as we took off through low clouds, they bustled the length of the plane, distributing magazines, pillows and rugs for those who wanted to resume an interrupted sleep.

Warmer Weather

After an hour's stop at San Francisco, with a taste of warmer weather, the two girls were looking tropical already, with navy gaberdine jackets off, in white sharkskin, short-sleeved blouses with navy-type epaulettes.

By the time the sunset was an orange glow ahead of the plane, people were sipping pre-dinner cocktails and the cabin was full of the aroma of sea-food cocktail, steak with green peas and fried potatoes, salad and a pineapple, nut and marshmellow desert. At 11.30 p.m., Hawaiian time, the plane touched down at Honolulu airport and Helen and Shirley ushered everyone through more landing routine and into limousines en route to the Niumalu Hotel for the 32-hour stop-over.

It is hard work, they both admitted. Between Vancouver and Honolulu they were on duty for more than 16 hours. As a result, the next day, while passengers gaze at tropical flowers and ogle Hawaiian dancers, the girls doze in their hotel or on the beach.

Between Hawaii and Fiji, it's the same story, and after a stop overnight at Nadi they are on duty until the plane reaches Sydney in the last afternoon. After a day and a half stopover in Australia, the plane heads north again. Altogether the girls are away from Canada eight days, during which they work 84 hours.

"That's our working month," explains Helen McCracken, "and so we have the rest of the time off, at home. That's one of the good things about this job."

Fascinating Business

Shirley Burgis operated a travel bureau for an Australian airline before she moved to Canada. "Once you're in the air business, it's so fascinating, you stay there," she said, her green eyes sparkling.

During the stopover at Honolulu I met Jessie MacLean of Edmonton. Jessie has flown with C.P.A. since the bush-flight days of the line. Now she is representative of C.P.A. passenger service in Hawaii.

"Perfect place to live, perfect job, what more could I ask?" she said.

Two weeks later, returning to Caanda, one of the stewardesses was Barbara Ayliffe of Port Alberni, BC., chief stewardess for C.P.A. Normally Barbara is in charge of training other stewardesses, but she pinch-hits if anyone is ill. She had just returned from a round trip to Hong Kong when she took off for the South Pacific; crossing the Pacific north to south, east to west, in less than two weeks.

"But it was fun, it's all fun," said the trim young woman. "Every trip is different and fascinating. All the people you meet travelling by air seem to be so nice and so interesting."

Future? Barbara a graduate of a Victoria Hospital, thinks there is one for air stewardesses who stick to the job. "But most of them seem to marry air crew, and then they are grounded."

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her lie about petting backfired

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About two years ago I went out with a boy and for the first time in my life took part in some pretty heavy petting. Last year the same thing happened again, but I am sure it won't happen anymore, as I have learned my lesson.

You see, the story has been passed around that I am a petter. I really have changed now, and I'm trying to be very different.

Now I have met a very nice boy whom I like a lot. Naturally, he has heard the stories about me. He told me it didn't make any difference to him whether they were true or not, but what would make a difference is that I tell him the truth. Unfortunately, I told him that the stories weren't true, and he believed me. Now he wants me to go steady with him, and I'm wondering if I should tell him the truth about everything, because it has been preying on my mind.—R.

Dear R.:

I don't see what else you can do except to tell him the truth, and, of course, you've only made it harder for yourself because you didn't tell it in the first place.

About all you can say now is that you liked him so much you didn't want to lose him, and see if that little bit of honest flattery will soften his heart when he learns you told him what wasn't true. If he is a genuinely understanding chap, he may be ready to forgive and forget, especially if you tell him you don't behave like that any more and are, as you say, trying to be different.

Don't allow yourself to mourn too long

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 17, and was very much in love with a fellow who died just a few days ago. My problem is that I still love him dearly, and cannot get over him.

I know it will take time, but I feel hatred towards other fellows who try to flirt with me or even if they only want to talk with me. I know this is probably wrong, but I cannot help it.

Please help me with this problem, for it is a very hard one for me to solve alone.

D. J. B.

Dear D. J. B.:

When people have to adjust their lives after the death of someone of whom they were very fond, it is always a hard problem.

What you will have to realize first, of course, is that sorrows of this kind are a part of life, and come to everyone, and no one can let himself be overcome by them.

It is perfectly natural for you to feel that no one can ever take this boy's place in your heart, and I am sure that you don't want me to tell you that, as time goes on, you are going to feel differently, and find new friends to interest you just as much. This is the truth, however, as you are certain to discover.

In the meantime, just remember that the best thing for you to do is to have the character to go out with other boys and be ready to be friendly with them. I am sure this friend whom you have lost would want you to do this, and, if he could know, would be happier and prouder of you, than if you sat around mourning over something that cannot be changed.

Divorce Prevention Organization's Aim

Vancouver — (CP) — Divorce, like disease needs a preventative rather than a cure.

Miss Harriet Parsons' organization — Family Service Association of America — supplies that preventative, she said in an interview and, furthermore, couples are taking advantage of it.

Miss Parsons is western field representative of F.S.A.A. with her headquarters at San Francisco.

Marriage is not the tottering institution that many people think, she said.

"Basically, the family is a strong unit. People feel that way—and they're trying to keep it that way."

"Family agencies are being sought out more and more by people from all walks of life, young people, for instance, coming for help in the marital relationships, in bringing up their children, in choosing vocations."

This accent on the positive side of preventing trips to the divorce courts, she said, is an encouraging sign of the increasing stability of marriage.

Two brushes and two combs are not an extravagance

Long may the permanent wave!

If the permanent were permanent what a lot of time and money we would save! If yours hangs on for six months you are lucky. Most women, especially those with short, thin, silky hair, go through the curly-cue session three times a year. Well, it's good for business. And anything is better than having strongy sprouts above your brow.

The season approaches when the counterfeit wave is especially appreciated. It helps one to get through the heat of the summer, makes the swimming season more enjoyable.

If you would have a nice, soft, fluid wave, one that endures—and who wouldn't? —you should have professional reconditioning treatments, or give yourself some hot-oil scalp baths. Lubrication relaxes the silky shafts, does away with excessive dryness that sometimes comes from too frequent permanents.

One oil treatment a week for four weeks will be of benefit. It is time to start if you would be a curly summer girl.

Begin with a prolonged brushing. Your brush should be narrow, with fairly stiff bristles set in groups so it can be kept scrupulously clean. You should have a narrow comb, with coarse teeth, and fine ones. Two brushes and two combs are not an extravagance; with two you will never have to use a soiled one.

Take a small strand of hair; hold it away from the head and brush with a rolling motion. Throw the head forward and brush from nape to crown. Part from ear to ear and brush the front portion forward.

Make partings at various places and apply hot mineral oil along the partings, using a large medicine dropper for the purpose. When the entire scalp has been treated, spread out fingers and thumbs and give your scalp a brisk mauling, lifting and pinching the flesh to loosen it from the scalp and stimulate the circulatory streams.

If you have a shoulder-length cut, oil the ends of your hair. Next morning have a rousing shampoo. Begin with a hot spraying to remove the oil.

If you use a liquid soap—and there are many excellent ones obtainable—dilute it one half with warm water. You will need two applications, each one followed by a prolonged rinsing. The bath spray does a better job than the shower, because you can hold it close to your scalp. If the hair is short, a single application of a cream shampoo is all this is necessary. But don't stint on the rinsing.

Dorothy Howarth, Toronto Telegram reporter and Canadian fiction writer is in the news again. She has been awarded the $400 prize and medal for the best Canadian newspaper feature writing of 1949. Six national cash awards were made by the Men's Press Club with five men and one woman declared winners.

Dorothy Howarth, the young, quiet-spoken, bashful type can knock off a news story or deliver a speech in the best of style. She first indicated her ability on the platform when she addressed the Canadian Women's Press Club convention in Victoria, B.C., last summer when she was presented with the Women's Press Club gold medal and $100 for her series of articles on Newfoundland.

It was on that occasion that Dorothy chuckled, "This is the first time I've ever been in the news myself. I'm going to put this prize money into a fur coat." Before joining the Telegram staff, she was a reporter on the Regina Leader Post and the Saskatoon Phoenix. Her beat today is the University of Toronto where she has made a name as the writer of the regular feature "Varsity Line-Up." This feature is made up of a series of interviews and personality sketches of staff and students on the campus.

The fact that Canadian women are winning distinction and honors at home on equal basis with men, is a sign that they are not only regarded as persons, but that they really have the ability to carry off at least a few of the national trophies.

Girl Lives on Ship But Prefers Horses

London — (CP) — One little girl in Britain is as familiar with the ports and estuaries around the coast as most children are with the streets in their home town She is 12-year-old Daphne England, whose father, Captain Richard England, is master of the Nellie Bywater, last of the wooden coastwise schooners.

Since she was seven weeks old. Daphne has known no home other than the Nellie Bywater, and she is a useful member of the crew. "I steer in fi enweather," she says, "and I paint and scrape and scrub the decks."

When the schooner puts into port, Daphne goes to the local school, a new one nearly every week, but manages to keep up with the other girls.

Her classmates envy her roving life, but Daphne's dream has been of horses, ever since the day a year ago when she first sat on a horse's back for the first time.

"I was rather frightened," she says, "but I knew at once that when I grow up I want to live near horses."

Ashford, Kent, England — (CP) — Mrs. Margaret Johnson, 43, was a happy woman—for a day.

She and her husband had long wanted to adopt a baby. At last they had one—a boy.

The day after he arrived she set out with him for their first visit to the local welfare clinic. She met a neighbor in the street and said "hold my baby for me." Then she collapsed and died.

How to write note of acceptance to wedding reception invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am invited to a church wedding and reception. On the card for the reception is the note "Kindly respond". How should this response be written? And how long before the wedding should it be sent?

2. How long before the wedding date should I send the present to the bride-to-be?

D.

1. Your acceptance response should be written on the first page of double-sheet letter-paper or note-paper, your personal paper or plain white, with the lines spaced carefully, similar to the invitation. Worded like this:

Miss Dorothy Guest accepts with pleasure the kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Robinson
For Thursday, the eighth of June

(Mail this reply at once . . .the earlier, the better.)

2. And send your wedding present to the bride-to-be as soon as you conveniently can. A bride-to-be particularly welcomes presents sent early, for then she has time to enjoy them more leisurely, and also it gives her the important opportunity to write her thank-you note well before the wedding date.

Wedding announcement often omitted nowadays

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are having a large formal church wedding, followed by a rather small reception in our house. I had taken it for granted that, besides sending our invitations to the church wedding, we should also plan to send a certain number of announcements, to those I thought we didn't know well enough to invite to the wedding. But my aunt (who always seems to know the answers to such etiquette questions, and her answers seem always to be right!) tells me that nowadays it is not very customary to send announcements. . . that "everyone" is invited to the church ceremony, if, as in our case, the church is a large church. Is this true, Mrs. Beeckman?

Margaret N.

Yes, your aunt is right about this. . . today it is customary to invite the entire list of relatives, friends, even acquaintances to the large church wedding, and to omit announcements. That is, instead of the three lists that used to be made. . . the church list, the reception list, and the announcement list . . .today there are usually only two lists, the church list and the reception list. However, it is, of course, correct to send out formal marriage announcements if you wish to. . . but remember that announcements are never sent to anyone who is invited to the wedding, either ceremony or reception.

Wedding announcements must not be mailed before ceremony is performed

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are inviting only the members of our immediate families and a very few intimate friends to our wedding which is to take place in my home. But we are planning to send out between three and four hundred formal wedding announcements. Would it be permissible to mail these announcements several days before the wedding, to inform our other relatives and friends that the wedding is to take place?

Roma N.

No, no, no. . . . .this would definitely not be correct. A marriage announcement announces that the ceremony has been performed. . . .and therefore, obviously, must not be mailed until after the ceremony has been performed.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

Codfish is called the common cod because nearly 100 million pounds are sold in the United States yearly.

Even in European waters the cod is so plentiful it overshadows all other competitors. Norwegian fishermen have often described how they can hear the lead on their lines striking the backs of numerous fish as it falls into the water.

Cod have a reputation for being voracious hungry fish because there are so many mouths to feed and only a comparatively small number of relatives such as sardines and pilchard to devour.

Since the earliest Colonial times codfish have kept their number one position on the fish parade. Anything from fried crisp codfish cakes to a bowl of creamy cod chowder or baked cod in white wine sauce is welcomed by fish lovers everywhere.

Whether it is smoked, dried, frozen or fresh, cod can be adopted to an unlimited number of Friday dinner dishes. Use fresh or frozen cod in a baked cod casserole with macaroni and cheese. There are a number of small individual preparations in making a casserole of this type, but it combines both main course and starch, and it can be served directly from the dish in which it is baked.

Codfish Casserole—Serves 4-5.

In a deep saucepan place 1 pound of fresh or thawed frozen cod steaks or fillets. Add 1 cup of celery cut into 1-2 inch squares and 1-2 cup green peppers cut into 1-2 inch squares. Cover with hot water. Sprinkle with juice of a half lemon. Add 1 teaspoon salt. Bring to a boil and simmer 8-10 minutes or until fish and celery are tender.

Remove fish and vegetables from pan, draining off liquid. Remove fish skin and bones if any. Break fish into flakes.

Plunge 1-2 pound of elbow macaroni into 2 quarts of boiling water to which 2 teaspoons salt have been added. Stir well. Boil macaroni 8-10 minutes or until tender. Drain. Rinse in hot water to remove loose starch particles.

In a greased casserole or baking dish place the macaroni, the codfish, peppers, celery and 3 tablespoons grated onion.

Beat 2 eggs slightly and combine with 2 cups of milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Pour egg mixture over macaroni. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons grated cheese. Dot with 1 tablespoon butter.

Set baking pan in a larger pan of hot water. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until firm.

ospital Officials Propose urcharge on Outside Patients e Cancelled, Board Approves

A proposal by officials of the lleville General Hospital to cel the surcharge of two dol s per day for patients from side the city was approved by mbers of the Board Friday af noon at an adjourned session a board meeting laid over from e week ago.

The recommendation before board called for cancellation the county surcharge with an ernative of 25 cents per day be charged all hospital patients a means of raising an equiva nt amount of money.

A committee of three members the hospital board with three mbers from city council will quest a meeting with a com ittee from county council to ork out the suggestion placed fore board members. Instituted st summer as a means of re cing the operational deficit of e hospital, the surcharge has en very unpopular with county sidents with members of county uncil and others pressing for cancellation.

The nursing class at the hos al school of nursing will be in eased to 36 students for Sep mber enrolment, it was decided.

Applications

Hospital superintendent H. W. akefield, told board members ere had been 48 applications for e school of nursing for Sep mber, but that additional ac mmodation would have to be rovided at the nurses' residence the enrolment was to be in eased.

Commenting on the fact that ly 12 nurses had graduated in e 1950 class, Mr. Wakefield ointed out that it was not econ mically feasible to operate a rsing school for such a small ass. "With very little additional pense a much larger class could handled," he said.

Chairman of the Board P. C. cGuire said it was imperative ere be an increased nursing hool class. "With a larger class e number of graduate nurses the hospital staff could be re ced," he said.

A considerably higher standard education had been noticed in e 48 applicants for entry into e school of nursing. All appli nts this year had senior matri ulation.

xpenditure Needed

To provide accommodation for e increased numbers of student urses an expenditure of from 1,000 to $1,500 was stated to be ecessary at the residence. This as approved by board members. pproval was also given to in rease the staff of the X-ray de artment from two to three mem ers.

The property committee report y H. Legate showed that the undry was still roughly one onth from completion. The pro ress of the work was not satis actory, according to Mr. Legate, nd members voted that a letter e written to the architect de anding that the work be speed d up.

"The quality of the work at he laundry is good," stated Mr. egate, "and when the building s completed we will have a aundry of which we can be roud and which will serve a 300 ed hospital."

No Action Taken

A request from hospital stationary engineering staff for an increase in pay saw no action on the part of the board members with the exception of the appointment of a chairman of personnel who with his committee will assess the various trade jobs at the hospital. Chairman of this committee is J. G. Little.

Board members voted that every co-operation be given the Trenton Memorial Hospital expected soon to be completed and officially opened to the public. It was pointed out that the Belleville hospital could co-operate by supplying some of the services which may be lacking at the Trenton institution.

"There should be most cordial relations between this board and the Trenton hospital. I move that we give them every co-operation," said Mayor Allin. The recommendation carried.

Hospital superintendent Wakefield raised a question with respect to charges made against the hospital administration by City Comptroller H. D. Bateman, who some months ago resigned from the board.

Mr. Wakefield noted that last week there had been a special meeting of the board with a committee from council to discuss the operation of the hospital. He said he as superintendent had been asked not to attend the meeting, "although I do not see how operation of the hospital could be discussed without the superintendent present."

Wanted to Know Results

Mr. Wakefield wanted to know what had been the result of the meeting. He was told that Mr. Bateman had addressed the meeting on certain matters pertaining to the hospital operation and had been asked to put what he said in writing. The board voted to take no further action on the matter unless Mr. Bateman complied with the request.

The question of hospital maintenance was again discussed, the mayor pointing out that in the interests of the city taxpayers maintenance costs at the hospital must be cut as low as possible.

Mr. Wakefield replied that costs had been cut and pointed out that two staff painters were paid considerably less than the regular hourly rate, while paint was purchased at wholesale.

Old Part Repainted

He said the old part of the hospital was now repainted, but the new wing had not been painted since its erection ten years ago. "Maintenance costs at Belleville were much lower than the average for hospitals in Ontario," he said.

"Council is only concerned with the finances and I maintain that only necessary maintenance should be done," stressed Mayor Allin.

"Yes", replied Chairman McGuire, "but for proper maintenance you must be continually at these things."

Mr. Little noted that if the board was not agreeable to accepting the decision of the superintendent on maintenance matters, they must take the decision of the property committee.

"This was all gone into months ago," interjected Mr. Legate. "At that time the board decided it would be advantageous to keep the maintenance staff on.

Don't Accept Rumors

Mr. McGuire pointed out that the hospital superintendent knew what was required in the way of maintenance and suggested there would be no point in spending money unnecessarily.

The Mayor noted however, that it was well known when industries kept a maintenance staff it was only natural to find jobs for the men. He suggested the same thing might apply at the hospital.

"I have heard rumors that some rooms at the hospital were painted three times," added Mayor Allin.

"I don't accept rumors, only fact," replied Mr. Wakefield.

Must Be Based on Fact

"I also have heard rumors but unless they are based on fact I disregard them," stated Mr. McGuire. "Some people seem to feel that the Board of Governors have not the ability to run this hospital."

Mr. Wakefield objected to having to get direction from the various board committees for small matters pertaining to hospital maintenance and operation.

"When the board hired me they had every opportunity of going into my credentials as a hospital superintendent," he said. "If I have to go to committees and then have everything ratified in board meetings, then you do not need a superintendent. What you need is merely a co-ordinator of committees."

Mr. McGuire said he was of much the same opinion. The hospital should be run by city council and not by a Board of Governors. If the board had to account to council for matters of hospital operation.

"I have spent a lot of my time looking after hospital matters during the last five months," he went on. "Possibly I should not be here, but I was appointed to the position."

Interested in Tax Rate

The Mayor pointed out that council was not interested in operation of the hospital, but in the 60 mill tax rate and in the hospital deficit.

To this Mr. McGuire replied that if council last year had seen fit to levy for the hospital deficit and this year had not shown welfare and convalescent costs as a hospital cost, the hospital rate would not have loomed so high in the eye of the taxpayers.

The meeting ended with a motion to leave with the superintendent the matter of retaining the maintenance painting staff.

Engineering Institute Holds City Meeting

The Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada held a meeting in Belleville on Thursday evening at the Hotel Quinte at which some 70 or more Professional Engineers of this city and neighboring municipalities were the guests of the Peterborough branch. Among the officials of the Engineering Institute of Canada not resident in Belleville who were pesent, were Mr. J. M. King, the chairman of the Peterborough branch, Mr. G. W. Herzog, the branch secretary-treasurer, Mr. R. L. Dobbin, manager of the Peterboough Utilities Commission, and Col. L. F. Grant, field secretary of the Engineering Institute of Canada from Kingston.

Also prominent among those present was Mr. J. G. G. Kerry, formerly of the Engineering Firm of Smith, Kerry & Chase, who is now retired It will be remembered by many of our readers that this firm constructed practically all of the existing Hydro Electric Power Plants on the Trent River and built the transmission lines and sub-stations of the Seymour Power Co. which supplied this portion of Eastern Ontario up to the time that the company was taken over by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario in 1916.

Another engineer whose associations with the power developments on the Trent River is of particular interest to readers in this area and who was also present at the meeting was Mr. A. L. Killaly, former superintendent of the Trent Valley Canals for the Federal department of Railways and Canals.

Deals With Ottawa River

Dr. Otto Holden, assistant General manager of Engineering of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, who is one of the most outstanding Hydro Electric engineers in Canada, was the guest speaker. Dr. Holden gave a most interesting illustrated address on the Ottawa River, dealing with the history of the river from the time of the glazial epoch up to the present day and with, of course, particular reference to the power sites along the river and the developments which have been made. Dr. Holden dealt specifically with the Des Joachims development and explained in a very lucid manner a number of the most interesting engineering features of the development and the way in which a solution to these problems had been reached. Dr. Holden informed the engineers present that the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario plans to place this development in service on the 28th of the present month.

At the conclusion of Dr. Holden's address, Col. L. F. Grant gave a brief review of the activities of the Institute and the value of the Institute to the public in general and to engineers in particular.

Number Inceases

The number of professional engineers in the Belleville area has increased very substantially during the last few years and it is estimated that there are upwards of 100 professional engineers now resident in Belleville and vicinity.

The Engineering Institute of Canada is nation-wide and is the only organization whereby engineers fom all branches of the profession can meet together for their mutual benefit and for the benefit of the communities in which they live.

Before the meeting adjourned, a number of the engineers who were present from Belleville expressed the opinion that an effort should be made to establish a branch of the Institute in this city.

Over 40 local engineers submitted their names to a committee appointed at the meeting, signifying that they were definitely interested in pressing for the formation of a Belleville branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada. The committee which has been delegated to pursue this matter further, consists of Mr. G. A. Bradford, cheif engineer of the Bakelite Co. at Belleville, Mr. S. Sillitoe, procurement service engineer of the Northern Electric Co., Belleville, and Mr. E. G. Gurnett, regional manager of the East Central Region of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario at Belleville.

Appeal Made To Keep Children Off the Streets

An appeal for parents in the Churchill Heights district to keep their small children off the streets and thus safe from the dangers of vehicular traffic, was made today by Mayor H. J. Allin.

The Mayor stated that he had received numerous complaints from the drivers of buses and also from the drivers of delivery trucks that while driving through the Churchill Heights district they are in constant fear of striking some child who may unexpectedly dart out in front of their vehicles.

"I appreciate that the street may be an attractive place for small children to play, but in view of the danger I appeal to parents to do everything possible to keep their children off the street," stated the Mayor.

The Mayor pointed out that a new playground in the above area has been planned by the Recreation Commission and that every effort will be made to bring it to early completion.

The playground as planned will be at the rear of inside lots facing on Pine Street, Pine Gardens and Humewood Drive. The playground will be for juniors and will be equipped with all the necessary playing equipment.

Through co-operation of the city public works department the city grader has graded the property and co-operation of residents in the area is asked to assist in cleaning the lot of small stone and other refuse.

The sooner the lot is cleared up the sooner the recreation commission will be able to put in fill, fence the area and get the playground into operation. Date for opening of the playground had been tentatively set for the first of July.

Brownies, Cubs, Guides and Scouts turned out in great numbers, meeting on the collegiate campus and marching to the Tabernacle United Church and St. Michael's Church. At one time the line stretched from the campus to the churches, making a very colorful sight preceded with a color party and some 24 flags. MARMORA

Sacred Heart Church Will Have New Auditorium

Marmora.— The contract has been awarded to Mr. Joseph Rashotte, contractor of Tweed, to build a new hall in the basement of Sacred Heart Church, Marmora. The sub-contract of excavating has been let to Mr. Simone, of the Port Hope Construction Company with operations to commence about June 16.

The plans make provision for a large auditorium 90 feet by 40 feet, which will be completely free of any obstructions in the way of supports or pillars, since the upper floor of the church will be supported by steel girders.

New Heating System

A new heating system will be installed which will serve the dual purpose of heating the auditorium and the church and when required it can be utilized in such a way as to make the complete building an air-conditioned one.

The church, situated as it is on an elevation, lends itself in a way which will make the approach to the hall almost on ground level.

A bee was held on Wednesday afternoon, to clear the basement of fuel, etc., to make ready for the excavating operations.

Mayor Requests Board's Opinion On County Home

An expression of opinion regarding the use of the county home building as a convalescent hospital will be asked of members of the Hospital Board of Governors at their next meeting.

Mayor H. J. Allin broached the subject Friday at an adjourned session of the monthly board meeting stating direction from the Board was required with respect to disposition of the building.

He said that council wished to dispose of the building to the best advantage but before seeking a possible sale he wanted an expression from the Board whether the building was wanted as a convalescent home.

"Personally," he said, "I feel it would be a grave mistake for this board to attempt to fit the building as a convalescent hospital, but I want the opinion of the board."

Percy C. McGuire, hospital board chairman, said that this also was his own opinion. "My feeling is that the hospital could not afford the alterations and duplication of staff and services which would be necessary," he said.

On suggestion from board member J. G. Little it was decided to lay the matter over to the next meeting of the board to allow the question to be decided at a full meeting of the board.

Reeve Irwin McCoy acted as chairman of the meeting until the new officers were elected. Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, representative of the Department of Agriculture for Hastings County was present and explained the rules and regulations governing a calf club and pointed out some of the benefits to be derived by those taking part.

Oak-Leaf-Filled Box May Replace Minnow Bucket

Toronto, June 3 (CP)—Water buckets for shipping live minnows may be a thing of the past. The latest habitat for travelling minnows is a dry oak-leaf-filled box, says Pete McGillan, outdoors editor of the Toronto Telegram.

McGillan tells in his column of a Halifax shipper who sent 12 live minnows by air to Peterborough wrapped in bone-dry oak leaves. Three were alive and the rest died because they wriggled out of the leaves and against the sides of the cardboard box. Minnows, packed this way, can live at least three days, he says.

"It is apparent that the leaves must give off some gas, which the fish can convert into oxygen through their gills."

Two more minnows died after the shipment reached Peterborough. The lone survivor, tagged Herkimer, is a feature attraction at the Peterborough Sportsmen's Show. He now has a goldfish-bowl home.

The shipment was the result of a bet between L. L. MaGuire and Bill Swiss, both of an Outboard Marine Company. MaGuire claimed the oak-leaf method worked Swiss challenged him to risk a shipment from Halifax to Peterborough.

Tom Poholsky Turns Back Royals 9 to 2

(By The Associated Press)

Tom Poholsky won't reach his legal maturity until Aug. 26 but the young righthander is turning in a man-sized job for Rochester Red Wings in their bid for the International League pennant.

Poholsky, who broke into organized ball in 1945 at the age of 16 with the Boston Red Sox organization, appears headed for a banner season.

The Detroit native pitched the pace-setting Wings to a 9-2 victory over the second-place Montreal Royals Friday night to increase the Wings first place margin to 2 1-2 games.

Poholsky's triumph was his fourth against one defeat.

Rochester locked up the decision with a five-run blast in the seventh which opened up an 8-2 lead. Steve Bilko homered for Rochester's final run in the ninth.

Baltimore Orioles moved to within a half-game of the Royals by edging Springfield Cubs 3-0. Two of Baltimore's runs were unearned.

Irv Medlinger started and received credit for the victory but needed help from Bill Kennedy in the ninth.

Jersey City Giants nosed out the Syracuse Chiefs 4-3 scoring three times in the ninth to break a 1-1 tie.

Andy Tomasic allowed the Chiefs only one hit but he was lifted after he walked the bases full in the last of the ninth with one out. Red Hardy took over and granted a two run single to Frankie Drews before he retired the side.

The scheduled game between Buffalo and Toronto was rained out.

Rich Ferguson Track Star, Will Stay in Britain

(By The Canadian Press)

Rich Ferguson, Toronto's high-school track star, reiterated today at London that he intends to remain in Britain until June 22.

That means he is passing up the Canadian school boy championships in Montreal today.

The blond, 19-year-old Ferguson originally was scheduled to return to Canada this week after taking part in the British games at London's White City Stadium last Monday. But he told reporters last Wednesday he changed his mind at the last minute and decided to stay in Britain another three weeks.

Reached by telephone in Wirral, Cheshire, where he is staying with friends, Ferguson said his next race will be at Cambridge Tuesday. After that he will take part in any events British officials line up for him. White City Monday. His other races in Britain were at Sheffield the following day, where he won a two-mile race in 10 minutes, 10 seconds and finished second in a mile event.

Henry Martell, former Dominion amateur champion and now professional at the Edmonton Nighlands Club, said Friday he doesn't plan entering. He said Stan Leonard of Vancouver also does not figure on taking in the tournament.

Cubs, Cannifton Battle 6-6 in 'No Game' Contest

Playing on a diamond that was more conducive to water polo than baseball, the Belleville Cubs and Cannifton battled to a six-all draw in a Belleville District Baseball League fixture at Exhibition Grounds last night.

The game was called during the Belleville half of the eighth innings with the Cubs having the bases loaded and one man out. By pre-game arrangement the contest had to go the limit but as a result of its being called, it was ruled "no game."

Umpires Eddie Schrieder and "Red" Carson were of the opinion the ground was not in fit condition prior to the game, but it appears the Cannifton management insisted that since the spectators and teams were there, the game go on.

Bobby Bunton started on the mound for the Cubs and toiled till the fifth, when he was relieved by "Chuck" Barriage. May went the route for the village team. Errors were plentiful due to the mucky condition of the grounds.

Tentative Approval Given For $42,000 Expenditure On Two-Room School Addition

Trenton, June 3 — (Special)—The Ontario Municipal Board has given "tentative approval" for an expenditure of $42,000 to cover construction costs and legal and architectural fees required for the proposed two-room addition to North Trenton Public School. Clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry made this announcement Saturday morning.

The original application to the Municipal Board was for $50,000 but the board has only given its "tentative approval" to an expenditure of $42,000.

Council has published notice that a by-law will be passed to close Stanley Street between the Mayhew Mill property and the south side of Store Street.

"This will add 66 feet to the North Trenton School grounds," said Mr. Larry.

No Parking Meters on W. Side Of Murphy Street Temporarily

Trenton, June 3 (Special) — "Temporarily there will be no parking meters on Murphy St.," councillor V. R. Ryan told the Ontario Intelligencer Friday morning.

Mr. Ryan added that "there will be no parking on the west side of Murphy Street day or night."

A petition signed by Murphy Street residents protesting the placing of the meters in this residential district was referred to the parking committee by council on Monday night. Parking committee members are: Councillor Vic Ryan, chief of police, Jack Taylor; Town Engineer Rex Davey, Lloyd Weese and Art Cheesman.

In announcing that meters would not be installed on this street, Mr. Ryan pointed out that there is nothing to prevent merchants and others from parking cars in front of homes on the east side all day. "The meter posts are being left in. In a few months the residents may decide that meters are not such a bad idea," said Mr. Ryan.

Trenton Hospital Needed Badly Says Minister

Trenton, June 3 (Special) — Speaking to the Dufferin Home and School Association at the second annual parents' night, Wednesday evening, Rev. R. C. MacLean urged everyone eligible to vote in favor of issuing $125,000 in debentures to finish the nearly completed Trenton Memorial Hospital. The referendum is being held June 12.

Large Sum in Extra Charges

"Completion of the new Trenton hospital will be a great assistance to the already overburdened Belleville hospital," said Mr. MacLean. "No other hospital in the province admisters to such wide area. Last year, 450 Trenton children were born in Belleville hospital. Over a six day period, the extra $1.75 surcharge paid by outsiders amounts to $4,725, that the people of Trenton paid over and above the amount they would have paid had they lived in Belleville or had a hospital of their own.

"In 20 years if the present birth rate continues, Trenton will have paid out $94,500 in extra charges. Almost the face value of the debentures that are needed for the completion of the project. Over a long period the total amount any individual is likely to be required to pay will not be great,' said Mr. MacLean.

They Didn't Count Cost

Referring to the new hospital as a "living memorial to Trenton men who a few years ago were willing to give their lives that our free institutions might endure, Mr. MacLean reminded his listeners that "they didn't count the cost."

Other speakers were: Mrs. W. W. Marjoribanks, Toronto, F. W. Sherbert, Principal of Dufferin Public School. Ronald Davis delivered the valedictory address.

Sportsman Fined $18,000, Costs On Three Charges

Toronto, June 3— John Stuart, 42, cough-drop company sales agent and sportsman, Friday was fined $18,000 and costs, or one year, after he pleaded guilty to three charges of violating foreign exchange control board regulations involving $24,300. He was given a week to pay the fine.

Evidence was that during 1947, 1948 and 1949, he made 12 trips to the United States. On each trip, the court was told, he changed U.S. cheques into Canadian dollars and then brought the money back to Canada.

The charges were that Stuart, who recently was a director of the Toronto Argonaut Football Club and is well known in racing circles, unlawfully sold the currency, negotiated in it unlawfully and he did not declare it.

Liberals Plan To Name Leader For Province

Toronto, June 3—(CP)—Completion of preliminary plans for an Ontario Liberal leadership convention is expected at meetings here June 17, secretary W. G. Hale of the Ontario Liberal Association said Friday.

The association's leadership committee, which has been surveying the field of possible candidates, meet today. It will report in the afternoon to the management committee, made up of some 60 members, which has the authority to set the date and place for a convention.

The provincial party leadership became vacant last September when Farquhar Oliver resigned after two years in the office. Mr. Hale said a contest for the vacancy is assured with contenders from the Ontario Legislature and the House of Commons, and others not in either House. It is forecast that the convention will be held as soon as possible after the holiday season.

The passenger in the other car, Carl Augustine, 35, suffered possible hip fracture.

Miss Scott was riding with her mother in a car driven by Janet Falkner, 24, the skater's travelling companion. Mrs. Scott and Miss Falkner were also bruised slightly. Driver of the other car George Valachos, 36, was treated for cuts and bruises.

A GOOD SHOW

Maxie Males, Diamond Boxing Club, Toronto, who fights under the aegis of Vic Bagnato, and clever Jimmy Wise furnish the main bout attraction for the Navy boxing show being staged in the Armouries tonight. The two 123-pounders are fast, aggressive fighters and both pack a wallop that spells "K. O." if it lands where it is intended. Both boys come here with a fine reputation and both have met the topflight fighters in their class.

Dick (Fargo Express) St. Louis and Gene Powers who tip the scales at 155-160 are also smart mittmen and have staged a number of thrilling battles. These boys too, have fine records and the show should not be slowed up by their performance.

The special feature of the card is the five round fight between Donny Spears, featherweight champion of the Maritimes who won his title last year and is now stationed at Vimy Barracks, and Bombardier Bobby Smith of the Royal School of Artillery, Picton. The two met recently in Picton and Spears won a split decision. There is all the earmarks of a grudge fight in this bout for Smith thinks he was entitled to at least a draw if not the victory in their last meeting.

Seven other bouts round out an entertaining card, and the show should be one of the most colorful affairs of its kind seen here. Sergts. Hub and Frank Smith have been named referees with Eddie Lee timekeeper. Judges are Bert Wells, and Captain O. Chant of the army. Lieut. Roy Windover RCN (R) will act as master of ceremonies.

BATAWA BUSY BEES

By the time you read this the Batawa Shoemen will be on their way to Picton where they battle the Athletics of that town in a Central Ontario Baseball fixture. Batawa won its first start and the game against Kingston last Saturday was called off on account of wet grounds after two and one-half innings. Coach Speedy St. Louis hasn't decided on who will start on the mound for the Shoemen and it likely will be Muffitt. Picton on the other hand have not been faring so well in their first venture in COBL circles. They have yet to win a game albeit they had one practically in the bag when a last-innings brace of errors tossed the apparent victory out of the window. They'll be determined to wrest a win in this start.

The Shoemen entertain the Brockville team here on its first 1950 appearance on Monday night under the lights. On Wednesday next they again visit Picton and a week from today they make the long hike to Brockville.

And while on the subject of COBL antics, a Kingston report says that Bill Reardon and Tip Logan, Queen's University football star will line up with the Kingston Leafs. Both lads are former Ponies with Reardon being released last week. Logan arrived in Kingston early in the week and informed Coach Stan Scrutton he was ready to play.

FOR A WORTHY CAUSE!

This show scheduled for the Arena Sunday night in aid of the Manitoba Relief Fund has all the earmarks of topflight entertainment. Thanks to that fine pair of 'Bills', Arnold and Stovin of CJBQ and a galaxy of fine artists and musicians, the entertainment loving public should not only enjoy a fine evening, but contribute to a very worthy cause.

We, of Belleville, will get the opportunity of sitting in comfortable surroundings and listening to high class artists and music. Our homes are safe. Our families intact. We have not been menaced with the ravaging terror of flood waters. We do not have to pick up the meagre property leavings of the flood and look for a new home or at least a temporary one until the waters subside.

In Winnipeg and other parts of Manitoba, the floods are receding. Once proud homes are coated with muck and slime left in the wake of the destroying stream. A lot of homes have been damaged beyond repair with their owners losing all. The period of rehabilitation presents a terrific task. City dweller, suburban resident and farmer, have suffered alike. Millions of dollars are necessary if the good people of the west are to be helped. Surely we in Belleville can contribute our share.

Residents here and in the district can help these good folk by attending the fine show being staged on Sunday evening. The admission charge is small, just 50 cents and every half-dollar will go to the fund.

TIP TO ANGLERS

Under the Special Fisheries Regulations, no one shall "fish" for black bass during the closed season, and notwithstanding the old explanation "you put down your hook and don't know what kind of fish will take it," almost any angler will know when he's fishing over the nests if many bass are being caught, says the Department of Lands and Forests, at Tweed. Intent to "fish for" under the above circumstances can usually be proved if the necessity arises though overseers much prefer the angler's co-operation than having to take action. There you are, fellas, don't say you weren't warned.

Vic Wertz, Unsung Slugger Of Detroit Tigers, Could Wind Up as Most Valuable Player

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Ask the average man "who is Vic Wertz?" and you draw a blank stare. Yet this unsung slugger of Detroit Tigers could wind up the most valuable player in the American League.

Only one behind Boston's Vern Stephens with 46 runs batted in, Wertz is the rightfielder of an outfield called the best in baseball. Hoot Evers in left, Johnny Groth in centre and Wertz form the real strength of the Detroit Club, backing up a fine pitching staff. As they go, so go the Tigers.

Friday night they were hot, as a result, the Tigers thumped Philadelphia A's in both ends of a twilight-night doubleheader 8-2 and 16-5.

Wertz and Evers were the big outfield guns. Vic drove home five runs in the first game, three with his sixth homer, and knocked in two more in the second—seven for the night. Evers had five hits, including a pair of doubles and a homer. Groth chipped in with a homer in the second game.

The Yankees' afternoon loss to Chicago, 6-5 in 12 innings, enabled the Tigers to gain ground. Now they're two games back.

Yankees Defeated

Ray Scarborough, Eddie Robinson and Marv Rickert, all recent acquisitions, helped the White Sox upset the Yankees. Scarborough, making his first start since the big trade with Washington, went all the way.

Back at Fenway Park, the much-maligned Boston Red Sox made quick work of Cleveland's Bobby Feller. The Sox scored six in the first inning en route to an 11-5 romp behind Joe Dobson.

Disaster hit the Washington club in a double loss to St. Louis and a flock of serious injuries. Outfielder Gil Coan suffered a skull fracture when he collided with Owen Friend, St. Louis infielder, sliding into second base. He'll be lost for at least a month.

Dick Weik, Mickey Grasso and Sam Mele of the Senators and Billy Demars of the Browns were forced to withdraw during the doubleheader.

The cellar-bound Brownies mauled Washington pitchers for 12 hits in a 10-5 twilight victory behind Al Widmar. Then they slaughtered Lloyd Hittle and two successors, 9-3, in the night game.

Dodgers Bounce Back

In the National League Brooklyn bounced back to regain the undisputed lead on an 8-1 victory over St. Loui. Don Newcombe allowed the Cards only five hits. Harry Brecheen was the loser.

Jim Russell, Duke Snider and Billy Box hit homers for the Brooks. Marty Marion's homer in the second was the only St. Louis run.

Pittsburgh snapped its nine-game losing streak, longest in 11 years, with the help of Ralph Kiner's 10th homer, edging Boston, 5-4. Rookie Bill MacDonald, the last Pirate winner May 23, got them back on the trail with a five-hitter.

Willie (The Knuck) Ramsdell walked four straight Giants in the ninth, forcing home the winning run, as New York nipped Cincinnati, 7-6.

The scheduled Philadelphia-at-Chicago day game was rained out.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York June 3 (AP)—Frank Lane, Chicago White Sox general manager, gets positively lyrical when he discusses the way Bucky Harris has handled his young Washington players. . . That's what made it possible for Bucky to trade away Eddie Robinson and Ray Scarborough, Lane explains.

"We started working on the trade in February but Bucky couldn't let them go because they were the only pros on his club." . . .and by implication, Frank indicates that Red Corriden, new White Sox manager, will use the same gentle methods.

"Bucky told me he never bawls out a bad baseball player; it just makes them worse,' says Lane. "We're trying to build up our ball club and it doesn't help a young player to bawl him out. They're bound to make mistakes.

Tookie the Rookie

When Tookie Gilbert, who got $50,000 to sign with New York Giants, was playing at Erie, Pa., a few years ago, the kid who played next to him was getting only $200 a month—and no bonus.

SELF-HEALING

Cracks which may develop in exposed concrete pipe will seal in the presence of moisture and become stronger than before the break.

Villmer Flattens Yukon Eric In 19 Seconds of First Fall, But Loses by Inches in 3rd

By GEO H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Ray Villmer, a Davidian graduate of the College of Applied Pachydermy, should better his timing.

In Memorial Arena last night, this mighty atom of rassledom established a record for Belleville in his first-fall defeat of the iceberg that walks like a man, Yukon Eric, but failed by seconds in the third and deciding fall to climb back into the ring, and thereby hangs the tale of his defeat.

Eric, the Goliath of the story strutted his huge biceps, torso, and dungareed underpinning about the ring in a slow-motion performance that bordered on arrogance.

Wins Fall in 19 Seconds

That' however, was after the first fall, when he had recovered from the rude jolting handed his ring ego, as he lay sprawled on the canvas in defeat after exactly nineteen seconds of action.

It happened so quickly, that a large number of the clientele missed the exciting action because they had not yet returned from the local bistros of refreshment.

Villmer wasted no time. He swept into sudden action at the sound of the gong, leaped high in the air, bashed the Eric derrick three times in the chest with agile feet, and while the faithful looked in in surprised silence whirled him aloft in an airplane spin and crashed him to the canvas for the fall.

It was all over just like that.

But the second fall was different. It was nothing more than an exhibition of brute strength against agile action.

Uncanny Strength

Eric demonstrated his uncanny strength when at times he lifted the wee Villmer high in the air by the power of his neck muscles and whirled him in a Maypole dance. On another occasion the sheer force of his powerful muscles and rock-like stance in ring-centre caused La Villmer to bounce off his torso like a rubber ball off a wall.

Villmer whirled himself out of danger on several occasions when the Gibraltar-like Yukon bashed him against the ropes. And there were times that he failed. The crowd moaned, and Villmer's wind was forced out of his body like that of a suddenly-blown-cut-tire when the huge Alaskan used him as a buffer between his 58-inch chest and a ring-post.

The shock of impact rattled the glasses in a near-by cafeteria. Canteen coffee-cups tumbled and even the hot dogs rolled over in their "bunny" nests.

Villmer finally secured a crotch-hold on Yukon but the pride of the northern timberlands, gold-mines and cheechakos merely grunted his disdain and stood firm in ring centre while his opponent struggled to lift him off the canvas.

Applied the "Cruncher"

Tiring, it seemed, of this by-play, Eric finally lifted Villmer and applied his famous "cruncher" hold. This is done by merely lifting the opponent high in the air and letting him crash downward, landing with a sickening "crunch" on a receptive shoulder. Applied three times, the hold is very effective.

Referee Bert Maxwell, Toronto, merely lifted Yukon's hand in victory and that worthy funeral-marched to the dressing room while the faithful howled its disapproval.

The third fall was over in a few minutes. Yukon applied his chest-ring-post treatment effectively and Villmer had his innings on several occasions with a leg-stretch.

Then it happened.

Villmer sensed a sudden opportunity, hoisted Yukon over his head with a superhuman effort, and started his favorite airplane spin. The crowd rose to its feet anticipating a Villmer fall and victory. But the spin carried the pair to the ropes and while the crowd looked on aghast both wrestlers crashed over the apron to the cement.

Referee Maxwell started the count and had reached nine when Yukon struggled through the ropes. Villmer followed two seconds later, but the decision had been awarded to the pride of Alaska.

Toar Morgan and Roy McClarity battled thirty minutes to a draw in the semi-final, a spirited bout that was full of action, while Al. Korman and Billy Stack also went the time limit in a lively preliminary. Cliff Fox refereed the first two bouts.

Tennis Talk

Gossip From The Courts of The District

BY "DIG"

Bay of Quinte League tennis officially opened last Sunday when Point Anne played hosts to the Trenton Club. Although Point Anne were the victors Trenton were by no means outclassed and managed to take both men's doubles events to lose the match by three events to two.

This was the result when the two Quinte teams tussled on Tuesday evening at the Quinte Skating and Tennis club courts at the corner of Queen and Dufferin. In this case Quinte came through the series as top dogs. From the standard of tennis seen so far this season should produce some very good play and some closely contested matches. After the first week it is anybody's league with Point Anne and Quinte One in the top slot with three points and Trenton and Quinte Two with two points. Batawa, of course, have not opened their schedule so far and the situation might change when they get going.

On Sunday Quinte One are at home to Point Anne while Quinte visit Trenton on Tuesday evening. Batawa have asked for another week before they open their schedule and will play their first match after next weekend.

Last Friday evening a team of juniors and intermediates from the Quinte Tennis Club were entertained at Point Anne by the cementworkers at the time of writing the results are not to bad it augurs well for the future of local tennis to know that the junior element is being encouraged, for it is only by bringing the less skilled players into match that league teams for succeeding years will be ensured. Trenton also have an eye to the future and are interested in playing junior matches later on in the season and these will be announced in due course. Trenton by the way had a few new faces out on Sunday at Point Anne. One was the Trenton Merchants soccer player Salisbury who was a member of the local All Star team against the Toronto Senior League All Star squad last Saturday. By the way this lad seems to be very versatile, he says he can play any game except marbles.

This fine weather is certainly bringing out the tennis players, every evening a good crowd can be seen at the Quinte club courts. Membership tickets are still available from the membership chairman Miss Jean Greene of the Dominion Parasite Lab or from any member of the club executive.

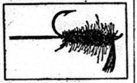
There'll be plenty of "feudin' and fighting" in Toronto when hockey enemies, Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens, meet again. Only this time they will be garbed in baseball uniforms. The two teams will meet on June 11 in Toronto, for a return benefit match — all proceeds to be donated to Manitoba Relief Fund. First of two benefit games, won by Canadiens, 13-12, netted fund over $6,000. Here Rocket Richard, Montreal's hurler and one of Leaf's spare men, Turk Broda, are seen discussing finer points of game. Broda will be here with his Maple Leaf hockey squad on June 14 in an exhibition game. — Central Press Canadian.

'The Hatching Nymph' -- A New Fly

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

Thirty of forty years ago the life of a trout fisherman was a simple affair, uncomplicated by innovations that were thought up by fellows like me.



The trout fisherman had, usually, one fly rod, one reel and line, a book of snelled wet flies, a creel and a pair of boots. His entire outfit could be stored in one corner of the hall closet.

Then came the introduction of the European brown trout to our waters. Hard on the heels of that event came dry-fly fishing.

You know the rest of the story. New rod actions, new line tapers, nylon, streamers, bucktails, nymphs and so on, ad infinitum. Today Mr. Compleat Angler requires a separate room in which to store his gear.

You would think that the depths had been plumbed in the search for newer and more effective methods for the consistent capture of brown trout, or any trout, for that matter.

The Hatching Nymph

Sad to relate, that is not the case. Now we have a new "secret weapon" which bids fair to inflict vast inroads on our trout supply. Let me tell you about the hatching nymph.

As you probably know, many of the nymphs of the May-fly group hatch into winged insects by casting loose from the stream bottom and rising to the surface where the nymphal case is cracked open.

The winged insect then emerges from the case and flies away. While the little fellow is breaking free from his case and oxidizing his wings, preparatory to flight, he uses the nymphal case as a tiny raft on which he floats while he goes through the preliminaries.

So much for the biological aspects of the matter.

One evening Mr. Ernest Hille who deals in fly-tyers supplies in Williamsport, Penna., was seated at his work table, doing a bit of "creating" for the astonishment and edification of the brown trout hereabouts.

New Fly Successful

Thinking about the Gold Ribbed Hare's Ear, which is tied without hackle, he decided to tie a dry fly in the same manner. Accordingly, he cut off a pinch of fox fur and, leaving the guard hairs in the fur, built a dubbing string.

Next he equipped a No. 12 hook with a tail and a small pair of wings. Then he wrapped the body. The dubbing string was heavier than he had intended and the completed fly was fat, fuzzy and oversize.

He regarded this confection dubiously, but he placed it in his fly box anyway and promptly forgot about it.

About two weeks later, Hille and I found ourselves confronted by a super-selective group of brown trout. These fish were feeding actively but they steadfastly ignored our best efforts.

While I labored over these fussy fish with nymphs of various colors and sizes, Hille retired to the bank to see if he could find inspiration in the pockets of his fly box. Then it was that the hackle-less fly came to light.

He tied on this awful looking affair, at that time unnamed, waded out beside me and cast it out upon the tail of the riffle.

Socko! One fourteen-inch brownie.

Was No Accident

Thinking it was an accident, he dried the fly, re-oiled it and tried again. In not more than ten casts he hooked five more trout. Then an out-size old buster in the deeper water hit Hille's 4x leader point with his tail and our fishing for that evening came to a sudden and definite conclusion.

On the way home in the car we discussed the whys and wherefores of our experience. What would prompt those fish, who had ignored all orthodox offerings, to take that hackle-less fly so readily?

Hille came up with the probable answer.

"Those fish were feeding to a developing hatch," he said. "The insects were drifing down from the riffles and probably the majority of them were still attached to their nymphal cases.

"We were lucky to have the right color and size, but the thick, fuzzy body no doubt did resemble the combination of fly and nymph case."

Promptly we christened it The Hatching Nymph.

Since then we have done some experimenting with the Hatching Nymph. While it is in no sense a cure-all for your angling troubles, it certainly does deliver the goods now and then when the fish are feeding to a developing hatch.

Don't inquire at the sporting goods stores. They won't have it in stock. Instead, take a look at the accompanying illustration and then tie a few at your work table. If you are not a fly tyer, any of your fly-tying friends can make some for you.

During the early season, dark reddish fur or bluish-gray fur work out well, but later on buff-colored fur is best.

It may be that these Pennsylvania trout have strange appetites. Perhaps your own local trout won't like hatching nymphs. There is only one way to be sure, however — try them and find out for yourself.

A Weekly Peek At The Soccer Picture

BY ELDEE

Things are going well with local soccer these days. Last Saturday the Bay of Quinte All-Stars put up a very creditable performance against the starry Toronto Senior League All-Stars. The visitors won the game by a score of three goals to none but the local boys had quite their share of the play and with a little luck and slightly better finishing would certainly have had one or two goals to their credit. Several soccer personalities escorted the Torontonians to Trenton including Alex MacGregor, secretary of the Ontario Football Association, Bert Lipsham, president of the Toronto Senior League and Bill Henshaw, president of the Toronto Celtic who are scheduled to visit Belleville on July 1st. Bill by the way is quite a soccer commentator and amused the fans with a running commentary of the match over the P.A. system. A return match is going to be arranged in Toronto later on in the season, when the local boys will be out to get their revenge. After the match at the banquet put on for the visitors, Alex Macgregor said he was very pleased and quite surprised to notice the high standard of soccer served up in this district and mentioned that the team put out on Saturday would he thought be more than a match for any club team in Toronto, which is a pretty record for the second season of operation of the local organization.

On Thursday June 8th a Belleville City team comprised of players from the three Belleville clubs will play an exhibition match at the Fairgrounds against the rest of the league. A silver collection will be taken up and all proceeds will go to the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund. This should be a real attraction so roll up to the Fairgrounds all you soccer fans on Thursday evening. This will be an opportunity for those who have never seen a soccer match before to turn out and support this very worthy cause. The kick-off has been scheduled for 6.30 p.m. The teams selected to appear in this match will be announced this weekend.

Another exhibition has been announced for this week. On Saturday June 10th Trenton Flyers will entertain the T. Eaton Christie St. Branch team from Toronto at the Air Force Station grounds in connection with the Air Force Day celebrations, kick-off at 3 p.m. Everybody is welcome to come and watch this match at no charge.

Three local teams have entered the Ontario Intermediate championships. The semi-final will be played at Belleville Fairgrounds on Monday June 12th between Belleville Navy and Trenton Flyers. Trenton Merchants drew a bye into the final and will play the winners of this match at a date and ground to be announced later.

Trenton Flyers still head the Bay of Quinte League and are the only unbeaten team in league matches. Belleville United remain in the second slot. Belleville United and Navy play their postponed match on Monday 5th, June, at 7 p.m.

Today Belleville play hosts to Brockville in an Eastern Ontario League game commencing at 4 p.m. Next Saturday the Navy are at home to Vimy Signals from Kingston.

MADOC

Home, Contents Lost in Fire

Madoc — (Special) — Fire of undetermined origin which started in a frame woodshed and quickly spread to the main part of the house, Friday afternoon completely destroyed the farm residence of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Danford. The Danford home is immediately south of Madoc on the Belleville road.

Starting in the absence of Mrs. Danford and family who were away from home attending field day sports at the Madoc Public School, the blaze spread so quickly into the main part of the house that there was no time to save the household contents and all were lost in the blaze.

The Madoc fire company answered the alarm and although they could do nothing to save the home, managed to prevent the spread of the flames to the barn and other nearby buildings.

West Considers Creation of Force Of German Police

London, June 3 (Reuters) — The three Western Powers are considering creation of a police force under the control of the Federal Government of West Germany, it was learned here last night from a usually reliable source.

It was understood that the formation of this force was discussed at the recent meeting of the three Foreign Ministers in London.

The final decision as to whether a police force will be formed and what its size is to be will be discussed soon between the Allied High Commissioners and the West German government.

The force, it is emphasized in diplomatic quarters here, will not be similar to the force in the East zone of Germany.

The East zone police force armed by Russia is reputed to be 50,000 strong. Western Allied authorities have protested Russia's action in creating such a force in violation of specific pledges not to rearm Germany.

Kingsridge

By Alice Ross Colver

She said, facing him finally, her hands behind her back, her green eyes blazing into his. "I went with Frank that night for the same reason that you have always gone with Susan. Because he represented something I wanted. Not because he was what I wanted."

He stared at her. She was uncanny, the way she went to the dead centre of him. She went on.

"But in the end I didn't want a mere representation." She paused. "Neither do you, Gerry. You've chosen a way of living and you've set a goal. But you'll be more successful in reaching it than I have been."

"You've been successful!"

"No. After nearly twenty years Lester still hates me." She paused again. "It frightens me a little," she finished. And then she added, "I wish you weren't working for him. That frightens me too."

He stood looking at her, only half hearing her, his thoughts in a turmoil. How could he want her and not want her at the same time? How could he want her and Susan too?

"Watch yourself, won't you?" she was saying as she put her hand on his arm.

He gestured impatiently, shaking her off. "I can take care of myself."

She drew back. "I can take care of myself, too, Gerry," she said slowly.

"What do you mean?"

"I'm going away."

"What?"

Her eyes held his. "I'm going away," she repeated.

"Where?"

"I don't know. Out west. Reno. first of course. After that. . ." she shrugged.

"That's insane! How will you live?"

"I have my jewels. Lester's forgotten about those. They're all mine. And safe. And worth a good deal."

"But they won't last forever."

"Before they're gone, I'll have a job."

He laughed angrily. "What doing?"

"You forget. I told you I was on Broadway once. Well, I can still sing. A night club would take me. I haven't forgotten the tricks." She began to move before him, swaying her body enticingly as she sang in her husky contralto the words from a current popular song. Suddenly stopped. "Of course it might not be a top-notch, Grade A, Class One night club, but at least I'd eat." Reaching up, then, she put her arms tight around his neck. "Come with me, Gerry," she said "Come with me!" We don't belong here, either of us. You can't live cautiously and conservatively any more than I can. It will only get you in the end. Come with me before its too late!"

He held her close for a moment desire and recklessness mounting in him. With her, he knew well, there would be no such striving as lay ahead of him with Susan. With Alicia he could move baggage or wash dishes in a restaurant or drive a taxicab, and it wouldn't matter. He could sell electrical appliances from door to door and it wouldn't matter. He could do anything at all, and it wouldn't matter. For with her there would be no critical observation or caustic comments. Only a sense of freedom and well being and a certainty of her loyalty, her gallantry and staunchness through everything. With her, too, there would be laughter once they had plunged, and memorable moments of passion.

On the other hand there would be with her no security. They would know nothing but a hand-to-mouth existence such as he had always known. They would be opportunists, riding the merry-go-round of life and forever reaching for the brass ring. There would be with her no recognition by people like the Kings. No acceptance in circles which, until now, had been closed to him.

Suddenly he tore her arms away and put her from him. At the same moment the door to the conservatory opened and he heard Susans voice.

"Gerry?" she peered in their direction and moved forward uncertainly. "Oh, there you are!" She reached them and put out a hand toward him. "Gerry, it's time now." She turned to Alicia. "Did he tell you? We're announcing our engagement tonight." Her voice held a slight trembling. "It's time now Gerry," she repeated. "Everybody's gathering. Audrey and Frank and Nanna and the Judge are waiting."

Alicia's eyes went from one to the other of them.

"No," she said after a moment. "No, he didn't tell me. I didn't know. But let me be the first to congratulate you." She took Susan's face in her two thin hands and kissed her lightly on each cheek. "Best wishes, my dear." She looked at Gerry, her green eyes holding an odd, bright shining. "You too, if Susan doesn't mind. And she lifted her arms once more and kissed him lingeringly on the mouth. "Shall we go?" she said then, and led the way so that they might not see the glint of her sudden tears.

In the bay window of the great living room, Elizabeth and Steven and Audrey and Frank waited together for Susan and Gerry to appear. A whisper had gone around that something was about to happen and the guests had drifted slowly in from outside and now stood gathered in little knots, while John and Nellie moved among them passing trays of full punch cups. Unmindful of the excitement, a few dancers still circulated to the music of the small orchestra.

Presently the two young people came hand in hand. On Sussan's face her lovely lighted look on Gerald's the dark flashing of his triumph. There had been no miracle, Elizabeth thought grimly as they made their way forward, so they woul all have to go through with this, but it was not going to change her feelings toward that young man one iota. Steven, beside her, knew the sudden sharp thrusting of a persistent doubt. However, there is yet time, he thought, to vanquish that. Rome was not built in a day, nor must he expect a man to be so soon remade. Audrey, her eyes on her daughter, saw, with tears in her heart, Susan's high, proud happiness, and knew that even with this, and Gerry's finest response, the child must sooner or later be hurt, for no love escapes. While Frank, stolid and unmoving, stared unblinkingly at Gerry, suddenly remembering that Audrey had never explained what she meant by the "look" the fellow had given her, and vowing that if he ever faltered in his faith to Susan, he would kill him.

"Friends," Steven lifted the hand that held his glass, his voice rolling out as if he were in court. Donald gave a signal to the orchestra which hushed its playing. The dancing couples stood quiet and the low buzz and chatter of the assembled company ceased. "Friends, because this is my house, it is the wish of Susan's mother and father that I be the one to tell you of her engagement to the young man who has so recently returned to Kingsridge, a war hero, to take his place among us. A toast to Susan and Gerald Barton!"

Susan felt her left hand lifted and a ring slipped on it by Gerry—the diamond he had bought with his first two months pay. She heard the outbreak of a patter of applause. She was aware of Gerald's arm tight about her shoulders and of his face coming down to hers and then of his long possessive kiss that embarrassed her a little and brought an amused cheer from some of the younger ones of the company. After that there was a surge of people toward her and she was seized up on and hugged and kissed and her ring examined, while words rang in her ears over and over "—think it's too romantic!" "Simply wonderful!" "So happy for you my dear." "Best wishes!" "The Best of everything!" "Such a surprise!" "You've picked a very handsome young man, do you know it?"

Over and over.

Only Timothy did not come up. Beyond someone's shoulder she saw him standing aloof and alone at the back of the room, on his face a frozen stricken look. As soon as she could she went to him. He was on the veranda then all by himself in the dark. She touched his arm and he turned.

"Tim."

"Hello Susan."

"Don't say I surprised you. Don't say I didn't keep my promise."

"I'm not saying that."

"You knew this was going to happen."

"Yes, I knew."

"Haven't you a single word for me?"

He was silent for a moment. Then he answered. "Yes, I have a word for you. Its this. I love you more than Gerry does or ever will. I always have. And whenever you find that out, and want me instead of him, I'll be waiting."

The next moment he was gone, and though he had not touched her he left her feeling as though she had been most tenderly and protectingly embraced.

It was June and Susan was graduated from school and was at home at Kingsridge again. She had been coming home nearly every weekend throughout the spring, at first in impatient desire to be with Gerry as much as possible, later in impatient anxiety because being with him was somehow curiously less than she anticipated, and she sought reassurance each time that this was not so or never could be so again.

She could not quite put her finger on the reason for this. Over and over she told herself that it was impossible to live forever on the high level of that triumphant moment when her engagement had been announced. But that was not it. The whole business of loving was not, after all, what she had dreamed. It was not, suddenly, the meaning of life. It was not pure, serene joy. It was not even plain, straight, tormenting physical hunger. It was everything mixed up, with strong undercurrents of doubting and questioning, so that you did not know certainly where you were going nor how. So that you weren't always happy, because at some moments you could hardly wait to know the sharp aching joy that Gerry's arms and kisses gave you, and at others you did not want that at all for the reason that it left the rest of you unanswered.

But to no one, hardly even to herself, did she admit these thoughts. For when she was home for good, she told herself, they would vanish. In his constant wholeness, in the presence of his mocking gaiety and his little bursts of worshiping tenderness and his fighting, defiant bitter strength, everything would resolve itself into fixed clarity. It was only because their rapport was broken by repeated separations that she felt she lost him, and had, when they met, to find him again. Actually, he remained what he had so swiftly and amazingly become—the focal point of all her thinking, the centre of all her planning, the end, the goal, of all this long tedious business of growing up. With him, once he was surely established and on his way up so that they could be married, life would really start.

Gerry, too, was experiencing disillusionment. Not as regarded Susan but as regarded his position in the King household and his future in Lester Brandt's plant.

For in spite of his engagement and the public recognition given him by Susan's family, he found his welcome among them always a little stiff, a little cool. Elizabeth was the greatest offender in this respect, but she managed to be so in such a way that he could never find a real cause for complaint. To all intents and purposes her attitude was perfect. It was only in small ways—the guarded half-smile, the lifted eyebrow, the change of tone—that he felt himself criticized and condemned and relegated to the doghouse. The result was the constant strain of a silent and deadly warfare. Sometime he would flush her into the open. Or sometime she would wear down his control and force a disgraceful or rude and violent temper. But until that happened, it was fence, thrust and parry—and always on guard.

Beside her, the Judge's reserve was friendly. Yet there was that reserve. Gerry had still to prove himself. Hell! What did the old man want? But Gerry knew. It was not the veneer of correct controlled behavior. Steven King wanted to be sure of his future granson-in-law's intrinsic worth which time alone could test. Time! How much time! Gerry had not a great deal of patience.

As for Audrey—he felt her trying, without noticeable success to view him as her dughter's prospective husband. But there was in her a fear and he knew wherein it was rooted. That February night when he had so arrogantly appeared here and she had opened the door to him, she had read his mind as he had looked at her. She had read it and been shocked. But if she was afraid of him, he was afraid of her, too. For her intuition could probe much more deeply into his weaknesses than any jab of the tongue from Elizabeth. With Audrey too, therefore, he must be watchful lest she ever sense his interest in Alicia.

Frank was the only one with whom he felt on an equal footing. It was what he knew about Frank, of course, that gave him that assurance. Any time Frank tried to get funny, Gerry could silence him. Yet now and then, looking into the stolid heaviness of Frank's face, Gerry was aware of the possibility that not even his knowledge would be able under all circumstances to contain Susan's father. Under sufficient provocation, Frank might come at him like a raging lion infuriated past all caution and threat of danger. He would take a chance, then, on family solidarity and Audrey's known loyalty.

So it was strive and strain in the King household until, by June, Gerry felt pulled as taut as a finely strung wire.

Chrysler Workers Accept 10 Cent 'Package' Boost

Contract Settlement Does Not Include Pension

Windsor, Ont, June 5— Union employees of the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, voted this morning to accept a contract settlement between the company and Local 195, United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) The agreement ended the threat of a strike called for 10 a.m. today.

The union announced that in a show-of-hands vote, employees at a meeting today ratified the agreement, forced in a marathon bargaining session which ended four hours before a 10 a.m. strike deadline for 3,600 Chrysler Workers of Local 195.

Year of Negotiation

The settlement, reached more than a year after contract talks first opened, gives employees a 10-cent-an-hour "package" increase.

The package includes a straight wage boost of six cents an hour and a company-paid hospital-medical-insurance plan which the union said is equal to four cents an hour.

The settlement does not include a pension plan.

It provides a two-year contract which can be opened after one year for new wage negotiations. Contract changes drop some of the penalties in the Rand formula dealing with union security and give arbitrators more freedom in settling disputes.

A company-paid pension plan was the chief aim of the union. It had asked for a $100-a-month pensions, and the company had offered to pay pensions of $55, but agreement could not be reached on funding or administration of the plan.

Will Be Ratified

It was believed that the settlement would be formally ratified at a meeting this morning of the 3,600 Chrysler members of U.A.W. Local 195. They would have gone on strike at 10 am. if no settlement had been reached. Instead they left their jobs to attend the meeting, in the market building in downtown Windsor.

The final bargaining session which produced the new contract lasted from 10 a.m. Sunday to 6 a.m. today It had been preceded by five days of negotiations.

The settlement ends a year-long contract dispute. An Ontario conciliation board recommended a month ago that the company and union settle on a company-paid pension plan patterned on the Ford of Canada agreement with the union.

TWO MEMBERS OF ICE FOLLIES CAST ARE KILLED

Bend, Ore., June 5 — (CP) — A car carrying three members of the Ice Follies cast crashed into a rock pile shortly before dawn today, killing a dancer and a singer and injuring another member of the troupe.

Charles Davidson of Brantford, Ont., a star of the show, was killed almost instantly and so was Jeanne Crystal of Buffalo, N.Y., a vocalist.

Nancy MacKenzie of London, Ont., a member of the skating chorus, was seriously injured.

The three were driving from Portland to San Francisco after the Ice Follies completed its engagement in Portland. They were the car's only occupants.

Police were investigating to determine just how the accident occurred. They thought the lights of an oncoming truck might have blinded the driver so that the car veered into the roadside rockpile, four miles north of here.

Mark Anniversary Of Presbyterian Church in Canada

Montreal, June 5 — (CP) — More than 400 Presbyterians representing churches from coast to coast gathered in MacVicar Memorial Church today for the opening session of the three-day congress celebrating the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Meanwhile more than 300 delegates from five presbyteries in the Montreal and Ottawa areas registered in St. James United Church preparatory to the opening late today of the four-day annual meeting of the Montreal and Ottawa conference.

The congress was to be opened by Rt. Rev. Dr. C. L. Cowan of Hamilton, moderator.

Dr. Buchman Awarded Knighthood of Legion Of Honor of France

The knighthood was conferred in the name of the French Republic by Senator Eugenie Eboue, member of the French Senate, at a ceremony here.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, June 5 (CP)—Synopsis: In Southern Ontario Sunday's weather was pleasantly sunny, but although temperatures were in the seasonable 60s their effect was tempered by brisk westerly breezes.

A weak disturbance west of Lake Superior will continue southeastward today and Tuesday giving a little shower activity, which will occur mainly at night. The disturbance will be followed by cooler air.

AMERICAN EDGE IN A-WEAPONS CAN PREVENT WAR

Head Start Will Play Major Role if it Comes

Washington, June 5. (AP) — United States military planners are sticking to the belief that an American edge in atomic weapons can prevent a Third World War.

If one does come, they feel such a head start would play a major role in achieving victory.

But in conversations with a reporter they made clear they do not think atomic superiority will make defence cheap or easy.

They believe that new tactical atomic weapons—weapons usable against troops and their lines of communications—hold the key to a defence setup which the west can achieve without spending beyond its means.

In a radio and television broadcast Sunday, Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U.S. Army Chief of Staff, said that atomic weapons for use by the Army "most assuredly can be developed."

He said the army is doing a great deal of work toward developing weapons that it can use with atomic materials.

And he added that it is "by no means impossible" to develop an artillery piece that will fire on atomic weapon, or guided missiles which could carry an atomic warhead.

Weapons Developed

The Associated Press has received authoritative information that such weapons already have been developed.

Referring obviously to Russia, but without mentioning that country by name, Collins said:

"We don't believe the enemy would have these weapons because there is a limit to his industrial capacity and his research and development field. We think that we can and are keeping ahead of him."

Collins mentioned atomic bombs and other new weapons as a means of "making it practicable for Western Europe to defend itself, with certain aid from us, within the economic possibilities of Europe, to raise the necessary forces."

Open For Discussion

His statement opened the way for public discussion as to how such weapons can be fitted into what State Secretary Dean Acheson has called the West's "balanced collective forces."

Under present United States law, atomic weapons cannot be placed in the hands of any foreign country, not even an Atlantic Pact ally.

One solution under discussion is to place atomic weapons in or near Europe in American hands.

Combining Cognac and Motor Cars Something New in Way of Contests

Paris, June 5 — (AP) — If you can drink cognac for three hours, and then drive your car between two rows of pins without upsetting any - - - - - -

And then back your car across the road between two poles without touching either of them, and, still backing, park it between two other rows of pins - - - -

Then you may have a chance to win a gastronomic "rally" or tour-contest being held across France June 9 to 19. You might become famous as the first champion of the "Gastromobilists."

The manoeuvre described above is only one of the tests for the drivers—and their respective livers—competing in the rally. The winner will be the driver who upsets the fewest pins while competing the 1,518-kilometre (about 900-mile) circuit and participating in all the dinners and wine-tasting ceremonies.

The idea of combining cognac and motor cars might sound strange to Canadians, and outrageous to organizations devoted to safety, but motorists in France long have had the habit of driving extra miles out of their way for a good bottle of wine or a special dish in some small restaurant known for its cuisine.

The rally, officially billed as the 'international gastonomic rally,' is the first attempt to put this habit on a formal contest basis. The promoters, a French regional motoring club and the publishers of a guide to hotels and restaurants, intend to stage such a contest every year.

Competitors will start June 9 from Dijon, centre of the famous Burgundy wine district, and wind up 10 days later—if they can— at Cheverny, a castle on the Loire River. The route will take them across the regions most celebrated for good food and good wine, including the Bordeaux area.

The schedule calls for banquet-lunches and dinner-feasts all along the route. Drivers will be expected to taste local specialties, wines and liqueurs.

The promotors have limited the number of entries to 300. About 100 have entered so far, including 50 Frenchmen, about 30 from Britain, and 20 from Belgium and Holland.

The organizers say they will award a large number of prizes with a total value of 1,000,000 francs (about $3,300) to the rally winners.

Central Altar in Grottos Of Vatican Dedicated To St. Peter by Pope Pius

(By FRANK BRUTTO)

Vatican City, June 5—(AP)—In a strictly private ceremony, Pope Pius today consecrated the Central Altar dedicated to Saint Peter in the Vatican grottos.

The solemn ceremony climaxed long years of excavations and preparations of the grotto which, Pope Pius two and a half years ago said, marks the place where the first Pope and prince of the apostles—Saint Peter—was placed to rest.

The ceremony proceeded while hundreds of Holy Year pilgrims prayed on the Basilica's marble floors at the head of the ancient crypts, unaware.

Ceremony on Grottos

The Pontiff and a small party of prelates and Vatican officials entered the grottos from a new doorway that leads directly to the excavations.

Vatican sources said the ceremony today was limited to consecration of the Central Altar, whose stones include slabs from the original Basilica built by the Emperor Constantine to mark the spot where Saint Peter was believed to be buried.

The Pope, addressing some 6,000 Rome students Jan. 30, 1949, said that the burial place of the Apostle Peter "is and was under the cupola of Saint Peter's Church."

Since then there have been reports that even more specific findings have been made during the more recent excavations, but there has not been any Vatican confirmation of this.

A first inspection by the diplomatic corps and newspaper men is expected to be made in the near future after which the grottos will be opened to the public.

The grottos, part of what once was the original Saint Peter's Basilica built by Constantine in 337, are divided into three caves, supported by massive pillars. They are illuminated by soft lighting from small niches cut into the ancient walls and pillars.

The Central Altar is dominated by a statue of Christ holding a scepter in his hand. Deep in the grottos there is a marble statue of Saint Peter, similar to the bronze statue in the Basilica whose toe has been worn smooth by the kisses of millions of faithful during the centuries.

Following the consecration, the Pope celebrated the first mass at the Central Altar.

At its conclusion, he descended with architects and archaeologists to a lower level where Saint Peter is believed to have been buried.

Here the Pope knelt in prayer.

Nine Airmen Collapse As Lord Alexander Presents King's Color

Ottawa, June 5. (CP)— With magnificent pageantry, the R.C.A.F. was presented the King's Color by the Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, today in a display of military formalism not matched on Parliament Hill since the royal visit of 1939.

At least nine of the 400 participating airmen collapsed and were carried off and another three were helped off the green lawns of the Hill as the subdued excitement took its toll in the 75 minutes of pomp and precision.

Under cloudless skies about 10,000 persons stood three and four and five deep around the great, green lawns that provided a brilliant background for the ceremony, held on the official birthday of the King.

At one stage, as many as three airmen fell to the ground almost at once from the ranks that have been in training for weeks for the ceremony that saw not only an unprecedented presentation of the King's color to a Commonwealth Air Force but also the presentation of the color of the R.C.A.F. itself. The temperature was about 65 degrees but the sun was hot.

They were carried off on stretchers and the great show went on. Others fell to their knees and were helped off.

An R.C.A.F. nurse at one stage carried off an airman's bayoneted rifle.

A nurse said after the ceremony that none of the airmen was seriously ill. No official notice was taken of their departure. The show went on as though nothing had happened.

400 Recently Enlisted

About half the 400 airmen participating were recently enlisted.

The Governor-General, ribbons and medals thick on the chest of his army uniform, told the airmen as he presented the colors to "keep them secure and stand ready to defend them from those who would do them and your country harm."

"The colors. . .will never serve as an actual rallying point in battle but have instead an even greater significance," he said as thousands listened. "They will serve as a visible commemoration of the sacrifices made by those thousands who gave their lives in the service of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

"They will serve as a token of the indomitable spirit shown by all those who served—and who continue to serve—in a young but proud service."

The ceremony, watched by Cabinet ministers, diplomats and members of parliament, was brilliant in music and pageantry.

Its features included the sounding of the "alert" and the royal salute by seven R.C.A.F. trumpeters using long, gleaming coronation trumpets brought from England just for the occasion.

Another was the carrying out of a "feu-de-joie," the firing of three rounds, rifle by rifle, by the escort Squadron of Airmen with the trumpeters or the R.C.A.F. band playing between each round. Its climax was a royal salute.

When it was all over, swarms of young boys raced across the lawns to gather up the blank cartridges. The airman marched off down the hill to deposit the colors in the headquarters officers' mess.

Wife Faints Hearing Voice of Husband Believed Under Debris

Middletown, O., June 5 (AP)—Harold Heath innocently asked a by-stander what all the commotion was about. His wife, who was looking on horror-stricken as rescuers started to dig in some debris, heard his voice, turned around and fainted.

The rescuers put down their shovels and a waiting ambulance returned to Middletown without a patient.

Heath had been believed buried in a cellar cave-in of a house he was building at nearby Oneida It turned out he had gone to visit a neighbor a few minutes before the cellar collapsed Sunday.

Peacetime Chemical Industry Turned Back to Germans

Bonn, Germany, June 5 (AP) — The Allied High Commission turned control of the West-German chemical industry back to the Germans today except for products that could be used only for war purposes.

The Germans get control of some chemicals which can be used in war, but which also have peacetime uses.

The commission also scrapped many of the controls over the fine mechanics, optics and electronics industries.

SOCIAL CHRISTIANS WIN CONTROL OF BELGIAN HOUSE

Pro-Leopold Group Wins by Scant Margin

By ALFRED CHEVAL

Brussels, June 5 — (AP)—The Social Christian party, victorious in Sunday's Belgian parliamentary elections, embarked on a program to bring exiled King Leopold III back to the throne. Enthusiastic party leaders predicted this will be accomplished by July 1 but leaders of the anti-Leopold opposition were not so sure.

The Social Christians, predominantly a Roman Catholic party, won 107 seats in the Lower House against 105 for the combined anti-Leopold forces of Socialists, Liberals and communists. Minister of the Interior officials said the Social Christians are sure to get control of the Senate, too. By law, only a majority of both Houses sitting in joint session can end the regency of Prince Charles, Leopold's brother.

In Sunday's balloting the Social Christians won 54 of the 106 Senate seats at stake. Ministry of Interior officials said the party would get a minimum of 25 of the 46 seats which will be chosen by provincial councillors and at least 11 of the seats which the Senators fill themselves. This would give pro-Leopold partisans at least 90 of the Senate's 175 seats, or 197 votes to 190 in a joint session.

Convenes June 20

Social Christian strategy calls for formation of a government which can win a vote of confidence in both houses, when they convene June 20. Then the Senate and House would be summoned into joint session to end the regency and return Leopold to the throne.

But the ardently anti-Leopold Socialist party, which also made gains in the election, could throw a monkey wrench in the planning by calling general strikes and thus creating general unrest. The Socialists threatened prior to the election to follow such a course if Leopold is called back. The party's leaders were meeting today to consider a course of action in the light of Sunday's voting in which the Social Christians got only 46.93 per cent of the popular vote.

The Socialists could interpret this as indicating that slightly more than half of Belgium's population was still opposed to restoring the handsome, 48-year-old monarch to the throne.

Social Christians were reported planning to form a new government immediately with the premiership going to Jean Duvieusart, present minister of Economic Affairs and known as a moderate in the party ranks.

Shuffle of Atoms Caused by Cancer, Discovery Made in Yellow Chemical

(By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE)

New York, June 5 — (AP) — Cancer brings a strange atomic shuffle in living cells, two cancer researchers report.

The shuffle occurs in a yellowish chemical, found in both healthy and cancerous cells. The amount of yellowish substance doesn't change with cancer formation. It appears the same, and the amount is the same in normal and cancerous tissues.

But with cancer, some of the atoms making up the yellowish material are shuffled around and change positions, just as shuffling a deck of cards changes the order of the cards.

The shuffling is detectable just as cancer starts. Whether the change in position of the atoms is caused by cancer, or may be connected with the actual cause of cancer, isn't yet known.

The discovery was made by Dr. Christopher Carruthers and Dr. Valentina Suntzeff of the Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis.

They said the yellowish chemical is a new fat-like material not recognized before. It seems to be a fat, but doesn't behave like a fatty substance. Unlike fat, it can be dissolved in water.

They extracted it from healthy normal cells, and from cancerous cells. The change in atomic arrangement was observed by intricate measurements using electricity and light.

Certain chemicals change in amount when a cell becomes cancerous, but this is the first time that a change in quality or structure has been found with no change in the amount of the chemical, Dr. Carruthers said.

Dr. Carruthers and Dr. Suntzeff now are studying the effects of X-ray treatment of skin cancers. X-Ray can cure many skin cancers. They want to see whether the yellowish chemical changes back to its normal atomic arrangement of the substance from normal tissues, and just how it is changed in cancer. And then to see whether it is possible to change the atoms back to their normal arrangement.

Calls it Major Contribution to Peace, Freedom

Measure Authorizes Five Programs of World-Wide Aid

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

Washington, June 5 (AP) — President Truman signed the $3,121,450,000 foreign aid authorization bill today, calling it a "major contribution to peace and freedom in the world."

The measure authorizes five programs of world-wide aid, including funds for the third year operation of the European Recovery plan, and a start on the "point four" proposal to develop backward areas.

"Taken together," Truman said of the five programs, "they add up to a broad, enlightened and typically American enterprise in the building of a safe and prosperous world."

In his statement, the President expressed special pleasure over the $35,000,000 fund approved for technical aid under the point four program.

He said it is an important step toward strengthening freedom and defeating "communist imperialism," and expressed hope that Congress will soon pass a companion measure authorizing the government to encourage and support private investment in needy countries.

The measure's biggest authorization is $2,850,000,000 for carrying on the Marshall Plan in Europe for a third year. Other programs:

1. Aid to the free peoples of Korea, southeast Asia, and non-communist China— $194,000,000. Of this total $100,000,000 is provided for the Republic of Korea.

Technical Assistance

2. Technical assistance to under-developed areas — $35,000,000.

3. Relief and public works for Arab refugees from Palestine — $27,450,000.

4. Continuing support for United Nations programs for child welfare — $15,000,000.

The president said the exchange of technical assistance and skills under point four, and the fostering of capital investment abroad, are not new ideas, but are in line with the American traditions of initiative and free enterprise.

"But we are now ready," he asserted, "to put these activities on an organized, sustained basis and to direct them toward the building of a more prosperous and peaceful world.

LIBERAL PARTY, BACKER OF U.S. POLICY, AHEAD

Tokyo, June 5 (AP)—Japan's voters, exercising their war-born governmental voice, apparently rebuked legislators who joined the April revolt against General Douglas MacArthur in Sunday's election.

Incomplete returns showed they gave only sparing support in the House of Councillors' election to the dominant Green Wind Society which openly bucked MacArthur's occupation headquarters on a tax and reform bill.

This verdict and a continued anti-communist trend were the outstanding factors after three-quarters of the 132 seats at stake were decided.

The Green Wind Society won only seven seats. Twenty nine seats of its 71 plurality in the Chamber were at stake.

Prime Minister Siheru Yoshida's Liberal party and the Social Democrats continued to make a one sided race for dominance.

The Liberals had 39 of the 98 seats already decided. The Socialists who showed the most surprising surge of influence had won 9. Thirteen Independents, two Farm Co-operative and one Farmer Laborite were elected. No communists have been successful so far. The Democratic party had only seven victories.

These results gave the Liberals a gain of two seats over those they had at stake in the campaign. The Socialists already had picked up a net increase of 12 seats.

The communist - opposed Tokyo public works referendum appeared sure of approval. More than 419,000 votes for the project and 254,000 opposed it.

Four women were among the successful candidates.

FARMHOUSE DESTROYED

Winchester, June 5 — (CP)— Fire Sunday destroyed a two-storey frame farmhouse, owned by Mirrill Tayler, two miles west of this town. Damage was estimated at $15,000.

The fire was believed to have started from a wood - burning stove. Neighbors on their way to church formed a bucket brigade to help control the blaze which for a time threatened neighboring homes.

Winchester is about 30 miles south of Ottawa.

DESIGNATIONS ELIMINATED

New York, June 5 — (AP) — All designations of race, creed, and color will be eliminated from "situation - wanted" advertisements henceforth in the journal of the American Medical Association, it was announced today. Edward W. Edwards, chairman of the New York State Commission against discrimination, said an agreement on the matter had been reached between his commission and the American Medical Association.

Car-Truck Crash Near Marysville Injures Six

Six persons were admitted to Belleville General Hospital and at least half a dozen others suffered minor bruises and a shaking up as a result of a car-truck collision east of Marysville at midnight Saturday.

The accident occurred at the intersection of the "Slash Road" east of Marysville and No. 2 Highway when a truck carrying about ten persons collided with another vehicle. All the injured were from Deseronto.

In hospital are George Brant, 16, driver of the car, which crashed into the truck, who suffered a broken arm and was literally scalped, and his companion in the car, Miss Lorraine Maracle, 17, who suffered lacerated eyelids, lacerated legs and a broken right leg.

Passengers riding on the truck who are in hospital include Carl Brant, 20, broken back; Noble Hill, 23, fractured shoulder; Alvin Maracle, 14, concussion, and Harvey Maracle, abrasions and shock. Driver of the truck, Albert Maracle, who suffered a bruised knee, and "Sonny" Maracle, were permitted to return home after first aid at the hospital.

It was reported that the truck carrying the group of young Indians was making a left turn onto the "Slash Road" when it was in collision with the car driven by George Brant. The truck turned on its side and skidded about 15 feet, scattering the young people riding on the rear platform.

Dr. D. C. McVickers attended the injured at the scene and also at the hospital.

Outstanding Program Given By City and District Artists In Aid of Flood Relief Fund

Talent, beauty and artistry combined on Sunday night to present to a large appreciative audience an outstanding program of entertainment in Memorial Arena in aid of the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund.

The amount of the proceeds was not disclosed. Chairman John M. Wood said today that the amount will be made public as soon as outside ticket sales returns are completed.

The large crowd thrilled to the melodic offerings of choir, band, instrumentalists and vocal artists. The star-studded show took two hours to complete and was broadcast over Radio Station CJBQ.

Phil Flagler, CJBQ announcer, was master-of-ceremonies and kept the show moving along in a steady sequence of numbers.

Mayor Jack Allan spoke briefly to the audience pointing out the urgent need of funds for the relief victims of the Red River.

Bill Arnold, CJBQ announcer, related human interest and other stories of flood victims, while Chairman Wood of the Fund Committee here also appealed for financial help.

Never Played Better

The Belleville Municipal Band under the baton of Bandmaster, Ted Robbins never played better. They opened the program with the well-known March, "Thunderer", by Sousa and by contrast offered the strains of the popular Gold and Silver Waltz by Franz Lehar. Later in the program the band was heard in "Orpheus in the Underworld" by Offenbach, and also accompanied the massed choirs in their offerings.

Living up to Master of Ceremonies Flagler's introduction "a sweet personality and a beautiful voice", Ethel Smith thrilled her listeners with 'Night and Day' and offered as an encore "On the Outgoing Tide".

Fine Artistry

The instrumental artistry of Miss Helen Grant, popular xylophonist of the city, was heard in her renditions of "Romany Life" and "W. G. Special" written by Reg. Hinchey, Belleville composer.

The full tonal effects of the Northern Electric Hammond organ were brought out by Dean Whalen in his selection "Lady of Spain" and again when talented Charlie Cawker and Glenn Tamblyn offered "These are the Things I love" and "I Only have Eyes for You" in an organ-piano duet.

Gertrude (Trudy) Scott, Trenton's lyric soprano, sang "Siboney" and "Lover Come Back to Me" in splendid voice.

Frank Hockaday and his famous 'Willie McGuire' brought the house down in a riot of comedy with their ventriloquist act and many laughs were held at the expense of local personalities. Hockaday received a fine ovation at the conclusion of his act.

Lovely Lorraine Marsh, assisted by Dean Whalen, Glen Tamblyn and Arnold Carter sang the tuneful "Bewitched" and "I'm in the Mood for Love" in splendid voice. The pretty singer received an outstanding ovation at the conclusion of her numbers.

Combined Choirs Heard

Concluding one of the best musical entertainments heard in the city were the combined voices of the choirs of Tabernacle United Church, Bridge Street United Church and St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, directed by Bandmaster Robbins, with accompaniment by the Municipal Band, the blended voices offered melodic scores.

Earlier in the program, Don Butcher a boy soprano with a beautiful voice sang "Chasing Rainbows" and "April Showers." Lloyd Morris, Cannifton pianist also displayed fine artistry on his instrument.

Mr. Bill Stovin, manager of Radio Station CJBQ closed the program with expression of appreciation of the large audience and the assistance they gave the Flood Relief Fund.

Chairman Wood today expressed his thanks to the "Two Bills" Messrs. Arnold and Stovin, Phl Flagler, all of CJBQ. Harold Carruthers and other members of the Kiwanis Club who assisted with the project.

Brockville Wins Over Belleville 4-1 In Soccer Match

Brockville beat Belleville United by four goals to one at the Fairgrounds on Saturday afternoon. The visitors had the better of the exchanges but the Belleville boys would have had a better score if they could have got past the strong Brockville defence. Brockville had a mixture of youth and experience. They have one or two players who have been household names in local soccer circles for a good many years.

Whiting scored the first goal of the match about twenty minutes after the start for Brockville, the second was netted by Symes from the centre forward position, while Ballantyne got the third for the visitors and the last one to be scored in the first half. In the second period the Belleville squad settled down and came very close to scoring on two or three occasions, particularly from some very good corner shots by Jimmy Cathcart on the left wing.

The first tally of the second half came from Gemmell from a penalty spot kick. Symes scored the only other goal in this half which was the fourth for Brockville.

Teams:

Belleville United—Blaker, Dale, Findley, F. Moody, Lane, S. Moody, J. Cathcart, Gemmell, Lee, Williamson, Alexander, Sub Terry.

Brockville — Metcalfe, Smith, Robertson J., Tiker, Robertson R, MacNaull, Fetheringham, Oliver, Symes, Sere, Whiting. Subs. Jones, Marshall Ballantyne.

Referee Les Digby, Linesmen—T. Cathcart, Shield.

Mauna Loa Sets Pacific Boiling Mile off Shore

Honolulu, June 5 — (AP) — Mighty Mauna Loa, a mountain with a stomach ache, continued its greatest eruption of the century today, spewing a lava flow toward the sea that endangered 35 homes and a resort lodge area.

Police at Kona, a village on the big island of Hawaii, said all residents of the endangered area had been evacuated. The new flow began about nightfall and raced at breakneck speed toward the sea.

The lava's path transcends the southwest slope where the second and third flows of last week tumbled into the Pacific.

On the other side of the volcano foreman Ernest Morton of the Kahuku ranch said the flow there seemed to be dying out.

The new lava stream coursed down the southeast flank, threatening buildings on Kahuku ranch and the villages of Kau, Naalehu and Waiohinu. These are located on southeast Hawaii Island which is about 200 miles southeast of Honolulu.

For the fifth straight day, rivers of red-hot rock curled down the southwest slope, burned black paths through forests and green fields and boiled viciously into the ocean. These fiery streams already have consumed homes of 40 persons along the rich southwest Hawaii Kona coast and forced another 60 persons to flee.

"It's a tremendous flow — the greatest volume of this century," said volcanologist Ray H. Finch. Revising estimates, he said the new burst of activity indicated the eruption "might last much longer" than two weeks.

Observatory seismographs have registered 65 earthquakes in the first 60 hours of eruption, Finch said. Most were too faint to be felt. The two or three that were "caused no damage or excitement."

Along the southwest coast, Sunday spectators walked over the top of one lava stream that had cooled. But two other rivers of molten rock tumbled into the sea, churning the water to scalding temperature and throwing up vast clouds of steam.

Volcanologists estimated the Pacific was boiling as much as a mile off shore.

Churchill Pays Tribute to Late Prime Minister

Astley, Worcestershire, England, June 5 — (CP) — Winston Churchill regards the late Stanley Baldwin as the "most formidable" politician he has ever known.

Churchill paid tribute to the Conservative Prime Minister of the inter-war years, who died Dec. 14, 1947, in a speech at a memorial ceremony.

"Here was a statesman," said Churchill, "who over a long period of years exercised a remarkable personal influence upon British politics and British fortunes.

"In domestic policies he was one of the most capable leaders you could have found for many generations.

Churchill said Lord Baldwin of Bewdley achieved two notable triumphs in his 1924-29 administration. One was in foreign affairs, where he "sustained" Sir Austen Chamberlain in negotiating the Pact of Locarno. The second was in steadily improving the living standards of the British people.

As for Baldwin's second administration, starting in 1931, Churchill said his old chief was overwhelmed by a series of foreign and military events "with which he was not specially fitted to deal."

"As I was his chief critic upon these issues, I have a right to declare here and now that his courage and patriotism did not fail. Although the tragic course of events belied his judgment . . . not all who now claim superior wisdom saw what was approaching."

POLICE BLOTTER

Cash amounting to about $8 was taken from the till at Bill Deline's Coleman Street Store, during the weekend, it was reported today by police. The intruders gained entrance to the premises by smashing a window, the break-in being discovered today when employees reported for work. A check indicated that only the cash was missing.

A sixteen-year-old Deseronto youth, George M. Brant, was checked by police Saturday night for driving in a careless manner on Front Street. It was reported Brant swung past a truck stopped for a red light and narrowly missed a motorcycle rider.

Man's Hope is in Intelligence, Dignifying Life With Meaning A. C. Graduating Class Told

Following the tradition of many years the Baccalaureate service of the graduating class of Albert College was held at Bridge Street United Church on Sunday morning.

Entering the church the procession was led by the officiating clergymen, followed by the faculty in caps and gowns, the graduates in magenta-colored gowns, the girl students, dressed alike in long white dresses and gloves, and the male students. The altar was beautifully arranged with baskets of white and purple lilacs.

The choir was heard in two numbers, an anthem "Mine Eyes have seen the Glory" sung with fine effect; and an octett by the alto section "Deep River." Miss Leona Riggs directed and Mr. Alec. Gordon accompanied at the organ.

Assisting at the service were Rev. Bert Howard, D.D., Principal of Albert College who read the scripture lesson; Rev. W. T. Ross Flemmington, M.A., O.B.D., LL.D., who offered prayer and Rev. D. C. Amos, B.A., minister of the church, who introduced the speaker for the occasion.

"Rev. Dr. Howse, the minister of Bloor Street United Church, is a former Albert College student, and he has come back to see what the 1950 model looks like," Rev. Mr. Amos said in his introductory remarks.

To this challenge the Rev. Ernest M. Howse S.T.M., Ph.D., replied that he thought the 1950 model was immeasurably improved. "This happens to be the 25th anniversary of my graduation from Albert," he said, "and I remember that that year the building where I studied had been condemned.

Basing his message on the verse "Thou Shalt love the Lord Thy God with all thy mind," Dr. Howse proceeded to explain that this first commandment was advice given to an educated man, but not to a particular class of men.

Dedication of Intelligence

"This service should be a dedication of your intelligence," the minister said. "You are part of a select minority. Secondary school registrations have increased five hundred percent."

The speaker quoted figures to show that this graduating class represented the survivors of one hundred and fifty pupils who had entered Public School thirteen years ago. Free education was bitterly opposed by many early leaders and was described as petty reverence for the poor. The Royal stables received a much bigger grant than educational institutions. It took the force of the Christian churches, and is regarded as a primary impulse of the Protestant church that a child of God has the right to read the word of God.

"Education is a recent achievement," said Dr. Howse. "Of more than two billion people in the world, those who can read and write are still in the minority. The greatest impact of this tragedy is not that they cannot read, but that they cannot speak, they have no voice, they are manipulated and exploited, driven by tyranny, and mutely submissive Three out of five of all people on earth are still totally illiterate. You are a select minority, you enjoy the privilege given to a tiny group, and the society in which you live is convinced that you are worth it. Our society has educated you to teach you how to think, not what to think. No individual who is worthy of this regard can take his obligations lightly.

Exploitation of Ideal

"Most adolescents arrive at this stage with little understanding of what they owe to society. Education has been demonstrated as an aid to success. It is illuminating to see how the idea that it pays to get an education has been exploited. A college graduate, we are told, starts his career with 10 percent better chances of earning money. It has a profitable economical advantage. It is also one of the most interesting and agreeable experiences a young person can have. But the real purpose of education is a dedication of intelligence. The greatest perils of this generation have not been the accomplishment of illiteracy or ignorance, but of intelligence. It has been said that the Germans had more learning per square head than any other nation, but the union of high intelligence and low desire was the ruin of the Nazis.

Intelligence Not Enough

Intelligence is not enough H. G.Wells said that civilization is a race between education and catastrophe. One philosopher said that if we could get general education all our economic, political and social troubles would be solved. Our knowledge has plunged us into iniquities undreamed of a few generations ago, and it has left the world with aching hearts and blank faces. We have caught the power of the sun and we have plunged the world into darkness. The resources of the most intelligent minds have failed to give people anything but a sense of being damned. More knowledge and more intelligence do not mean more hope. Our hope is in intelligence that goes out into the world, rises above the world and dignifies life with meaning. There is but one level where life can be so lived that is in the presence of God. We need men who are the servants of the Most High God, and who will dedicate their intelligence to His purpose.

Would Offer 'Bounty On Dandelions

Noranda, Que., June 5 — (CP —Bounties are a good way of cutting down the wolf population — and the Noranda Horticultural Society figures they might be just as effective against lions — dandelions, that is.

The youngsters thought it was a fine idea and pitched right in when the society began offering $1 a bushed for dandelions in an attempt to rid the town of weeds.

Police Press Search for Man In Wounding Case

North Bay, June 5 — (CP) — Police issued a warrant Sunday on an armed robbery charge against Thomas Toohey, 24, of Kirkland Lake, sought since last Friday's attack on Joseph E. Colleaux of Malartic, Que.

Colleaux, 36, was shot in the chest, neck and groin by a man he met in a local beverage room. While Colleaux feigned death his assailant escaped in Colleaux' automobile.

Toohey, a mine guard and former Vancouver policeman, was described as "dangerous." Police said he is armed with two .32-calibre revolvers, an automatic pistol and plenty of ammunition.

At Kirkland Lake, Toohey's 21-year-old wife Jean, said her husband will not let police take him alive.

"The only way he will give up is if his father is there or I am." She described him as "very, very sick."

Toohey was free on $500 bail at the time of the Colleaux shooting. He was charged with assaulting a policeman.

Colleaux' condition was reported "favorable" by hospital authorities.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 5 (AP) — William F. Hofman, 65, owner of Syracuse Chiefs of the International Baseball League and former newspaper executive, died today.

Hofman was found dead in bed by his wife. He attended a double-header here Sunday between his team and Jersey City.

He formerly was president and publisher of the Long Island Press in Jamaica, president and publisher of the Long Island City Star-journal in Long Island City, treasurer of the Star Ledger in Newark, N. J., and secretary of the Syracuse Herald-Journal.

Six are Killed In Ship Flying British Flag

Hong Kong, June 5 — (CP) — Six passengers were killed and seven were wounded Sunday when two Chinese Nationalist warships pumped more than 200 shells into the British blockade runner Cheung Hing off Amoy.

The attack took place on the high seas some 20 miles outside of territorial waters, the manager of the shipping company here said.

The Cheung Hing is an 800-ton coastal steamer. It had called at the red port of Amoy with a cargo of fertilizer from Hong Kong. The ship was on its way back here.

Captain J. Skinner of the Cheung Hing notified his office here that the vessel was leaking badly from shell holes and had developed a ten degree list.

The ship had aboard more than 100 Chinese passengers and a crew of 62, including four Europeans.

The vessel is due back here tomorrow. It has been engaged in blockade running for six months.

The British frigate Whitesand Bay on China coast patrol sped to the ship's assistance when she was attacked, but arrived too late to intervene.

She sent her doctor aboard with a medical party to tend the wounded and later returned to her patrol duties, leaving the Cheung Hing to go on to Hong Kong unescorted.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE LAID

Espanola, June 5 (CP) — A charge of manslaughter has been laid against Alex Lachance of Espanola, driver of a truck which struck and fatally injured Arthur Chaput here early Saturday.

Lachance was taken to the district jail in Sudbury but later released on bail of $3,000. He will appear here before Magistrate W. J. Golden, Friday.

10,000 Attend Holy Name Society and Rosary Crusade Rally Held at Kingston Sunday

Close to one thousand Belleville and district persons journeyed to Kingston on Sunday for the huge Holy Name and Family Rosary Crusade rally held in George Richardson Memorial stadium, Queen's University.

The great rally, climax of a six-week crusade for a return to family prayer, drew close to 10,000 persons to the stadium, thousands of whom had to stand throughout the two-hours program as the grandstands and extra seats failed to accommodate the large crowd.

The De La Salle Boys' Band from Toronto opened the program at 2.30 with a medley of military marches and popular airs. At 3.20 a procession headed by the representatives of the Holy Name Societies throughout the Kingston Archdiocese entered the grounds. Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, with drawn swords provided an escort for His Grace Archbishop J. A. O'Sullivan, His Grace, Bishop Hansen of Denmark, and the clergy of the diocese.

The Triumphant Hour began at 3.30. His Grace, in a sermon on the Holy Name pointed out that since earliest Christian times men have seen the need for a society to praise His Holy Name and to offer reparation for the abuse which godless men heap upon it in blasphemy, perjury and obscene speech. He emphasized the sacredness of God's name and the enormity of the offense committed in breaking the second commandment.

Unable to Attend

Reverend Father Patrick Peyton organizer of the Family Rosary Crusade was unable to attend the rally due to illness that has confined him to bed. In his stead the sermon was delivered by his assistant Rev. Father Wood of the diocese of Albany who reiterated the Blessed Virgin's command to say the rosary.

"In seven centuries Our Lady has appeared —many times to ask the world —to say her rosary if it wished to have peace. In 1917 at Fatima, Portugal, she no longer asked —for prayer, she commanded it. If the world is to have peace and if Russia is to be converted we must say the rosary," he said.

The living rosary was then said with Reverend Rather J. P. Sullivan leading the mediation on the Joyful Mysteries. The prayers of each decade were led by the families of a soldier, a workingman, a professional man, and a farmer.

His Grace, Bishop Hansen of Denmark officiated at Benediction. Following the blessing the men at the rally took the Holy Name pledge.

Glen Miller Anglican Church Packed for First Service

Trenton — (Special) — The newly completed Anglican church at Glen Miller was packed to the doors for the first post dedication service Sunday evening.

Rev. J. L. Hutchinson, rector of St. Peter's Anglican Church, Brockville, was the special speaker for the evening and the choir of St. George's Anglican Church, Trenton, under the direction of the organist, Mrs. Donald Thompson, provided special music for the occasion.

Christ Church was formally opened and dedicated last Tuesday by the Most Rev. John Lyons D.D. Archbishop of Ontario. Rev. A. S. McConnell of St. George's Anglican Church, Trenton, is rector of the new Glen Miller Anglican Church.

The original Christ Church at Glen Miller was destroyed by fire some years ago, and since then, services have been held in the Glen Miller Community Hall.

One Man Campaign

Asking for everything from boots to baby carriages, G. W. Martin, manager of the Trent Theatre, is conducting a one man campaign to collect money and clothing for Manitoba Flood victims.

"They've lost everything, so anything will be welcome," said Mr. Martin in inviting Trenton citizens to leave "anything that is usable" in Trent theatre lobby.

"There isn't much yet but it's coming in fast," Mr. Martin reported Saturday. The doors are open all the time and already boxes of clothing are beginning to pile up in the lobby. One woman donated a baby's crib, carriage, bassinette and some baby clothes as well.

Mr. Martin started using the theatre as a collecting depot entirely on his own. He was one of the first to take the initiative in collecting money for the Flood Relief Fund too, and a box has been on the sidewalk in front of the theatre for several days now. Although he hasn't opened the contribution box yet, Mr. Martin says that judging by the number of people he has seen dropping in coins, he is sure there is a considerable amount of money inside.

Crashes Into Pole

William Brickman, 21, of 162 West Street, fell asleep at the wheel while driving along West Street early this morning and crashed into a hydro pole.

The collision put out the street lights in the district and caused damage to Brickman's car estimated at $100.00.

Brickman reported that he awoke too late to avoid hitting the pole.

Plans are being completed for the VON Garden Party on the Rectory Grounds of St. George's Anglican Church.

Mrs. Ralph Weaver is in charge of the tea room, where there will be teacup reading and fortune telling.

Proceeds from the garden party are for the VON general fund.

Red River Down More Than Eight Feet From Peak

Winnipeg, June 5 (CP)— The fast-dropping Red River, at its highest level in a century little more than two weeks ago, now is within four feet of the point at which all greater Winnipeg flooding ends.

The 8 a.m. EDT reading at James Ave. pumping station was 22.0 feet, down more than eight feet from the May 19 peak of 30.5. Flood-risk stage in the metropolitan area is 18 feet.

Hot sun and drying winds brought large drops in the river level at all points from Emerson Man., where the Red enters from the United States to Lake Winnipeg.

At Morris, 41 miles south of Winnipeg, the fall was 11 inches in 24 hours. Morris at one time was the centre of a 600-square-mile, river formed lake

Flood evacuees still are being discouraged from returning to Morris, abandoned by all but a handful of men at the height of the flood. At other towns, large numbers are coming back.

Some 250—one quarter of the town's normal population — have returned to Morris despite the warnings of town officials. Few are able to stay in their own homes. Food and sleeping accommodation are scarce.

187 PIANOS HEARD

Detroit, June 5 — (AP)—Ever hear of a piano selection arranged for 746 hands?

No? Well, that's right. Composers ordinarily score their piano compositions, at most, for eight hands — four persons.

But Sunday, at Olympic Stadium here, 373 boys and girls sat down at 187 pianos and simultaneously thumped through two selections.

The occasion was the Seventh Annual Michigan Music Festival.

TRAINING FOR CITIZENSHIP

Many social problems in present day society are a reflection on an educational system which has not been entirely successful in adjusting itself to meet the changing needs and conditions of the twentieth century.

Rotarians in Belleville and Trenton recently heard a leading educationalist, R. E. K. Rourke, deliver a penetrating analysis of present teaching methods and objectives. The three aims which Mr. Rourke laid down as the goals for any school or educational system serve as useful standards with which to measure the efficiency of our present system.

These three objectives are: to produce young people who take pride in their work, have enough strength of character to apply themselves when the going gets tough and who are willing and able to accept their social responsibilities; in short to produce good all round citizens. If these criteria are applied to existing methods, the best that can be said is that the aims are good but the targets have been missed. The key to the achievement of these objectives is the cultivation of self-discipline, a modern variety of good old fashioned stick-to-it-iveness. It is in this department that our schools could well take a hand.

Too often, young people are graduated even at the university level who lack either practical experience or cultural background and frequently they lack both. In a great many cases, individual failure to meet the challanges of everydaw living can be traced to faulty teaching methods which do not encourage children to think for themselves.

The answer is for teachers to cultivate curiosity in their students. New discoveries would never be made if it were not for independent research and investigation. If instead of cramming a mass of worked over theories into their students'. heads, teachers encouraged youngsters to find out more for themselves, our schools would turn out a brand of citizens who would be better equipped to carry out their social responsibilities.

MAGIC LANTERN AND TALKING MACHINE

Older residents will remember the magic lantern which back near the end of the last century was one of the chief entertainments in the home. Little did those who were enjoying these still slide pictures dream that in a very short time they were to be supplanted by motion pictures, silent of course for a long time, that the phonograph was to come on the scene and add to the gaiety of home life, that in due time would come the silent movies, which after years became vocal and sound-producing by an amalgamation of the magic lantern and the phonograph.

Since the era of the magic lantern, the world of entertainment has been transformed to an amazing degree and the progress is not near an end and probably will never reach an end for a good reason. The eye and the ear are the keys to a great deal of human experience. Now television has come and what are to be the developments of this and the motion picture? There has been prediction again and again of the coming of the third-dimension picture. If that should come, what next will be in line?

It is a safe venture that whatever it is, it will be something that will have to play to the greatest audiences of all time. For the movies have the greatest support of any entertainment in all history. But the movie will always remain and if there should come the third dimension element it is but another step in entertainment with the appeal to the eye and to the ear as the attraction, the same attraction as draws the many millions of the people to spend a pleasant afternoon or evening in the great movie palaces in all parts of the world.

Just the other day it was stated that the magic lantern is being converted into a sharp-eyed detector which can paint a picture of a face from verbal description. What next can there be in invention?

The old screen on the wall on which the little and modest magic lantern projected still pictures and the sounds of the talking machine find themselves still at work in the very advanced middle of the twentieth century. Who can see the end of the progress which comes from these two original forms of entertainment?

"Unromantic lovers in Italy steal Juliet's bed from the ancient castle of the Capulets between Verona and Vicenza. It looks as if the poor girl will have to rough it for a night or two out on the balcony," says the Hamilton Spectator.

There are three things that ought to be considered before some things are spoken,—the manner, the place and the time. — Southey.

To preserve in one's duty and be silent is the best answer to calumny. — Cecil.

JUST FOLKS

NO

Oh, why should such a little word be difficult for me?
A lot of men can say it and quite proper seem to be.
My father and my mother struggled vainly, years ago,
With this wisest of all counsel:
"You must learn to answer 'no'!"

Is it weakness? Is it folly, when for service I am asked,
I don't shake my head and tell them, "I'm already overtasked."
I have many good excuses and could prove that they are so.
Why should "yes" be so much easier for me to say
than "no?"

My doctor now advises, with a stern look on his face,
"You've reached the time, old fellow, when you'll have to slow your pace.
There is nothing much the matter, but you'll never stronger grow,
If it's 'yes' you keep on saying when you ought to answer, 'no'."

That's a very nice prescription, which should pleasant be to take,
But why should such an answer be so difficult to make?
I could slip from many duties, and my pains and aches might go,
But I'd feel much worse, I'm certain, if I started saying, "no."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GET RID OF RESENTMENTS!

A mind all clouded up with resentments is an unhealthy mind, and one that influences the health of the entire body. There are people who resent being corrected for errors, who resent all good advice, and who resent the success and happiness of others.

In the home, in business, and in our outer society, these resentments are evident, and often when carried to extremes the results are very disastrous, bringing unhappiness to all concerned. There is nothing constructive to resentments. They only tear down faith and confidence. To resent is to display one's own weakness and inefficiency.

The popularity of a friend is all too often resented, for no reason. In business the rise of an employee is resented, and the acclaim of people in almost every line of activity is resented by someone, or many. I often wonder why this is. We should be inspired by the rise and good fortune of another, as a fine example for us to follow.

I have met people whose resentments have so possessed them that no one wanted them as friends or companions. You will recall the story of Joseph, in the Bible, whose brothers so resented Joseph's character and popularity. And I recall a noted case where an actress so resented her husband's popularity in bigger electric signs over their theatre that a divorce was the result.

By being tolerant and understanding, and delighted over the success of another we add to our own stature, and cement good fellowship as well. Form the habit of being a booster, not a knocker, and note how good it makes you feel! Get rid of all resentments. There is no growth magic to any of them.

Whenever I hear a less popular person praise one who has more popularity, or fame, it makes me want me to be that one's friend. And I am glad to say that such praise is often given. I once heard Will Rogers praise such a one, whose popularity at that time was very high. Resentments become so strong at times that they eat deep into one's very soul. Be too big to resent!

MINIMUM SALARY ASKED

Saskatoon, June 5 (CP)— A minimum salary for ministers of $2,200 is the objective of the United Church in 1950, it was stated in a report read Saturday to the Saskatchewan Conference of the Church. A. J. Trotter of Saskatoon said that in addition to the minimum salary, more money will be available for travelling allowances. Plans for 1951 called for further increase in minimum salary to $2,400.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

OPEN LETTER

Hon. Harry S. Truman
The White House
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. President:

I see by the papers that the Freedom Fair which was scheduled to open in Washington in 1951 has been called off. I respectfully suggest that you press a few buttons and call it back on again, and with your patience and permission I'd like to tell you why.

As this lopsided eight-ball of a planet currently shapes up, about the only thing worth talking about is freedom or the lack of it, and as you yourself have repeatedly pointed out in your speeches our people ought to know what they're talking about when the subject comes up.

Well, what's the best way to demonstrate that there's still plenty of life in the old liberties? Fastidious facts and figures? Cliche-studded press releases? Rah-rah-rah editorials? No, Mr. President, not in this day and age. As I see it, the best way to stand off the sugar-coated strychnine being handed out by the kids in the Kremlin is to hand out a few lollypops of our own, and I can't think of a better place to do it than 200 acre fairground within eyeshot of the Lincoln Memorial.

Impact-wise, what would such a shindig actually accomplish? Not much, Sir, if it were just a run-of-the-Flushing-Meadows type of fair. But it would do a potent plenty if it were a mammoth, hit-'em-in-all five senses whooptydo in which everything from spectacle to sideshow were built around one simple theme: The Freer the Enterprise, the More Enterprising the Freemen.

Once and for all, let's concretize in terms of daily living and loving how well our Joe Doakes are doing compared with the Josef Dokczes in the Iron Curtain countries. For example in the exhibit area let our big auto outfits trot out their cars alongside a few Russian cars, and then let them dramatize how many man hours of work it takes to make one—and, even more important own one. And alongside the big General Motors building, let's have an even bigger U.A.W. building in which Walter Reuther can dramatically document how much better off his men are in terms of union contracts, working conditions and pension plans than the auto workers in the various Commielands.

Once and for all, let's pull out the stops and compare our homes schools and churches with theirs. Let's exhibit an American voting booth with a curtain on the door, and next to it a Russian voting booth with an N.K.V.D. man where the curtain ought to be. In short, let's give the Pinkos the lumps they've been asking for and make it clear as the nose on Jimmy Durante's face that there's no freedom unless everybody can exercise his taste and tonsils as he sees fit.

Let's even show them up on the midway. Instead of the usual Chamber of Horrors, let's restage the trial of Cardinal Mindszenty, and instead of the old-hat Ubangi sideshow, let the populace take a peek at a Siberian slave labor camp.

With no pomp but plenty of documented circumstance, one big lesson is a cinch to emerge from the fair I envision: That "degenerate democracy" still provides the bestest for the mostest; that our way of life has got what it takes, and it would be downright silly to let the Commies take what we've got.

Of course, Mr. President, there isn't a chance of getting such a fair on by next year, but if the right words were dropped into the right ears pronto, there's no reason why the grand opening couldn't be set for '52. And, according to my astrologist, that would be an auspicious year for a fair, seeing as how around that time a certain party will be doing its darnedest to convince the voters that it has a special talent for making democracy work.

If you think well enough of this notion to get behind it, Sir, I'll be glad to pitch in and help — whether it's making policy or pink lemonade. Of course, I wouldn't do it for free. My fee would have to be the same as I'm getting as Advisory Director to the California World Progress Exposition which will be held in San Diego in '53—a one-pound can of good smoking tobacco.

Respectfully,
Billy Rose.

Basic Dilemma Has Come Into Sharp Focus

By CLARKE BEACH
(Associated Press News Analyst)
(For DeWitt Mackenzie)

The basic dilemma of those who guide United States foreign policy has come into sharp focus.

President Truman said at his Thursday press conference that he believed the world is closer to permanent peace than at any time in the last five years. He had been asked to comment on a poll (Gallup) which indicated that a majority of Americans expect war by 1955; and he replied that he did not agree with that at all.

Yet a few hours earlier, in asking Congress to continue for a second year the military aid program for countries threatened with communist aggression, he warned of dangers. In his report on the last year's program, he described "the increasingly bold and menacing character of communist activities in many sectors of the earth."

"These numerous manifestations of Soviet intentions have left no doubt as to the existence and reality of a persistent Soviet drive for world domination," he said.

Truman's roles at the matinee and evening performances were not contradictory, as some officials explained it. They said he probably meant in his press-conference remark that the prospects for peace are brighter now because of the growing power and unity of the western countries.

Some Unhappy Results

The course which the United States has found it expedient to pursue has necessarily had some unhappy results. It has made it difficult for the U. S. to assume the spiritual leadership which is needed to win any war, cold or hot.

Every move the U. S. makes to strengthen its allies, militarily, economically or culturally, is pounced on by the Kremlin as an instance of Yankee imperialism. The U. S. talks back eloquently enough. But the people of the world have heard so much insincere talk for the last 20 years or so that they haven't much faith in words.

Historians pretty generally agree that the U. S. in the past has had its moments of imperialism. And some highly-placed officials now freely admit that one pleasant by-product of the U. S. economic aid to European countries is that it will maintain and build up the markets of U. S. foreign trade.

The Kremlin, using this type of logic, goes to such extremes as to claim to detect sinister purposes when the U. S. gives its brains and money to aid refugees, homeless children, world health, education, science and religion and to reduce trade barriers.

Ideologically as well as militarily, the United States is on the defensive.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

IT DOESN'T PAY TO COMPROMISE

When the royal scalawag Charles II went on one occasion to Southampton he ordered the great churchman and hymn writer, Thomas Ken, to vacate his house and let the notorious Nell Gwyn occupy it. Old Thomas indignantly refused and said some pretty frank things about the immoral conduct of the royal rake. To the amazement of everyone, the king neither resented Ken's remarks nor insisted on the carrying out of his plans with reference to Nell Gwynn. Several years later there was a bishopric vacant in the Church and Charles II would consider no one for it save Thomas Ken. "I am not virtuous myself," he said, "but I admire those who are." When Charles was on his deathbed, he sent for Ken and was comforted by his counsel.

The idea is a mistaken one that we can gain favor of worldly-living people by imitating them. It often happens that people who have little goodness in their own lives tremendously admire goodness in others. The way to command the respect of people, both good and evil, saints and worldlings alike, is to take a stand for what we believe is right, and without fanaticism, but with unyielding purpose, to hold to that position. No king ever did more to corrupt the morals of his people than did Charles II, but no one ever accorded more earnest praise to virtue, when it was genuine, than did he.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

What baseball needs is more medium-sized, even some pint-sized players. A few years ago, the czars of professional big league baseball, finding themselves with training camps full of prospects, decided, perhaps naturally enough, to select the biggest of the best of them.

It stands to reason that a large man can reach farther for a catch, can probably slug harder with a bat, and doubtless take longer strides in running bases. Once the big league teams started the fashion for six foot players, it was to be expected that other teams everywhere would follow suit. Today, baseball is dominated by large, rangey players. And the game is thus specializing itself out of public favor.

For the public is romantic at heart. It loves to project itself into a game the way a girl reading a novel projects herself into the personality of the heroine. And since the average person is well below six feet, it is obvious that all the little Joes of this world, yearning for projection, can't quite make the grade when all the baseball heroes are guardsmen.

Hockey enjoys an immense popularity in recent years because hockey players are of all shapes and sizes. How many fat men buy season tickets for the games all because of Turk Broda? In hockey, when some pint-size player comes rocketting up the ice, evading all the giant defence men, and whams a goal home, who is it leaps screaming in all the one dollar seats? Little Joe, of course.

Baseball as a game is becoming too mechanized, too reliant on industrial techniques, a little robotty, employing the largest robots. They're good. But they may be too good for Little Joe, that yearner. He likes to see some fat men, bowlegged men, little guys, average; like him.

ANNUAL OR REAL HAY FEVER versus PERENNIAL OR SPURIOUS HAY FEVER

The characteristic irritation of the membranes of nose, eyes, throat and bronchial tubes, sneezing, watery running at the eyes and nose, redness of the eyes, itching of nose and eyes and more than one-third of the cases asthmatic wheezing and labored breathing that characterize the condition commonly known as hay fever, may be an annual recurrence for some victims or a perennial state for others.

When "hay fever" is perennial, that is, when such symptoms harass the victim the year around or at any or all seasons of the year, the chances are 100 to 1 the condition is not hay fever at all, that is, not due to pollen, but to some systemic ailment or state such as sinusitis or sensitivity to cat hair, orris root or horse dander.

Probably one person in every twenty-five or thirty is subect to hay fever, and in one out of every four of these there is more or less asthma.

For years I have been recommending to persons subject to hay fever the practice of increasing their daily intake of calcium and vitamin D particularly in the weeks preceding the usual date of onset. A good many readers have reported that this has carried them through the season in comparative comfort. Of course old A. J. Coincidence may have a hand in it, but in any case this practice can do no harm, may improve general health to a notable degree, for most Americans get insufficient calcium in their diet to maintain good nutrition.

This calcium feeding is prophylactive or preventive only. It is not particularly effective for relief of symptoms after hay fever has developed. Nor is it of much use unless the increased calcium ration is continued without interruption for several weeks, at least. Then when the individual's season begins it is advisable to continue the increased calcium intake right through the usual season.

Further information about this and about resorts and about remedies for the relief of the attack of hay fever and/or asthma in the hay fever pamphlet.

In cases of spurious hay fever in which there is excessive watery secretion from eyes and nose, with or without asthamatic wheezing and coughing, booping the calcium intake, through a high calcium diet and supplementary eating of calcium and vitamin D, seems to bring about considerable improvement. The vitamin D is necessary because without vitamin D it is difficult or impossible to assimilate enough calcium, in food or in medicinal form, to fulfill the requirements of good nutrition, good health. More about this in the booklet The Calcium Shortage, available on request if you inclose twenty-five cents and stamped self-addressed envelope.

Hay fever, real or spurious, may be characterized as a sissy complaint, primarily due to the inadequate daily ration of calcium and vitamin D in the refined American diet.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Swollen Ankles

My sister and I have been bothered with swollen ankles ever since we were in our teens. We are now 28 and 30. Doctors have merely told us it is poor circulation. None could do anything about it. (Miss C. R.)

Answer—It could do no harm to take a suitable daily ration of iodine. Send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask for the pamphlet The Iodin Ration. In many parts of the United States and Canada men, women and children get insufficient iodine in daily food and water to maintain normal metabolism.

"Cure" Was Not Quite

Your opinion of a man past 40 who, six months ago, took the "cure" at an institution for alcoholism, yet persists in taking a "shot" of whiskey or beer or sometimes both every day? (E. F.)

Answer—Well, it can hardly be called a "cure". The best thing that can happen, as the man himself may be first to discover, is that he get in touch with a group of Alcoholics Anonymous in his vicinity. Alcoholics all, they'll never ask him to attend a meeting, but they'll welcome him if he does so on his own.

Eight Meet Violent Death During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Two McGill University students were drowned Sunday in the St. Lawrence River, among eight weekend fatalities in Eastern Canada recorded by The Canadian Press.

Four persons lost their lives in traffic mishaps, one was killed by a train and another burned to death.

John Dohan, 21, and Joan Birch, 19, both of Montreal, were drowned in the St. Lawrence off Pointe Claire in suburban Montreal. They were sailing when the girl apparently fell from the boat and Dohan was drowned in an attempt to rescue her.

Glendon Trowse, 14, was burned to death and his parents seriously burned when fire destroyed their farmhouse near Wakefield, Que.

Joseph Neveue, 45, was struck and killed by a Canadian National Railways locomotive at Crabtree Mills, 40 miles noth of Montreal.

Three of the traffic fatalities were in Ontario and one in Saint John, N. B. Arthur Chaput, 49, was fatally injured by a truck at Espanola, 30 miles west of Sudbury. John Batt, 65, was killed when hit by a streetcar at Toronto Saturday night, and William Daubney, 81, died at London from injuries received in a motorcar accident some days previously. At Saint John, three-year-old Gerard Richards was run over and killed by a truck.

The eight weekend fatalities followed five deaths by drowning in Eastern Ontario Friday.

Leaves Insulate Minnows Says Dr. S.A. Beatty

Halifax, June 5 (CP)— Fishermen here disagree with an Ontario claim of a new way to ship live minnows.

A Toronto datelined news story Saturday told of minnows being shipped from here to Peterborough, Ont., in a box filled with dry oak leaves instead of the usual water bucket.

The method was hailed as something new, but urchins and grampas in Nova Scotia have been doing it that way for at least 30 years.

But just why do the minnows survive when packed in crispy leaves? Oddly enough, it was an Ontario-born expert who came along with the answer.

Dr. S. A. Beatty, native of Tweed and director of the Fisheries experimental station here, declared:

"The leaves insulate them — keeps them cool and apart. They allow the air to circulate. There is nothing in the leaves as such to keep the fish alive—not any more than there is in old dirty rags."

Bad news for inland anglers came from Bev Piers, manager of Cleve's Sporting Goods Limited, which shipped the bait. Piers declared the type of minnow found here is especially hardy. He does not think Ontario minnows could be shipped the same way—they couldn't stand the changes in temperature and foreign surroundings.

Piers was highly indignant that only one minnow —tagged Herkimer —of the 12 shipped to Peterborough was still alive Herkimer was a feature attraction, in a goldfish bowl, at the Sportsmens Show here. The shipment was made to settle a bet that it could be done.

"The minnows couldn't have been packed right," Piers snorted. "Give men enough leaves and I'll send minnows by the thousand to Vancouver or anywhere else. They'll last six days and perhaps longer in a cool place."

Regarding Herkimer, Piers says "if he is kept long in the goldfish bowl without frequent changes of salt water, he will die from want of oxygen." Everything must be just right.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. George Young, B.A., B.D.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox left on a trip to Niagara Falls, and on their return will take up residence in Marmora.

WORKMAN—MARVIN

Plum blossoms, tulips, daffodils and narcissi formed a colorful background for the marriage of Dora Mable Marvin, and William Albert Workman, at 3:30, Saturday, May 20, at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Marvin, R. 1, Wellington, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Workman, Toronto.

SOAFT—FRY

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel was the setting for a lovely wedding on May 31, when Amy Margaret, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fry, Belleville, became the bride of Douglas James Soaft, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Soaft, Belleville. The Nuptial Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father John L. Buckley.

During the ceremony, Miss Caroline Forhan sang beautifully "Ave Maria", "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother" and as the bridal party left the church, she sang "Sweet Sacrament Divine". The organist was Sister Bibianna.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of English Chantilly lace over taffeta. The molded bodice of white taffeta was topped with a lace bertha collar of which the scalloped edge was finished with a dainty lace ruffle. The full flaring skirt of lace over taffeta, tapered from the pointed waistline. The long sleeves of lace over taffeta ended in a ruffle of lace at the wrist, where they were snugly fastened with several tiny buttons. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion fell gracefully from a headdress of net and Chantilly lace which was edged with orange blossoms and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Margaret Rush, Belleville. was maid of honor, and was dressed becomingly in a gown of pale green net over taffeta. The snugly fitted bodice rose to a roll collar, which accented the low neckline. A wide green taffeta sash tied in a huge bow in the back falling over the full frothy net skirt (over taffeta), which was shirred to the fitted waistline. She wore matching green mitts and hat of net and carried a basket of tulips, roses, narcissi, lily-of-the-valley and asters.

Miss Betty Cannons, of Oshawa, cousin of the bride, in mauve, and Miss Olive Thompson, Belleville, in yellow, were bridesmaids, and wore gowns similar in design to that of the maid of honor, but having capelets of net over the shoulders and matching floral headdresses. Both carried baskets of roses, tulips, narcissi, lily-of-the-valley and asters.

Miss Marion Pershick, Belleville, tiny cousin of the bride, was flower girl, and was daintily attired in a floor length dress of pale mauve organdy over taffeta, with matching hat of heart-shaped design, and wearing white gloves. She carried a nosegay of yellow and mauve baby 'mums, centred with a pale pink rose.

The bride's mother, attired in navy sheer over printed silk, and corsage of pink roses, assisted by the groom's mother, in dove grey with corsage of red roses, received the guests at the reception held at Tobe's County Gardens.

The bride's table was lovely with its three-tiered pillared wedding cake and vases of lily-of-the-valley.

After a short wedding trip the young couple will reside at 303 Front Street.

Out-of-town guests were present from Melville, Trenton, Consecon and Kingston.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a gold wrist watch; the bride's gifts to her maid of honor and bridesmaids were sets of scatter pins; to the bridegroom, cuff links and tie slide; to the flower girl, a silver locket and to the soloist, a bracelet.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was given a shower by the girls at Eaton's where the bride is employed in the mail order office. It was held at the home of June Mason, 306 Bleecker Ave., and the co-hostesses were Mrs. D. Mansfield, Mrs. B. Armstrong, Bette Anderson and June Mason.

Many beautiful gifts were received. Amy was also honored at a kitchen shower held at the home of Miss Olive Thompson, and was recipient of many useful gifts. A family party was held at the home of Amy's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cannons, Melville, and a beautiful tri-lamp was presented to the young couple. The presentation address was read by Mr. Ernest Margetson.

Departing Neighbor Honored With Gift At Afternoon Tea

An afternoon tea was held at the home of Mrs. Jack Carter, 42 Purdy Street on Thursday when friends and neighbors gathered to bid farewell to Mrs. Eric Carter, who, with her family, is leaving in the near future to make her home in western Canada.

The tea table was beautifully decorated with tulips and lilacs. Tea was poured by Mrs. H. Carter and Mrs. Ray Bush, relieved by Mrs. Harry Sine, while Mesdames J. Pringle, F. Russel, L. Middleton, D. Allen and H. Sheridan served the guests.

Mrs. J. Nevery was in charge of the guest book.

The afternoon came to a close with a presentation to the guest of honor for which she graciously thanked her guests.

Fashion Flashes

SWEET AND FRESH looking is gray with white. A gray worsted suit, cut on straight, simple lines —slim of skirt, and with a small, rippled, peplumed jacket—looks lovely with a bowed blouse of white silk chiffon and a helmet-like hat entirely of white hyacinths.

LOOKS LIKE LINEN for some of the season's smartest clothes, such as a tailored suit of fine black linen with big, pointed collar and flaring cuffs of white pique. With it a gilet of white pique, with rhinestone buttons.

GLOVE SALES are way up, say the stores, and the buyers cite the splendid styling and many wearable novelties in fabric and leather, both domestic and imported. Navy suede—very thin, very supple—makes a charming glove trimmed with zig-zags of silk braid down the back ending in little suede tassels.

East Hastings W.I. Holds Annual Meeting at Carmel United Church

The annual meeting of East Hastings Women's Institute was recently held at Carmel United Church, with Mrs. Thomas Leslie president, presiding.

The church was artistically decorated with tulips and lilacs. Registration was in charge of Mrs. John Patterson and Mrs. Seldon Homan. Minutes of the previous year were read, and financial report given, followed by the auditor's report.

In Mrs. Leslie's address, she reported having visited each Branch giving a travelogue of her trip to Florida last year. Mrs. Leslie urged each Branch to hold a demonstration on "Artificial Respiration"; to study the hand book, and to have a "quiz" each year; to try to entertain one Branch a year.

Much credit is due Mrs. Leslie for her untiring efforts. Due to her loyalty, two new institutes were formed this year, Cannifton and Corbyville and "Chapman's."

Various Reports

Mrs. Clarence Barlow reported on resolutions. Just one resolution was sent in—that no change be made in the Canadian flag.

The Agriculture and Canadian Industries report was read by Mrs. G. Provins. This subject has been thoroughly studied during the year with some outstanding papers on: 'Care of Milking Machines and Dairy Utensils"; "Diseases in Calves Due to Improper Feeding"; Cultural and Recreational Activities in Farm Life"; "Reasons Why Farms are Sold and How These Problems May be Solved." She urged that as a project, for the coming year, that Canada's new industries be studied.

Mrs. Archie Greatrix reported for "Home Economics and Health" with the suggestion that a motto be given at each meeting by a member. She urged more institutes to take advantage of short courses in sewing and cooking A paper on "Polio" and "First Aid", "How To Keep The Doctor Away," "Cancer" be given and urged frequent medical examinations.

"Citizenship and Education" was given by Mrs. John Fargey. Citizenship should start first in the home, and in every day living; then it will spread throughout the community and later throughout the country. Raise the general standard of the community life and enrich it with resources for better living; work in co-operation with the school teacher. The school program is meant to help the child grow up physically, mentally and emotionally.

"Historical Research and Current Events" was reported by Mrs. Clarence Hall. Interesting papers were given on "History of Newfoundland, "Thurlow Twp," "Prince Charles", and "Cement Plant." Historical research is at last coming into its own, for the present can only be interpreted in terms of the past.

Mrs. Violet Elliott reported two girls' clubs with the project "The Club Girl Stands on Guard" being taken. Seventeen girls finished the project and took part in Achievement day.

Community Activities and Public Relations were reported by Mrs. Percy Ray, who urged that reports of meetings be sent in early after the meeting; exchange of programs among the branches; to wear the Institute pin proudly and use the installation ceremony to install new officers.

Miss Elsie Irvine reported on "Girls' Work in the County." One hundred and two girls finished the project, 90 per cent completions. Next year's project to be "Cotton Accessories for the Club Girl's Bedroom."

Miss Irvine pesented Mrs. Violet Elliott with a certificate having completed five or more years as leader of Girls' Club.

The board director, Mrs. Black, brought greeting from the federated board. She urged members to read "Home and Country" and to make a file of them; to use the loan library; to take an interest in the school and work for it; to study nutrition for children; to send reports to the area conveners early.

A delicious dinner was served by the Carmel ladies.

Afternoon Session

Mrs. Clarence Barlow opened the afternoon session with the address of welcome, in which she said: "Let us resolve to aim high; give of our time, give of our talents to make this organization one of the best."

"Let the slogan be "Good Publicity leads to Success."

A one-minute silence was observed in memory of the deceased members of the year.

Miss L. Hamilton, in presenting the co-operative program, urged more branches take advantage of rallies and short courses. It was decided to have "Responsibilities of Standing Committees" as the project for this year. She said much was to be accomplished.

"The future is a challenge but the present is your responsibility. Women should be active in any organization in which the home is involved. We are far too easily discouraged in public life. Let us learn to give and take criticism without being personal. Your Institute is what you make it. The effort you put forth will either ruin or build up the branch."

Slate of Officers

Mrs. Anne Rombough delighted the audience with two solos with guitar accompaniment.

Mrs. Roscoe Robson presented the slate of officers for 1950-51 as follows:—

Honorary president, Mrs. T. Leslie, Corbyville; President, Mrs. Harry Sills, Plainfield; 1st vice president, Mrs. Roscoe Robson, Halloway; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Reg Skinner, Foxboro; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. C. J. Akey, Marysville; Fed. representative, Mrs. R. Tucker, Marysville; Alternate, Mrs. Harry Harrison, Plainfield; district delegate, Mrs. Merle Robinson, Corbyville; Alternate, Mrs. D. Atkins, Belleville R.R. 6; auditors, Mrs. F. Hutchinson, Mrs. P. Kimmerley; Agriculture and Canadian Industries, Mrs. C. Bamber, Foxboro; Home Economics and Health, Mrs. A. Greatrix, Belleville, R.R. 6; Citizenship and Education, Mrs. John Fargey, Roslin; Public Relations and Community Activities, Mrs. Percy Ray, Halloway; Historical Research and Current Events, Mrs. Clarence Hall, Plainfield; Junior Institute, Miss Muriel Glass, Plainfield; resolutions, Mrs. Earle Dafoe, Plainfield, representative of Federation of agriculture, Mrs. Violet Elliott, Plainfield.

Mrs. Roy Badgley reported the highlights of the Federation of Agriculture. On the whole, the general impression has been a definite trend toward greater activity and more educational and responsible interest in Agriculture.

Mrs. Leslie thanked all the members who had given her such splendid co-operation and asked Mrs. Harry Sills, the coming president, to speak. Mrs. Sills pledged herself to carry on "For Home and Country." with the co-operation of all the branches.

Fatties Doing Something About it By Joining New Association

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

New York, June 5 (AP) — Now it's "fatties anonymous." The founder is Mrs. Ruth Douglas, a 240-pound housewife.

"Fatties are sensitive about weight," she says. "I say it's about time we stopped being sensitive and started being sensible.

"We've got to do something about it, and the first thing to do is admit we're fat and that we need some help. We're not buxom, plump, obese or sturdy. We're just plain fat and any other way you put it is just another of a million evasions."

F.A., she says, is going to do for the overweight what the first anonymous—alcoholics— has done for the group that reaches for a triple brandy instead of the chocolate creams. At the moment it is in the organizational stage, with a comparative handful of members. Mrs. Douglas has posted public notice and is sure it will spread like a chain letter.

According to the plan, interested men and women will attend a meeting without committing themselves to membership. They will decide later whether to join. Once decided, it will be hard to turn back.

"We'll move in to help them," she explains. "We'll see they get help—psychiatric if necessary. We'll move into their offices and tell their associates they are on diets and please help by not slipping them candy bars.

"We'll talk to the waitresses and managers in their luncheon spots and ask them not to give them whipped cream even when they cry for it.

That's not all. F.A. will set up a committee to check and evaluate reducing methods, systems and aids. There will be a clothes exchange so that members in the process of shrinking won't have to lay out a small fortune to keep covered in the stages of reducing.

F.A., Mrs. Douglas says, is for people who are 30 or more pounds overweight, but this isn't a hard and fast rule.

"The idea is to make people happy, and some people feel fat when they are five pounds overweight."

pirit of Gambling Undermines Vork Spirit, Delegates Told terborough, June 5 (CP)—R. Chalmers, Associate Secretary he Board of Evangelism and al Service of the United rch of Canada, said that the "little forms" of gambling have "the same evil effect" as the big ones.

"The spirit of gambling undermines the principle of work and is against Christian principles," he told the Bay of Quinte conference of the United Church.

He also said that minimized observance of Sunday is "a loss to the Church and to God." In some United States cities, Sunday had become a bigger day of frivolity than any week-day.

"In Canada, we have neglected the significance of the Lord's Day and commercialism in some cities is undermining the spirit of the Sabbath. We must beware of this in our own communities."

Rev. J. H. Arnup, presenting the report of the committee on overseas missions, said that the government of India has proclaimed religious liberty and has great goodwill toward Christianity. He said China's new communist regime also has proclaimed freedom of religion—"but at the same time allows anti-religious groups to flourish at will."

Increase Tariff On Strawberries

Ottawa, June 5 — (CP) — The revenue department Friday disclosed that it is increasing the tariff on imports of United States fresh strawberries and a horticultural council spokesman said it was done at the specific request of Canadian fruit and vegetable growers.

Effective Friday, American strawberries, which have been imported on an ad valorem duty of 10 per cent, will, instead, bear a specific duty of 1 3-5 cents a pound. The new rate will apply on shipments to all points in Quebec and Ontario, east of Port Arthur.

L. F. Burrows, secretary of the Canadian Horticultural Council, explained that the new rate will have the effect of protecting the Canadian market for domestic growers during the next six weeks when Canadian berries are being harvested and prepared for market.

At the end of the six-week period, the tariff on U.S. berries will be returned to the ad valorem rate.

Growing Need in U.S. for New Supplies of Iron May Force Congress to Approve Projects

By JAMES C. MUNN

Washington, June 5 — (AP) — The rich iron ores of bleak Labrador may some day be the means of winning United States congressional approval for the long-sought $800,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway and power projects.

The proposed seaway would enable deep-draught ships to travel from the mouth of the St. Lawrence River to Duluth, Minn., 2,350 miles away at the westernmost point of the Great Lakes.

For decades, construction of the seaway has been blocked by power companies, railroad management of the Atlantic coast and gulf coasts of the United States.

These interests have always contended that the seaway, and its related power development, would work an unfair economic hardship on them. Advocates say such claims are without foundation.

May be Forced to Approve

Valid or not, recent testimony before the House of Representatives Public Works Committee left the impression that the opposition arguments may crumble before the growing need of the United States for new supplies of iron ore.

U.S. reserves of high-grade iron ores are nearing exhaustion. The steel industry realizes this and in recent years has spent millions seeking new deposits.

In addition to the Labrador deposits, estimated to contain 350,000,000 to 400,000,000 tons of rich ores, new sources have been found in Venezuela and Africa. But these discoveries raise a transportation problem.

Even should the transportation problem be solved a further difficulty arises:

Could steel manufacturers expect adequate ore supplies from abroad in time of war??

Interior secretary Oscar Chapman and army secretary Frank Pace, to mention only two, think not. What is the alternative?

Labrador ores, they say, brought through the protected inland route that the St. Lawrence seaway would make possible.

But why can't Labrador ores be shipped over the existing St. Lawrence-Great Lakes waterway? They can ,but not enough to maintain the present level of steel prices.

Isn't Deep Enough

The existing 14-foot St. Lawrence channel isn't deep enough for the ore ships now in use. A channel at least 28 feet deep would have to be dredged through the international rapids section of the St. Lawrence near Massena, N.Y.

Engineers estimate that proposed power facilities near Massena would generate more than 13,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy a year. The production would be shared equally between the United States and Canada.

Advocates of the project thus argue that the power development would cost the United States government nothing. And that the same would be true of the seaway construction because of tolls that would be levied on shipping. Canada, which is eager for the seaway, has agreed "in principle" to the tolls proposition.

The Department of Commerce has estimated that tolls would pay off the seaway cost in about 53 years.

There is no change that congress will authorize the project, first discussed more than 50 years ago, in this session. The bill must be introduced again in the next session. The bill must be introduced again in the next congress.

Charge Trio Sold 14 Gold 'Bricks' For $11,650

New York, June 5 (AP)—City slickers stopped selling the Brooklyn bridge long ago but the gold brick business has turned out to be brisk.

Police Friday arrested three men for selling gold bricks.

Michael Gagliano, assistant district attorney, said the trio plotted to sell thousands of the shiny but phony bricks to a "foreign government which is trying to stabilize its currency."

He did not elaborate.

The bricks are described as being 16 inches long, six inches wide and four inches thick.

The three men were accused of selling 14 bricks for $11,650 to Harry Pearlstein, quoted by Gagliano as saying he bought them "purely for investment purposes."

Police said the gold on the bricks was worth $440.

New Doukhobor Violence Seen In Nelson, B.C.

Nelson, B.C., June 5 — New Doukhobor violence—the first in two weeks—broke out late Saturday night in a two-pronged attack when a Canadian Pacific rail line was blasted and an attempt was made to fire a school.

Inspector R. S. Nelson of the provincial police detachment said Shoreacres with a "light charge" damaging one rail.

A guard from a nearby bridge heard the blast and stopped an approaching east-bound freight. A fuse of about 30 feet was used.

The attempted burning of the school occurred at Paterson where a nearby resident discovered a typical Doukhobor incendiary mechanism of a wick and gasoline bottles.

Two weeks ago a railway bridge [illegible] Grand Forks close to the International boundary was blasted.

Warrant Issued Although Suspect Is Not Captured

North Bay, June 5—(CP)—Police Sunday issued a warrant on a charge of wounding against Thomas Toohey, 24, of Kirkland Lake, sought in connection with the attack on Joseph E. Colleaux of Quebec City here late Friday.

Colleaux was shot three times and seriously wounded by a man whose acquaintance he had made in a local beverage room. After firing the three shots at Colleaux, the assailant escaped in the Quebec man's new automobile.

Police said the suspect is being hunted by a large posse headed by provincial police officers in the North Bay area. They said Toohey was known to be carrying three revolvers and was well stocked with ammunition. A police officer said the wanted man had left a note saying that he would "not be stopped by any policeman."

The hunt for Toohey started after the wounded man had described his assailant. Police said that a scar on the attacker's forehead matched one that Toohey received recently in a motor accident. The weapons carried by the suspect had been stolen from his father, J. J. Toohey, captain of the guard at Wright-Hargreaves mine, according to police.

Britain Putting Historic Ghosts To Work to Earn Tourist Dollars

By ARTHUR W. WHITE

London, June 5 — (AP) —Britain is putting her historic ghosts to work to help earn $70,000,000 tourist dollars this summer, cashing in on the world-wide love of ghost stories.

From the haunted Tower of London to William Shakespeare's sleepy hometown, Stratford-on-Avon, anxious-to-please guides and innkeepers are boning up on the fascinating national legends tourists like to hear—the more horrific or romantic the better.

The tourist industry, now greeting the first big rush of 1950's expected 600,000 foreign visitors, is finding British ghosts almost as valuable a stock-in-trade as the famous White Cliffs of Dover or Canterbury Cathedral.

Altogether the country hopes to make $164,000,000 from the tourists before November's yellow fogs and wet weather strangle the traffic.

The gloomy, 900-year-old tower of London—oldest active service fortress in Europe—packs the biggest entertainment wallop, boasting 40 colorfully-garbed "beefeater" guides with every detail of the tower's bloody history at their fingertips.

Visitors Eat It Up

The spectres of many long-dead tower victims, including two beheaded wives of King Henry VIII—Anne Boleyn and Katharine Howard—are supposed to haunt its ramparts. At night the screams of tortured men are reputed to echo in the dungeons. Visitors eat it up.

Another celebrated British spook lives 100 miles away in rustic Warwickshire, where 18-year-old William Shakespeare wooed and won pretty Anne Hathaway in 1582. Naturally, it's Bard himself.

Local legends say Shakespeare's restless spirit still wanders along the Avon River on clear, moonlit nights, particularly when one of his plays is being performed at the Riverside Memorial Theatre.

Ghost-hunters agree Britain's premier spook—a woman—haunts a hilltop Elizabethan mansion in Essex called Hill Hall. She's known as the Grey Lady and is 350 years old. Her story is a lulu: The seven sons of Sir Thomas Smyth, Queen Elizabeth's secretary of state, are said to have fought a crazy duel among themselves with razor-sharp daggers for her love, stabbing each other to death. They gasped out their lives in a gory heap.

For centuries, shocked Hill Hall visitors had reported seeing a wraith-like figure in white pacing around a circle of bloodstains on the floor.

14 Freight Cars Are Derailed, One Man Injured

Callander, June 5. (CP)—One man was injured slightly Sunday when 14 freight cars of a 20-car special Canadian National Railways train were derailed on one of this town's main streets.

The wreck blocked the road to the home of the Dionne quintuplets, nine miles south of North Bay.

The train was a special carrying only equipment of the Bernard and Barry Midway concern. It was proceeding to Timmins where the show was to open today. Arthur Gagne, 22, of Coniston, near Sudbury, suffered shock and bruises. He was asleep in front of the open door of the car which carried the equipment of the side show he handled. The buckling car tossed him out of the open door and against a nearby fence, other midway employees said.

Railway executive could give no immediate reason for the mishap.

Three Callander girls were waiting at the crossing to allow the train to pass. They backed up slightly, one said, when the approaching train seemed to be accompanied by an unusual "grumbling or growling" sound.

Suddenly as the train passed in front of them, cars started buckling right in front of them. They scampered. And immediately, monkeys scampered out of a car and played atop the overturned midway cars. None tried to escape. They hurried to their keepers when the latter appeared.

Natural Rubber Stocks Dwindle And Prices Rise

Singapore, June 5 — (AP) — A crisis faces the rubber-consuming world as stocks of natural rubber in southeast Asia dwindle and prices continue to rise.

The crux is that heavy world demand created stock-piling in the cold war is outstripping supply.

It is feared that Malaya's rich estates, on which major rubber consumers depend, may crack under the strain.

Malayan rubber trade authorities say three main factors contribute to the present situation:

1. Heavy Russian buying.
2. A heavy shortage of rubber for immediate delivery.
3. Huge stocks bottled up in Indonesia.

Unsettled political and economic conditions in other parts of southeast Asia provoked Russia into coming into the Malayan market for her rubber supplies. The Soviet took delivery of nearly 40,000 tons this year up to April, most of it purchased earlier.

The acute shortage of rubber for immediate delivery is blamed for the climbing price of rubber during the last four months.

An estimated 70,000 tons of cured rubber are in Indonesian warehouses. Conditions there are still unstable politically and economically. Following the Indonesian government's recent devaluation of currency by 50 per cent rubber holders won't sell their commodity for fear of further devaluation or depreciation in the value of the currency.

If those stocks can be released somehow, the shortage will be relieved.

European and Chinese estates and small holders alike are braving communist terrorism to produce Malaya's chief export. European estates are main targets of terrorists and have been turned into miniature fortresses.

KILLS SWEETHEART

Pell City, Ala., June 3 (AP)—Alvin Bailey, 23, killed his 35-year-old sweetheart after finding her in another's man's arms, then fatally wounded himself with a shot in the temple.

Sheriff Ira Davis said Bailey drove for hours with the woman's battered body in his car before he nerved himself to die at her side yesterday.

In a note Bailey said he "went crazy" when he found Mrs. Gertrude Klein, about 35, with another man Wednesday night.

Possibility Beef May Become So Valuable No One Will Eat it

By WILLIAM FERRIS

Chicago, June 5 — (AP) —Can you think of a day when steers will be so valuable that no one will eat beef?

It sounds fantastic. But Victor Conquest, general manager of the research and development division of Armour and Company, meat packers, says it's a technical possibility.

"The trend for 65 years has been toward greater use of the parts of animals for pharmaceuticals, chemicals and purposes other than meat," Conquest says.

"And as one part is taken from and animal for pharmaceuticals and other products, it isn't available any longer for eating.

"Of course, there are other factors involved and I don't think we'll stop eating meat. But just on the basis of what has happened in the past, and what is happening today, a situation could develop in a 100 years where meat—animal carcasses would become so valuable for other uses that they wouldn't be eaten as beef, pork or lamb."

Old-time packers didn't make much use of the waste in packing operations, although they tried.

Abatoiss Conduct Research

All large packers now have extensive research departments, but Armour has gone into pharmaceutical research to a greater extent than any of the others. Its most noteworthy discovery since the war has been ACTH, a drug which still is in the testing stage but with revolutionary medical possibilities.

ACTH is made from the pituitary glands of hogs, and it takes 20 to 30 hogs to make one dose. ACTH stimulates the adrenal gland. Results have been startling in cases of rheumatoid arthritis, gout, ulcerative colitis, asthma and a wide assortment of other diseases.

Several other countries now make ACTH. Prices of hog pituitary glands have soared. They now are quoted as high as $25 a pound compared with $8 in 1947.

Armour got into the meat by-product business in 1882, when it started using blood, bones and meat scraps to make soap and fertilizer. Three years later it began producing Pepsin from hog parts, and soon the company got its first chemist.

Today, Armour has about 200 chemists and more than 100 other technological personnel in its research department.

One Arrested In Connection With Gold Theft

Timmins, June 5. (CP)—Edward Clements, 20, of Timmins, was arrested Sunday on a breaking and entering charge in connection with the $75,000 gold robbery at the Delnite Mine last Friday. Police said they still had not located the gold or any hint of its whereabouts.

Clements had been an underground worker at the mine for about a year. His arrest was not explained by police.

Search for the missing gold bars, three bars weighing 1,962 ounces, was carried out in the bush area near the mine. It was taken from the mine offices in a heavy safe that was removed from the company vault after a lieved three or more men were heavy explosion wrecked the vault door. The safe is still missing.

Officers were puzzled by the fact the vault explosion did not alarm any residents of the area early Friday morning.

Tire tracks indicated the safe with the gold had been carried off by truck and police said they believed three oqr more men were involved.

"My right to rule not an Empire but my own life had been challenged"

In the Standard this week, the Duke of Windsor tells of receiving an urgent message. It was to begin the big crisis of his life. It begged him to avoid a clash with the Government, by having Wallis Warfield Simpson go abroad.

Stunned, hurt and angry at this suggestion, he was quickly aroused to meet this challenge — and in his own words he dramatically describes the storm that broke around their private lives.

Never before has the life of a king been so fully, frankly and intimately recorded — this week in The Standard!

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A lot of people were of the opinion because it happened to be Saturday night, and a busy evening in whatever communities the boys came from, there would bee a "bunch of punks" sent here to take part in the boxing show staged by the Royal Canadian Navy (R).

Right! Those that came to scoff remained to cheer. The RCN(R) via Lieut. Roy Windover, Lieut. Addison Lloyd, and others officially connected with the promotion of the show, produced one of the best fight cards seen here in years.

There was nothing wrong with any bout. It was fast action from the opening gong until Referee Sergeant Frank Emith held aloft the hand of the victor of the main bout.

The Navy, we understand, took it on the financial "button". We, naturally, could not get the facts from the "silent" service but to off-set their disappointment at public attendance, they have the consolation that they staged the best leather-pushing show in Belleville in years.

And it looked old-time Belleville boxing with Bert Wells, (Major Wells, that is), Eddy Lee former middleweight, who fought the best of 'em (when fighters were fighters), Captain Doug. Chant and others who were at ringside. Lee was the timekeeper, Capt. Chant and Mayor Wells were judges.

The Navy deserved a better fate. They took on a tough job. Boxing in this city has been so dead for the past decade that those they believed in what was dished up, should hold a memorial service.

Outside promoters attempted to revive a dormant sport, They got the baby into the toddling stage, [illegible] the financial milk and went their way. This promoting gentry that tried to bring their local Tunneys and Dempseys into prominence (incidentally their main idea was to poke Joe Buck into their own pockets, furnished the virus that eventually drugged the manly art in this city.

With the exception of one and we know that he, of all people is on the up and up, and that is Vic Bagnato, of the Diamond Athletic Club, Toronto.

The Navy, true to its service traditions "took a chance" in furthering their policy of recreational training. The silent service, through its various outlets, and some of them could ave been better, staged their first boxing show in Memorial ena Saturday night.

* * *

From a boxing entertainment point of view it was a success. From a spectator view it more or less flopped. It was not the Navy's fault because they had the tremendous handicap of reforming a boxing public that has been "fooled" too often.

In this particular case the "public that stayed away was fooled".

From this corner, it was a fine show. Even Warrant Officer No. 1, the one and only "Long John" Silver, Trenton RCAF who smiled when we asked him if he were retiring said "I'll be there, m' bucko for three or six more years (Brother the WO has no southern accent—ask any RCAF Joe on parade), and who in his own inimitable manner emcee'd the show, was "keyed up" over the affair. And he should know.

* * *

The Navy has done a fine job in its effort in promoting boxing here. It should not be disappointed in the returns of Saturday night, because from a point of view of many boxing enthusiasts in the city, it was an experimental "comeback".

And as usual, the Navy "came through".

Editorially, we hope the Royal Canadian Navy (R) does not consider "quitting" boxing here. The show Saturday night proved that they are going "all out" to bring the best talent here. We feel that they will continue to do so. If and when they do they should be greeted with a full house.

Saturday night they breathed a spirit of clean life into a sport that has been dormant in Belleville for years. As we said before, the Navy deserves a better fate and we are of the opinion that Joe Boxing Fan will give the lads in blue the patronage they deserve.

SPEAKING OF BASEBALL

Tonight Batawa meets the Brockville Memos in a scheduled Central Ontario Baseball League fixture, in the Exhibition Grounds. The game is a night affair starting at 8:30, and is the first played under lights insofar as the Batawa crew is concerned. Their last appearance, an afternoon game against Kingston was called because of rain.

Brockville boasts a strong squad and, we understand, they have been bolstered with American imports.

Be that as it may. Coach Speedy St. Louis feels that his Shoemen team can equal what the easterners have to offer, and thereby hangs a tale.

RUNNING INTO TROUBLE

New York, June 5—(AP)—The scheduled middleweight title fight between Jake Lamotta and Rocky Graziano is running into trouble.

The International Boxing Club has postponed advance ticket sales for the bout, set for June 28 at the polo grounds.

"We want to wait a while and see what Rocky plans to do," an I.B.C. spokesman said.

A friend said Graziano had not been training and might have to ask for a postponement. No reason was given.

Ray Robinson Meets Villemain In Title Match

Philadelphia, June 5 (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, king of the world's welterweights, goes after another title tonight in a 15-round bout with the "indestructible" Frenchman, Robert Villemain.

The match is billed as a middleweight championship fight by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission. And the winner stands a chance to win sanction by National Boxing Association as the titleholder.

The middleweight boxing division has been in a muddle for a long time, ever since Jake LaMotta won the title from France's Marcel Cerdan a year ago.

Robinson —and Villemain, regarded by the N.B.A. as the logical challengers, have repeatedly bid for title bouts with LaMotta, but —the Bronx bull has turned them down.

Now LaMotta is matched with Rocky Graziano, former middleweight champ, —for an N.B.A.-sanctioned —title go at New York June 28.

The N.B.A. says the winner of that New York fight must meet the winner of the Robinson-Villemain bout within 90 days or forfeit his title.

Robinson is a prohibitive favorite to win tonight's match, but Villemain has plenty of backers.

The squat Frenchman — he stands only five feet six—has never been knocked out and in 44 fights has hit the canvas —only once.

Villemain is expected to scale in at 158 with Robinson tipping the beam at 152.

MARMORA

Juveniles Trim Campbellford12-1 In Baseball Tilt

Marmora — In their opening T.V.L. fixture, Marmora juvenile baseball team easily defeated Campbellford at the Memorial Centre on Friday evening by the score of 12-1. Owing to rain, the game only lasted until the first of the sixth inning.

Marmora had two new players augmenting their last season's team—J. Hickey and E. Killian. The latter played last season for the North End Juvenile team in Peterborough. His form on Friday evening (he got a two bagger and a single, besides fielding well at second) showed that he will be an acquisition to the team.

Drummond, last season's pitcher, was in fine form, having thirteen strikeouts to his credit. Ibey, who started for Campbellford, got into difficulties in the second, and exchanged positions with McNaughton, who was replaced by Rose in the fifth.

Alouettes Set July 29th For Training Opening

(By The Canadian Press)

Montreal Alouettes, Dominion Football Champions, have set July 29 for the beginning of their football training season—earliest date in the club's history—all because of an expected mass invasion of football players from the United States.

Lew Hayman, coach of the Grey Cup —winners, said that so far 40 U.S. players have applied for berths with the Als and by the time training opens his desk will be piled with 60 more applications.

The Americans were cut loose through the amalgamation of two professional loops, the All-American Conference and the National Football League.

Hayman said he is schedulding early training because he wants to size —up as quickly as possible the U.S. players seeking berths.

"By the time training starts, we'll have at least 100 applications from Americans to join the Alouettes," Hayman said. "And when the Big Four schedule is launched, I hope to have the seven best Americans in the country with Montreal."

Under Canadian Rugby Union rules, the team is allowed seven imports. So far, only one American has been officially signed—Frankie Filchok, quarterback recently voted Canada's athlete of the year."

Joe DiMaggio of New York Yankees hit one of the longest home runs in Yankee stadium history in the seventh inning of Saturday's second game against Chicago White Sox.

DiMaggio socked one of — Bill Wight's pitches into the left-centrefield bleachers, close to the Chicago bull pen. The drive tavelled at least 425 feet. Two men were on base. Only Hank Greenberg and Jimmy Foxx are credited with longer blasts to that section of the stadium.

DiMaggio's —blow sparked the Yanks to a 6-3 victory over Chicago after the New York Yankees had taken the opener 3-1.

At Fort Wayne, Ind., Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, playing steady one-under-par golf, Sunday won the $15,000 Fort Wayne open—with a 72-hole total of 271, three strokes better than chunky Ed (Porky) Oliver —of Kenmore, Wash.

Johnny Palmer, Badin, N.C., moved in to finish third on the basis of a 68 Sunday. His 277-stroke total was just one better that Norman Von Nida, a campaigner from Sydney, Australia, who fired the last day's best round —a 67.

St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers plan to break another major league baseball tradition with Sunday night baseball July 16, it was announced Saturday at St. Louis.

Fred Saigh, President of the Cardinals, said —Branch Rickey, President of —the Dodgers, had agreed to reset Saturday's rained-out game for that night.

A day Cardinal-Dodger game already is on the books. There will be two admissions for the day-night Sunday affair.

At Vancouver, the touring English Football Association soccer team displayed flawless form Saturday in romping to a clean-cut 7-1 win over British Columbia All-Stars.

It was the second match between the teams. They played to a 4-4 draw last Tuesday.

Toronto Canadians easily won the Lord Atholstan trophy, emblematic of the Ontario-Quebec interprovincial soccer title, by defeating Montreal Carsteel 4-1 at Toronto Saturday night. Canadians, who play in the Toronto National League, won the first game Friday by 7-1, thus taking the round 11-2.

Max Males Wins Over Spears By TKO in Main Bout Thriller

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

The Navy missed on one thing, the crowd.

The crowd, that is those of the boxing faithful who did not attend, missed on another.

That was the outstanding boxing show staged in the Armories on Saturday night by the Royal Canadian Navy (R).

The Navy deserved a better patronage, for the show from the time Don Plane, HMCS Cataraqui, Kingston won the decision over Dell Smith, Kingston until the smashing climax of a technical knockout in the main bout was one of the best seen in these parts for many a leather pushing moon

The main bout ended in a third-round victory for clever Maxie Males of the Diamond Athletic Club, Toronto, over courageous Don Spears, Royal Canadian Signals, Kingston.

[illegible] clever, hard-punching fighter, won the decision on a technical knockout after one minute and 29 seconds of the third round. Spears, who had fought the ultimate winner toe-to-toe injured his hand and Referee Frank Smith called a halt.

Fine Sportsmanship

Males showed a fine spirit of sportsmanship when after he learned that Spears could not continue, walked to his opponent's corner and raised his right hand in token of victory. It was a fine gesture and exemplification of the espirit de "service" that exists among members of the three branches of the armed services.

The bout, up to the time of its sudden ending never lacked for action. Males and Spears, the latter substituting for Jimmy Wise, furnished' hard punching, and at times furious slugging entertainment.

Males, however, with his right-handed attack and clever weaving defence had an edge on the army lad. He drove right after right at Spears' jaw and Spears fought back in an exchange that had the crowd on edge.

In a sudden flurry in the third round, Spears concentrated his attack on Males body. He landed several blows on the shoulders and one went as low as the hip of Males. It was probably a blow delivered by Spears when Males was turning and which landed on his trunks, that caused the injury. In any event, Spears never gave up but it was plain that his right was ineffective. Referee Smith examined the member and called off the fight.

Jabbed To Win

Dick St. Louis, Trenton RCAF, lived up to advance notices in his bout with clever Gene Powers, of Toronto. St. Louis has a rapier-like left that practically jabbed its way to victory. He repeatedly threw it into Powers face but seemed weak with a right follow-up. Powers was clearly beaten by the agile St. Louis but battled gamely to the end of five rounds.

The other knockout of the card came when Ray Anson, RCCS, Vimy Barracks, pounded the "Woodchopper' Pat Fraser into submission after one minute and 38 seconds of battling in the third round.

The rest of the bouts were hard fought. The Navy promoters are to be congratulated on a fine show.

RESULTS

Don Plane 147, HMCS Cataraqui, Kingston, defeated Dell Smith, 145, Kingston, decision.

"Shorty" Hunter, 118, HMCS Cataraqui, defeated Johnny Bell, 120, Kingston, decision.

Ray Ansom, 155, RCCS, Vimy, defeated Pat Fraser, 160, Trenton, RCAF on TKO, 1.38 in third round.

Jack Renaud, Trenton RCAF lost to Hal Hamelin 60 LAA Regt. Brockville, decision.

Bert Bertrand, Trenton RCAF defeated Gunner Keith Wilman, RCA, Picton, decision.

Semi-final

Dick St. Louis RCAF, Trenton, defeated Gene Powers, Toronto, decision (5).

Main Bout

Maxie Males, Diamond Athletic Club won over Don Spears, RCCS, Kingston, TKO, one minute 29 seconds of third round.

Citation Breaks Two Records By Winning Race

Albany, Calif., June 5 (AP) — Where does Citation go from here now that he's set two world records?

The Calumet Farm flier Saturday won the Golden Gate mile in 133 3-5 to break the world record of 1:34 set by his stablemate, Coaltown, at Washington Park, Chicago, last summer.

He also became the top all-time money-winning horse. His $14,550 share of the $20,000 purse, boosted his earnings to $924,630. Stymie, the previous record-holder and now retired, won $918,485.

But again, the big question is: Will "big Cy" go for the $1,000,000 mark?

His trainer, Jimmy Jones, isn't sure.

He doesn't know if he'll send Citation against Noor—two-time conqueror of Citation at Santa Anita—in the $50,000 added Golden Gate Handicap June 24.

Said Jimmy:

"I'd like to run him once before big race but I'll have to wait a few days and see how he acts before I make up my mind.

"It's hard on a trainer to be forced to race a short horse."

That last remark called for an explanation—whether Jones considers Citation a "short horse" one that has not reached his peak of condition.

"He will be a short horse every time he goes to the post because his legs are such that I just cannot —drill him hard," said Jones. "If I do, he may break down and that I don't want to happen."

Citation has never been —out of the money, winning 29 of his 36 starts and finishing second seven times.

He won Saturday after finishing second five times in a row.

Rochester Wings Protect Margin In International

(By The Associated Press)

Ronnie Lee, a pint sized left-hander, is shaping up as one of the best relief pitchers in the International League.

Lee, only 21, came up to Montreal Royals late last season after winning 13 and losing nine for last-place Newport News of the Piedmont League and won two games and lost none.

This year he has won five games, lost two and saved a number of others in relief roles for the Royals.

Lee kept the second-place Royals in hailing distance of the pace-setting Rochester Red Wings Sunday by gaining credit for Montreal's 9-8 victory in the first half of a doubleheader. The Wings came back to grab the finale 6-5 to protect their 1½ game edge.

The Wings pounded starter Carl Erskine out of the box in the fifth inning of the opener with a five-run blast to take a 7-2 lead. Lee finally quelled the rally.

Lee also saw action in the wind-up. He entered in the sixth with the Wings in front 4-1 and left in the bottom half for a pinch-hitter.

Springfield Cubs dumped Baltimore Orioles 6-4 and 1-0 to virtually tie the Orioles for third place, 3½ games behind the Red Wings.

The Cubs scored four runs in the fifth to wipe out a 4-1 deficit and clinched the opener when Carmen Mauro homered in the seventh. The Cubs won the nightcap in the eighth inning when Smokey Burgess singled with the bases loaded.

Syracuse and Jersey City divided a doubleheader, the Chiefs taking the opener 7-5 on Frankie Drews' two-run homer and the Giants the nightcap 6-3. The Giants won the second in the seventh inning, scoring three runs on three errors.

Buffalo Bisons turned back Toronto Maple Leafs 6-1 in the first game of a twin bill with Clem Hausmann and Charley Harris limiting the Leafs to six hits.

Toronto was leading the Bisons 14-6 in the nightcap when play was stopped because of Toronto's Sunday curfew law. Play will be resumed with the Bisons at bat in the fifth inning the next time Buffalo visits Toronto.

NORWEGIAN PULP OUTPUT

Oslo — (CP) — Norway's production of pulp increased last year to 901,500 tons from 823,500 tons in 1948. Although pulp production has increased steadily since the war, it is still below the record output of 1,095,000 tons in 1937.

Ontario Invaders Pain in Neck To Que. Athletes

By W. E. WHEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, June 5 — (CP) — The record-scanners and crystal gazers came around to the conclusion today that the Dominion and Quebec Provincial track and field schoolboy championships are largely a benefit show for invading forces and a pain in the neck to the athletically - minded host Montrealers.

Up at Molson Stadium Saturday, in rain and soggy weather, a brand new challenger, Stamford Collegiate Institute from up Niagara Falls way — grabbed major team honors and tossed in a triple winner to boot.

As if that weren't enough for the harassed hosts, nine of the 11 records broken were gleefully gathered in by out-of-towners.

The combined Dominion-Provincial meet has been staged for the last few years in Montreal. Most frequently the Montrealers, with hordes of local entries jamming the lists, have been thwarted by less numerous/but more powerful delegations from Ottawa's Glebe Collegiate.

But on Saturday even the Glebe boys surrendered. Stamford won the coveted Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Trophy for team competition in class five — the division given Dominion title recognition, both for team and individual performances.

Had Point Winners

Stamford concentrated its effort in class five — for boys under 20. They scored two firsts, against three for Glebe, but cluttered up the lower placings with point winners.

Stamford wound up with 28 points against Glebe's 20, making sure of the title when Wayne Burns placed second in the 12-pound shot put late in the day.

The four other classes in the day-long competition ranged in age from 13 to 17.

Westmount (Montreal) junior high won the class one title. Montreal High placed second.

The Ottawa entrants atoned somewhat for Glebe's lapse when the Lisgar Collegiate boys won the class two championship, accounting for three firsts.

Class three went to West Hill High of Montreal, with Montreal High well behind in second place.

Chambly County High School sent a strong entry from the south shore of the St. Lawrence and took down team honors in class four.

Double-winners popped up here and there but the only triple of the meet went to Stamford's Fred Ruish, too young to compete with his mates in the high-age class five.

Breaks Record

Ruish broke the record in the eight-pound shot put, class three, stepped up a notch to take class four discus throw and then reverted to his class to win the broad jump.

John Ramsell, 14-year-old lone entrant from St. Andrews College, Aurora, Ont., wrecked the eight-pound shot put record in class one and placed second and third, respectively, in the broad jump and the 100-yard dash.

T. Aitkin of Leaside Collegiate, Toronto, was a double winner in the class two 220-yard dash and 880-yard run.

Entrants from Quebec's eastern townships scored five first, including a record-breaking mile run in class one by Camil Perron of Standstead High and a double win by J. Clark of Granby, one a record, in the field events.

The Oakville (Ont.) Trafalgar Collegiate, with a handful of entrants, accounted for two doubles —J. Sutton in the class four 100 and 200-yard sprints and John Ross in the 880-yard and mile runs. R. Smyth of the same school set up a record in the class one high jump.

Chicago Cubs' Promised Youth Movement Missing, But Vets Spark Club's Fine Showing

(By JOE REICHLER)
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

Frankie Frisch is a candidate for the "Manager of the Year" award—all because his pre-season plan backfired.

How come? Well, when Frisch took his Chicago Cubs for conditioning to California's Catalina Islands last February he announced he planned to rebuild his club with youth.

No more of those old, slow-footed veterans who finished in last place in 1949. From now on, the Cubs would be graced by eager youngsters. Of the 39 men in camp, 20 were kids up for their first real chance in the Majors.

The Cubs broke fast and today, after seven weeks of competition, are the surprise of the league. They're in fifth place with a better than .500 rating and are only four games behind the leaders.

Now what about the youth movement? Oh, yes. Hank Edwards is the club's batting leader with .365. He's 31 years old. Hank Sauer is the team's as well as the league's runs-batted-in leader with 36. He's also 31. Andy Pafko is tops in home runs with eight He's 29, and then there's 33-year-old Phil Cavarretta, who is hitting .328 and doing a grand job at first in his 17th big league season.

On the pitching side, Johnny Schmitz, Frank Hiller and Walt Dubiel, all past 30, have won 10 games among them.

And the youngsters? Well, there are only six left. Outside of Bob Borkowski not one is hitting .300.

Edwards, Cavarretta, Sauer and Pafka all had a hand in a first place tie with St. Louis Cardinals. The Cards gained a full game by defeating Philadelphia Phillies 6-2.

Edwards batted in four runs with two doubles and a single. Cavarretta smacked two singles and his second home run. Sauer tied Bob Elliott of Boston for the League's runs batted in leadership by driving in a tally. Pafko got a couple of hits and two walks in five times at bat. The victory went to Schmitz.

Max Lanier Strong

Max Lanier pitched and batted the Cards to their victory. He limited the Phils to eight hits and tripled with the bases loaded to feature a five-run sixth inning blast that wiped out a 2-1 deficit. Ken Heintzelman was the loser.

New York's improving Giants swept past Pittsburgh into sixth place defeating the Pirates 4-3. The Giants continued their policy of winning games in the final inning, tallying three times in the ninth to overcome a 3-1 deficit. Whitey Lockman's two-run triple won the game.

Thanks to Ken Raffensberger's four-hit pitching, the Cincinnati Reds gained a split in their doubleheader with Boston Braves. Raffensberger shut out Boston 3-0 in the opener, but the Braves came back to blast Herm Wehmeier from the box to win the nightcap 7-6.

New York Yankees maintained their 2½-game lead over Detroit in the American League as Lefty Ed Lopat shut out Cleveland Indians and Bob Lemon 7-0. Detroit's Art Houtteman also hurled a shutout, blanking Washington Senators 3-0.

Led by Walt Dropo, Birdie Tebbetts Ted Williams and Al Zarilla, the Red Sox pounded out 21 hits to bury Chicago's White Sox under a 17-7 score.

St. Louis Browns and Philadelphia Athletics divided a doubleheader. The Browns won the opener 12-5 and the A's took the second 13-9, with a nine-run first inning.

Bad Slice Cost Golfer $924.39 Did Not Say 'Fore'

Nanaimo, B.C., June 5. (CP)— A bad slice on the golf course cost Charles Skittles $924.39.

The crux of the case was this: are you supposed to yell "fore" before you shoot or after your golf ball has started an erratic course from the clubhead?

The whole thing started a year ago on the nearby Qualicum Beach course. Mrs. Doris McLaurin of Kelowna, B.C., was hit in the face by a golf ball. It fractured her cheekbone.

Skittles said it was his slice that was to blame. He was driving from the eighth tee while Mrs. McLaurin was playing the adjoining practice fairway.

Mrs. McLaurin asked $300 special damages and unstated damages and unstated general damages. She said the practice in golf was to shout the warning "fore" when another player was in range of a shot. Mr. Justice Norman Whittaker, in a judgment handed down Saturday, agreed with her. He awarded her $174.39 for medical bills and $750 for unstated damages.

When the case was heard in Supreme court here late in March, Mrs. McLaurin said Skittles had played his shot first and then had shouted his warning. She said she had not assumed the risk of being injured by going onto the course and there was no precaution she could have taken.

Skittles said the woman had not been in his "line of fire". When he had seen the ball slice and veer to the right, he had shouted a warning.

Skittles' drive travelled about 130 yards before it struck Mrs. McLaurin.

FRANKFORD

Minto, Frankford Play to 14-All Softball Tie

Frankford — Frankford and Minto Midgets tangled in an exhibition softball contest at the park Thursday night. The contest was scheduled for seven innings, but when it ended in a 13 all tie, it was decided to play nine. However, on completion of eight innings, a heavy thunderstorm broke over the field, and activities had to be suspended with the score knotted at 14 apiece.

Coach Bill Berscht juggled the Frankford lineup considerably to get all the boys into the game for a few innings. The pitching was shared by Burkitt, Wannamaker and Jackson, with Wannamaker looking the best for the game. Tomecek received, with O'Brien, the regular catcher, out with an injured hand.

For the visitors, G. Ray and Colden pitched, with R. Ray catching. Hadley belted a tremendous home run to left to help the Minto cause. O'Neill and G. Ray collected a pair of safeties as well.

For Frankford, Dick Reid led the hitting with three hits and a walk in five trips to the plate, driving in a total of four runs. Reid was the only Frankford batter to get more than one hit.

The Frankford fielding was very weak, with a total of thirteen miscues being committed. Minto had four errors.

The Frankford Midgets are a hustling bunch of lads, and with a few more games under their belts, the boys will definitely be a better fielding club. They play good, fast, exciting ball, and promise plenty of excitement for the fans.

You can almost feel the difference between an opening bid of one and an opening of two. Or between a simple and a jump response. But the safest way is by counting the tricks.

With a count of less than nine tricks, do not open with two. With a count of less than six, do not respond at once with a jump takeout. Additional tricks will show up in later bids, if needed.

Take this deal:

West counts eight tricks. They are his five high cards (aces, kings, queens), his one short card in hearts, and his two shorts in clubs. Together they total eight tricks. Not quite enough for a two bid.

His opening bid is one diamond. An opening of one promises no more than five tricks. This hand contains three more than that many. To show them, however, west must await a later opportunity.

East has a count of five tricks. They are his four high cards and the one short card in diamonds. Not quite enough for a takeout jump. The response by that hand is one heart.

Any responding bid promises at least three tricks. So, west now sees at least 11 tricks in their pair. With 11 tricks, a jump signal is given to advise partner they have a game of some kind.

So, west jumps to three diamonds. With his own five, west now counts 13 tricks in their pair. So, east bids four no-trump to ask west how many aces and kings he holds.

The Horse Sense reply by west is six hearts to show two aces and two kings. With one king now known to be in opponent hands, east bids six no-trump for fear of losing a trick to the king.

A good guess in diamonds makes seven against any lead. Without a club lead, six is a cinch with a bad guess. There is frequently some worry in any slam. But bridge players live dangerously.

Quebec, June 5 (CP)— Fear that three-year-old Nicole Renaud may have been devoured by a bear was expressed by searchers today after an unsuccessful 24 hour hunt in the woods for the girl who disappeared Saturday. Only clue found by 800 searchers was some bear tracks about 1,500 feet from where Nicole was last seen. The search continued today.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 5 — (AP). — The success of Oscar de Mejo in the art world gets more fantastic the more you learn about it.

De Mejo (pronounced May-ho), who is the husband of actress Vallei has sold 65 canvases within the last year, no small achievement for any artist. But it is more remarkable when you learn that:

1. He has been painting for only a year;

2. He has never had an art lesson;

3. He says that a ghost told him to take up painting.

Let de Mejo explain it in his own words:

"When Alida (his wife) and I came here from Italy, I didn't exactly know what to do. I started a band with Tony Romano and we had luck for a while, but we folded in Phoenix - - -

Ghost Artist

"I have always been interested in spiritualism and one night I was invited to a seance. We heard a tapping and it turned out to be someone asking for me. It was a boy who had died in New Orleans in 1912 at the age of 14. He had taken up art before he died and wanted me to carry on his work. I said I would."

De Mejo bought a set of paints and started in. Working six to eight hours a day, he turned out a canvas almost daily. Unschooled in art, he developed his own primitive style.

Friends admired de Mejo's bright and expressive scenes and urged him to market them. So he hauled them down to a Los Angeles department store and made an immediate sale.

Successful shows in Los Angeles, San Francisco and New York followed.

The young Italian is still somewhat dazed by his success. "Anybody can do it," he says. "All you have to do is get a set of paints and start in. I think it's better to do without lessons. They you can develop your own style."

Capsule Review

"The Glass Menagerie" (W.B.) is probably the best-acted picture of the year. The Tennessee Williams play has been brought to the screen with a good feeling for its generally-sombre mood. Gertrude Lawrence, Jane Wyman and Arthur Kennedy form the pathetic family and Kirk Douglas is the gentleman caller. A hopeful ending has been tacked on to the movie version to relieve the pessimism.

Little Benny's Note Book

I wa[illegible] downtown with ma, and ne l[illegible]ne at pop's office and ent [illegible] did the rest of her hopping, and me and pop were uppose to meet her outside the ilroad station at half pass 5 so e could all go home together, nd when we got there it was lmost 6 o'clock by the station lock and ma wasn't there, and op said, Horse blanket to blazes, m a doomed man, and I deserve y fate.

G. pop, do you meen she was ere and went away again? I said, nd pop said, That's about the ze of it She's on her way home alone rite now, trying to make up her mind whether to ever speek to me again, and if so, why. And blast it all, she's rite, I should of kept track of the time. I should of remembered how she hates to stand waiting on street corners especially for me. I awt to be shot at sunrise, and maybe before, he said.

G. pop, here she comes now, I said.

Which she was, walking fast like somebody late themself, and pop said, By gollies I feel sorry for her, I know just how she feels because I just stopped feeling that way myself. Well, I'll greet her with the news that we just got here ourselves, and then everybody will live happily ever after, he said.

Only he didn't have a chance to say anything, on account of ma starting to talk rite away, saying. Now William, I dont want to hear a werd, not a werd. You're the one who usually keeps me waiting, but this time the shoe pinches the other foot, so it's a simple case of poetic justice and I dont feel a bit sorry for you, she said.

Yes my dear, you're quite rite, isn't she, Benny? pop said, and I said, Sure, pop. G. pop, it's a woman's werld, aint it? I said.

Being what pop always says and making him laff like anything, and ma laffed too on account of being relieved to hear people laffing, and we all rode home on the bus feeling better instead of werse.

Guests from West Huntingdon W.M.S.; Salem W.A.; St. Thomas W.A.; Bethesda W.A.; Fuller W.A.; St. Andrew's W.M.S. were present The ladies enjoyed a cafeteria dinner and visited until 2 p.m

Mrs. C. Mitz opened the meeting with a poem the theme being "Miracles of Jesus".

Scripture readings were taken from Matt: 20: 29-34; Mark 8: 1-9, Luke 17: 11-19; John 2: 1-11, of miracles Jesus performed, by Mrs. Don Reid, Mrs. Earl Benson, Mrs. Stan Prest and Miss Doris Twiddy.

Stop and think, look and see what is to be done, meditate and listen and think, to make the next 25 years, more interesting. It is the responsibility of the church to see that the next 25 years are successful. Let all do more for and with their children. Let each use his or her experiences to bring others to God.

Mrs. Prest thanked Mrs. Weese and presented her with a bouquet of tulips.

Mrs. Stevenson of Bethesda, read a poem and Mrs. Mac Sarles and Mrs. Howard Cooke sang a duet.

Kingsridge

By Alice Ross Colver

And it was strive and strain in the plant too. For, rightly or wrongly, Gerry had come to the conclusion that a promotion there would give Judge King proof of what he wanted regarding him. As fast as Gerry was moved up, Steven's attitude toward him would thaw. The trick, then, was to force such a promotion as soon as possible.

But how? If there was any plan regarding his future there, he could not guess what it was. It seemed to him that in the four months he had been at work, he had been moved about in the most haphazard fashion, without having been left anywhere long enough to feel that he was learning or accomplishing anything. It griped him. The Judge had said that if he knew where he wanted to go he would arrive faster. Well he had known. But if all this shifting about was training for personnel work, it would have to be made plain to him!

He had questioned his immediate superior several times without satisfaction. He determined finally to see Lester Brandt himself. And it occurred to him that it would be to his advantage to face Lester in his home. In the plant, in his president's room, he was vested with more authority and prestige than his unimportant figure could command elsewhere. Besides going to the house would give Gerry a chance to see Alicia again—her last words to him nagged at his mind. Was she really going west? He did not like the thought, for Kingsridge without Alicia would be Kingsridge without a single understanding soul. But perhaps she hadn't meant that. Perhaps that had been only a line tossed out to bait him. This was what he wanted to know.

He ws forestalled in his plan, however, by Lester himself who sent for him to come to his office one day. Gerry arrived, hot, streaked with grease, and in his shirt sleeves having hurried from the taking of inventory down in the storeroom. And the sight of Lester in an immaculate gray linen suit, seated before a large quietly revolving fan at his leather-topped mahogany desk brought him to a sharp realization of the injustice of the world. Man to man, he was as good as this mean mouthed meagerly-built, potato-patting creature before him. Yet he was a small cog here, while Lester was the big wheel. The thought did not give him the composure he needed or the respect he knew he should show. Sweating, with his big hands balled into fists and his broad shoulders heaving from his haste, he said curtly.

"You sent for me?"

Lester nodded silently. He did not invite Gerry to be seated or even indicate by a gesture the empty chair that stood on the other side of his desk. He simply flicked his pale, cold flat eyes over Gerry and then dropped his gaze to his fingernails which he examined with minute care from then on nearly all the time he was talking.

"I sent for you because I understand you are not satisfied here."

"I never said that!"

"It was reliably reported to me that you don't like your work.

Gerry said stiffly, "may I tell you my side of the story?"

"Certainly."

Gerry drew a breath and forced his voice to an even quality through a hot scornful impatience was rocketing up in him.

"I came here as you know, through the good offices of Judge King. I was given to understand by him that there was a future here for me, and that if I knew where I was heading. . ."

Lester interrupted.

"Judge King quite overstepped himself, I would say. He definitely overshot his mark. All he could do was get you in there. What your future is now that you are here is," he lifted his gaze for a short moment and Gerry saw in it a queer malevolent gleam "entirely up to me." He paused. Gerry waited.

"And I must say," Lester went on, his tone silky and suave, "that it does not help your progress in the least to have it said that before you have been here six months, before you are in line for any consideration whatsoever you are making complaints about the kind of work you are given to do."

A memory flashed to Gerry. Of himself and Alicia having lunch together long ago in New York. Of his asking if he might come to see her again and of her replying quickly. "No. Lester does not like you." It had not occurred to him then the reason why. But now, suddenly, he knew. Now, by Lesters voice, by his look, by everything in his manner, Gerry was made disconcertingly aware that Lester not only disliked him but felt an active hatred toward him. Because of Alicia's interest in him? Of course. Somehow he had divined that. Perhaps when they had danced together at the engagement party and had disappeared from sight into the conservatory. No. It must have been sooner than that. It must date back to the first time he had dined at Lester's house. Anyway this was probably why Alicia had said that she was "frightened" for them both. Under the pressure of the moment he had not asked her why she felt so. But now he had the answer. All this being true, there was only one direction in which he, Gerry, would ever make progress here—and that was toward an exit.

He stood sick and stunned as he felt his castle falling about his ears. But he was not one to admit defeat without a fight. There had been nothing between him and Alicia! Lester couldn't hang anything on him. Nobody could.

He said, "just one or two questions Mr. Brandt. Has it ever been made known to you that I would like to be in personnel department? If it has, will you be so kind as to tell me how the counting of bolts and screws and nuts and nails will help me get there?"

"And now you are overstepping Lester said icily.

Gerry's eyes flashed. "Let's be frank. Are you firing me?"

"No. I'm not firing you. I'm keeping you here in my plant," he looked up again for just a moment and Gerry saw a malicious light of pleasure in his eyes, "for reasons of my owp."

Gerry turned abruptly and strode from the office. Behind him Lester sat looking at his nails with a small satisfied smile.

All the way home that night to his room at the Inn, Gerry thought hard. His first reaction, that the Judge had put him in this spot deliberately, he dismissed at once. Gerry felt little love for Steven King but he had to respect him, and he knew that he was upright in his dealings and that his effort to give aid had been honest. Besides, Steven knew nothing of Lester's animosity toward Gerry, since he believed that Alicia was interested in Frank.

And then Gerry began to wonder what possible persuasion or pressure the Judge could have brought to bear on Lester to make him employ him at all when Lester hated him so? It seemed queer and the more he thought about it the queerer it seemed.

Why hadn't he refused the Judge's request? Because he did not want to admit to anyone that Alcia no longer cared for him? His was a small, vain soul. Actually, for all his wealth, he had little. Alicia was liked where he was not. Alicia had beauty, too, however careless she was about it. Alicia was his prop in a world that, except for his money, gave him scant attention.

That might have been why. Yet without bringing Alicia into the picture at all, he could easily have said, as so many other men had said, that there was no opening at present. Why hadn't he? Why?

Over and over he asked himself that question until he believed he had the answer. The Judge knew something about Lester Brandt. If Gerry could find out what that was, then he would have something on him. A lever by which to elevate himself in Lester's company despite his enmity!

He began dressing for dinner at the Kings that night with his excitement rising to a high pitch within him. He would see the Judge who was no longer unfriendly, who as now merely passively observant. The Judge stood for fair play. He could not care for Gerry's case as Gerry planned to present it. He might or he might not offer to speak again on Gerrys behalf. But if he did, Gerry would say that he preferred to speak for himself. He would ask the judge straight out what he knew about Lester Brandt. Indeed, he would demand the information. Hadn't he the cudgel, in Frank's and Alicia's meeting, which made it possible for him to do just that?

Susan was waiting for Gerry. She was wearing a thin pink dress with a tiny print of blue flowers scattered over it, and in the childish rounded neckline and short puffed sleeves, with flat balerina slippers on her bare feet and her hair caught back by a bow of pink ribbon, she looked more young than usual. By contrast, he felt himself to be old and battered ad, the word popped strangely into his head, unsuited. But he drove it away at once. Susan was the star to which he had hitched his wagon. Other men before him had done the same thing, other men, neither better and some worse, than he. He strode toward her, his humility and arrogance at war within him.

She waved to him from the swing on the veranda, her eyes seeing with pride the vigor of his stride, the straight set of his shoulders in his white Palm Beach suit, the way his crisp, dark hair curled above his browned, handsome face. He was not smiling, she noticed. Was there something the matter? Alert and with a passionate desire to meet his mood so that the moments spent together tonight, might be sweet with accord, she rose and went forward to greet him.

"Hello darling." She lifted her face. "Hot isn't it?"

"Yeah."

She drew his arm about her and they walked slowly back toward the swing.

Dinners all ready, but we're waiting for Don to come with Janie."

"Good." He glanced through the French doors into the living room. "Where's your family?"

"Didn't I tell you? They've made their annual trek to the Poconos."

"All of them?"—sharply.

She nodded. "They usually go a little later but it turned so warm that they suddenly packed up today. Why? Does it make any difference?"

"I wanted to see the Judge." There was a frown on his forehead.

"Won't it keep?"

"How long will he be gone?"

"Two weeks, anyway. Possibly longer if he can arrange to stay away."

Practice of Democracy Most Effective Weapon Against Communism Says St. Laurent

St. Louis, June 6 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada said today the most effective weapon against communist inflirtration on the North American continent is the "confident practice of democracy and freedom and justice."

He spoke after reeiving an honorary degree from St. Louis University. Warning against the spread of "fear and suspicion," he expressed belief in an address prepared for delivery that it is "essential" that there be public confidence in the "good faith and honest intentions" of men in high office.

"We do not have to believe in the wisdom of all their policies - - - -

Attacks Strengthened Enemy

"But it is quite another thing to attack the good faith, the honesty of purpose and the loyalty to their country of public men, when there is no substantial evidence to support such attacks.

"It seems to me that one of the most effective ways to help the enemies of freedom to undermine and weaken our democratic institutioins is to indulge in sustained and unwarranted attacks upon the characters of public men."

He said he was convinced that "the vast majority of North Americans are deeply enough attached to our free institutions to make it impossible for a comparative handful of communist agents to destroy them."

The "real" menace was not the direct menace of the "tiny" communist minority within North America, but the spread of Soviet imperialism in less happy continents. The "real" safety lay in stopping the tide "and turning it back far away from our shores."

BANDIT KILLED, THREE WOUNDED IN GUN BATTLE

New York, June 6 (AP)— A running gun battle between police and holdup men in the Greenwich Village night club belt early today left one bandit dead and two bandits and a bystander wounded.

Two patrons were slugged on the head with gun butts when they resisted three holdup men who invaded the Little Casino cafe and fled without loot.

Dozens of persons in the crowded neighborhood ducked into doorways as a score of shots were exchanged.

Two of the bandits were wounded and captured after their getaway car smashed into a construction derrick.

The third fugitive ran into a death trap when he sought refuge in the kitchen of an almost empty cafe nearby. He was shot to death there when he was trapped by two policemen and came out shooting.

A patrolman, hearing the robbers shooting in the Little Casino, engaged them in battle as they fled in their car. He wounded two of them. Two other policemen then joined the chase.

The dead man was Harold A. Sellers, 20, of Brooklyn.

The two alleged robbers wounded were Ralph Chirillcs, 19, and John Penna, 25.

Louis La Presto, 43, the bystander, was in serious condition with a bullet wound in the head. Police said he was shot by one of the gunmen to cover their escape from the Casino.

WORLD LIVING BETWEEN PEACE, WAR - - PEARSON

Called 'Twilight Zone' By Department Head

Ottawa, June 6 — (CP) — The world is living in a "sort of twilight zone" between peace and war, External Affairs Minister Pearson told the Commons Monday, but peace will emerge "if we order our affairs in a wise, firm and unprovocative way internationally."

There were times, he said, when "we wonder whether that twilight is between darkness and light or between light and darkness."

The fact remained that "one or the other is bound to follow." He, for one, did not feel "any sense of complacency."

But, he told the chamber, "if we order our affairs in a wise, firm and unprovocative way internationally, we have no reason to believe that the twilight will not be followed by light."

Mr. Pearson gave the House a broad review of the recent Atlantic Pact meetings in London and indicated he saw the possibility that the alliance may eventually lead to "an Atlantic commonwealth of free states" and perhaps to one world unity.

Opposition speakers gave general support to the government's foreign policy.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, stressed the need for greater use of economic co-operation in the new permanent Atlantic Pact machinery and urged the government to consider the policy of nonrecognition of Red China.

Wants China Statement

Gordon Graydon (PC—Peel), speaking for the progressive conservative party, called for a statement on China policy and warned that Soviet imperialism could outflank any isolated western barrier and seize the riches of Asia.

Russ Subs Reported In S.E. Asian Waters

Canberra, Australia, June 6 — (Reuters) — Percy Spender, Minister for External Affairs, told parliament today he had received communications," he said in an-Russian submarines in southeast Asian waters, but he did not propose to disclose their nature.

"The house will understand why I do not propose to disclose these communications,' 'he said in answer to a parliamentary question.

"The government is watching activities in the southeast Asian area and will co-operate fully with United Kingdom and United States governments," he said.

His questioner had suggested that it might be possible for submarines to land communist agents in the area.

Farmers May See Increase In $1.40 Bushel Initial Payment If All Goes Well Says Howe

Ottawa, June 6 (CP)— Canadian farmers may see an increase in the $1.40-a-bushel initial payment for western wheat next year if all goes well, but there is to be no further financial settlement with Britain on the Anglo-Canadian wheat contract which ends next months.

These disclosures emerged from a Commons discussion on wheat Monday, during which a CCF amendment to have the initial price boosted to $1.75 a bushel for the 1950-51 crop year starting Aug. 1 was defeated. Trade Minister Howe told the House such a move might deplete the wheat pool in its first year under a new system of operation

Answering opposition criticism and questions, Mr. Howe made these announcements:

1. The government will increase the initial payment "if by next February the pool has accumulated a considerable surplus through paying a low initial price." In that event, payment would be made for past deliveries of wheat and a new initial price set for future deliveries.

2. Britain has told Canada that she has fulfilled obligations under the Anglo-Canadian wheat contracts clause which said the United Kingdom would "have regard" for the low prices at which she obtained wheat in the first two years of the 600,000,000-bushel four-year contract.

Increase Membership

The wheat discussion developed on study of a bill to extend the life of the Canadian Wheat Board. The Board is increasing its membership from three to five because of increased work. It will now be represented on the International Wheat Council and will also handle the marketing of coarse grains.

After discussion at the afternoon and night sittings, the House gave third and final reading to the legislation.

The proposal to boost the initial price of wheat to $1.75 for the next crop year came from M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader. He said farmers should be compensated for "sacrifices' made during the operation of the British contract when wheat was sold at prices lower than the so-called world prices.

Amendment Defeated

When the House finally voted, Mr. Coldwell's amendment was defeated 87 to 40, with Progressive Conservatives, CCF and Social Credit Members voting solidly for the motion against the Liberal majority.

The international wheat agreement, under which Canada now will sell her wheat, appeared to be "working perfectly" to date, Mr. Howe said.

Britain has told the United States that she will not require Marshall Aid for the purchase of wheat in the next year. She will buy all her North American purchases of wheat from Canada with dollars.

J. A. Ross (PC-Souris) asked if Mr. Howe was dependent on the International wheat agreement to sell between 100,000,000 and 120,000,000 bushels to Britain in the next crop year, as he had announced.

Mr. Howe replied that he was "depending on the undertaking that Britain's North American wheat will be bought in Canada and that the price will be the current price within the limits of the international wheat agreement. Within the agreement, the signatory countries had to buy wheat at the floor at which it was offered to them—currently $1.54 a bushel.

24 Top Red Leaders in Japan Purged on MacArthur Order, Government Acts Swiftly

Tokyo, June 6 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur, angered by Japanese Red attacks on United States soldiers ordered 24 top Communist leaders purged today and the Japanese government swiftly followed his command.

The government promptly notified the 24 members of the Communist Party Central Committee they have been barred from politics.

Seven of them will vacate parliamentary seats. All will be prohibited from party membership or any political activity. They will be barred from positions of influence in other activities.

The Swift move which MacArthur ordered in a letter to Premier Shigeru Yoshida will cost the Reds their principal public speakers and most effective leaders. Technically they also will be prohibited from guiding party affairs or writing.

Notification of the purge by the government was made in a series of telegrams and special delivery letters to the Reds.

National police, who took steps to guard against possible retaliatory action, arrested two union leaders for their alleged part in the May 30 demonstration during which American soldiers were attacked.

The government, in the wake of Sunday's elections which saw Yoshida's pro-occupation Liberal party retained in power, already had announced its intention of outlawing the Communist party

Among the politburo leaders purged were Kyuichi Tokuda, general secretary; Sanze Nozaka Moscow-trained strategist, and Yoshio Shiga, leader of the militant Communist college students, all parliament members.

Canadian locomotive is the oldest railroad steam locomotive builder in the Dominion.

The directors, following the stockholders' meeting, elected Robert H. Morse, Jr., president and chief executive.

Canadian Locomotive will retain its corporate identity and continue to make its regular line of products Mr. Morse said.

It is expected that Diesel locomotives, new to the company, will be in production in a short time.

Sailor Presumed Drowned After Boat is Found

Buffalo, N.Y., June 6 (CP) — Joseph Raleigh of Buffalo, N.Y., was missing and presumed drowned in Lake Erie after his small sail boat was washed ashore at Thunder Bay, Ont., the United States Coast Guard said today.

The Coast Guard said the boat was identified today by the missing man's father. It was washed ashore Monday. Thunder Bay is about 6 1-2 miles west of Buffalo.

Raleigh, 27, sailed Sunday from Port Maitland, Ont., but never completed his planned 45-mile trip to Buffalo.

The Coast Guard said a plane, helicopter and a power boat were searching for Raleigh's body.

GUNMAN TAKES OWN LIFE AS POLICE CLOSE IN

Wanted for Wounding Malartic Man Friday

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 6—(CP)—Ten policemen converged on a rooming house here Monday and one of them was starting to kick in the door of a room when a shot rang out.

The shot was the suicide of Thomas (Duke) Toohey, 24-year-old former policeman, who sent a bullet through his brain and made good his boast that "they'll never take me alive."

Toohey, a crack shot, was found dead with a bullet hole in his temple. He had a revolver in each hand and a third gun was beside his bed.

He had started to write a suicide note before the policemen tracked him down in their search for the gunman who seriously wounded Joseph E. Colleaux of Malartic, Que., and stole his new automobile at North Bay Friday night.

Large police squads had hunted Toohey since Colleaux identified his attacker Saturday. Colleaux recovering from his wounds, said the man wounded him three times and left him for dead.

North Bay provincial police issued a warrant for Toohey, free on bail of $500 on a charge of assaulting a Kirkland Lake officer.

Toohey was the son of J. J. Toohey, captain of the mine guard at Wright-Hargreaves, and he had disappeared with three guns belonging to his father.

Mrs. Thomas Love, who runs a roominghouse here, took in a new boarder and thought he seemed "such a nice, well-mannered man." But her sister heard radio broadcasts about the North Bay attack and warned her about taking in new roomers. Mrs. Love thought about the new boarder and when he left the house to get some sandwiches, she telephoned police.

Slugged and Robbed Of $1,200 and Car

Toronto, June 6 (CP)—Norman Smith, 34, was slugged and robbed of $1,200 and his automobile by two bottle-wielding thugs Monday night. Smith had just left his auto repair shop when he was attacked. The hold-up men were waiting in the back seat of the car and he was slugged unconscious when he got in.

When he revived, Smith found himself lying in a field in suburban North York. He was treated for a gash on his head.

H-Bomb Lines Would Destroy Life Over Hundreds of Thousands of Miles

New York, June 6—(AP)—The possibility of hydrogen bomb lines to destroy life over hundreds of thousands of miles is described by a well-known atomic scientist in the magazine American Scholar.

Professor Harrison Brown of the University of Chicago says in an article published Monday in the periodical that a hydrogen bomb line would be a series of bombs in a line that might be hundreds of miles long but which would contain few of these bombs.

Dr. Brown does not say how many would be necessary to form the "line", but calculations published by other scientists have indicated that a dozen or less might suffice.

"If the hydrogen bomb works," he writes, "technically speaking, it is easy to visualize a series of hydrogen bomb explosions carried out along a north-south line at about the longitude of Prague. The radio-activity produced by the explosions would be carried eastward by the winds, destroying all life within a strip 1,500 miles wide, extending from Leningrad to Odessa, and 3,000 miles deep, extending from Prague to the Ural mountains.

"By the time the radio-activity passed the Urals (approximately three days) the intensity would be lower and the destruction would be less. By the time the Pacific had been crossed and the west coast of America reached, the radio-activity would not be dangerous.

"Many human beings could survive such an attack by protecting themselves with shielding, and wearing gas masks to filter radioactive dust. But radio-activity is not specific against human beings. Animals and vegetation within the area would be destroyed. Such an attack would produce a scorched earth of an extent unprecendented in history.

"The United States could be attacked in similar manner. Hydrogen bomb explosions could be set off on a north-south line in the Pacific approximately 1.000 miles west of California. "The radio-active dust would reach California in about a day, and New York in four or five days, killing most life as it traversed the continent."

Destroyer Picks Up Survivors Taking Them to Miami

Huge Air and Sea Search Under Way for Remaining 28

Miami, Fla., June 6 (AP)—The destroyer U.S.S. Saufley today radioed that it had picked up 37 survivors of a twin-engine C-46 airplane which crashed into the Atlantic Ocean 275 miles northeast of here.

Those saved included the pilot.

There was no report on the remainder of the 65 passengers and crew who were on the plane.

The destroyer informed coast guard headquarters at 10.20 a.m that all the survivors picked up were "in good condition.

The pilot's belief that all the missing passengers had life jackets raised hopes that the loss of life would be small.

A huge air and sea search was under way for the remainder of 65 persons aboard the Westair Company plane.

All the passengers were migratory workers from Puerto Rico, en route to the United States. The plane was heading for Wilmington, N.C., when a motor failed.

The destroyer Saufley started picking up the survivors from five life rafts at 8:30 a.m. EDT as coast guard and commercial planes hovered overhead. Coast guard cutters, freighters and other vessels were in the area.

The rescue came almost exactly a year after a transport plane went into the Atlantic on the take-off from San Juan, Puerto Rico, to Miami, killing 53 persons.

Survivors were plucked from the sea today less than 10 hours after the stricken aircraft's pilot messaged "it looks like I'm going into the drink."

One Engine Out

The time was then 11.06 p.m. Veteran pilot Joseph Halsey of Seattle, Wash., radioed one engine was out and he was flying at 200 feet and losing altitude rapidly. After that nothing more was heard.

Coast guard air sea rescue headquarters went into action immediately, sending an armada of air and surface craft rushing toward the area. Ships at sea were diverted from their course.

An hour later a sister plane, circling the area, reported it sighted a flare and a flashlight blinking out an SOS.

The sister plane remained at the scene until its fuel supply ran low, then flew into Nassau for more.

At 6:45 a.m., a coast guard plane radioed tersely:

"Sighted survivors."

Operations officer pinpointed the location on their charts. More than 30 planes and surface vessels taking part in the search were notified.

Reports Pour In

Reports poured in. Three rafts full of people were spotted and counted. They totalled 33. A few minutes later the other Westair Company plane radioed they counted 45 survivors on five life rafts.

The weather was clear and sunny and the life rafts tossed gently in three-to-five-foot ground swells. Coast guard officers said the good weather helped considerably.

Eddie Hollahan, director of the aviation division, Puerto Rican Transportation Authority, said both the authority and civilian aeronautics administration would begin an investigation immediately. The craft was equipped with seven 10-man life rafts, 65 Mae West life jackets and one Gibson Girl life jacket.

PROWLING BEARS BELIEVED TO HAVE EATEN CHILD

Quebec, June 6 — (CP) — Prowling black bears are believed to have eaten tiny Nicole Renaud, and a huge search for the three-year-old girl in a patch of woods a scant eight miles from this city of 150,000 has been called off.

Nicole wandered into woods near the village of Chateau Bigot, just north of here, Saturday afternoon.

On Saturday night, a great search was launched, led by provinciol police and army officers. By Monday, up to 1,000 soldiers, policemen and civilians were beating the woods around Chateau Bigot.

Monday night they admitted defeat.

"We have come to the conclusion that Nicole has been devoured by bears or a bear," Lieut. Martin Healy of the provincial police told The Canadian Press.

Healy, who directed the search since it was instituted, added that efforts to find Nicole have been abandoned.

Nicole, clad in blue denim slacks, last was seen playing with Nicole Bilodeau, about her own age, in Chateau Bigot. The little Bilodeau girl rushed screaming into her home Saturday afternoon and told her mother: "Mommy, Nicole has gone into the woods."

Tracks Discovered

The search swung into high gear Sunday when bear tracks were discovered.

Talent Show Presented by K.G. Students

King George students presented their first 'Talent Show' on Friday, June 2, at the school, sponsored by the Home and School Association of King George. The show was supported by the Public Schools Band, under the direction of Alfred Cooper, Dave Scott and Bob Alexander on saxaphone and trumpet, accompanied by Mrs. G. Scott at the piano and Maureen Wyatt who played "Hungarian Rhapsody" and "Serenade D'Amour", with excellent response from the packed auditorium.

The students then took over, and with the opening chorus "Keep Your Sunny Side Up", kept the house laughing and interested until intermission, when refreshments were served to all and sundry by Mrs. Butler and her willing and able helpers. On the resumption, the president, Mrs. Cross, thanked everyone who had helped in the show, and remarked on the high standard of talent, all the way from Grade 1-8 and how important it is to keep alive the spirit of song and dance in children.

Second half of the program went along breezily until 11:00 p.m. when "God Save The King" was sung.

The ladies of the executive did a wonderful job on the decoration of the stage with Spring flowers and shrubs and the Association wish to thank all participants and artists for their grand efforts which made this evening's enjoyment possible.

The show was devised and compiled by Bill Gander.

Plans Discussed For Completion Of City Canvass

It was strictly business at the regular fortnightly dinner meeting of the local Kinsmen Club Monday evening, when plans were discussed for the completion of their city-wide canvass to raise funds for their proposed new community swimming pool.

Club president Ernie Coleborne noted that approximately one-half of the city had been covered in the general canvass and club members were urged to complete the canvass of their respective areas during the month of June.

He emphasized that every part of the city would be covered in the canvass, thus permitting everyone the opportunity of contributing toward the construction of the new swimming pool.

Site Partially Cleared

Thanks to the physical efforts of a group of club members the site of the proposed pool on Dundas Street has been partially cleared of trees and undergrowth. Tonight the services of a power saw mill be obtained and the site cleared further, of the remaining trees.

Mr. J. T. Ranson, local Ontario Land surveyor, has volunteered his services to survey the property and lay out the required levels, while Jack Both of the Diamond Construction Company, has offered the use of his bulldozer to level the property and dig the excavation for the pool.

Motorcycle Rider Catapulted Into Dump Truck

Still unconscious after 18 hours Vernon Bradshaw 23, R. R. 4 Belleville, is in critical condition in Belleville General Hospital with scalp lacerations, broken nose and concussion suffered Monday afternoon when he was catapulted from his motorcycle into the side of a dump truck.

The accident occurred two miles west of the city on No. 2 highway when the westbound motorcycle crashed into the rear wheel of a truck driven by Jack Clarke of Holloway. Clarke was engaged in hauling earth from the excavation of the new county old people's home and was returning across the highway for another load.

Tire skid marks from the motorcycle for a distance of 90 feet appeared on the highway but the machine was badly damaged as it crashed into the side of the truck. Bradshaw was catapulted over the handlebars, striking his head on the steel dump box.

Provincial Constables Thompson and Tasker investigated the accident

POLICE COURT

Pleading guilty before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in city magistrate's court to a charge of "joyriding," Robt. Mondeville, 17, city, was remanded for one week for sentence.

Mondeville also pleaded guilty to the theft of a number of batteries from autos on used car lots in the city and was remanded for sentence.

The joyriding offence to which Mondeville pleaded guilty took place more than a week ago when the accused, accompanied by three other youths, was stated by police to have taken a car owned by J. G. Tatham, Victoria Ave., from where it was parked at the rear of a Front Street store. The four youths were apprehended at Cobourg in possession of the car.

The three other lads involved in the offence are being dealt with in juvenile court.

The charge of joyriding against Mondeville was reduced from one of car theft.

Marshall Hawley of Picton was arraigned on a forgery charge and was remanded to allow him to secure counsel.

A Campbellford man, Alfred Simpson, was fined $100 and costs for illegal possession of liquor.

The balance of the court was composed of traffic cases, most of which were settled out of court.

REPELLENT IS "MUST"

Two Steeplejacking Jobs Now Under Way in City

Steeplejacking is far from being a lost art in the city as is indicated by the fact that two steeplejacking jobs are now underway —both of them being done by local workmen.

A local contractor, William H. Judge, Oak Street, is now engaged in removing the large steeple from atop the Tabernacle United Church and in the repair of the remaining steeple, while at the city hall, caretaker Geo. Crocker is repairing the city hall flagstaff and is re-aligning the staff.

Three contractors, two of them local, bid on the job of removing the steeple at Tabernacle Church which was extensively damaged by a heavy wind some weeks ago. The successful bidder has now completed most of the preliminary work and the work of actual removal of the steeple is expected to begin soon. At the moment preparations are being made for the removal of a 600-pound iron ornament adorning the top of the steeple.

Will Remove Steeple

The large steeple will be completely removed and the smaller steeple repaired, while the towers of both steeples will be repaired. The tower holding the larger steeple will be capped for the present, the church congregation to decide later whether a new steeple will be built.

Atop the city hall caretaker George Crocker was seen last evening as he completed giving the flagstaff its first coat of paint. Swinging in a bosn's chair 180 feet above the street Mr. Crocker nonchalantly wielded his paint brush. He will give the pole another coat of paint and then endeavor to re-align the pole which the constant pressure of prevailing winds has pushed three feet out of line to the northeast.

Maryland Racers Wear Falsies To Protect From Cuts

Baltimore, June 6 — (AP)—Maryland race horses are wearing falsies, too.

They're better than tennis balls, give more bounce.

The rubber sponge cups are taped on back of the foreleg fetlocks, the first protruding joints above the hooves, where some thoroughbreds bear down in galloping. The cups protect the horses from cuts and bruises on the heels.

Trainers used to cut tennis balls in half to fit them on such horses. But falsies give better protection, explained trainer C. W. Shaw, Jr., of Fallston, Md.

Don't make the horses look any better, though, he added.

Water Flowing From Unattached Pipe in Window

One of the bedrocks on which man has built his knowledge of the sciences is the simple, but irrefutable fact that water seeks its own level—it does not run up hill, and furthermore in seeking its own level it has to come from somewhere.

Well chum, if you are one of those whose bedrock foundations are built along these lines you had better get out of bed and start throwing away those rocks. It ain't true see!

The irrefutable evidence to the contrary is presently astounding misbelievers in the window of the Belleville Household Products store at 192 Front Street.

A tap, unattached to anything that remotely resembles a pipe, is suspended in midair by three wires. Just the tap, and the wires. And flowing from the tap is a never ending stream of water.

We do not know how much such a tap is worth, but it would undoubtedly prove a boon to desert rats, new householders, and thirsty travellers of all kinds. Just pack the magic tap in your handbag and your worries are solved. What the plumbing industry has to say about this no pipe—good water arrangement has not been recorded.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 6. (CP)—Traders slowed for breath as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today after handling a flood of accumulated weekend orders earlier in the day. Business was brisk at the opening following the three-day holiday weekend. Price trends pointed downwards.

Base Metals opened higher but sagged under mild selling pressure. The opening burst of buying following recent price increases in zinc and nickel carried the list to the highest average price levels in 13 years. Gains were quickly reduced and the list settled into a narrow rut.

Industrials encountered a solid wall of downward pressure following advances last week into new high price ground. Papers, leaders in recent upturns, paced the decline. Losses ranged up to a point. Utilities, steels, foods, agricultures, liquors and refining oils were also lower.

Western Oils were also pushed lower.

Low-priced gold stocks continued comparatively brisk traders. Changes were slight in most cases. Senior and Junior leaders weakened slightly.

PRODUCE PRICES

Toronto, June 6 —(CP)— Produce prices quoted on the spot market here this morning:

Churning cream: No. 1, truck price, 54 cents; delivered, 58 cents.

PRACTICE

The cmomunists were taught that so-called "capitalist" society eventually would collapse of its own weight and that, with the collapse, their opportunity would come. They now were trying to speed up the hoped-for collapse "by all kinds of insidious means."

Cannot Neglect Caution

One of those means was the Soviet communist fifth column which "unhappily exists in every country — including your country and mine." No free nations could afford to neglect any proper precaution to find the secret communist agents "who are in a position to do harm to the nation's security."

But the spreading of "alarming reports" about the prevalence of communist agents was bound to create "fear and suspicion in many honest minds" and "unwarranted" fear and suspicion could weaken the unity and strength of any community.

Selling Gale Flattens Stocks In N.Y. Market

New York, June 6 — (AP)— A morning selling gale flattened the stock market today.

Losses of $1 to $6 a share were scored before the plunging price line levelled off. Some issues managed to come back a trifle from the extreme lows.

The volume of business was so large that for a short while the high-speed ticker dropped behind in reporting transactions on the floor of the exchange. Toward noon trading slowed to a more normal rate.

Today's slump came on the heels of a wide drop Monday, the second sharpest decline of the year.

Financial quarters were inclined to regard the slide as at worst a long-awaited adjustment following a one-year rise. The 1949-50 bull market is one of the longest moves on record. It will be one year old next week.

General Motors stood out with a sizeable gain following news late Monday of a plan to split the stock on the basis of two shares for one. Up 2 3-4 points to 91 1-4 at one time, the highest price paid since 1929, the gain was later pared to less than two points.

Prominent among the losers were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Studebaker, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Schenley, Admiral Corp., Zenith Radio, American Telephone, Kennecott Copper, American Cyanamid, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (NJ), and U.S. Gypsum.

Canadian issues followed with Hiram Walker losing 3-4, McIntyre easing 1-2, Canadian Pacific dropping 1-4 and Distillers Seagrams falling 1-8. Dome Mines held unchanged.

On the curb, Royalite Oil lost 5-8.

Ontario Canteen Fund Reserve Now $643,000

Toronto, June 6. (CP)—The Ontario Canteen Fund, established from army canteen surpluses during the First World War, has a $643,000 reserve, Col. T. M. Medland, fund chairman, reported today.

He said that in the 10-month period ended March 31, $32,499 was spent in help for needy veterans and education grants to their dependents. However, because of interest earnings, net cost to the fund amounted to $14,696.

Administration costs had been cut to $325 a month, Col. Medland said. Formerly the amount was $825 a month.

The fund is administered by five trustees headed by Col. Medland.

Robin Imitates Whippoorwill

Limoges, Ont., June 6. (CP) A red-breasted robin has bird lovers in a tizzy in this Eastern Ontario village.

Jean de Bellefeuille of Limoges said today that the robin has been observed singing the lilting whistle of the whippoorwill instead of the cheery chirp common to the species.

At Ottawa, 22 miles northwest of here, federal wildlife authorities said such occurrances were rare, but not unknown.

"In almost any species of bird, there is an odd one known to have an exceptional song," said one wildlife official.

"Sometimes such songs have no resemblance to songs of any known types and sometimes they closely resemble the song of another species."

Mixed Emotions Greet South U.S. Courts Ruling Against Segregation of the Negroes

Atlanta, Ga., June 6. (AP) — Consternation, elation and outright defiance were the South's mixed reactions today to the latest rulings by the United States Supreme Court against segregation of Negroes.

The nine-man Supreme Court, before adjourning until October, ruled Monday that:

1. A Negro law student must be admitted to the All-white University of Texas. The high court held that separate law school facilities offered in Texas for Negroes are not equal.

2. Negro graduate students at the University of Oklahoma must not be made to sit apart from white students in classrooms.

3. Southern U.S. railroads must not segregate white and Negro passengers in dining cars.

None Bans Segregation

None of the decisions bans segregation, as such, in general; each ruling dealt with a specific case

In the Texas and Oklahoma cases, the court stuck by the old legal theory of "separate but equal". But the decisions caught the South with its "equal" facilities for Negroes down.

Not one Southern State supports a Negro medical school. Not one Southern Negro University can award a Ph.D. degree.

M. D. Collins, Georgia's public school superintendent, estimated it would take $100,000,000 to bring this State's Negro public schools to a par with the white schools.

Reaction depended on where the spokesman stood. For instance, Governor Herman Talmadge of Georgia, a champion of "white supremacy", was indignant.

"As long as I am governor, Negroes will not be admitted to white schools," he said.

Editor Jubilant

The managing editor of a Negro newspaper, the Atlanta World was jubilant. Editor W. A. Fowlkes said the court's edicts "certainly will be a means by which the South will join in the parade of democracy."

Dr. T. S. Painter, president of the University of Texas, said the Negro, Herman Marion Sweatt, will be admitted "if that is the order of the U.S. Supreme Court as interpreted by (State) Attorney-General Price Daniel." Daniel did not say what his interpretation would be.

Sweatt said he will enroll in the law school in September "without malice toward anybody." He has refused to attend a new law school set up by Texas for Negroes.

Dr. George L. Cross, president of the University of Oklahoma, said the ruling affecting his school "apparently knocks out all segregation in graduate schools at Oklahoma University", But he added he doesn't think it will mean a great influx of Negro students next Fall.

Victory for Negroes

In delivering the opinions on the two university issues Chief Justice Fred Vinson said differences in treatment by a state because of race are a violation of the U.S. constitution which guarantees equal protection of the laws to all American citizens.

In the Oklahoma case, Vinson ordered the University of Oklahoma to give different treatment to G. W. McLaurin, a Negro attending the university's graduate school. McLaurin has been required to sit in a classroom row set aside for Negroes. He is assigned a special table in the library. He has a special table in the cafeteria.

The three decisions were a victory for the Negroes who appealed the cases and for the Justice Department, which backed them up.

But the court did not go as far as they had asked. The justices refused their request that it strike down a 54-year-old legal doctrine that segregation is permissible under the U.S. constitution if Negroes are provided "separate but equal" facilities.

Three Expert Safecrackers Behind Bars

Galt, June 6 (CP)— Three Toronto men—William Armitage, Albert Hall, and Albert Jensen —said by police to be expert safecrackers are behind bars here today.

Fifty minutes after Galt police were notified of a break-in at the Valley View Creamery early this morning, the trio was arrested by Provincial Police near Burlington. They are charged with breaking, entering, safe cracking and theft at the creamery and theft of tools from a C.N.R. shed.

The door of the creamery safe had been pried off and between $300 and $500 taken. A nearby resident was awakened at 4 a.m. by hammering noises coming from the creamery and saw two men. He called police who informed neighboring police forces by radio.

Constable Jack Trotman of the Dundas Provincial Police, patrolling No. 6 Highway, spotted a car speeding towards Hamilton and took up the chase to the Queen Elizabeth Highway at a speed of 85 to 90 miles an hour.

In the meantime he radioed an appeal for help and a road block was set up outside Burlington and the Toronto trio captured at 4.55 a.m. Galt officers picked up the prisoners and brought them here.

Armitage had $53 on his person, Hall $29 and Jensen $112. Near Clappison's Corners police later found a shattered cigar box surrounded by $67 in silver and $103 in bills.

City Couple Observe Golden Anniversary

Hosts to a large number of friends and relatives who called to pay their respects and recipients of numerous congratulatory messages, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Lafferty, 161 Pinnacle Street, on Sunday, June 4, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Residents of Belleville for over half a century, Mr. and Mrs. Lafferty were both born in Rawdon township, but had come to Belleville to live prior to their marriage back in 1900. Mrs. Lafferty is the former Catherine Gallagher.

At Work Daily

Still hale and hearty despite the fact that both have passed their 80th birthday, Mr. Lafferty working each day as proprietor of his service station and garage and Mrs. Lafferty in their modest home. One attendant at the marriage 50 years ago, Mr. Thomas McAvoy, Bridge Street, was present at the golden anniversary. The other, formerly Sarah Lafferty, sister of the groom, and now Mrs. James Murphy, of Denver, Colorado. The couple were married in Belleville by the late Msgr. Farley. They are members of St. Michael's Church.

Operator of a livery stable in the city at the turn of the century, Mr. Lafferty followed along with the times and when the automobiles replaced the horse, converted his business into a garage and service station which he still operates. He has operated a garage for more than 25 years and has been dealer for McColl Frontenac for 20 years. In honor of his long service the company last fall presented him with a handsomely engraved gold watch.

Many Flowers Received

Tribute to the respect which the couple have in the community, the Lafferty home Sunday, was banked with numerous bouquets of roses and other flowers, presented by well-wishing friends.

The couple have two children, a son, James Lafferty, living in Los Angeles, California, and Miss Anna Lafferty, member of the local city hall staff.

Low-Hanging Cloud Silences CBL Twice

Toronto, June 6—(CP)— A low-down cloud Monday silenced radio station CBL—key station of the CBC's trans-Canada network — for two 90-minute periods.

Trouble lay at CBL's transmitter at Hornby, 25 miles west of Toronto.

Station engineers said a cloud, heavily charged with electricity, circled the top of the 650-foot high transmitter tower and damaged delicate transmitter instruments before it moved along.

Station CJBC, which transmits from the same tower, was not affected.

FILES SUIT AT 80

New York, June 6—(AP)—Mrs. Ella Halsey, 80, filed a suit Monday for legal separation from Charles W. Halsey, 75, after 57 years of marriage. She said her husband had a terrible temper and she couldn't stand it any longer.

Inquest May Shed Light on Report Of Sabotage

London, June 6 — (Reuters)— A scheduled inquest today at the Southwest naval base of Devonport may shed light on reports of sabotage to the Royal Navy's new aircraft carrier, Illustrious.

The inquest concerns a pilot whose plane crash-landed on the carrier a few days ago.

Naval intelligence officers and security police were reported to be investigating attempted sabotage to the 23,000-ton carrier. The Royal Navy refused to discuss the report.

But it was understood evidence at the inquiry may concern one allegation of sabotage.

The naval correspondent of the London Daily Express reported the whole company of the vessel had been screened and 160, mainly engine-room and stokehold workers, carefully questioned in a secret investigation.

This began after two magnesium signal flares were found a month ago hidden near the boiler when the Illustrious was carrying one of the most impressive gatherings of naval brass ever assembled aboard one ship, the newspaper added.

Viscount Hall, First Lord of the Admiralty, was among the distinguished guests on board when Illustrious sailed from her base at Devonport for the northwest port of Birkenhead May 4. She became a floating grandstand for 1,000 guests gathered to watch the launching in the Mersey River of Britain's latest aircraft carrier, Ark Royal.

Two Flares Found

But soon after leaving Devonport the two magnesium flares were found, the report added. Apparently it was intended that the heat of the boiler-room would detonate or ignite them so that these would act like small incendiary bombs.

The Illustrious is normally the navy's trials carrier, used for testing new planes and equipment.

When the reported investigation is completed, no statement is likely.

Eighteen months ago the Civil Lord of the Admiralty, Walter J. Edwards, told Parliament that sabotage was suspected on the aircraft carrier Sydney at Devonport. Seven steel bolts had been found in the gear box of the carrier just before she left on acceptance trials for the Royal Australian Navy.

A full investigation followed, but its results were kept secret.

Intended Victim Escapes From Gunman's Ambush

Fairfield, Ill., June 6 (AP) — Gunmen firing from ambush tried again Monday to take the life of "Little Earl" Shelton. But bullets apparently intended for him plowed into a companion, wounding him critically. The associate, Dellos Wylie, 35, was taken to hospital. He was shot three times in the back.

Wylie and Little Earl, 34, recently bought a building to be used as a garage.

The pair drove up to the building Monday afternoon and sat chatting. There was a sudden burst of gunfire and bullets tore into the car.

Earl ducked, shoved Wylie out of the vehicle and followed. They fled into the garage. A second fusillade ripped into the building.

Sheriff Elmer Brown said Wylie tried to make a run for it, probably to hide behind the building. He was cut down in his tracks.

Earl, who escaped injury gave the sheriff only meagre details of the attack. As in past shootings, he refused to speculate on who the gunmen might be or what their motive was.

The shooting marked another chapter in the bloody history of the Sheltons. Little Earl is a nephew of "Big Earl" Shelton, whose two brothers were shot and killed from ambush— Carl in October, 1947, and Bernie in July, 1948.

Big Earl, Carl and Bernie ruled the Southern Illinois underworld during the prohibition era. The gang savagely fought the law and rival gangs tried to muscle in on their territory.

MESSAGE FROM PAKISTAN

During the visit of the Prime Minister of Pakistan to Canada last week, he spoke to the joint meeting of the Senate and the Commons. The content of his address prompts the Montreal Gazette to remark, " Here in a paragraph we get the case for democracy, political and economic and the case as well for freedom, plus its by-product free enterprise under reasonable checks and balances; get it without empty rhetoric, without the cliches and repetitions which mar so much of our own public speaking.

"Nor could much be finer, more appropriate or in better taste, than the Prime Minister's conclusion:

" 'I am sure that we can look forward to a long period of friendship between our two countries and that in any joint moral undertaking to promote the welfare between our two countries and that in any joint moral undertaking to promote the welfare of mankind and goodwill and peace among nations, Pakistan and Canada will be more than friends. God bless your country and its people.' "

A GREAT NAME IN MUSIC

Edward Johnson, a name in the music world of which Canadians have been proud, has retired after 27 years as general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Association of New York. A native of Guelph, Ontario, Mr. Johnson early found his way to the highest position in the operatic world. After becoming a soloist in a church in New York, he went into operetta, travelled to Florence, Italy, and studied opera there, making his debut under the name of Eduardo di Giovanni, Italian equivalent for his name. He was chosen by Toscanini for the title role in "Parsifal" in the first Italian presentation of the opera. For years he was a star, singing in the famed La Scala Opera House. Then he came to the Metropolitan in New York where his reputation continued to grow. He became manager of the "Met" from which office he has just now retired.

Canadians have always felt the debt they owe to Mr. Johnson for the fame he brought his native country by his success in grand opera and by the success which he has achieved as manager of the famed Metropolitan, which has brought so many world artists to the front.

LAND RECLAMATION

Much has been said in these days of the heavy cost of rosion of the soil in rich areas. In England nature has hown that she can protect fertile lands which have been laimed by the floods.

In a report by L. F. Easterbrook issued by the United ingdom Information Office, the history of this eastern ide of England near the coast is told. Here is a fascinating tretch of country — the Fens — formed over many cenuries by silt deposit which gradually builds up until it is overed only at high tide. Then men have come and relaimed the silt, thrusting back the sea with dykes and alls.

What has taken place in the past is still continuing. and is still being won back in that area. In 1948 a group of rmers reclaimed 3,000 acres on the shores of a large inentation in the coast, known as the Wash. They employed ontractors to build two sea walls, each six miles long and rojecting ten feet above the water level. The land inside hat wall will be grassed over and become firm, high qualy farming land.

The Fen District, covering 750,000 acres, was relaimed 300 years ago by the fourth Duke of Bedford, who ined with other land owners to form a "company of adnturers" for this purpose. It is a tribute to his work that stands to this day and has won for Britain some of the ost fertile soil she possesses. The land owners employed Dutch engineer Cornelius Vermuyden, who cut drains carry away the surface rainfall which poured down on e Fens, and led it away to the rivers or the sea so as not add to the wetness of the marshes. He widened and raightened existing rivers and cut new watercourses hich were rivers in themselves. Since then banks have een added to contain water which flowed from existing ykes or river banks in time of floods. These narrow banks strain the floods from rising over the dead flat countryde and in flood time they become like great reservoirs.

Vermuyden's work has withstood three centuries of inds and floods.

Britons are now preparing the greatest Fens scheme make them safe. Two rivers are to be cut to carry flood ater from the high lands harmlessly to the Wash and ere discharge it into the sea. It will cost over $18,000,000.

The State will pay all but $1,800,000 of the total cost r this rich land is a natural investment that effects a llar saving and grows more food to the acre than any her in Britain. The remainder of the money will be paid those living in Fenland. Already some Fenland farmers e paying as much as $6.16 an acre for the insurance ainst floods they possess.

A seeing-eye dog led its blind master from the scene of armed robbery at a branch bank in Montreal. This dog owed more intelligence than the morbidly, curious huans who risked getting shot, remarks Hamilton Spectar.

A WORD FOR DOGMA

It is an astonishing fact that all varieties of religion and all economic systems which adhere to strict dogma are growing today by leaps and bounds. The idea that people do not like strict doctrine is not borne out by facts. The systems which makes the greatest demands upon their adherents are the systems which make the greatest impression on their age.

For proof look at Nazism and Facism which, until they were conquered by the democracies, had the people of central and southern Europe delirious with enthusiasm. Communism is built on an alleged fanatical teacher, Karl Marx, and the party line is as strict as the strictest religious dogma. Among different branches of the Christian Church, those emphasizing dogma are in healthy condition, and most of them are increasing their membership.

The church or the political party of the economic system which makes no demands, is fuzzy in its thought, and is broadly "liberal" in it attitude toward what it is pleased to call new adventures in thinking, really never gets anywhere. People consign such institutions and movements rather quickly to the ash can.

There are evil dogmatists and beneficent dogmatists. Dogma has its weaknesses, but it also has a capacity for power which nondogmatic institutions and systems of thought seem always to lack.

Japan Decides To Outlaw Reds

Tokyo, June 6 (AP) — Japan's government has decided to outlaw the communist party, Attorney-General Ueda told Kyodo news agency Monday.

The report followed a warning by Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida Sunday that the action would be taken if there were further red acts of violence.

Yoshida referred to an attack on five United States soldiers at a communist rally last week.

Ueda said present laws are "inadequate" for dealing with the communists.

"The basic policy of the government to outlaw the communist party already has been decided on," Kyodo quoted him.

Yoshida in his statement described the attack on U. S. soldiers at a "politically - organized plot by the communist party . . . aimed at causing unrest and panic in Japan and eventually deterring a peace settlement."

Gen. MacArthur, the occupation commander, twice has suggested that Japan outlaw the communists. Yoshida met with MacArthur for an hour Thursday.

MacKenzie's Column
Communism Loses Ground in Nearly All Countries

By CLARKE BEACH

(Associated Press News Analyst)
(For Dewitt Mackenzie)

The results of the Belgian and Japanese elections bore out this fact:

Communism has been losing ground in nearly all countries where free elections have been held since April, 1948.

The Japanese Communists lost two of their three seats in the House of Councillors. The Belgian Communists lost six of their 12 seats in the House of Representatives.

In the Belgian elections in 1946 the Communists won 23 seats in the House. Two bad years followed while the non-Communist world watched Communism grow throughout Europe. They came close to winning control of France. And in April 1948 they seemed on the verge of sweeping political victory in Italy as the elections approached.

Some diplomatic officials here confess that they had almost lost hope that the Reds could be prevented from taking over Italy and France. What might have happened after that, they shudder to think.

But the Italian electorate in that year gave a thumping victory to the anti-communist Christian Democrats. The extent of their victory exceeded all expectations. For Italy then had, and still maintains, the largest communist party in Europe outside the U.S.S.R.

In Italy, elections have been held in 522 communes since 1948, and the communists have lost 85 of those they previously controlled.

Lost All Seats

In Norwegian elections last October the communists lost all of their 11 seats in Parliament. In Sweden the Communists won 18 seats in Parliament in 1944; then lost seven of them in the elections of 1948.

In The Netherlands, the communists won 10 seats in the Lower House in 1946, and the electorate cut this to eight seats in 1948. In Britain's recent elections the two Communist members of the House of Commons and five members who were generally regarded as fellow-travellers all lost their seats.

In nearly all the democratic countries, the communists have been fast losing control of labor unions they once dominated.

Officials here give most of the credit for the weakening of communism in Europe to the Recovery Program and to the Atlantic pact, which gave promise of new security against Soviet attack.

The trend against communism had started, however, in some countries even before the Marshall Plan was launched. Hordes of Red followers were dis-illusioned when Soviet Russia revealed her aggressive and Imperialistic aims after the war.

Chilly Reception Given Proposal To Form Force

Frankfurt, Germany, June 6 (AP)—High Allied officials are giving a chilly reception to west-German government proposals to form a federal police force.

The Germans have just tossed a politically embarrassing issue into the laps of the Allied High Commissioners by asking for 25,000 police answerable only to the Federal Government at Bonn.

Allied officials said they are fearful of the reaction in Britain, France and the United States if they give in to the German request. The French, particularly, fear a centralized police force would be converted into a new German army.

However, there has been no final decision on the request by West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

A decision probably will be made within a month by the Allied High Commissioners. Officials here call the issue one of the most explosive to face the Allies since the German occupation began five years ago.

The autocratic central police system of the Hitler regime has been broken down by the Allies since 1945. In its place, each of the West German states now has its own separate police. These now total about 100,000 men armed with light weapons.

Now Adenauer has told the Allies that the state police are inadequate. He says he needs federal police for "prestige and security reasons."

While the West German police have been broken down into separate state groups, Russia has molded a Nazi-type police system independent of state control in East Germany. This force is directly under the thumb of the communist interior ministry. Its objective is not maintenance of law but maintenance of the communist government.

Second Imperial Press Conference To Open June 8

Quebec, June 6 (CP)— From around the world, 64 delegates to the second Imperial Press Conference to be held in Canada are travelling toward Quebec and the conference opening, June 8.

Members of the Empire Press Union, they came from the United Kingdom, the Commonwealth countries and the colonies to join with Canadian publishers in the seventh of a series of unique meetings started 43 years ago.

On the Empress of Scotland arriving at Quebec today is a contingent of 36, including representatives from the United Kingdom, India, Singapore and Gibraltar, and Sir Keith Murdoch and W. H. Flather, respective heads of the Australian and New Zealand delegations.

Meanwhile the main Australian and New Zealand delegates are converging on Quebec from the west after landing in Vancouver. Col. J. J. Astor, principal proprietor of The Times of London and president of the union, came to Canada earlier to accept an honorary degree from McGill.

Delegates will also be here from South Africa, Pakistan, Malta, Ceylon, Singapore, the Fiji Islands, the Bahamas, Bermuda and the West Indies.

For three weeks they will travel Ontario and Quebec, hold business sessions in Quebec and Ottawa, meet political and industrial leaders at a series of social functions, visit industries and holiday in Ontario's Muskoka.

High on the agenda of the Ottawa meetings June 14-17 is a two-day session on "Freedom of the Press" when members will discuss means of protecting the right to impart information and opinion without restriction.

All Meetings Open

All business meetings will be open ones, except those dealing with administration of the union.

At its last conference in London in 1946 the union reaffirmed the fundamental principle that "freedom of thought and expression is the right of all the peoples of the British Commonwealth and Empire."

It held that the first duty of the press "is to lay before the people a prompt, accurate and full record of passing events throughout the world, and for the performance of this duty the conference claims for the press the freest access to all materials and means of production, in order that newspapers may freely compete in the varied and copious presentations of news."

Aimed at integrating the widely separated Empire by linking the whole British Press in a continuous friendly co-operation, the union was founded in 1907.

Senator W. Rupert Davies, publisher of the Kingston Whig-Standard, is chairman of the Canadian section of the Empire Press Union, host to the visiting delegates. Victor Sifton, publisher of the Winnipeg Free Press, is vice-chairman of the section and chairman of the National Committee in charge of arrangements.

Twenty-seven of the 63 delegates are bringing their wives to Canada. The 64th delegate is a woman—Hon. Mabel Strickland, editor of the Times of Malta.

Four Kittens Badly in Need Of Mother Cat

This newspaper is not in the habit of sending out an SOS for wayward mothers but we are doing it now.

Four small kittens, just six days old, are presently trying to overcome malnutrition with the aid of a doll's bottle all because the mother has not appeared since last Sunday.

The mother is a black and tan Persian cat, with long hair, clipped at the neck and was last seen around the corner of John and Bridge Street, Sunday morning at 10.00 a.m., when it was following the children of the house to Sunday school.

The mewing kittens, which haven't opened their eyes yet, are desperate. What condition the mother cat is in one can only conjecture.

If you happen to have a regular maniac of a female cat about the house that suddenly began to make its presence felt last Sunday, call 2190-R or take it around to 116 South George Street, where four kittens need her more than you do.

My husband was crippled with aching hands and knees and sometimes back. Could not hold a cup in the morning. I read your pamphlet Calcium and Rheumatiz. He began ten weeks course of calcium and vitamin D as suggested in your pamphlet. In about four weeks he was so much better—all his aches and pains disappeared so gradually we could hardly realize ... he is now as chipper as any forty years old man, although he is 72. You will never know the happiness your teachings have brought into our home...(Mrs. R. K.)

All I know is that the calcium and vitamin D can do no harm in any case. But who knows whether old C. O. Incidence accounts for the relief that occurred in this case?

Any reader who asks for it in writing and provides self-addressed stamped envelope may have the pamphlet Calcium and Rheumatiz.

Bear in mind, folks, I'm no specialist or authority, but it is my belief that most of the chronic rheumatiz people have today is the manifestation of physical degeneration, and as soon as I define physical degeneration again I'll tell you more.

Webster says degeneration is "deterioration of a tissue or an organ in which its vitality is diminished; a substitution of a lower for a higher form of structure, either by chemical change of the tissue or the deposit of abnormal matter in the tissue." Shedman's medical dictionary says degeneration is "a retrogressive pathological change in cells or tissues in consequence of which the functioning power is lost and the living substance becomes converted into an inert mass."

I hope these definitions convey some idea of the meaning of physical degeneration. It happens to everybody sooner or later —every one begins to degenerate, begins to die, the instant he or she reaches the peak of growth and development. Some begin to die at thirty or thirty-five, othes not until forty or forty-five. It is the way of all life.

From what little I can learn about chonic arthritis or rheumatiz the condition is not arthritis—joint inflammation—implies) but a process of physical degeneration of bone, cartilage and other tissues of the joints. The physical degeneration is in no way due to cold, dampness, climate, weather, acid in the system or other exrinsic cause, in my opinion. I believe the chief cause of chronic rheumatiz is prolonged nutritional deficiency, especially insufficient daily intake of calcium, phosphorus and vitamin D.

The chief cause, I say. In many cases it seems likely enough that other nutsitional deficiencies through the years contribute to the trouble or hasten the process of degeneration, notably insufficient daily intake of the vitamins thiamine (B1) and riboflavin (B2) and the alterative iodine. Therefore these essentials as well as calcium, phosphorus and vitamin D are included in the formula for a supplement to the diet (not medicine) which I recommend for American children, youths, young, middle aged and elderly adults in the pamphlet Young Folks and Old Folks, available on written request accompanied with stamped self-addressed envelope. If you ask for both pamphlets inclose ten cents.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE VALUE OF IGNORANCE

We grow wise as we realize how ignorant we are. It was Socrates, noted for his wisdom, who confessed at the age of seventy that he still knew nothing. All of us have to live long in order to come to the conclusion that we know next to nothing.

But there is a great value to ignorance and it is this—by being ignorant we are in line to experience the joy of discovery! The highest value attached to a public school, or college education, is that when you have finished either you learn how little of life you really know.

A friends of mine once asked me whether the horns of a cow appeared above or below the cow's ears. Well, he had me there. I worked, as a boy, upon the farm, milked many a cow, drove them to pasture, and fed them, but I had to make a guess. Fortunately I was right. Where are they located? Many a city dweller has never seen a cow!

Ignorance is always a prod— always challenging us to learn and to know more. We are all ignorant to a greater or lesser degree. But every day of our lives we can blot a little of it out permanently. There is something we can learn from every human being whom we meet, or contact. Books feed our mind, but observation teaches us most. It is through observation and experiment that people write books.

The more we know the better is our understanding, as we read and observe. Traveling does away with much ignorance. It is this power of ignorance that spurs us to travel. John Burroughs, the naturalist, built a cabin in the woods that he might learn at first hand all about the birds and animals in that location. One thing he learned was that birds expressed themselves in three calls: one for alarm, one for love, and one of friendship.

It adds to our enjoyment of birds to know the names and habits, and calls of those nearest us. Their songs then sound sweeter to us! Ignorance puts us on our mettle, touches our pride, and makes us want to get rid of as much of it as we can.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

There may be, in fact, there probably is amongst us now in the English-speaking world some young poet in his twenties whose poems will be taught, a hundred years from now, as reverently in the schools as William Wordsworth's poems are taught to our children today.

Wordsworth died a hundred years ago last April 23. Little if any mention was made of the centenary last month in the literary pages. But there should have been; not merely for the encouragement of young poets, but to remind us, the slow-poke public, that what we snort and scoff at today becomes, in time, the lovely classics of our grandchildren.

Wordsworth, at the age of 20, in 1791, went on a walking tour to France to round off his Cambridge education He landed fair into the middle of the French Revolution. He remained a year there, and his experiences had a profound effect on his genius. In 1798, when he was 28, he published, with Coleridge, the famous "Lyrical Ballads", which marked a revival and a historic turning point in English literature. These poems were so revolutionary that the critics snorted more violently than any of us snort today at some of the advanced work being turned out by our 28-year-old literati. Among the poems in that small book were "Lines written above Tintern Abbey", which every high school student today studies with veneration. But the public reaction to "Lyrical Ballads" was scornful. Wordsworth was suspected of being a revolutionary.

He became of course, a tame old man, his genius failed, he became poet laureate, and died anything but a revolutionary.

But for a glorious ten years of his young manhood, he gave to our literature and our intellectual life treasures that can hardly be measured.

Revolutionary times, like the present, have their merit apart from politics, although it takes us a little time to appreciate it.

Students, Grads, Parents, Teachers And Friends Gather at Albert For 93rd Convocation Ceremony

Clear bright skies smiled down on a hum of activity as students, grads, their parents, teachers and friends gathered at Albert College for the ninety-third observance of Convocation. The brilliant green of the lawns, the ivied walls, the flag flying in June breeze of Monday afternoon, the gay flowers all made a picture that would be memorable to the visitors and students alike.

As the procession wended its way into the chapel led by the graduating class the strains of the March from Oratorial of Eli played by Mary Bullock on the organ added to the impressiveness of the service. The girls looked charming in their long white dresses, fashioned alike, and carrying nosegays of sweet peas and lily-of-the-valley. The invocation was given by Rev. George Purchase, B.A.

Principal Expresses Thanks

In his report, Dr. Bert Howard, Principal of the school, expressed his thanks and deep appreciation to a number of people who had helped to bring to fruition the year's work. It was a great joy to the staff and Board of Governors to have the parents show their interest by being present at Convocation. He offered congratulations to the members of the maintenance staff, and to the faculty without whose loyalty and co-operation it would be difficult to carry out the school plans. It was a delight to work with a group so co-operative. He thanked the Board of Governors for their interest and support and for giving their talent and means to carry on the work through the years. Dr. Howard spoke of his appreciation of the students' council who were patient with decisions and suggestions; to the staff of the 'Alibi'; and to those associated with the Baccalaureate service at Bridge Street Church. The guest speakers were exceedingly busy men who came without any persuasion to speak at the services; to Dr. Howse and to Dr. Flemmington, the principal voiced his gratitude.

Two Musical Numbers

Two musical numbers added to the enjoyment of the occasion. The choir, under the direction of Mr. J. MacKay sang "The Desert Song" and "Passing By"; and Ulises Espaillat, who possesses a fine voice sang "Panis Angelicus."

On behalf of the graduating class President Gerald Paul presented Dr. Howard with a contribution for the purchase of a lectern to be used in the chapel, explaining that the chapel had been the heart of their school life.

Patricia Brewer was chosen Valedictorian for the graduates and feelingly expressed the thoughts of her classmates on their graduation day. When we first arrived," she said, "our anticipation was mixed with bewilderment. We were on the threshold of a new life, but we soon found security in new friends. We became adjusted to new conditions and new rules, and we now have happy memories of everyday living. Today marks a milestone, and we know happiness as well as sadness; we smile but the tears are not far away. We have made new friends whom we will always remember. We hope some good and useful citizens are going out from Albert; and we hope that this class will be a credit to the school as have the classes that preceded us. You will have our prayers for the continued success of Albert."

N.B. Principal Speaker

Rev. W. T. Ross Flemmington, M.A., O.B.E., LL.D., Principal of Mount Allison University in New Brunswick was the guest speaker and was introduced by Dr. Bert Howard. The speaker said that he admired the beauty of the grounds at Albert College and felt that they were indicative of the growth and development within the school. He felt that this college had a common foundation with his own school at Mount Allison since they were both church foundations.

Quoting Dr. Howse, the speaker said that education is not enough, but dedication of that education is needed.

"What is education?" asked Dr. Flemmington, and proceeded to quote the definition of John Bassett, a newspaper man "The function of education is to safeguard all that is finest in our inheritance; to inculcate in youth a nobility of character and creativeness of spirit; and to fight evil wherever you find it."

Dr. Flemmington spoke of attending a meeting in England of the Merchant Venturers, a group, that has brought its experiences through the centuries from the time of John Cabot. The president of this group told the audience that he hoped they were giving the young people of the British Commonwealth something else besides knowledge.

Must Be Free

"In Hitler's day thousands of books were burned on the campus of Berlin University but onlookers would sometimes see a Storm trooper hurrying around a corner with a few books he had salvaged. Even then there were those who realized that it takes a free people to read books, and that we must be free to search for truth."

The speaker emphasized the influence of the chapel, the centre of Albert College. He drew their attention to the cornerstone at the door of the chapel, which was dedicated to the Christian religion and to Christ. "As you go out into life and take up occupations your mind will come back to the chapel. You must have a dedicated intelligence. Some people are greatly worried because a youth going into one of the professions or businesses asks what the salary is, what hours he will have to work and what are the pensions. He is going to be a failure if that is all he is interested in.

"Canada needs young people dedicated to the Christian religion more than ever today. We have a country of tremendous possibilities, so large it dwarfs the smallness and meanness of man; a country of free schools and freedom of churches; it is the land of our dreams and the hope of our tomorrows."

In closing Dr. Flemmington quoted Tennyson's lines "Follow the gleam."

Presentation of diplomas for the graduates of the Business and Commerce department were made by Mr. J. Hayman to Eugene Broad, Barbara Dick, Joan Liddle, and Jean MacPhail; and secretarial diplomas by Miss Irene Loftus to John Birney, Edgar Caldwell, Fraser James, Minnie Meijer, Alberto Williamson and Margaret Winter.

Benefits Worth More Than Cost Of Operating New Hospital B.G.H. Supt. Tells Rotarians

Trenton (Special) The amount of money required to complete the new Memorial Hospital is "minimal" compared with the benefits that will be reaped by the community, H. W. Wakefield, superintendent of Belleville General Hospital told Trenton Rotarians Monday evening.

"If the people of Trenton have not enough confidence that the men and women who came back from the war and their children will be able to retire this debenture in 20 years, then they do not want anything and should stop using electricity and start carrying their water from the river," said Mr. Wakefield.

Mr. Wakefield went on to say that one of the pitfalls in connection with hospital financing was the attitude that the government should provide the funds rather than the local taxpayer when in reality the government is already reaching into the citizen's pockets both directly and indirectly.

Confidence Built Canada

"This country wasn't built on a basis of government handouts, but by people who had enough confidence in the future to borrow money and finish a job, so that something worthwhile could be accomplished It is ridiculous to think that all capital costs should be placed on the line at once," stated the speaker.

Turning to the way in which hospitals help industry, Mr. Wakefield pointed out that "the biggest factors in industrial and human relations are working conditions, health and medical services and hospitalization. In recent years, medical and scientific research have sharply reduced the length of stay in hospitals. People are back on the production line in one quarter the time it took 40 years ago. Since these improvements, production has gone steadily forward."

In tracing the development of hospitals up to the present time, the speaker said that at first they were leper colonies and he cited the first hospital as an example, St. Bartholomew's in England, where Mr. Wakefield began his hospital career. Great strides in hospitalization have been made in recent years.

"It is only comparatively recently that people have received decent treatment," the speaker continued. "Today hospitals are where people go to get well not where they go to die."

Can be Enlarged

Complimenting Trenton on the choice of location and design for their new hospital, Mr. Wakefield stressed the fact that the architecture lends itself admirably to enlargement. This V-shaped structure can easily be added to and become a Y and then a few years later as the population expands be further enlarged to an X. This hospital can be enlarged in the same manner as adding spokes to a wheel with the central control remaining at the hub."

Mr. Wakefield said that he had seen nothing better in the way of interior hospital design. "The terrazza flooring being both durable, easy to keep clean and labor saving. The rotunda designing is unique. I have never seen anything like it. It is truly a work of beauty.

"The explosion proof operating room is really something. The floor is the first that I have seen that measures up to legal standards. Each six inch square of terrazza is divided by a grounded metal strip, thus eliminating the danger of an anaesthetic explosion."

Means More Hospital Beds

Mr. Wakefield added, that the new hospital would be serving a population of 10,000 in Trenton and not less than this number in the surrounding territory. The provincial government places the number of hospital beds that should be available per 1,000 population at 6.2. Belleville has two per 1,000. Trenton with slightly over 70 will have seven per thousand but taking the rural vicinity into consideration, there will only be about 3.5 beds available for each 1,000 population. This is still not up to the shooting mark of the provincial government."

Mayor Urges Yes Vote

In thanking the speaker His Worship Mayor Ken Couch referred to the by-law referendum which will be held on Monday, June 12 and said, "Next Monday we in Trenton are either going to mark our ballots in favor of completing this fine institution or relegate it to the role of silent spokesman, reminding us of our inability to present a united front behind the only community project that I know of that Trenton has participated in during the last quarter century." Mr. Wakefield was introduced by W. H Ireland, chairman of the hospital board.

1,500-Mile Survey Will be Made Of Gulf Stream

Ottawa, June 6 (CP) —Seven Canadian and United States ships will make a 1,500-mile survey of the Gulf Stream this month in an attempt to unravel some of the mysteries of the wide, warm current that flows out of the Gulf of Mexico.

The ships will be manned by 350 men, including 50 civilian-scientists.

In a joint announcement Monday night Canadian Naval headquarters here and the hydrographic office of the U. S. Navy in Washington said the survey will cover some 1,500 miles of ocean in a three-week period.

Due to start today, the survey is code-named Operation Cabot after John Cabot who first encountered the gulf stream in 1497. It will be a co-operative effort involving some of North America's best oceanographic scientists.

Main purpose of the survey will be to discover why, in recent years, the Gulf Stream has been found to meander widely between Cape Hatteras and the tail of the Grand Banks.

Variations in the stream may move north or south at the rate of up to two miles a day. Large eddies are formed, moving north or south of the stream and the whole complex pattern changes from week to week.

The ships will first sail at spaced intervals in a general easterly direction along the Gulf Stream and obtain data on the location and speed of the stream. Later five ships will each sail north and south along a given longitude, stopping every two hours to obtain temperature and salinite observations down to a depth of 6,000 feet.

Mr. Wright, who is the only living son of the late Alexander Wright, and Mrs. Wright, (nee Charlotte Ann McCoy), was born near Queensboro, later moving to the vicinity of Tweed, where he was engaged in cheese making. On May 3, 1905, he married Miss Clara Amelia Parks, daughter of the late Albert Parks, who resided one mile south of Poucher's Mills, now known as Plainfield. The Rev. W. Butler officiated and according to Mr. Wright, that auspicious day dawned clear and bright with a gay crowd, who gathered at the bride's home for the occasion and wedding dinner.

The evening was spent in a family reunion with a singsong led by Mrs. J. H. Foster, Mrs. Wright's only sister.

Shortly after their marriage, they took over the store at Poucher's Mills, operating it for some time. Then later, they purchased the Knox farm where the Golf Course and Country Club now is. Since then, they have continued to farm, mostly in Sidney Township where, a few years ago, they purchased a 50-acre farm on the 4th concession, not far from the Stone Church.

CANNIFTON W.M.S.

Cannifton.—The June meeting of Cannifton W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Douglas Brenton with a good attendance. Owing to the illness of the president, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. D. Brenton, 1st vice president, was in charge. The theme was, "Celebrating the 25th anniversary in the Auxiliary." Mrs. A. Boyd presided at the piano.

A solo "How Lovely are Thy Dwellings", was effectively rendered by Miss Evelyn Madden.

Mrs. F. W. Madden gave the history of the years 1925-1930. There were 300,000 women and children from the Atlantic to the Pacific who composed the membership of the United Church. Seventy thousand women were reading the Missionary Monthly, and keeping abreast of developments. Japan gave the W.M.S. the first scholarship. The student, Miss Cho Ide, who, after graduating from the training school in Toronto, returned to her own people as a Christian teacher.

Mr. Bird told of the years from 1930-35 how new organizations had sprung up and the older ones had increased in membership and givings until 1929 when the drought in Western provinces and the general depression from which the whole Dominion and Newfoundland suffered. This affected the work seriously, causing decreases in organizations, membership and givings.

Great Gatherings

Mrs. Empson told of the work during the years 1935-40, stating that in spite of difficult times, sectional meetings and schools for leaders increased, with 180 home missionaries serving from Newfoundland to Vancouver Island, who had reported enthusiastically on their work. In 1938 came the great gathering the International Missionary Council at Madras. Here, Christians of 64 different countries, speaking 115 different languages, came together for 17 days of study and fellowship.

Mrs. G. Brenton told of the work from 1940-45 which time was critical, and yet thrilling when not one department escaped the impact of war. The stories of the difficulties and hazards faced by the missionaries in wartime travel is an exciting one, but because of their self-sacrificing service, their courage and devotion, the work went forward.

The work of the years 1945-50 was given by Mrs. Madden. These were momentous days from the close of the war to the 25th anniversary of union. From part workers to individual members all have shared in welcoming English war-brides, and new comers from Europe. Hearty response to overseas relief for Europe and Asia has featured the supply work.

Guest Speaker

The guest speaker, Mrs. S. Spafford, who, said Mrs. G. Brenton, needed no introduction. Mrs. Spafford spoke of the work of the three uniting churches, whose unity gives strength. She also gave some interesting thoughts on the "25 years of thrilling adventure, growing with the years, and the glorious fellowship enjoyed by the W.M.S. Their sincere desire to make Christ known is the golden thread running through the years.

She said there were still opportunities for advance, and to build up a greater fellowship with God, by prayer, larger givings, and more devoted study.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Spafford, and to all who helped with the program.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Brenton, and her group served refreshments, and all enjoyed a social time together.

This affected the work seriously, causing decreases in organizations, membership and givings.

Great Gatherings

Mrs. Empson told of the work during the years 1935-40, stating that in spite of difficult times, sectional meetings and schools for leaders increased, with 180 home missionaries serving from Newfoundland to Vancouver Island, who had reported enthusiastically on their work. In 1938 came the great gathering the International Missionary Council at Madras. Here, Christians of 64 different countries, speaking 115 different languages, came together for 17 days of study and fellowship.

Mrs. G. Brenton told of the work from 1940-45 which time was critical, and yet thrilling when not one department escaped the impact of war. The stories of the difficulties and hazards faced by the missionaries in wartime travel is an exciting one, but because of their self-sacrificing service, their courage and devotion, the work went forward.

The work of the years 1945-50 was given by Mrs. Madden. These were momentous days from the close of the war to the 25th anniversary of union. From part workers to individual members all have shared in welcoming English war-brides, and new comers from Europe. Hearty response to overseas relief for Europe and Asia has featured the supply work.

Guest Speaker

The guest speaker, Mrs. S. Spafford, who, said Mrs. G. Brenton, needed no introduction. Mrs. Spafford spoke of the work of the three uniting churches, whose unity gives strength. She also gave some interesting thoughts on the 25 years of thrilling adventure, growing with the years, and the glorious fellowship enjoyed by the W.M.S. Their sincere desire to make Christ known is the golden thread running through the years.

She said there were still opportunities for advance, and to build up a greater fellowship with God, by prayer, larger givings, and more devoted study.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Spafford, and to all who helped with the program.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Brenton, and her group served refreshments, and all enjoyed a social time together.

BRIDGE STREET W.M.S.

The June meeting of Bridge Street United Church W.M.S. was held on Friday, June 2, in the ladies' parlors. The president, Mrs. Houston presided for the opening exercises and business part.

The anniversary program was under the leadership of Mrs. Meyers and Mrs. Mitchell with Mrs. Meyers presiding. Miss Brown took the devotional.

Mrs. Houston sang "The Lord's Prayer". This solo was beautifully rendered and much enjoyed by all present. A review of the work of the W.M.S. as a whole from 1925-50 was given by the following members of this group: Miss Anderson, Mrs. Broad, Mrs. Farnsworth, Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Larue, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Rowbotham, Miss Campbell, and Mrs. Fanning.

A violin solo was played by Mrs. Fanning with Mrs. Bird at the piano. Mrs. Showler, leader of the C.G.I.T. group, presented a class of girls for affiliation with the W.M.S. She was assisted in the candlelight service by Mrs. Houston, Mrs. Hyde and Miss Morden.

Wants his girl to go to church with him

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going with a girl for the past 2 1-2 years. She does not belong to any church and she has given me the impression that she would like to join mine.

I am undecided as to whether I should talk to her about this myself or let one of her girl friends talk it over with her. We have discussed religion together but only in a general way. I want to help her all I can because she has told me that her parents very seldom discuss religion with her.

Because of the way I was brought up, I go to church every Sunday, and I think she would enjoy going with me sometimes. What should I do?

A. R.

Dear A. R.:

If this girl has no church affiliation already, there is no reason why you should not ask her if she would like to go with you to your church now and then.

It would be wiser, though, I think, for her first to ask her parents if they are willing to have her do this. If they have no strong feelings about church going, they will probably be glad to give her permission. If, on the other hand, they have been brought up in some faith other than the one to which you belong, they might prefer that their daughter attend a church of their choice and you would not want them to feel that you were trying to influence her in any other direction.

Without any settled convictions and preferences on the parents' part, however, you can with perfect propriety invite the girl to accompany you any time you wish to do so and think that she would enjoy it.

Thinks it's time her young man proposed

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 20 years old and have been going with a young man 24 for three years. I am very much in love with him, and he acts as though he likes me although he has never told me that he loved me. He works at a distance and doesn't get home very often, but when he does he always comes to see me.

Since he has been away I have been dating another man who has been married. He has told me that he is very fond of me, and I also like him a lot, but I am undecided about what to do. Should I keep on going with this man, or just wait and keep hoping that the other one will soon tell me that he loves me and wants to marry me?

U.

Dear U.:

I should think what you do would depend partly on how much you like the first young man, and partly on whether this second one is all you think him to be. Are you quite sure, for instance, that he is not married at this time and just amusing himself with you, or, if he is now free, do you know whether or not the circumstances of what I assume was a divorce, indicate that he is a reliable person in whom you could justifiably have confidence? If you don't know any more about him than simply his statement that he was once married, I advise you to go slow in your friendship with him.

Of course, if the other young man eventually intends to ask you to marry him, it might hurry him up if he thought he might lose you to someone else if he doesn't make his own intentions clear. So it might not be a bad idea to let him know that you are going out with someone else, since there is no definite understanding between you. Don't make any unwise moves purely to test the man's reactions, however.

LEARNED HER LESSON

"Isn't it funny how things you learned at school suddenly come back? My washings always had a yellow tinge and then I remembered our chemistry teacher telling us that seven colours combine to make white, and one of them is blue. That is why there is no true white without blue. So of course, I use Reckitt's Blue now to keep my clothes white always—just a swish or two in the final rinse. Out of the blue comes the whitest wash."

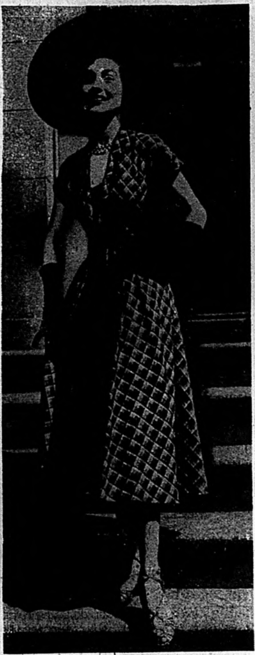
Fashions Sheer Coat



By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE word form Paris, not to mention the rest of the fashion world on this side of the pond, concerns the dress length coat which is sheer, and probably cotton, too. Here is one of a blocked cotton design of Hope Skillman's in a model cut by Adele Simpson. This coat is fitted, but many are floaters away fro mthe silhouette; and between you and me, it takes quite a dressmaker to achieve one that looms new, instead of like a duster or redingote revival, recreated in sheer rather than opaque standard stuff.

The cool frock beneath is dark cotton taffeta, and one need not wear a slip beneath it since this cotton is anything but sheer.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?

Patrick Henry not only objected to tyranny but to fresh vegetables also.

He attacked Thomas Jefferson because of the latter's taste for French cooking and delicate sauces. It was an age when the common man was supposed to have been content with hard cider, meat and potatoes. Such luxuries as fresh strawberries and asparagus were a sign of indolence.

Although asparagus is now a common spring vegetable obtainable in stores almost everywhere, its flavor is delicate and it seems to add a rich tone to any meal.

When you buy fresh asparagus, look for firm straight stalks that show no sign of wilt. The tips should be compact and there should be a minimum of the tough woody part at the base of the stalks.

A curried rice soup, sometimes called mulligatawney, can be made with asparagus as the principal ingredient.

Asparagus Mulligatawney Soup. Serves 4-6

Wash 1 pound fresh asparagus. Use a vegetable peeler to remove tough scales on sides of stalks. Cook until tender in boiling water to which 1-2 teaspoon salt has been added. Drain asparagus. Reserve liquid.

In a soup pot melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add 1-3 cup onions, 1-3 cup celery and 1-3 cup green peppers—all vegetables cut into 1-2 inch square pieces. Simmer slowly, until onions turn yellow.

Remove pot from flame. Add 3 tablespoons flour, and 1 teaspoon curry powder, mixing well.

Add liquid in which asparagus was cooked and enough water to make 6 cups. Return pot to flame. Bring to a boil. Add 4 bouillon cubes. Simmer slowly until vegetables are tender, about 1 hour.

Add 1 cup of rice which has been boiled 20 minutes in a separate saucepan. (1-4 cup of raw rice will equal 1 cup of cooked rice.)

Add asparagus cut into 1-2 inch pieces. Add 1 cup of milk. Bring to a boil. Add salt and pepper to taste. Remove any excess fat from surface of liquid. Serve.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

To marry a problem drinker is foolhardy

Sad as is the plight of the woman with an alcoholic husband, there is a situation of this kind that I find even more unhappy.

That is the unmarried girl who is in love with a problem drinker and believes she can reform him after marriage.

A young woman of 22 writes me that she plans to be married this year to a man of 35 who "drinks without any control". Because of this, and also, she says because he is 14 years older than herself, her parents are violently opposed to the wedding. She feels they are unreasonable, and that their objections are creating a completely unnecessary breach between them. She complains that they refuse to listen to her arguments in favor of the marriage, and insists that their entire attitude is foolish.

"This man has all the qualifications I want in a fellow," she declares. "Personality and a sense of humor are important to me and he has them. Do you blame me for loving him so much? Yet my parents don't understand this at all."

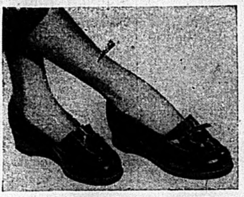
I doubt very much if this girl is likely to believe me, but the fact nevertheless remains, that the chances of this man's ceasing to drink "without any control" after marriage are about one in a million. She bases her optimism on this point on the experience of a friend, who, she says, had the same problem, and after she married the man, was able to persuade him to tone down his drinking. If she banks on having the same experience, however, I am afraid she is almost certain to be tragically disappointed. She does not say how old the second man was when he decided to curb his drinking. But I would be almost certain that he was considerably younger than 35. When a man is a problem drinker at such an age, it takes a great deal more than a wife's persuasion to get him to do anything about it. And the tragedy is that in most cases there is usually nothing at all that is strong enough to influence him.

I think this girl should first of all realize that heavy drinking is not something to be taken lightly. On the contrary, it is as serious a problem as any woman is likely to meet in marriage. If she will realize this, there is a bare possibility that she might be able to better the situation before marriage, in order to give any future with this man at least a fighting chance for happiness. For if he were convinced that she would not marry him as things stand, he might —provided of course that he cared enough—take steps at once to make himself acceptable to her. If he is unwilling to do this, then I think that should show her he is not the kind of man to whom her happiness can safely be entrusted.

If he wishes to stop drinking, there are people who will gladly help him. If he doesn't, but prefers instead to run the risk of ruining his own life and that of a wife, since this type of drinking is certain to get worse as times goes on, then this girl had better listen to her parents—and, if she will, to me—and, for her own sake, rule him out as a marriage prospect.

I quite agree he may have a great many admirable qualities. But not all of them together will keep her glad she has married him after she finds herself tied to an irresponsible alcoholic.

When You Shop for New Shoes



When you buy new shoes, take time to make a selection. Look for a combination of style and comfort, well-illustrated in these wedgies with soft leather soles.

By HELEN FOLLETT

YOUR good looks reporter has been told by an authority in the shoe industry that there are 166 different sizes from which the customer can choose. Amazing! It must include shoes for all ages, from babies to grandpapas. But don't ever say you can't find shoes that fit you. You just haven't found the obliging clerk who won't mind trotting out merchandise.

Don't make a selection in a hurry. Take your time. Put on both shoes, walk around the shop. New shoes don't need breaking in, that is, if they fit properly to start with. By the time shoes are broken in they will have lost their shape. And you will have lost your angelic disposition and tied your nervous system into knots.

Late Afternoon

If possible, do your shoe shopping in the late afternoon; feet have a tendency to spread after they have trotted all day long. Have both feet measured, since one may be somewhat larger than the other. Above everything else don't try to pack your poor feet into shoes that are too small. That practice will ruin posture. You will find yourself tormented with a flock of corns, calloused spot and ingrowing nails.

For practical everyday wear the oxford is ideal. It should be plenty long, wide enough to give your toes wiggling room, should have flexible leather soles to insure free and easy movement. You can wear high heels with your evening dry goods, but should not indulge in this style-display during the day.

A shoe wardrobe, rather than a steady day-in-and-day-out pair, is an economy measure in the long run, and benefits your feet. Also, shoes should be suited to the task you are engaged in.

If you have pedal troubles, seek professional attention. When your feet hurt you hurt all over and life is bitter. Don't take such troubles for granted. Hobbling through life is no fun and when you hobble you don't look pretty.

Fashion Flashes

IT'S EASY to wear sheers and strapless dress now that there are so many slips for this type of dressing. There is the dark skirted, white camisole top slip in nylon tricot, for one, and there is the nylon slip with strapless top, fashioned of hand-clipped Alencon lace with an elasticized top. Deep skirt border of the lace.

JUST THE THING to top a simple suit is a small mushroom-shaped hat of blue felt with bow and visor of white pique. It is poised forward over the forehead as are so many of the new hats.

A LATE COMER to the fashion scene that is winning much success is the coat of silk. Navy silk and wool ottoman for a handsome coat that swings wide from the soft shoulders. It has deep batwing sleeves, of the push-up type with deep cuffs, and buttons high below a pointed collar.

EASY TO WEAR and ever so smart is the silk shirtwaist dress. Light gunmetal-gray silk taffeta in very light weight for a pretty shirtwaist dress. The bodice has narrow box pleats either side of a plain white panel, with pointed flared turn-back cuffs on the three-quarter sleeves. Studs and cuff-links of rhinestone-edged smoky pearls. Skirt is composed of pressed box-pleats.

SEE YOURSELF in print says one firm of its yardage department. Molyneux does a handsome tailored ensemble, dress and knee-length coat in rose, white and black print silk crepe. The loose jacket is lined in black silk surah. Dress has deep neckline marked by tapering revers and has a tucked section on the skirt.

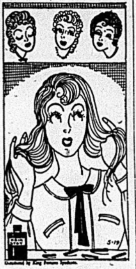
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Putting ringlets in your hair

Observe the skillful fingers of your hairdresser when she gives your locks those little twists, forming perfect circles. How quickly and deftly she does it. It is an art. After you bake your head under the dryer, and she takes out the pins, in a few whisks of the comb your dome is a mass of ringlets. A beauty shop is a wonderful place. You go in straight and you come out curly. Just like that.

How do you get along when you do your own shampooing and wrestle with the finger wave? It is not easy to put in wide undulations, as fashion requires. It isn't always easy to form the pin curls. If your hair is short and thin, and you do it up on metal curlers, it is likely to look like a busted mattress when you try to comb it. It acts crazy. You feel like weeping, even though you know that in a day or two it will be more presentable.



How do you get along when you do your own shampooing

The smart girl who knows how to make her hair behave can carry on where the hairdresser leaves off, that is if she has the right kind of hair cut and a good permanent. She can nurse along a wave so that it stays strong until the times comes for the next hair-washing. If you cannot turn this trick, you should learn about curling techniques.

Don't take up uneven wads of hair when making pin curls. If you expect rolls and ringlets to be the same size, portion off the hair properly. Use the comb for this purpose.

When winding, see that the ends of the hair are on the inside of the circle. Then you won't have rag-tags or bob-tails spoiling the effect. Don't pile one curl on top of another. Each one should be slapped smack on your skull and anchored there. You can use bobby pins or small invisible ones, or both, as your little heart desires. The size of the circles depends upon whether your hair is thick or thin and how much of a curl you desire.

Large strands are best if the hair is coarse; coarse hair curls easily. If you have a side parting, take up the topmost locks and fasten them with a large hair pin. Start at the left side making coils. Keep on going around the back, finishing at the right side. Then do your forelocks. Keep in mind the need of regular spacing, so that each strand will be exactly the size of the others.

It is wise to comb each strand before winding it, especially if the hair is wet. Then there will not be any tangles after the drying. When you smack the curl down onto your scalp, be careful not to twist or upset it.

WORLD LIVING

Solon Low, social credit leader, espoke his party's fear that Can-da might surrender too much of er national sovereignty and ask-d what Canada's task would be n the Atlantic alliance.

The chamber, in addition to the hort external affairs debate, com-leted clause-by-clause study of government bill to extend the ife of the Canadian wheat board nd then gave it third and final eading. It now goes to the Senate.

Mr. Pearson said he was not orried about any surrender of overeignty. The government was ying to make "our sovereignty ork for us."

Replying to Mr. Graydon, he id the question of civilian de-nce did not come up at London, ough it was a matter to be stu-ied by an Atlantic Pact commit-e.

osts Worked Out

He could not say what Can-da's role would be under the act or what it was likely to cost. he roles of the various mem-er states and the costs now were eing worked out. However, the osts could not be too high if ey guaranteed peace and pre-ented war.

As for Canada's economic ob-gations under the pact, it might e that Canada could most useful- contribute strategic materials.

Mr. Coldwell asked for a re-ort on discussions on the ban-ing of atomic weapons.

Mr. Pearson said no progress as been made because Russia s refused to attend meetings a United Nations committee ealing with the problem.

et Discussed

The Chinese question had not een discussed at the Atlantic act meetings, though it formed art of the discussions by the oreign ministers of Britain, rance and the United States at London meeting. However, he as not free to disclose the de-isions reached at that meeting.

Mr. Pearson said he was "pro-oundly impressed by the new pirit of hope and confidence" Western Europe.

The Atlantic Pact agreement on the principle of one balanced defence "may come to mean the further application to defence of new techniques and tactics of scientific warfare and eventually possibly the abandonment of the old concept of defence by great masses of conscripted infantry."

Canada's defence policy already had accepted that principle and was related to defence of an "area" rather than "merely to the defence of a country."

PROWLING BEARS

At first it was feared that the child might have been kidnapped but police abandoned that theory. An unidentified man was questioned Monday but later released.

"There is nothing to indicate foul play," said Lieut. Healy Monday night. "However, we will investigate any report or clue coming to us that might lead to recovery of the girl."

An area 10 miles in radius was covered Monday by searchers, who were assisted by walkie-talkie radios and an airplane flying overhead.

Some Quebec business firms sent sound trucks with announcers constantly crying: "Nicole! Nicole!" The trucks were driven through back country farm roads and wood-cutters lanes.

Searcher Pierre Vezina said Monday that the woods were too thick for a three-year-old to survive more than a few hours.

Residents of the area said that in other years black bears have been seen around Chateau Bigot None has been seen this year, however, and there no one could recall a human being attacked by a bear.

DESTROYER

The first laconic message radioed from a search plane to Coast Guard air-sea rescue headquarters contained just two words:

"Sighted survivors."

The report came from a Coast Guard plane, one of about 30 participating in the search.

Capt George McCabe of the Coast Guard, who was directing the search, said the plane which spotted the survivors was based at Elizabeth City, N.C.

The Grace Liner Santa Paula and the destroyer Saufley also was in the search area.

Hopes Buoyed

Hopes for survival of at least some of the 65 aboard the missing aircraft, bound from Puerto Rico with a load of migratory workers, had been buoyed hours earlier when another plane sighted the feeble rays of a flashlight spelling out in code the distress signal of the sea: S.O.S.

After that, however, the destroyer and several planes had searched fruitlessly in the darkness. They combed the area from which the stricken plane's pilot had messaged, "it looks like I'm going into the drink."

The plane, owned by Westair Company of Seattle, Wash., was carrying the migratory workers from San Juan, Puerto Rico, to Wilmington, N.C.

It developed engine trouble over the Atlantic and when one engine quit, it made a vain attempt to reach Nassau in the Bahamas but fell about 150 miles short.

Lost Altitude Rapidly

Last word came from the crippled craft at 11:06 p.m. EDT Monday night. Veteran pilot Joseph Halsey of Seattle radioed he was flying at 200 feet and losing altitude rapidly.

About an hour later, a sister ship circled the area, reported it spotted a flare and a flashlight blinking out an S O S.

The Miami Weather Bureau said conditions in the area were not dangerous for the large life rafts the plane carried.

The C-46 was equipped with seven 10-man life rafts, 65 Mae West life jackets and one Gibson Girl life jacket.

First word of the impending crash came at 10:49 p.m EDT when Halsey radioed that one of the plane's engines was dead and he was turning back to Nassau. The last word came only 17 minutes later.

About 12:30 a.m., a sister plane flying south from Wilmington circled the area and reported it sighted a flare and the flashlight signals.

It remained at the scene until its fuel supply ran low, then flew into Nassau for more.

GUNMAN TAKES

The roomer returned and stayed in his room. Mrs. Love went to a neighbor's home and called police again. Police squad cars surrounded the roominghouse

Provincial Constables Elvin Somers and Gordon Drysdale moved up the stairs and knocked on the door.

"Who's that?" asked a voice from inside.

Cpl. Mike Perepelytz of Sault Ste. Marie started to kick in the door when the shot rang out. The police battered in the door to find Toohey sprawled across the bed.

On a small table lay a note reading: "To the gentlemen of the press: Perhaps with this true story or testimony of what a condemned man does and thinks you will be able to . . ."

The note was never finished. Alongside was an envelope addressed to Toohey's mother, but that letter hadn't been written.

Serious Individual

The bullet from one of the .38-calibre revolvers he carried had ended the desperate hunt. Police feared the man might be mentally ill as the result of a recent motor accident in which he was injured. Toohey had boasted he would never be taken by any policeman when he disappeared from Kirkland Lake with his father's guns.

Toohey was described as a serious individual whose only hobby was motor cars and he was known as a tough opponent in a fist fight and he earned the nickname "Duke" from his ability in rough and tumble fights. His 21-year-old wife, Jean, said he was "a very, very sick man".

He had been a mine guard at Matheson and earlier a policeman in Vancouver. He left the British Columbia city force after conviction on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident, according to police here. He had been in uniform at the time of the accident and was dismissed from the Vancouver force following his conviction

Scouts Propose Buying Pony For Crippled Cub

Frankford — One reads every day of fine welfare work being done by service clubs, lodges and other organizations. The Boy Scouts also have their welfare work to do, although their work perhaps receives less publicity than that of the other groups.

Some months ago, a young boy in Castleton suffered the loss of his legs while helping his father on their farm. This meant a terrible handicap for the young lad, but it did not keep him down. The local Cubmaster called on the boy, and invited him to join the Cub Pack. The boy became a Cub, and passed all the tests he could, and passed alternate tests in place of those tests his handicap would not permit him to pass. All in all, he is one of the best Cubs in the Pack.

The loss of his legs has not kept him from getting around and carrying on his school studies, as well as his Cub activities. His father gave him a heifer calf, and rigged up a cart and harness by which the calf could pull the boy around. Every day, the lad crawls to the bar on his hands and knees to brush down the heifer, and hitch her to the cart.

Almost Chosen

In the recent drive to raise funds for the Crippled Children's Society, this lad was almost chosen as "Timmy," the boy who represents the crippled children for the whole of Ontario.

This is the place where the Scout welfare work comes into the picture. The Boy Scouts of Belleville and district have put on a drive to raise funds in order that a pony may be purchased for their fellow Cub-Scout.. One Belleville Troop sponsored a paper drive and raised a nice sum for the cause.

On Thursday night, June 8, a benefit softball game will be played on the Frankford diamond between the "Married Men" of the village, and the Legion team. This game will be sponsored by the 1st Frankford Boy Scout Troop with the kind co-operation of the Frankford Lions Club and the Legion. All citizens are urged to turn out in force to make this drive a very successful venture for the Scouts.

A "battle-seasoned" group of vets and an equally "battle-seasoned" group of husbands promise to put on a show that will be really worthwhile.

B.C.I. & V.S.
COLLEGIATE NEWS

The last assembly of the school year was held on Wednesday. Mr. Linton Read was in charge in the absence of Mr. Currie. He expressed the sentiments felt by the grade 13's on that last assembly for most of them.

The Elevator prizes were given to winners of essays and poems in the form of substantial cheques. Mr. Youdale also presented his boys from the Signalling Club with cheques won during the year.

It is with sorrow that we say Miss McKinney, Miss Smith and Mr. Anderson are leaving our school. They will be missed by the students.

Shavings

Can teachers be fooled? Why they "sho' nuff can." It seems that a certain P.T. teacher and a certain English teacher became extremely alarmed when they viewed the swollen and mangled finger of a mischievous grade eleven student. You can imagine their embarrassment and surprise when this ingenious student with a smug look on her face, slipped the imitation rubber finger from her own. More fun!

Wednesday was a bright spot in an otherwise dull week. We had our last assembly of the year in the morning and in the afternoon we had a fashion parade. When the bell rang at 3 o'clock the girls went into the auditorium to watch the show, while the boys went to their rooms to study. The show, put on by the Home Economics Department featured original creations by the girls of the school. We noticed several mothers sprinkled throughout the audience who were watching anxiously for their "darling daughters".

A certain student was rather embarrassed when she passed a remark about one of the models and found out only too late that she was sitting beside the model's mother. It happens every time!

When the fashion show was half over the lights went out. No it wasn't sabotage. It seems that an electric storm had developed. We had a short sing song and as the lights still hadn't come on, we were dismissed.

After gropping our way to our lockers and getting our books we made our way out into the "wild blue yonder." And I do mean wild. It was raining lakes. Everyone got soaked going home, everyone except Miss Merry that is. She brought her raincoat. I suspect Miss Merry's on the inside track with some weatherbird.

Topsy and Turvy would like to thank the Ontario Intelligencer for its co-operation during the year. Mr. Bradley for reading our "stuff" every Friday and Mr. Linton Read and Miss Merry for their encouragement. Last but not least, Topsy and Turvy thank their readers for not being too critical of their first attempt to write B.C.I. News.

Here's a poem we thought appropriate for this time of year.

Vacation Time

Goodbye, little desk at school, goodbye,
We're off to the fields and the open sky
The bells of the brooks and the woodland bells
Are ringing us out to the vales and dells,
To meadow ways fair, and to the hilltops cool,
Goodbye, little desk at school.
Goodbye little desk at school, goodbye,
We've other brave lessons and talks to try,
But we shall come back in the fall, you know,
And as gay to come as we are to go,
With ever a laugh and never a sigh
Goodbye little desk, goodbye.

Good luck, and have lots of fun this summer.

Topsy (Barbara Hamilton); Turvy (Barbara Greatrix).

Mass Break-Out From Don Jail Foiled Sunday

Toronto, June 6 (CP) —Officials said Monday night that an attempted mass break-out from the city's Don jail was foiled late Sunday night.

Guards making a late check discovered a partly-sawn iron bar protecting a window screen, and further investigation uncovered a hacksaw and broken bits of blades.

The partly-sawn bar was on a window of the second floor of the old jail on the banks of the Don River. This floor is called by prisoners the "Kingston quarters," meaning that prisoners there are men being held for transfer to Kingston penitentiary.

Prisoners involved were immediately placed in solitary confinement. There were 17 prisoners on the floor, some of them destined for Kingston and others being men with criminal records awaiting trial in city courts.

BACK TO NORMAL

—Galveston—hit by its biggest rain in 50 years Saturday—is back to normal.

Three to four feet of water swirled around over most of this resort city as the result of a 14.21 inch downpour. The last of the water drained off by late Saturday and cleanup work was finished Sunday.

At least $500,000 damage was suffered by street and merchants.

Toronto-Barrie Highway Will Be Paved

Toronto, June 6 (CP)—Paving of the New Toronto-Barrie highway will begin in "the more or less immediate future," Highways Minister Doucett announced Monday night.

Speaking in the "Provincial Affairs" series over the Ontario network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. Doucett said necessary materials now are available and contracts have been let for completion of the 60-mile road.

Mr. Doucett reviewed progress made in the province's $150,000,000 five year highway extension program, undertaken several months ago.

He said surveys still are underway to determine the route of a proposed new dual highway through Western Ontario from Windsor to a point east of Toronto. Modernization of the Dundas Highway between Windsor and Paris, five miles west of Brantford, will also be undertaken.

Morality Squad Head Injured

Ste. Therese, Que., June 6. (CP)—Detective Lieut. Alfred Castonguay, head of the Montreal Police Morality squad, is in critical condition in a Montreal hospital while nine other persons are recovering from injuries suffered in a head-on collision between two automobiles Monday near this town 20 miles north of Montreal.

Hospital authorities reported that Lieut. Castonguay suffered a probable fractured pelvis, a broken right leg and fractured ribs. The nine others were said to be in fair condition with lesser injuries.

Castonguay was appointed head of the morality squad three months ago, following a shake-up in the anti-vice squad.

Greece Winning All Battles For Recovery, Reconstruction Says Greek Embassy Speaker

Faith in the great ideals of humanity has seen Greece victorious in all her struggles for freedom. With the same faith in the cause of peace she is now winning the all-important battles for recovery, reconstruction and self-dependence. Mr. George E. Vlassis, public relations department of the Greek Embassy, Ottawa, told the Rotary Club on Monday.

Mr. Vlassis gave a graphic word-picture of the history, geography, industries and economics of his country to the clubmen. "Greece economy", he said, "after a terrible war and cruel period of ruthless occupation by three conquering nations, the Germans, Italians and Bulgarians, lies in ruins."

With most of the industries destroyed, farms uncultivated, stocks decimated and forests depleted, the Greeks applied themselves to the hard task of reconstruction and rehabilitation.

"Nobody who knows the ruggedness and courage of the Greek peasant and the proverbial ingenuity of the Greek urban worker need despair for the country's complete recovery," he said.

Possess Necessary Factors

Greece possesses the necessary factors for progress but lacks in some measure such economic factors as sufficient capital and trained personnel. Agricultural industries are destined to develop rapidly because of existence of favorable conditions.

"Excessively large capital is not needed," Mr. Vlassis said, "and raw material is in the country." But he doubted if important and lasting progress would be made as long as the economic and political conditions of the country are not stable.

Already marvels have been accomplished in Greece despite difficulties considered unsurmountable, the speaker said. To the efforts of the people the state gave a helping hand, and these efforts were greatly assisted by the Marshall Plan and later the backing by President Truman of the USA.

Loves Adventure

Speaking of the general characteristics of his fellow countrymen, Mr. Vlassis described him as "clever, rather intractable and curious." He exhibits alertness of mind, inventiveness, and plausibility He is courteous and hospitable to strangers, capable of self-sacrifice, loves adventure and emigrates to foreign lands, where he is usually successful.

He described Greece as the "poorest country in the Balkans" with half its total area dry barren mountains and one-fifth of the soil capable of cultivation. She depends on her exports to a far greater extent than her neighboring countries.

Principal products are cereals with a yearly yield of 25 million bushels. Tobacco is second. The most important is olive oil, the annual production of which is 1½ million hundredweights. Edible olive exports amount to 55 million pounds.

Vineyards yield 50 million gallons of grape juice yearly. Currants are one of the main export crops. Food product industry includes those of flour, wine and distilleries. Textile, chemical, metal and machine, tanning and tobacco. There exists in the country deposits of magnesium, bauxite, zinc, lead, lignite, iron and other minerals. Because of the rich deposits of bauxite, the creation of an aluminum industry has been decided under the Marshall Plan.

Mr. Vlassis described the geographical position of Greece, its natural characteristics and the climate. He recalled the great Greeks such as Hippocrates, the physician, and others. "The country", he said "had an area of 51,000 square miles, which makes it about the size or New York state and a population of 7,500,000".

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Jamieson Bone with club appreciation eloquently expressed by Rotarian Mack Robertson. President Fred Deacon was in the chair. Among the guests were Mr Sam Pappas and other former natives of Greece.

White Criticizes Standard on Bancroft Story

Ottawa, June 6 (CP)— G. S. White (P C-Hastings-Peterborough) criticized the weekly Montreal Standard in the Commons Monday night for what he termed an "untrue, slimy and slanderous" article about Eastern Ontario village of Bancroft.

He said the article, entitled "Bancroft Was Tough" and was written by Mackenzie Porter, reported that Bancroft had "very primitive conditions and shanty standards." It dealt with "sex crimes, illegitimate children, shanty standards, intermarriage, deformities, Indians, liquor and various other matters on the same high level."

It was "slanderous in many respects, untrue in practically every statement made in it and most unfair to all the people of a very large community."

Mr. White said he had written to the Standard pointing out "the many errors and the nature of the slanderous references." After a "long" delay, the editor published "only certain parts of my letter."

Bancroft, with a population of approximately 1,100 is in Mr. White's constituency.

INDICTED FOR GAMBLING

Bridgeton, N.J., June 6. (AP) —The Western Union Telegraph Company was indicted Monday on gambling charges for transmitting money order racing bets in New Jersey.

Nelson F. Stamler, deputy State Attorney General, said $300,000 a year was bet through the Western Union Office in this South Jersey community of 16,000 persons.

Western Union collected an average of $26,000 a year on message charges, he added, and about $120,000 came back in return money orders to successful gamblers.

Stamler said Western Union facilities were used in an attempt to get around New Jersey gambling laws.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

NOT HIS NIGHT

It wasn't "Mouse" Bush's night to howl yesterday eventide. The usually reliable shortstop kicked the ball around on numerous occasions and just to show that the night was definitely not his, tossed the pill over the first-baseman Mac Watson's head a couple of times to prove the baseball gods were not kind to him. It happened in the Brockville-Batawa COBL tussle in ye Faire Groundes and the brand of baseball dished up was better than was expected at this time of the season.

The pitching was better than average with young Art. Wright coming up with a six innings effort that deserved a better fate. He was nicked for a couple of smashes in the seventh and two-Mousian errors did not help the cause. Apparently Coach Speedy St. Louis was not taking any chances and he promptly yanked Wright and sent in Gordie Muffitt who stifled the Brockville bludgeons for one hit and no runs over the remaining three chukkers.

Outside of the bobbles, it was good baseball. The pitching of Wright, Muffitt and Jim Proctor, newest Brockville import who up to a few days ago did his chucking with the Ogdensburg Maples of the Border League, stood out. Proctor, a lefthander was nicked for three hits in the first innings accounting for one of the Batawan two runs, but after that he settled down and, backed up by flawless fielding, let the Shoemen down with but one run and four hits for the remaining eight innings. The southpaw is a slugger besides and grabbed three of the seven hits garnered by the Memos off the Batawa pitching.

* * *

Traditional baseball color was injected into the game in a late innings when Johnny Aquino objected to a decision by Plate Umpire Caldwell of Brockville who called a foul strike on the swarthy catcher. Johnny declared to high heaven that the ball had not touched his bat, and did not mince words letting His Nibs know. First base coach "Red" Carson raced in, as did Coach St. Louis, Mouse Bush and a few others and they added to the vocal cacophony. But as usual it was "no soap". Caldwell called it a foul ball and foul ball it was as far as he was concerned. From our aerie in Devine's Dugout, we did not hear the ball hit the bat, as a matter of fact we were of the opinion the pellet nicked a part of Aquino's uniform. However, some loquacious fans directly below disagreed with the umps, in fact they did all evening and they too gave their opinions all and sundry of what they thought of the arbiter with more or less direct reference to his immediate ancestors.

The Batawans meet the Picton Athletics on Wednesday in Picton in a game that is said to be called for 5:30 in the early evening. Manager Bill Easton and Coach St. Louis do not favor the idea of playing at this time, but advices from Picton this morning confirmed. It may, however be changed as we understand Batawa will lodge a strong protest. On Saturday next they go to Brockville where they take on the Memos in their third game of the week.

LOOKS GOOD!

Wednesday night here the Belleville Cubs tangle with the powerful Sixardee RCAF team in a night game at Exhibition Park. Sixardee is said to have a powerful organization and in some quarters it is predicted they will be the team to beat for the title of the Belleville and District Baseball League. Coach St. Louis did not make any statements last night as to whom he will start on the mound, but he is shaking up the lineup in order to present the strongest front possible against the victory - hungry air force crew. It should be a tight little clash and the fans should not pass this one up.

BEST OF LUCK, FELLA!

Gordie Muffitt, veteran ace of the Batawa hurling staff won't see action again for some time. Muffitt informed us last night that he has to go to hospital for an operation on his stomach and that means the Shoemen will be minus his services for at least three weeks. Just what Coach St. Louis and Manager Easton have in mind for hurling reinforcements is not known. Muffitt's loss leaves Art. Wright and Ken. Peacock and unless the masterminds come up with an ace out of their sleeve, the Shoemen will be badly in need of flingers.

LADIES NIGHT!

The inauguration of ladies softball here after an absence of years which was scheduled for Wednesday night at the Alemite Field with the Northern Electric lassies taking on the Baltimore team, (Ontario, that is) has been postponed 'till June 14 On that occasion the Trenton team will meet the local gals in a Lakeshore Ladies Softball League (Eastern Section) fixture in the first league game of the season. There will be opening ceremonies and all that; but perhaps the N. E. team management forgets that June 14th is the night Turk Broda's Maple Leaf All-Stars are here at the Exhibition Grounds. That may have some bearing on the attendance.

"I'M WARNIN' YUH!"

"This time, my friend, he won't get the chance to climb back into the ring. I'll see to that if and when he manages to get outside the ropes with me."

That was Ray Villmer, dynamic atom of the wrestling fraternity speaking about the forthcoming return bout with huge Yukon Eric in Memorial Arena next Friday night. Villmer figures he had the huge Yuke beaten last Friday when they hurled themselves out of the ring and the Alaskan crawled back just in time to get Referee Maxwell's symbol of victory.

"I had him beaten all the way and the fans know it," Villmer said. "However Friday night there will be no mistakes. I'll prove who is the better wrestler."

There it is, kiddies. Take it for what it is worth. Villmer the Lilliputian member of this wrestling duo, is confident he can airplane-spin the big hunka man from the Alaskan tundras, and it should be interesting to see if he can make good his word.

Pat Flanagan will doff the sports clothes for wrestling trunks on the same card and do battle with towering Hi Lee. Pat is fast and aggressive, but he will need all his tricks to offset the cunning of the villainous Lee. Al. Korman meets up with Toar Morgan in the opener.

Tigers' Sensational .864 Winning Average on Road Keeping Them on Yanks' Heels

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Detroit owns one of the most beautiful baseball parks in the country but the Tigers would just as soon play elsewhere.

The reason? The Tigers have been almost unbeatable on foreign fields. In contrast they've played under .500 ball in Briggs Stadium.

The Tigers whipped the Senators in Washington 7-4 Monday night for their 19th triumph in 22 games away from home. That's an amazing .864 percentage and far better than the front-running New York Yankee's fine record of 14-4 on the road. At Home Detroit has won only eight while losing nine.

Monday's triumph coupled with New York's 3-2 defeat by Cleveland pushed the runner-up Tigers within 1 1-2 games of the Yankees. Boston's third-place Red Sox buried Chicago White Sox 12-0 to climb within four games of the top.

Brooklyn's Dodgers gained undisputed possession of first place in the National League vanquishing Chicago Cubs 13-1 while Philadelphia Phils shaded St. Louis Cardinals 6-5. In the only other league game, New York Giants edged out Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4 in 10 innings.

The Dodgers now enjoy a half-game edge on the Phils who swept past the Cards by a half length on the strength of their victory.

Noteworthy Hitting

Outstanding in Monday's doings was the batting of George Kell and Hoot Evers of the Tigers; Vern Stephens and Ted Williams, Red Sox; Bob Kennedy, Indians; Del Ennis, Phillies; Bob Morgan, Dodgers and Sam Calderone of Giants.

Other noteworthy achievements were the pitching of Cleveland's Bobby Feller, Boston's Maury McDermott, Brooklyn's Preacher Roe Philadelphia's Robin Roberts and the New York Giant's Andy Hansen.

Kell, American League's champion batter last season, moved into a tie with Cleveland's Larry Doby for the batting leadership at .388 by rapping four straight singles. Evers made only two hits but one was a homer and the other a triple to drive in five runs.

Dizzy Trout went the distance for his third triumph without a loss and the Tigers' sixth in succession.

Stephens clouted his 11th homer and a double to drive in four runs. Williams collected two hits.

McDermott, who replaced starter Ellis Kinder with one out and two on in the first, yielded only four hits in getting credit for the shutout. It was his fourth triumph against one loss.

Kennedy scored two of Cleveland's three runs via a single and a home run. Feller allowed five hits in registering his fourth triumph.

Ray Robinson Beats Villemain In Easy Fashion

By ORLO ROBERTSON

Philadelphia, June 6 (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, the master craftsman of the ring, has a one-state interest in the middleweight crown today after doing a workmanlike job on stocky Robert Villemain of France.

But the lanky Sugar from New York definitely would like recognition in the other 47 states —even to the extent of giving up his welterweight title—before retiring in two years.

Robinson won the Pennsylvania version of the 160-pound championship Monday night before a disappointing crowd of 22,004 which paid $119,007. He displayed a variety of blows that, while not able to knock him out, caused Villemain to say in his dressing room:

"He's a real champion. He hits harder than any man I ever met."

"It's a wonderful thrill to win the world's middleweight championship, even if it's only for the State of Pennsylvania," said Robinson in his dressing room.

"Now I'd like to be champion of the entire world," he added.

And to that end, Sugar Ray said he is ready to meet Jake Lamotta, recognized 160-pound king everywhere except in Pennsylvania, anytime and anywhere.

Sets Sights on Retiring

While the National Boxing Association declined to go along with the Pennsylvania commission in recognizing the bout as a championship affair, it ruled that the winner of the Lamotta-Rocky Graziano fight in New York June 28 must meet Robinson within 90 days.

Robby has set his sights on retiring "before I'm 31."

"I'm 29 now and two more years of this hard life will be plenty," he said. Incidentally, the record book lists him as 30.

Robinson entered the ring the 1-to-5 favorite and he won just like an odds-on favorite.

Villemain made every effort to make a fight of it but he just didn't have the guns to match the man who many have called the best pound for pound fighter of recent years.

The five-foot, six-inch Villemain stalked Sugar Ray through the entire 15 rounds, seldom taking a backward step. But only occasionally was he able to get inside Robinson's guard to operate at close range as is his style.

Springfield Cubs Defeat Leaders By 2-1 Score

(By The Associated Press)

A 50-year layoff hasn't dulled Springfield's ability to win ball games. The Cubs, playing in the International League for the first time since 1900 are making a determined bid for the legaue championship.

Under the capable hands of Stan Hack the great former Chicago Cub third baseman, Springfield today is in fourth place, 2½ games off the pace. The Cubs rang up their fourth straight victory Monday night, shading the league-leading Rochester Red Wings 2-1.

Righthander Bob Spicer held the Wings to seven hits. Bob Thurman's home run in the sixth inning snapped a 1-1 deadlock.

Baltimore Orioles, behind Bob Raney's eight - hit pitching, whipped Montreal Royals 9-6. George Byam, with four singles, topped the Baltimore batsmen.

Eddie Shokes's 10th - inning single, scoring Carden Gillenwater, gave Syracuse a 5-4 triumph over Buffalo Bisons. Ed Blake, who pitched only the 10th, picked up his first victory.

Steve Ridzik pitched Toronto Maple Leafs to a 9-2 victory over Jersey City. Ridzik, in winning his second game, gave up five hits, striking out eight.

'Mouse' Bush Has 'Off' Night Brockville Edges Batawa 3-2

Costly errors by the usually reliable "Mouse" Bush paved the way to a 3-2 defeat of the Batawa S[illegible]en at the hands of Brockvill[illegible] Memos in a Central Ontario Baseball League fixture in Exhibition Park last night.

Discounting the bobbles, the game was one of those nip-and-tuck affairs that augurs well for the season. It was the second start for the Shoemen and gave them a .500 percentage for the season this far. They defeated Smith's Falls in their league debut.

The game developed into a pitcher's battle between Art Wright, Batawa righthander who started the game, and Brockville's Jim Proctor who made his hurling debut in a Memos uniform. He was recently released by the [illegible]nsburg Maples of the Border [illegible]ue.

Wright flung steady ball for six innings letting the Memos down with four hits for one run. Two hits coupled with a brace of Bushian errors in the sixth, that accounted for two runs sent the young hurler to the showers. He was relieved by the veteran Batawa moundsman, Gordie Muffitt, who yielded but one clout in the remaining scoreless three innings.

Backed with errorless fielding on the part of his mates, Proctor hurled steady ball. Two double plays by his infield cut off potential Batawa rallies, and after a shaky first innings, when the Shoemen rapped out three of their seven hits, was never in danger. He struck out nine and issued two walks. Wright whiffed five as did Muffitt.

[illegible] Shoemen grabbed a first inning lead off three hits, one of them a double by Mac Watson, who drove in Solmes for the first run of the game. The teams battled on even terms until the fifth when Leeder drove in Clarke who had got aboard via the error route.

Take Two-Run Lead

Brockville took a two-run lead in the seventh when two errors and two hits accounted for the scores. The Shoemen got their second run in the seventh, when Watson smashed out his second double of the game and raced home on Johnny Aquino's sacrifice. They threatened again in the ninth, when Watson drove a scorching infield hit off Proctor's glove, but then went out stealing and smart double play ended the rally.

Mac Watson led the Shoemen [illegible]rade with four for four, two [illegible] them doubles. Solmes got a pair and Mouse Bush hit the remaining clout.

Proctor proved as good a batter as a pitcher, helping himself to three hits with Dafoe, Turner, Clarke and Leader getting the rest.

Petes Suffer First Loss in Lacrosse Loop

By The Canadian Press

Hamilton's lacrosse Tigers have finally begun to show the form that made them 1949 Mann cup finalists.

After dropping their first three Ontario Lacrosse Association games, Tigers finally chalked one up in the win column Monday, defeating Peterborough Petes 11-9. It was Petes' first loss.

The veteran Tommy Love netted three goals to pace the Tiger attack. Dootch Vitarelli and Bob Thorpe bagged two each for the much-improved Peterborough squad.

At Weston, the Lions dropped a 15-5 decision to Owen Sound's powerful Crescents. Rough play featured the game, with 15 penalties being doled out.

Tommy Burlington, Lefty Jordon and Ross Slater all required stitches for head wounds suffered in the rough going.

Jordon was high scorer for the night, scoring four of Owen Sound's goals. Slater got three and Mason two. Weston's scoring was led by T. Downer with two goals.

Ahearne Thinks Hockey Will be Out in '52 Games

Toronto, June 6 (CP)—John F. (Bunny) Ahearne hustled in from England Monday en route to the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association starting at Banff, Alta., today and brought along a hatful of unseasonal hockey news—some of it speculative.

In between planes, Europe's Mr. Hockey—he's secretary of the British Ice Hockey Association and the amateur world-ruling International Ice Hockey Fderealtion—said he believed the game wouldn't be on the agenda of the 1952 winter Olympics in Norway. Cost of sending teams from Canada, the United States and Europe would be "too high"—apart from the ticklish question of amateurism as defined by the International Olympic Committee.

The I.I.H.F. will settle the matter at a meeting in Paris next September and it "has been suggested" the 1952 world amateur championships should be held in Norway a month before the Olympics. This was double-talk but the Irish-born Ahearne who has never laced on a pair of skates, said the championships were "far different from the Olympics."

"If our championships are held in Norway, it means expenses of all competing teams are looked after by Norwegian association from the time they hit the Norwegian border until they leave. In the Olympics, the competing teams pay the full shot—all transportation, meals, hotels and so on."

He figured it would cost his association £1,200 (about $3,600) or more to send a hockey club to the Norway games and it would be the same for France and Belgium. Italy, Switzerland and Austria would be heavier.

"The various European Hockey Associations haven't that kind of money," he said.

Canadian and American teams would either go by plane—"at prohibitive cost"—or by ship from New York to Sweden and then into Norway. Then they would have to pay their expenses in Norway.

Ahearne, European representative of the C.A.H.A. who is making his 11th trip to the association's annual meetings, said about 20 hockey games were put on the British Broadcasting Corporation television circuit in the winter. A Canadian, Paddy Burns of Montreal, did the commentary.

Some rink operators said television reduced attendance.

Phil Marchildon Granted Release By Buffalo Team

(By The Canadian Press)

Phil Marchildon, who won 19 games for Philadelphia Athletics in 1947, was granted his outright release Monday by the International League Buffalo Bisons.

Leo T. Miller, general manager of the Bisons, made the announcement at Buffalo as the team passed through on its way from Toronto to Syracuse.

The Penetanguishene, Ont., native only Sunday had been placed on the inactive list by the last-place Bisons. He had started five games since being sold to Buffalo by the A's, and hadn't lasted beyond the fifth inning in any one.

Since 1947 Marchildon has been a disappointment. Still plagued by war nerves, result of 10 months in a prisoner-of-war camp in Germany after he was shot down while flying with the RCAF as a gunner, he won only nine games in 1948 and saw little action last year. A sore arm also bothered him.

Marchildon could not immediately be reached Monday night for information as to his future plans.

Frankie Almond of Vancouver Monday night won the Canadian featherweight boxing title by knocking out Lou Alter of Montreal in the 10th round of a scheduled 12-rounder at Vancouver. Almond weighed 126, Alter 123 1-2.

The end came suddenly at 1.48. Almond ripped a terrific right into Alter's body. Alter writhed in agony on the canvas as referee Hed McDonald counted him out.

The 21-year-old Almond softened up Alter with an effective left hook. Alter fought from a deep crouch, pushing up at Almond with his left hand. Though he connected frequently, he seemed to hurt Almond only once, in the fourth round with a swing to the head.

At Saint John, N.B., a wrestling show was held at the forum Monday night despite action by Mayor E. W. Patterson in cancelling licences granted to rival promoters for holding shows at the same time and place.

"Top promotions" obtained a licence from the mayor, and rival promoter Jack McAllister also received a licence from city hall after getting a permit from the Saint John Boxing and Wrestling Commission.

The Mayor said he felt it was the turn of "top promotions" to hold a show. He h suggested that the rival promoters be given alternate Monday nights. Because of the confusion, and to preserve peace, he cancelled both licences, he said.

The "cancellation" was followed by a statement by George T. Kane, chairman of the boxing and wrestling commission, who said that despite the mayor's "uncalled for and unwarranted proclamation" one show would be held. He said the commission had been set up by the mayor and common council under an act of the legislature.

The card held, without any disturbance, was the one promoted by McAllister.

Groves total for the par 71 course was 70-64--134 - - - It only shows you don't have to be a good golfer to score an ace.

Carl Voyles, coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats football team said Monday night at Hamilton that Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones, former U.S. pro with Cleveland Browns, may be signed as assistant coach of the Hamilton club.

Voyles returned to Hamilton after attending the professional football draft meeting in Philadelphia.

He said Jones had intimated his desire to come to Hamilton in a coaching capacity. A halfback, Jones now is on the retired list because of a shoulder injury. If signed, it would likely be in a playing-coach capacity.

Voyles stated he has lines on several other U.S. players. "We may easily have 20 try out with us. . .We will try to get the best seven," Voyles said.

At Winona, Minn., an amateur baseball player died Monday in hospital after he was hit behind the ear by a pitched ball.

Eugene Schoolmeier, 28, Fountain City, Wis., was the victim. He was struck during a game at Dodge, Wis., across the Mississippi R. from Winona, Sunday. He finished the game, but on the way home became delirious, and was taken to hospital.

Savold Made 4-7 Favorite Over Woodcock

London, June 6 — (AP) — A former barroom bouncer tangles with a plain country lad tonight for what this side of the Atlantic will call the world's heavyweight boxing championship.

Cast in order of appearance will be Lee Savold a 34-year-old tough guy from Englewood, N.J., and Bruce Woodcock, a 29-year-old railway man from Doncaster, Yorkshire. Fight time is 9 p.m. BST (4 p.m. EDT).

Although Britons like to dream that Woodcock will become their first heavyweight champion since Bob Fitzsimmons (1897-1899), the men who back their dreams with money have made Savold a 4-to-7 favorite.

The third man in the ring will be Andrew Smyth, amateur referee from Ireland, whose word will be law if there is no knockout. There are no judges in British boxing.

May Not Go Limit

Both fighters have vowed that Smyth's biggest job tonight will be to count to 10. Bookies think so, too, and are offering 5 to 1 against the bout going the full 15 rounds.

The United States has conscientiously avoided recognizing this battle as anything except another heavyweight fight.

The National Boxing Association, which rules in all states except New York, is sticking with Ezzard Charles, the present N.B.A. titleholder. Charles temporarily is on the shelf by doctors orders.

Colonel Eddie Eagan of New York—the only boxing commissioner who won't have a heavyweight champion by tomorrow morning—flew over in time to pick up a ringside seat.

"This is just one of several elimination fights that must be held before we have a true champion," Eagan said.

The paying fans gobbled up the 50,000 available seats in White City Stadium two months ago.

SCORES T.K.O.

Toronto, June 6 —(CP) —Earl Walls of Toronto scored a technical knockout over Jack Ennis of Windsor in the heavyweight main bout of an outdoor boxing show at oakwood Stadium Monday night. Walls weighed 192, Ennis 185. The bout ended after 50 seconds of the second round.

In the semi-final Gus Rubicini, 159, Toronto, scored an eight-round decision over Claude Flager 158, of Buffalo. James J. Parker, 188, Toronto, knocked out Bob Graham, 206, of Rochester, N.Y., at 1:35 of the first round in one of the preliminaries.

Sports Shorts From Britain

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London — (CP) — Sport — from bull-fighting to bagatelle — plays a large part in this year's summer exhibition at the Royal Academy of Arts.

Racing, as always, is well represented by horse-loving Sir Alfred Munnings, former academy president. His two studies of "Early Morning, Newmarket," portraying thoroughbreds at exercise on the heath, are vividly alive with the play of strong sunlight striking across the animals' gleaming coats, while his "Stable Lads," strikes a quieter but equally authentic training-ground note.

Cricket is featured in Laurence Norris' semi-cartoon in oils, "The Demon Bowler," and small-town soccer depicted in "A Tense Moment" by Carel Weight.

Broadcast sport is the theme of two of the exhibition's oils. "The Bruce Woodcock-Freddie Mills Fight at the Local" by James Bateman shows a group of boxing addicts in a public house gathered tensely around the loudspeaker, pint-pots almost forgotten. Henry Lamb's "Football Fan" is the study of a young boy listening eagerly to the radio, his eyes alight with excitement.

John Minton, just back from a trip to Spain, has contributed two brilliantly-colored but stangely-drawn works, "Two Bull-Fighters" and "The Bullfight."

Richard Eurich packs lawn tennis, chess, cards and bagatelle into his complex painting of "Games and Pastimes."

"Real" tennis is depicted in "Royal Tennis Court, Hampton Court Palace" by Jean Clark and rowing in "The Oxford and Cambridge Boat Race, 1949" by Alfred R. Thomson.

Soccer re-appears in Fredrick Austin's "Wandsworth Park," and other sports get their innings in Mary Sargant Florence's "Children at Chess," J. Cosmo Clarke's "Sailing at Blakeney' 'and Grace Wheatley's "The Pigeon Fanciers."

Coroner W. H. Creech of North Dorset says motor-cycle road races should be banned.

He urged this in commenting on the verdict of "accidental death" returned at an inquest into the deaths of Sidney Ching, 36, and Henry Veall, 28, killed during an international contest at Blandford, Dorset.

"I don't think these races should be permitted," Creech said. "We should not run the risk of having these awful things happening."

Waterloo Tigers Make Runaway Race of League

(By The Canadian Press)

Addition of former playing-manager Don Gallinger to the already power-packed Waterloo Tigers threatens to make a runaway of the Senior Intercounty pennant race.

Tigers won their 10th game in 13 starts Monday, with Gallinger slamming three hits in four trips to bat to spark a 7-5 win over Brantford Red Sox.

Guelph Maple Leafs dropped another notch further into the league cellar at Guelph. Kitchener Legionnaires defeated the home-towners 10-4. London Majors dropped a 3-0 contest to the Terriers in Galt, while St. Thomas Legion nosed out Stratford 8-7 in a 11-inning marathon at St. Thomas.

Gallinger's return to the Waterloo lineup was an auspicious one. His three hits drove in two runs, and he handled 10 chances at first without an error.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When four no-trump is used as aces and kings asker it shows trump support. Or ability to play at no-trump. Or confidence in a partner who knows when to pull in the size of his reply.

You have read here how one table bid six no-trump when in a duplicate tournament came this deal

NORTH
♠Q J 8
♥9 7 6 5 3
♣Q J 6 2

WEST
♠A K 6 3
♥10 2
♦A K Q 10 8 6

EAST
♠10 9 2
♥A K Q J
♦9 2
♣A 10 8 7

SOUTH
♠7 5 4
♥8 4.
♦J 7 5 4
♣K 9 5 3

Another table bid like this

West	East
1 D	1 H
3 D	4 NT
6 H	7 D

West went down one when he failed to guess four trumps in the south hand. East beefed at the system that forced him to bid seven. But it was not the fault of the system. He stunted.

Lacking trump support he should have ended at six no-trump. Or lie only with partner who knows how to protect him. Experienced players know how to give this protection.

When his reply to four no-trump is six, an expert player will not go beyond the expected trump suit. Unless he knows partner has all the items called for by system. Or can stand six no-trump.

Six hearts in reply to four no-trump shows two aces and two kings. Six diamonds in reply would show two aces and one king.

West should have replied with six diamonds instead of six hearts. Why?

It is quite obvious to west that their trump suit, if any, will be diamonds. Therefore, his reply of six hearts stops any hope of making that suit the trump at less than seven.

Thus, west has only one reason for not holding back a king in his reply. It is because he is prepared for six no-trump. Or desires to go to seven diamonds if partner has support for that suit.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 6 — (CP) — Jimmy Stewart's lazy drawl is one of the most famous products of Hollywood, but, says the lanky star, I don't know exactly how I got it."

"Nobody noticed it much until I got to Hollywood," said the actor. "People seemed to like it, so of course I didn't try to get rid of it.

"It couldn't be geographical. I'm from Pennsylvania, and they don't have a drawl there. They do have a few peculiarities of speech, though. You don't notice them until you get away from home. I get tickled when I hear my mother sometimes; she'll say she is going to 'rid' a room. That means she's going to clean it."

About his speech habits, Jimmy added, "I think it's a combination of slow talking and stuttering. It has been a handicap to me at times. When I have to speak rapidly and forcefully, I have trouble.

"But, I guess I can't complain."

Odds 'n' Ends

Charlie Chaplin is working far into the night on his new movie script. He has cancelled all social engagements in order to get the new film ready for early production. It could be that he is heartened by the success of the "City Lights" re-issue, following his disappointment with "Monsieur Verdoux." Chaplin believes the latter was his greatest effort, but the public felt differently.

Here's an apt double billing now in town. "Tight Little Island," about an island's Scotch binge, is teamed with "The Big Hangover."

Kissless pictures are becoming prevalent in Hollywood, which is getting more unromantic by the day. Rhonda Fleming and Quebec's Glenn Ford exchange no kisses in "Beyond the Sunset", nor do William Holden and Nancy Olson in "Union Station."

Capsule Review

"The Men" (U.A.) is a profoundly moving film, mainly because it bears a resemblance to line that is rare in Hollywood films. It tells about the treatment of war veterans who are paralyzed from the waist down. The trend is filmed in such a human manner that it becomes entertainment. The cast, many of them real veterans, is uniformly excellent. Marlon Brando's debut is strange but provocative Teresa Wright and Everett Sloane perform with understanding.

Bakelite Downs Bateman Motors By 20-11 Count

Another high scoring, loosely-played game went into the record books last evening as Bakelite downed Bateman Motors 20-11 in a regular Commercial Softball League B game played at the Alemite Field.

Bateman Motors threw in 17 men in an attempt to avoid the loss but a seven-run rally by Bakelite in the seventh inning chilled any hope of a win.

Picknell started for the winners and in four innings was tagged for nine hits, two walks, and all the motors' runs. Clarke came in in the fifth with none away and went the rest of the way scattering three hits and giving up no runs to claim the win.

Hedger and Wright worked for the losers with Wright being the losing pitcher.

Line up: Bateman Motors: Hedger and Wright p; Hatfield and Green ss; J. Semark 1b, 3b; Bone c; Davis, Sedidoll lf, rf; Thompson and O'Brien cf; Graham, 3b; McNaught, McClusky 1b; Boyer, J. Semark 2b; McKeen and Carmichael rf, lf.

Death of Fish Due To Lack of Oxygen

Toronto, June 6 — (CP) — Death of large numbers of fish in the Timmins area was caused by lack of oxygen, the Lands Department announced today.

The check-up was started by officers of the division of fish and wildlife at the request of the Timiskaming branch, Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, which reported many fish had been found dead when the ice moved out of lakes in the Timmins region.

Shortage of oxygen in the water was due to "prolonged severe winter conditions with unusually heavy snowfall, thick ice and late spring break-up."

AT THE BELLE — Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn as the battling couple of "Adam's Rib," MGM's hilarious romantic comedy, continuing today and Wednesday at the Belle Theatre.

NO $95 DINNERS

There were no takers until the sign was changed to "95 cents and up."

AT THE CAPITOL — Dan Dailey does a song and dance with four beautiful helpmates in a scene from the 20th. Little Benny's Note Book

Pop passed his plate for more liver and onions, —being his favorite thing to eat, and ma said, Now really, William, I mean really, for a man who is always worrying about the dissapeerance of his waist line, you awt to exercize reasonable restraint in your diet.

That's why I thawt till this afternoon in the dentist's waiting room, when I read a magazine article by Fadden Mack the famous fizzical culture expert, pop said. According to Fadden Mack, if you'll move like the wild animals in their naturel state, you can eat to your heart's content and your stummick's capacity and still have a figure like a Greek statue, he said, and ma said, Well how do they move, for land sakes?

Every move they make, whether it's a long leep or a short yawn, is a simple naturel gesture that brings every mussel of their body into graceful play, pop said. A tiger is having a thorough muscular werkout even if he's only licking his paw, and that's why nobody ever saw a tiger with a heavy waist line, even in a zoo, where he's fed 20 pounds of horse meat a day and only has a tiny cage to stretch in and rub himself agenst the bars in perfect coordination. And from now on I'm going to take Fadden Mack's advice and do likewise. My slightest motion will be a picture of grace from head to foot, and the more I eat the less it will show on me. The naybors will beg to be allowed to come in and watch me brush my teeth. Just look at me now, for instance, reaching for more liver and onions, he said.

And he passad his plate again, looking like a balley dancer sitting down, and ma gave him another helping, saying, Oh dear, sutch a man.

Meening him.

US Executives Take Two-day Look at Fair

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

Toronto, June 6 — (CP) — A group of United States business executives are taking a two-day look at the Canadian International Trades Fair. Here are some of their comments as given at a press conference:

Reuel W. Elton, general manager, American Trade Association executives, Washington:

"There is something here that hasn't as yet been told. We have, in International Trade Fairs, an avenue towards world peace.

"When competitors sit down together and start calling each other by their first names, they stop calling each other by other names. They find that they are the same people and then their industry starts to improve."

E.E. Schellbacher, director of commercial intelligence and special service division, office of International Trade, U.S. Department Commerce:

"Only through world trade we can find out what the people of the rest of the world can do. Until we see what others do, we think we are the only ones who can do it."

Orrin B. Werntz, executive secretary, National Screw Machine Product Association, Cleveland:

"We learn that we don't make everything in the world and don't make everything best.

"I am disappointed at not seeing more Canadian exhibitors."

Praise Administration

In general the United States group gave enthusiastic tribute to the fair's administration, including chairman Glen Bannerman, director of the Canadian government exhibition commission and his staff.

Said Wayne C. Taylor, assistant to the administrator, economic co - operation administration, Washington:

"We have come to sit at Mr. Bannerman's feet."

Said John M. Gage, managing director, first United States International Trade Fair, Chicago, which will be held in August:

"We can't surpass the job here, in our first year, but we hope to do a comparable one."

Said Charles E. Boyd, secretary Retail Merchants Association of Detroit:

"Detroit hopes to have a trade fair a year hence, and I am sure other United States cities will follow suit."

Boyd said he was surprised at the attitude of some business men who fear immediate competition without realizing that it leads to a round-robin trade which will grow and benefit all.

Said Hampton M. Auld, executive secretary, recorder-controller section, Scientific Apparatus Makers Association, New York:

"We will try to impress the people of the United States that such fairs lead to trade 'which gathers snow as it rolls along.' "

Abbott Gives Report on Woman Sent to Jail

Ottawa, June 6 (CP) — The Commons Mon. heard of the case of Mrs. Bessie Ellis-Reid, 58-year-old Ottawa widow, who served 14 days in jail rather than pay a fine of $10 and costs.

She was convicted last month at Shawville, Que., on two charges of violating wartime leasehold regulations and fined $5 and costs on each charge, with an eight-day optional jail term in each case.

Today, John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) suggested there had been "unnecessary harshness" in the case and asked Finance Ministeer —Abbott for a report to the House.

The minister said Mrs. Ellis-Reid had been convicted of renting a $10-a-month housing unit for $13.40 and renting another $14 place for $17.

Mr. Abbott said the woman refused to pay the fine. He said inquiries by his department had brought the information that she would not pay "one dime" and that she considered the trial judge and the lawyers were crooked.

On her refusal to pay, there was no alternative but for her to serve the jail sentence.

The minister said she actually served 14 days, getting two days off for good behavior.

Mr. Diefenbaker declared his information was that the costs assessed against the woman had been $196, in addition to the two fines of $5 apiece.

Mr. Abbott said he did not have information on that point.

Prime Minister Gives Some Hope For Education

Kingston, June 6 (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Saturday he hoped the Dominion-provincial conference scheduled for this fall would consider what proportion of the national income would be taken in taxes for the development of education.

In an unscheduled address to the National Conference of Canadian Universities, Mr. St. Laurent said it may be that the present tax fields of the provinces are inadequate to support the necessary development of education.

"We should be prepared to provide a sufficient portion of the country's taxes not only to keep alive but to make it possible for development to take place in the important service of education," he said.

"The development of Canadian universities is not going to be passed in the night."

The Prime Minister said he spoke not in his official capacity, but "as an active member of my own university staff." Mr. St. Laurent is a professor at Laval University, Montreal.

Presbyterian Congress Opens In Montreal

Montreal, June 6 — (CP) — A youthful Scottish clergyman Monday night challenged Presbyterians to "cease diluting the faith" and added that the communists are right when they say that Christianity has become doped.

"The Christian church must be reformed again and again if it is to function as a force for good," said Dr. Thomas F. Torrance, 35, of Endinburgh. He addressed more than 400 delegates to the pre-assembly congress of the Presbyterian Church in Canada and their fiends at MacVicar Memorial Church here.

The delegates, representing many parts of Canada, Monday opened a three-day congress which marks the 75th anniversary of the founding in Montreal of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Dr. Torronce called on his audience to start "such a revival throughout the reformed churches that the word of God will master history and dominate a caotic world."

We have forgotten that "the word of God is still living fire, said the eloquent Scot.

Will Study Work

Today, the congress will study "the church and its work" and will review Home Mission work. Rev. G. Deane Johnston of Brantford, chairman of the general board of missions, will preside at the Home Missions session.

Dr. G. L. Cowan, moderator of the church's general assembly, opened the congress Monday. He protested against the small members or young Pesbyterian men in Canada now entering the ministry.

"We have become materialistically inclined instead of idealistically," he said.

Principal Robert Lennox of the Presbyterian College, Montreal, reported that although the church lost more than 60 per cent of its members in 1925 when the United Church of Canada was formed from a union of Methodist and Presbyterian adherents, it now has 175,000 communicants in 1,200 congregations.

Here's the floor that's full of new IDEAS

Plan your extra room by starting with Armstrong's Asphalt Tile

Armstrong's Asphalt Tile makes it easy to exchange drab and dusty basement space for a bright, clean, comfortable extra room.

Unlike most flooring materials, Armstrong's Asphalt Tile is not harmed by alkaline moisture that comes up through the concrete subfloor.

You can create your own floor design because Armstrong's Asphalt Tile comes in a wide choice of beautiful plain and marbleized colours and is laid one block at a time. It's durable and easy to keep clean.

Yet, with all these advantages, an Armstrong's Asphalt Tile floor costs surprisingly little. Ask your flooring contractor or dealer to show you Armstrong's tile colours and suggestions for floor designs. Or write for FREE eight-page folder illustrated in full colour.

Mysterious Case Of Bludgeoning Is Reported

San Francisco, June 6 (AP) — Mystery today shrouded the savage bludgeoning in the predawn of Sunday of an attractive Canadian girl as she lay in bed.

The victim was Mary McIntyre, 25, formerly of Vancouver, an advertising agency secretary. She was in such critical condition that two homicide inspectors were assigned to the case.

Brain specialists removed a piece of skull pounded against her brain by blows from a blunt instrument. They said she had been struck at least three times.

Motive for the attack was not apparent. Doctors said she apparently had not been sexually assaulted. There were no signs of a struggle in her basement apartment. A wallet, containing possibly $15 to $20, was missing.

Two mysterious telephone calls by an unidentified male, a blue-boardered man's handkerchief and the imprint of a green stamp on the victim's hand were chief clues police had to work on. The stamp was similar to a return check used at dance halls.

19th Century Patent Office Models Exhibited

New York, June 6 — (AP)— If you happen to be in the market for a self-setting mouse-trap, or maybe a sausage-stuffer, a New York department store (Gimbel's) is the place to look.

You can also find there such household necessities as folding spiral stairways, snow-melting machines, fish-hatching apparatus and some 150,000 other gadgets ranging in price from $1 to $1,000.

The occasion is a month-long exhibition and sale of 19th Century United States Patent Office models, submitted by their fond inventors in the days — 1820 to 1890 — when the patent people required a working model of each invention.

More than 150,000 models collected by the time the patent office stopped accepting them. The collection was sold several times, it now is in the possession of a group headed by O. Rundle Gilbert, an auctioneer. The store is selling the items on commission.

One of the most ingenious is a combination hen house and animal trap invented in 1883. It's so rigged that when the hen emerges, a sign appears:

"I am out. You may have my egg."

Kingsridge

By Alice Ross Colver

He made no answer but his face did not lighten. She said, "you can reach him on the telephone if it's very important."

"This is something I can't take up with him over the telephone."

His voice, his expression, held all the old tension and belligerence he had so nearly lost. It disturbed her but before she could say a word, Donald drove up with Jane, and shortly the four of them went into the candlelit dining room.

Gerry should have enjoyed that hour. In the setting of luxury, in the freedom from the strain imposed by the older people, it was incredibly gay and carefree. Yet he could not give himself up to it. This was the kind of life he wanted, but when would he ever get it? Tonight it seemed to him all his chances hung in balance, and he did not know how to wait two weeks, perhaps longer, for an opportunity to tip the scales.

Suddenly a thought occurred to him. Alicia must know what the Judge knew! Why wouldn't she? She was his wife. If she could tell him—

He debated telephoning her and decided against it at first. Then he changed his mind. There was a good possibility that Lester might be out this evening. Perhaps at a director's meeting of one of the banks in town. And he was a town councilman. He might easily be at any number of places and Gerry wouldn't know unless he phoned.

Abruptly he excused himself from the table. "I forgot something important," he said, meeting Susan's look of wide-eyed astonishment.

It was luck to have Alicia answer his call. He spoke guardedly.

"Something has come up. I must see you. Right away."

There was a second's silence, and by it he knew Lester was near and listening. After a moment she said lightly, casually "all right. Of course I'd forgotten. How will nine o'clock do? Is that too early for you."

"That's all right. Tonight, you mean, don't you?"

"Yes. Nine o'clock sharp, even if I have to skip breakfast." She laughed. "Shall I come to your house?" To Lester, Gerry heard her toss over her shoulder, "a meeting that slipped my mind."

Gerry said "I'll come up to you I'll borrow Donald's car."

"Fine." She hung up.

He went back to the table, unaware in his absorption of Susan's intent, troubled gaze.

It was after Donald and Jane, who were engaged now themselves, had wandered out to the screened summerhouse in the garden that Susan spoke. She and Gerry were in the living room and he was twiddling with the television knobs when she came up behind him, slipped her arms around him and laid her face against his coat.

"What's the matter, Gerry?"

"Nothing."

"Something is. I feel it."

He loosened her hold, turned her to face him and drew her close. At the feel of her soft, pliant body against his own, he thought again how long it would be before he could really claim her, before a place such as this would be his— if, indeed, it ever was—and against what odds he always had to fight, and he exclaimed harshly.

"Lesters the matter. —Lester Brandt."

"What about Lester Brandt?"

He caught hold of himself. He's been playing a hold-up game with me. That's what. I've had all I can take of it. For four months I've been there. And what have I done? Nothing! What progress have I made? None! He's moved me about like a —like an inconsequential office boy." His ire had risen again as he talked and now he put her from him with unaccustomed roughness. "Today he gave to understand that this might go on indefinitely! I'm going to push things along myself."

"How can you?"

He was standing a few feet from her, his dark eyes flashing in his stormy face as he made answer.

"I can all right! I can as soon as I find out what kind of a strangle hold your grandfather had on him to make him give me a job in the first place. Then Ill use it too."

"What kind of a. . ." She stopped. "I don't believe he had any" she said slowly. "He doesn't use strangle holds. He doesn't work that way."

"He must have. Why would Brandt have taken me in if he hadn't?"

"Why wouldn't he?"

"Because he. . ." He checked himself. "Because he doesn't like me, that's why. Because he hates my guts."

"But why should he?"

A flurry of anger went over him. She was miles from him in her thinking, in her attitude, beliefs, behavior, everything. And it came to him in that moment that so would she always be and that, with her, as with the rest of them he must watch himself, be on guard lest he offend her or betray himself.

He wanted to speak with the quick ill-temper that filled him but he controlled himself.

"Darling," he said lightly, mockingly. "Strange as it may seem to you, not everyone loves me."

"But I don't see why he. . ." She broke off. "Is it because of Alicia?"

He stared at her. "Alicia!"

Susan nodded. "She cares about you. Does he know?"

"How did you know?" He caught himself. "That's all nonsense, I mean, Susan. She. . ."

"It isn't nonsense at all. I saw that night of the party here when I told her in the conservatory that we were engaged. I saw then."

"You saw what?"

"That she cared. I saw it by the way she kissed you. She was kissing you when I came in." Her grave eyes were quiet on him "Please don't mind Gerry. I don't"

"You dont?"

"No. There's so little love in the world you know. And hers would never deliberately hurt us. Anyway, nobody ought to mind when it comes to someone. I've been thinking about it quite a lot. And I've been thinking that maybe I've had more than my share while Alicia has never had very much at all. She must have been lonely a good deal. With Lester, I mean. Besides— I like her. And," her eyes lifted to his in a shining glance. "I couldn't blame her exactly. I'm just sorry. That's all."

Gerry did not know what to say to Susan when she told him she knew all about Alicia. He was utterly at a loss. He stood there, lifted from the hot turmoil that had filled him a moment ago to a level where he felt nothing but bewilderment. He said, as he had said before in moments like this, "You're wonderful Susan. Susan —you're wonderful."

She went on.

"I'm sorry, because what can she do? What is there for her? You belong to me." She paused. as if she were waiting.

She came to him and slipped her hand into his and led him to the davenport.

"I want to know," she said "about this strangle hold business."

There seemed to be only one way to deal with her—by truth. Yet could he give her the truth? He felt his way with care.

"I don't know anything, Sue. I just believe that your grandfather must have some kind of an edge on Lester Brandt—some bill of goods against him. Otherwise Lester would never have taken me in. And unless and until I get that same bill of goods, he'll continue to push me around in his stinking plant. Do you see? It's for you Susan. It's all for you."

She was listening quietly. When he had finished, she said, "it sounds to me a little like blackmail."

"Suppose it is!" He sprang to his feet in a quick transition of mood, and began walking up and down before her. "Suppose it is. So what? That's the way business is done. You must know it, Susan!"

"I don't like to know it," slowly. "And I don't believe for a moment my grandfather used any such tactics. I don't really." She stopped. "Gerry."

"Well?"

"Don't try to fight Lester that way. Please! I'd much rather you would. . ."

"Would what?"

"Well, reach success by proving your own worth. I know it's slower. But it's the way my grandfather did. It's the way Timothy is. . ."

"Timothy!"

He whirled upon her, his face looking as she had never seen it look before, and for the first time she realized what tides of dark and violent passion ran beneath his sparkling surface. He said furiously,

"Don't talk Timothy and your grandfather to me! You seem to forget they have had advantages I've never had. I've always had to buck my way. It's never been made easy for me. I'm still bucking it. I have to use whatever weapons come to hand—blackmail or anything else." He turned from her and started across the room?"

"Where are you going?"

His voice as he answered, held only cold hard purpose now.

"I'm going to see Alicia. Your grandfather isn't here and I can't wait. Alicia can tell me what I want to know." He started on again.

"Gerry!"

He turned once more. She was still sitting there, her eyes big on him, the pale heart of her face desperately anxious in the frame of her dusky hair.

"Don't go," she whispered. "Don't go! Wait. Please wait. I'll telephone the Judge. I'll call him right away and tell him it's important. I know he'll come back if I ask him. Let him handle this. Please Gerry!"

"Let him handle it. Why? Because you think I can't? Or because you don't like the way I'm doing it?"

She did not answer.

"I don't suit you," he said, his voice ugly as she had never heard it. "I'm not good enough for you. Well, you'd better get used to me. Unless, of course, you'd rather have Timothy. You can be thinking it over while I'm gone" And he swung on his heel and went out. On the porch she heard him call out to Donald.

"May I borrow your car for about half an hour Don?" And Don's hearty reply, "sure. Sure!"

She remained where he had left her for a moment in shocked immobility. Then she sprang to her feet and ran after him to the front door.

"Gerry!" she called "Take me with you!"

But he had started the engine and did not, or would not, hear her. A second later the car rolled down the driveway and he was gone.

Alicia was waiting anxiously for Gerald to appear. Every once in awhile she would take the glasses from the bookshelf and look through them toward the other ridge across town to see if she could spot Donald's little red car. But the foliage was too thick. She would just have to wait.

Field Marshal Wavell's Body Borne Slowly up Thames R. As Britain Honors War Hero

London, June 7 (Reuters) — Field Marshal Earl Wavell, who led the Allied forces to their first land victory of the Second World War in North Africa, was given a hero's funeral here today.

In the first river funeral since 1806, when Lord Nelson's body was brought from Greenwich Palace to St. Paul's Cathedral, the Field Marshal's body was borne slowly up the Thames by launch from the Tower of London to Westminster Abbey.

Nineteen guns fired by the tower battery broke the morning silence as the Union Jack-draped coffin was placed on the launch.

The body had lain in state in the Norman Chapel of the Tower—of which Lord Wavell was formerly constable—since his death May 24.

Two naval vessels in escort formed the river cortege for the 25-minute voyage. Men of the Royal Navy and the RAF lined the route from the landing stage at Westminster to the Abbey.

Guards of Honor waited at the great door of the Abbey as the coffin was taken inside.

The pallbearers included Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, Gen. Sir James Steel, adjutant-general of the British forces; Lord Cunningham, Admiral of the fleet; Sir John Slessor, Air Chief Marshal; and Field Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke.

The King was represented by Field Marshal Lord Wilson and other representatives of the Royal Family were in the procession.

Lord Wavell was to be buried privately in the cloisters of his old school at Winchester.

Flags throughout London flew at half staff.

Pravda Charges Biological Tests Caused Plague

London, June 7 — (Reuters)— A Pravda article today accuses the United States of testing biological weapons on Eskimos in the far north of Canada last year, causing an outbreak of plague, a Tass report received here says.

The writer, reviewing a book on bacteriological warfare by Professor Theodore Rosebury of Columbia University, New York, described the professor as a "man-eater," who "savored with delight all the possibilities of applying bacteria and poisons."

Rosebury's book, "Peace or the Plague," which appeared last year, said biological weapons are superior to the atom bomb, Pravda says.

"It appears that biological weapons attract the American imperialist gangsters because they can be used to destroy or disable people without destroying their property," the paper adds.

Fund for Family Exceeds $7,000

Kitchener, June 7—(CP) — A sequel to the Waterloo township tragedy in March which took the life of an eight-year-old girl and sent three other persons to hospital will be played out later this year.

Carol Robertson died in that early morning blaze which destroyed her parents' three-room home two miles from Preston.

Robert Robertson, partially blind and deaf father, his wife, who is deaf and partially crippled, and an 18-month-old daughter were sent to hospital. But friends and neighbors rallied to aid the stricken family and the Robertson fire fund was launched.

Today it was disclosed the fund had reached more than $7,000 and plans had been made to construct a new home for the Robertson family later this year. In addition, firms have pledged clothing and complete furnishings for the home.

Radar Plane With TV Will Show How Ground Looks to Pilot

London, Ont., June 7 — (CP) — The RCAF hasn't devised a method of taking anyone up in a plane while they keep one foot on the ground. But it has done the next best thing.

On Saturday visitors to Centralia and Clinton air stations will be able to look down on the earth while keeping both feet on the ground.

As one of the demonstrations for air force day airborne television is being shown. A radar plane will fly over Western Ontario with a television camera scanning the terrain below. On the ground observers will watch the receiving screen and get a perfect view of how the ground looks to a pilot.

At London, Aylmer, Clinton and Centralia in Western Ontario as well as other bases across the land, open house will be held during the afternoon.

At London city airport the public are invited from 1.30-5.30 p. m.; at Aylmer 1-5 p. m.; Clinton noon until midnight, and Centralia 1-8 p.m.

LIE CALLS ON U.N. MEMBERS TO SEAT RED CHINA GOVT.

Appeals for Support Of 10-Point Peace Plan

Lake Success, N.Y., June 7 — (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie carried his demand for settlement of the Chinese representation dispute and ending the cold war to all members of the United Nations today.

He told them, in effect, that unless Red China is seated in the U.N. and the Russians come back to United Nations meeting, there con be no progress toward world peace.

By letter and by radio messages in 22 languages, Lie appealed for support of a 10-point peace plan he has already presented in person to President Truman and to Prime Minister Stalin during his "Save-the-U.N." mission to Moscow last month.

Lie also plugged his plan when he saw British and French leaders during his European trip.

He said in his letter he couldn't tell U.N. members what his confidential talks revealed but that all four countries left him confident they still rely on the U.N. for negotiation on world problems. His letter and memorandum also outlined concretely for the first time his 10 proposals for a 20-year peace program.

Lie said he is going to push his proposals before the 11-country security board "at the appropriate time" and also may take them into the full 59-country assembly that meets here Sept. 19. He has said in previous statements that if the Chinese question is not settled by then, the assembly would meet in confusion.

Lie is on record with a memorandum stating that a government in control of the people and territory of a country should be its representative in the U.N.

He has never denied that this means he favors the immediate seating of Communist China and the ouster of Nationalist Chinese representatives whose government is holding out on Formosa.

In his newest letter Lie says only "it is evident that no significant progress can be made while the members of the United Nations remain sharply divided on the question of the representation of one of the permanent members of the security council—the republic of China. It is necessary that this question be settled."

Here, in brief, are his 10 points:

1. Twice-a-year security council meetings, secret if necessary, attended by heads of governments and secret big five consultations.
2. New effort for atomic energy control agreement to prevent war use and promote use for peace.
3. New attempt to control other weapons of mass destruction and conventional armaments.
4. New attempt to provide the security council with its own armed forces.
5. Let every country enter the U.N., including Germany and Japan when they sign peace treaties.
6. Technical assistance program for economic development to expand during at least the next 20 years.
7. Greater use of the 13 U.N. specialized agencies, like the world health organization. Russia belongs to only two.
8. Wider respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms.
9. Advance colonial and semi-colonial peoples toward equality.
10. Use U.N. charter powers to speed up world law for a one-world society.

First Heat Wave of Season Welcomed in East Canada, Mid-80 Temperatures Thurs.

(By The Canadian Press)

The first real heat wave of the year is settling over eastern Canada—and folks love it.

Except for a brief warm-up about May 24, spring so far has been generally cool. But the hot weather most persons count on in June has arrived at last.

Afternoon temperatures in the 80s were forecast for southern Ontario again today and they are expected to reach 85 tomorrow at Windsor, St. Thomas, London, Wingham, Toronto and Hamilton.

Northern Ontario, as well, will start to feel the warmth today. By tomorrow, thermometers may read 80 degrees at Earlton and 85 in Sudbury.

Toronto, with 83 degrees, was Ontario's hot spot yesterday.

The tropical air, which swept into Ontario on strong southwest winds, moved eastward towards Ottawa and Montreal today, and afternoon temperatures in those cities were expected to rise to 80 degrees. However, most parts of Quebec east of Montreal probably will not feel the heat for another day or so.

It is pleasant but slightly cooler, in the Maritimes. Afternoon temperatures in the 70s today were forecast.

NUDISM, ARSON COST DOUKHOBORS YEARS IN PRISON

Vancouver, June 7 — (CP) — For parading in the nude and for burning homes, 372 Doukhobors must spend a total of 1,111 years in prison.

But where? Ask harassed government authorities. Jail space is difficult to find. Prominent British Columbia educationists believe that, although it will take a long time—more than two years at least— they are determined to succeed in solving the problem where others have failed.

Least worried about the years of strife in the mountainous Kootenays, 250 miles east of here, are the complex Sons of Freedom, 2,000 minority clansmen of the law-abiding orthodox Doukhobors.

This, it appears, is the big obstacle facing University of British Columbia scholars, who term the Doukhobor problem "unique and unbelieveably complex." This week, the Sons of Freedom still were whooping it up, protesting among other things, the "coming of a third world war" and modern day life in general.

50 Years Old

"Interested and qualified" members of U.B.C. faculty recently organized consulting and research committees to act on the problem, 50 years old in B.C. Before that, it was Saskatchewan's problem; and before that, Russia's. The Doukhobors originally came from Russia to escape Czarist persecution.

Dr. Norman Mackenzie, U.B.C. president, is provisional chairman; anthropologist Prof. H. B. Hawthorn is provisional director, both know the difficulties involved in enlightening the Sons of Freedom.

"Similar minority group studies in the United States, India and Australia have produced encouraging results," said Prof. Hawthorn.

"We consider this to be an "intelligent gamble" with many factors—known and unknown—standing between us and success."

Much Self-inflicted

Tragedy—much of it self-inflicted—has tagged at the heels of the sect. Its nude parades and fire raids have been broken up by police, jail terms and itching powder. But peace, when it does come, is only temporary.

In the meantime, where will the law-breaking sons, their wives and children be kept? The answer, indications are, will be discarded military installations on Vancouver Island, such as comox, the already-crowded B.C. penitentiary at New Westminister and eastern Canada jails.

Government policy in handling the Sons of Freedom has changed since depression days when hundreds were sent to Piers Island, a barren spot off Vancouver Island. It has since fallen into ruin.

The government appears to have discarded hopes of finding suitable, fire-proof accommodation at one spot for members of the sect sentenced for nude parading and arson—their traditional forms of protest.

Said one Doukhobor, held temporarily at Oakalla prison farm in suburban Burnaby: "Six months or six years, what is the difference? All are brothers."

Imprisonment means little to most of the fanatics. As long as they have their borscht and prayer, they appear happy.

QUOTES SHINWELL ON U.K. ECONOMY, COST OF DEFENCES

New York, June 7. (CP)—The New York Times today quotes Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell of Britain as saying Britain's national economy might have to be "impaired" to build up adequate defences.

In a newspage story from London, the newspaper quotes Shinwell as saying he hopes that would not occur for it would be "playing into the hands of a potential enemy."

Shinwell spoke at a luncheon to inaugurate the 50th Annual Royal tournament opening today. This statement, the Times says, created surprise among government officials.

These officials said they do not believe Shinwell's views express any new Cabinet policy.

The Times notes that one section of the communique issued by the recent meeting of the North Atlantic Council said its directives were formulated on the basis that defence development would not impair social and economic progress of member countries.

Commenting on Shinwell's statement, government officials said there is every likelihood Britain will have to increase her defence spending.

The Times says Shinwell hinted that the R.A.F. now has definite operational priority within Britain's defence set-up; that secrecy about post-war military secrets might be relaxed.

Hunt Ring Making 'Gold Buttons' Of Brass, Gold Dust

Toronto, June 7—(CP)—Police said today they are hunting down a high-grading ring which makes "gold buttons" out of brass filings and gold dust.

A raid on a west-end roominghouse uncovered 30 ounces of unrefined gold, brass filings, scales moulds, and a number of gold-colored buttons.

Norman Sileus, 25, and Cecile Klemenko, 25, both of Toronto, were charged with illegally possessing gold-bearing quartz. Police said two other men both from the North Bay district, are being sought.

The gold and the equipment was found in the false ceiling of a bedroom closet. Police said they believed the gold came from Northern Ontario and that the buttons were intended for sale in the United States.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, June 7 (CP)—Synopsis: Strong southwest winds swept warm tropical air over Southern Ontario on Tuesday, giving afternoon temperatures in the low 80s, the highest being 84 at Toronto.

In Northern Ontario, cooler air gave cloudy skies and scattered showers.

Conditions will be much the same throughout the province for the next two days except for temperatures in Northern Ontario, where it will be warmer today and cooler again on Thursday.

BILL TO ABOLISH HANGING 'TALKED OUT' IN COMMONS

Solicitor-General Not in Favor of Move

Ottawa, June 7 —(CP)—Two lawyers joined in the Commons Tuesday night in opposing a suggestion by a business man that hanging be abolished as punishment for murder in this country.

They were solicitor-general Lapointe, the man who reviews the evidence of murder trials for grounds of clemency, and A. L. Smith (PC—Calgary West), Calgary lawyer whose work as a crown prosecutor has sent more than one murderer to the gallows.

They "talked out" a private bill introduced by Ross Thatcher (CCF—Moose Jaw), Moose Jaw hardware merchant, which proposed the abolition of capital punishment. The bill failed to advance during the hour set aside for study of private legislation.

Mr. Lapointe, son of the late Justice Minister Lapointe, said it was parliament's duty to retain capital punishment as a deterrent to wilful murder, no matter how distasteful hanging might be.

Mr. Smith said that for wilful murder he was in favor of hanging by the neck until dead and may God have mercy on your soul."

The one-hour debate took the spotlight away from a dreary day-long study of veterans estimates, during which Veterans Minister Gregg answered a steady flow of opposition questions about the detailed operation of his department.

Earlier, the chamber shoved its prorogation drive up another notch by pushing four more minor bills along their legislative path.

The Senate gave second reading to a bill to tighten the safety provisions of the Canada Shipping Act and sent it to committee for detailed study.

Mr. Lapointe recalled that a Parliamentary committee formed in 1937 to study abolition of capital punishment had decided that there should be no change. It had tried to determine if there was some form of punishment more humane than hanging.

"The type of murderer hanged," he said, "is usually a vicious, cold-blooded killer."

The crime itself was usually premeditated and committed for gain or for some sordid motive. While it was impossible to show through statistics just how much of a deterrent hanging was to murder, Canada's reputation for sure and swift justice had a deterrent effect on crime generally.

From 1938 to 1948, 179 murder cases were brought before Canadian courts. Eighty-nine persons were executed, 46 had their sentences commuted to life imprisonment and 44 others won appeals against the death sentence.

Case in Connection With Air Disaster When 23 Killed

Stay of Execution Granted Guay Until January 12th

Quebec, June 7. (CP)—Hon. Antoine Rivard, Quebec Solicitor-General, today announced Chief Judge Albert Sevigny had granted a stay of execution till Jan. 12 for J. Albert Guay, small-time jeweler, who was scheduled to be hanged June 23 for time-bombing an airliner.

The announcement came after Genereux Ruest, 51-year-old watchmaker, was charged with murder in the Sault Au Cochon crash which took 22 lives.

Guay previously was convicted of murder for the death of his wife in the disaster. His original execution date was next June 23.

Ruest Hobbles Into Court

Ruest, a cripple, hobbled into court on crutches and was arraigned before Judge Achille Pettigrew of the Court of Sessions.

Preliminary hearing was fixed for June 14 and Ruest, grey-faced, was remanded to police cells.

May Stay Execution

Earlier the Quebec Attorney-General's Department made known it will decide later today whether to ask for a stay of execution for J. Albert Guay in case he should be needed as a witness in the case of the watchmaker.

This was made known by Solicitor-General Antoine Rivard.

The 42-year-old crippled watchmaker was arrested Tuesday night and charged with being an accessory before the fact in the murder of Mrs. Guay—a crime for which Guay is sentenced to be hanged June 23.

Mrs. Guay died with 22 others when a time-bomb exploded aboard a transport plane and sent it crashing into a mountain crag at Sault Au Cochon, not far from Quebec Sept. 9.

Rivard said "a decision will be taken sometime this afternoon" to decide whether the Crown will go before the Superior Court and ask for a stay of execution for Guay.

Others May Be

There were still possibilities that other persons, presumably implicated by Guay in a statement he made to police from his death cell at Bodreau jail near Montreal, would be arrested.

Mr. Rivard said however: "There will be no other arrests, for the moment."

The watchmaker will be arraigned today on a charge of "deliberately helping" Guay kill his wife who was a passenger on the airliner.

Although 23 persons died in the crash, Guay was specifically convicted of murdering his wife.

Ruest, described by police as a "wizard with his hands", was arrested Tuesday night as an accessory before the fact of Mrs. Rita Guay's murder. Guay now is awaiting execution at Montreal's Bordeaux jail June 23 after being found guilty of his wife's murder March 14.

The death penalty is mandatory in a case of accessory before the fact of murder.

Crown prosecutor Noel Dorion said Ruest "deliberately" helped Guay murder his wife by putting together a detonating device used in a time-bomb which sent a Canadian Pacific airliner crashing into a Sault Au Cochon, Que., mountainside, killing all 23 abroad.

Ruest was arrested by provincial police in a roominghouse where he was living.

Guay Refuses to Appeal

Peterborough's Centennial Show Is Opened

Peterborough, June 7 — (CP) — Two Ontario cabinet ministers, Lands Minister Scott and Labor Minister Daley, Tuesday opened Peterborough's Centennial Year Industrial Exhibition, sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club. Among the exhibitors are 24 of the city's industries.

Speaking at a dinner tendered the city's manufacturers by the Peterborough Industrial Commission, Mr. Daley praised the contentment, stability and prosperity which the free enterprise system brings. He told the manufacturers that "organization of labor is in my opinion a good thing and is definitely a part of the scheme of things today."

But, he added, he thought it was possible for a country to have too many laws. It was a fallacy to think you could legislate an ideal state.

Mr. Daley returned to Toronto where he is meeting today with union officials and Peterborough Lock Company officers to try to work out a solution to the lock workers' strike, now four weeks old.

Fed up With Driving After 'Nightmare'

Detroit, June 7—(AP)—Henry J. Bedell, 27, appeared in court on a reckless driving charge Tuesday.

Bedell said he tried to slow his nine-year-old car but the accelerator got stuck.

He tried to stop but the brake snapped off.

He tried to steer away from a row of parked cars but the steering wheel went haywire.

The judge fined Bedelll $10 for crashing into two cars. He also ordered him not to drive for six months.

"Your honor, that is a personal favor to me," said Bedell. "After that nightmare I'm fed up with driving."

Another Twist, Another Court Added To Career of Myron Kyzch Case

Vancouver, June 6 — (CP) — Another twist — and another court — was added today to the tortuous career of the Myron Kuzych case.

To try to understand the case — and even lawyers are getting confused by now — you have to go back to the beginning, five years ago like this:

1. Kuzych was expelled from the Boilermakers' Union for talking too much, publicly, against closed shop principles;

2. Kuzych took it to the courts, claiming he couldn't earn a living because most employers hired only union labor;

3. The Boilermakers' Union became the Marine Workers' Union through amalgamation;

4. A British Columbia Supreme Court Justice awarded Kuzych $5,000 damages in his suit against the union. The union was ordered to reinstate Kuzych;

5. Union officers William L. White, president, and William A. Stewart, secretary, refused to reinstate Kuzych. They said he had been expelled by the defunct boilermakers and couldn't be reinstated in a non-existant union.

6. White and Stewart were ordered to jail for contempt of court;

7. The two obtained a stay of proceedings and didn't go to jail;

8. The B. C. appeal court quashed the contempt order;

9. White and Stewart appealed the reinstatement order and the $5,000 award;

10. They lost;

11. White and Stewart now are taking their appeal to the Privy Council in London. They can do this because the case started before Canadian appeals to the Privy Council were abolished;

12. And Tuesday, Kuzych obtained special leave from the B. C. Appeal Court to go before the Supreme Court of Canada to appeal the reversal of the order committing White and Stewart to jail.

That's how the case stands now, after five years;

This could happen: The decisions of the Privy Council and the Supreme Court of Canada might conflict. The Privy Council might uphold White and Stewart and say they don't have to pay the $5,000 or reinstate Kuzych. And the Supreme Court might say White and Stewart should go to jail for refusing to obey a court order to reinstate Kuzych.

Or . . . but why confound confusion?

WREATHS REPLACED ON CENOTAPH

Wreaths sold last fall by the Canadian Legion poppy fund and placed on the Cenotaph on Station Street during Armistice Day ceremonies have been placed back in position about the monument.

Four Sightless Kittens Greet Return of Mother

The four sightless kittens feeding from a doll's bottle are back on a balanced diet today, following the return of their mother.

The sad story of the wayward mother and the orphan kittens was published in this paper yesterday but by eight o'clock last night they had been restored to one another. The mother cat had been found, and well taken care of, by a lady on East Bridge Street, who returned her at once following yesterday's notification of loss.

Several persons called last evening offering to take the kittens. The lady of the house says that the kittens will be given away when they have grown a little older.

And so ends the saga of the cat and the kittens which will now grow up and have their eyes opened.

Council Will Apply to Board For Final Approval of By-Law Authorizing School Debenture

Declared by one of its supporters to be a "step in the right direction" but still not completely clearing the air regarding the controversy between council and the Board of Education, City Council, Tuesday evening, ratified a previous recommendation to apply to the Ontario Municipal Board for final approval of a council by-law authorizing construction of a new public school at a cost not exceeding $300,000.

Council was told by the city solicitor that following final approval of their by-law by the Municipal Board, council would still have to give the by-law its third reading and then would have to vote the Board of Education the required money to build the school.

Prior to the taking of the vote there was a fairly lengthy discussion as to whether or not council would be obligated to give third reading to the by-law should members approve of the recommendation.

Different Opinions Expressed

In the opinion of Alderman Armstrong ratifying the recommendation would in no way "clear the deck" in the controversy between the two municipal bodies on the school question. He said, that the Municipal Board, in effect, would merely decide the city's financial ability to issue debentures for the amount.

"I may be wrong," replied Alderman Haig, "but in my opinion we would be authorizing an expenditure up to $300,000 and the city would be obligated to pass the by-law and provide the money."

Alderman Duffy felt differently. He said if the by-law came back from the Municipal Board and council failed to give it the third reading, they would be right back where they started.

Council Not Obligated

Clarifying the status of the city should the recommendation pass the city solicitor noted there was little doubt that the municipal board would approve the by-law when it could be shown the school could be built at a cost not exceeding the amount asked in the by-law.

"What happens to the third reading in council?" asked Mayor H. J. Allin.

Consensus of the solicitor's reply that council was not obligated to give third reading and even if the third reading was given the by-law, council would not have to provide the money until it was voted to the school board.

"This recommendation is merely clearing away another formality," he said.

Alderman Liddle was of the opinion that the controversy between council and the school board should be settled before approval of the by-law by the Municipal Board was asked.

"It just means whether we are willing to spend the extra money," said Mayor Allin. "With our 60 mill tax rate council will have to answer to the electors."

Mayor Will Protest

The Mayor went on to say that if the recommendation was passed by council he personally would protest to the Municipal Board. He quoted a telegram received from a Municipal Board official suggesting that council might ask the Board of Education to call for new tenders.

Alderman Thomas noted that acceptance of the second tender for construction of the new school would actually cost only one-eighth of a mill on the tax rate if spread over 20 years. This, he pointed out, would mean only 60 cents a year for a taxpayer with a $5,000 assessment, and few residential properties were assessed for that amount.

"Possibly the Board of Education is wrong, but for the sake of getting the school built, let's vote the money," he said.

Called Moral Commitment

Alderman Haig maintained that passing of the recommendation was a moral committment to raise up to $300,000. Referring to Alderman Thomas' breakdown of figures, Alderman Haig noted that $23,000, the extra amount called for by the second tender for the construction of the school, might not be much money but it would resurface Front Street.

"I am not trying to hold up construction of the school—we all know the school is needed—but it is wrong in principle for a public body to spend unnecessary money," he said. "It would establish a precedent which could be fired back at us."

Alderman Duffy said he was not condoning the school board in their acceptance of the second tender—he was merely seeking to allow the school board to get on with the job of building the school. "The important thing now is that we are holding up construction of the school," he said.

Amendment Withdrawn

Mayor Allin brought in what he termed an amendment to the recommendation requesting the school board to call for new tenders. When this was termed not an amendment to the motion, it was withdrawn.

Alderman Liddle maintained building the school at the second tender was asking for the tax rate to be increased. "I still object to the high price the school board are asking for the school. I maintain the contract should go to the lowest tender."

When the question was placed the recommendation asking for final approval of the by-law was carried 8-6. Favoring the recommendation were Aldermen Allen, Argue, Armstrong, Duffy, Hyde, Potter, Thomas and Tice. Opposing were Mayor Allin and Aldermen Clarke, Deacon, Haig, Latimer and Liddle.

Holidays Awarded

Council voted to give city hall staff members an all-day holiday on Saturdays through the months of June, July and August, providing a skeleton staff was maintained during that period, the schedule to be worked out by the city comptroller.

Also the city engineer was authorized to prepare estimates for the cost of certain alterations at the city treasurer's office, including the cost of a new floor.

The tender of the Roads Surfacing Company of Hamilton for the oiling of city streets was accepted at a price of $18,400, this being the lowest tender.

The H. J. McFarland Construction Company was awarded the contract for the re-paving of certain streets in the city at a cost of $41,855. Streets to be re-surfaced include Bridge Street, West from Front Street to Highland Ave.; Dundas Street West from the Devil's Elbow to Sidney Street, and Front Street from Dundas to the Upper Bridge.

In Need of Re-surfacing

Alderman Hyde suggested that the paving of Front Street be left over another year but Alderman Lattimer pointed out the street had been paved in 1912 and was badly in need of re-surfacing. He said the estimate for all the work planned had been $60,000 while the lowest tender was but $41,000. On this amount the city would get a provincial grant, the net cost to the city being but $27,000.

The tender was accepted subject to the approval of the Municipal Board.

A protest from a Dundas Street taxpayer objecting to the proposed construction of a motor showroom on the former Grace Chapel property was read before council. It was noted that the area was not restricted but Council favored the proposed building being kept as far as possible from the street so not to block the view.

Agreed to Contact Company

Alderman Armstrong as chairman of housing agreed to contact the Central Mortgage and Housing regarding the prevalence of poison ivy in the Churchill Heights housing section. There had been several complaints of children getting into the poison ivy it was stated.

Alderman Argue noted there was a weed by-law in the city which called for owners to do away with any weeds on their property. He said he would see the by-law was revived and enforced.

Following receipt of petitions from residents in the two areas, the city will advertise the intention of construction of sanitary sewers and water mains on a portion of Sidney Street and on Catherine Street from Yeomans to Sidney Street.

Recommends By-law

Under enquiries Alderman Lattimer asked on what basis circuses and carnivals were permitted entry into the city. He was told by Mayor Allin that circuses were charged $150 fee but that he was not aware of under what conditions carnivals operated. Alderman Lattimer noted there was no by-law covering licence fee for circuses and it was recommended such a by-law be prepared.

Alderman Tice wanted to know what had happened to the proposed incinerator and if there was any intention of carrying out the wishes of the electorate in the matter. No information was forthcoming as to whether there would have to be a second vote of the taxpayers, or whether there had been a firm contract for the purchase of incinerator equipment.

Council approved the purchase of a ten ton jack for use of the mechanic at the city barns, and also to the purchase of certain tools. Total cost will be in the neighborhood of $500.

A committee of Aldermen Argue, Armstrong, Butler and Potter was named by Mayor Allin to enquire into the city zoning by-law.

2 Young Waders Swept off Feet By Moira Current

Two unidentified youths narrowly escaped drowing at Lazier's Dam the other day while attempting to wade across the river.

The whirling water at the millchute swept their feet from under them and they slid into the stream.

A submerged wire strung across the river at this point for waders to use to enable them to keep their feet, caught one of the youths under the chin as he fell, inflicting a painful injury.

One of the pair managed to scramble to safety, and he assisted his companion out of the water.

Both youths lost fishing tackle, said to be expensive, during their watery adventure.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 7 (CP)— Buying power increased steadily as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today, lifting base metal and western oil stocks into new high territory. Industrials, leaders in Tuesday's downturn, attracted attention for some strong gains.

Western oils started the upturn. Foothills, Leduc West and Atlantic Oil sold at new highs. The advance pulled the exchange's index of representative western oil stocks to the highest point in 13 years.

Base metals also broke in'o new high territory. The group established a new high early Tuesday but lost almost all of the advance in later dealings. Today's prices edged ahead slowly and steadily. East Sullivan, MacDonald Mines and Consolidated Smelters were among the gainers.

Papers, utilities, steels, refining oils and constructions were in steadily increasing demand.

Junior gold producers dipped slightly and penny prospects were comparatively dull.

Phillip Carr New President Of Cheese Board

Phillip Carr, R. R. Stirling, was elected president of the Belleville Cheese Board at the annual meeting held here last night. He succeeds former president H. B. McColl, Wooler.

Other officers elected are: — 1st vice president, W. L. Pollock; 2nd vice president, Roy Sills; 3rd vice president, Blake Richards; secretary - treasurer, Fred Mallory; auditors, E. Bateman and H. L. Adams.

Past President McColl in a brief address prior to relinquishing office deplored the fact that cheese production in the district had noted a marked decrease in the past few years.

"It is a serious thing", he said. "When I came to the board a few years ago some 5,000 cheese were listed. Tonight there were a few over 3,000.

"Removal of rural residents to the city and high prices being paid by livestock buyers has cut down the cattle population", he said, "thus reducing the volume of cheese production here."

W. R. McCreary charged that the government "has messed up the cheese and butter business. The sooner the government gets out and lets the industry take care of itself, the better it will be."

"It is discouraging to the smaller factories to have to absorb milk-hauling charges. Patrons sticking to these factories deserve a lot of credit", he said.

Not Rosy Picture

President Carr in his inaugural address to the board said the future did not paint a rosy picture for the industry.

"In many communities," he said, "a lot of factories have not the proper finances. Farmers producing cream and calves get their money every week, while the milk drawers have not as yet received a cent for the month of May".

There has been a lot of discussion over the deduction of one cent paid per lb. butter fat for month of June being taken off for advertising purposes, the president said.

"We hear a lot about margarine, but very little about cheese. We in Canada eat 4½ pounds per capita when we should eat ten pounds. In my own family we eat 150 pounds a year, and if everybody did that we would have to import the food," he smiled. "I believe a bit of advertising would be all right."

Answers Questions

In answer to a query as to why the price differs in various parts of Ontario, Secretary Fred Mallory told the board that the latest government report stated that the price from Kingston eastward was 26 and seven-eighths and from Kingston to Cobourg,. 26 and five-eighths. The report he said, did not list prices in Western Ontario.

The next meeting of the board will be held on Tuesday, July 4th.

Prior to the sale of cheese, Mr. McCreary moved a vote of appreciation to Past President McColl for the efficient manner in which he had conducted the business of the board during the past year. Mr. McColl in reply, stated he had appreciated the co-operation given him and had enjoyed his association with the board as its 1949 president.

3,194 cheese were sold at 26⅝ cents. The following factories were represented:

25th Anniversary of W.M.S. Of United Church Celebrated

Yesterday afternoon the nave of Holloway Street United Church was well filled with the members, friends and visitors, who had assembled to commemorate the 25th year of the founding of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada. Lovely flowers, purple and gold tulips, fragrant lilacs and graceful spirea, palmlike Solomon's Seal and sweeping ferns lined the chancel, which was highlighted by a large silver "25". while soft, sweet music backgrounded all under the gentle touch of the organist, Mr. William Connor. Mrs. Fred Wilson, president of Holloway W.M.S. presided, and graciously welcomed the many present. Again, as on that first memorable occasion when the Society was inaugurated the grand old hymn "The Church's One Foundation," swelled forth in all its beauty and grandeur.

Following the singing of the hymn, Mrs. Clarence Holmes, led in the devotional, reading from the Gospel of St. John 1:1-14; "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was God." Basing her brief comments upon this verse. Mrs. Holmes said, that to begin anything was a serious business causing one to consider the means and possible end of the thing begun. Twenty-five years ago the Woman's Missionary Society had come into being, and the years past had been of great blessing. But those years were gone with their success, and happiness. Looking forward into the years that lie ahead, it must be with trust, hope and confidence; God's word still holds good, and the promise still holds true, "My God shall all Your need according to His riches in glory by Christ Jesus." (Phil. 4:19), and He satisfieth the longing soul." (Psa. 107:9).

Years Will Bring Problems

The years ahead will bring in many troubling problems in which much wisdom will be needed. But James said "if any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not, and it shall be given him." (James 1-:5). When this source is available to all who have faith, there is not much danger of going far wrong; but humbleness of heart is required. It the Woman's Missionary Society trust God fully, it has no cause to fear what the future holds, for His way shall be made manifest."

A short period of silent prayer followed the meditation, ending with the beautifully soft rendition of "Our Father Which Art in Heaven," by Mrs. Scriven, and Mrs. Daniels, which was later followed by a song-reading entitled, "Nearer My God to Thee," the reading being given by Mrs. Tucker, and the solo parts, by Mrs. Scriven. Mrs. Scriven and Mrs. Daniels also favored with a duet "Beautiful City." Mrs. Cordes dedicated the offering.

New President Introduced

Mrs. Hobbs introduced the new president of the Belleville Presbyterial, Mrs. McClellan, who said that she was proud to be the head of the Presbyterial, but felt humble in the face of the imposing office. Mrs. McClellan brought greetings from the Presbyterial which was highly pleased with every auxiliary, and the way in which the work had progressed in years past. "The United Church," said Mrs. McClellan, "is a spear point, composed of the Presbyterian which had brought dignity, grace and order to the union; the Congregational had brought the open Bible, and the Methodist Church, spirituality."

Mrs. McClellan then introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. J. W. K. Harris, of Peterborough, who brought an interesting and informative talk on the Woman's Missionary Society in Canada from its first inception down to the present time, of its work, and its aims.

The first W.M.S. in Canada was begun in a humble home in Princetown, P.E.I. in 1825, where a few women met together to discuss ways and means with Mrs. Edward Pidgeon, of helping the church by using their offerings in two equal ways, to buy Bibles and Psalms, and to support the minister who preached and spoke in the native Gaelic. The name adopted at this time was "The Female Society for the Propogation of the Gospel." In 1857 a society was formed known as the Interdenominational Ladies Society, and in 1882 it was reorganized and called the name it now bears "The Woman's Missionary Society, coming into union in 1846 with the Women's Foreign Mission Society which was formed at Knox Church, Toronto, for the promotion of work among women and children.

One Department

In the beginning there was but one department, but now there are many, comprising the Home and School, which met a great need especially in the western provinces where many foreigners are, by assisting them in the English language, and by wielding a wonderful influence in molding lives together. Then little hospitals were built under the W.M.S. These were small with mud roofs and sawdust floors, of three rooms each, but filled a great need in the locality for sickness was rife during the gold rush period, and many died in great numbers. The first real hospital was at Betta, Manitoba.

Community work is another department of the W.M.S. and aids those who cannot help themselves. The United Church preaches to 20 different nationalities every Sunday. One of those Orientals converted was Dr. Victoria Chung. A Chinese home in Vancouver, at Victoria, was founded as a refuge for Oriental women to save them from the White Slave traffic, and this home became a terror to evildoers. One half of Alberta and Northern Canada is Oriental, and Toronto has a large population. There are 70 nationalities, 100 languages and dialects spoken in Canada.

Race discrimination is very strong in some places. Mrs. Harris told a story of the days of slave freedom in the States. A Negro mother brought her little girl to see Abraham Lincoln as he lay in state. Lifting the little girl in her arms to see the dead president, she said "Take a long look, honey, take a long look; he died for you". This race discrimination ought not to be. Is it nothing to you that women spend on themselves more than all Canada spends on missions? So few attend Sunday School in that part of Canada. Is it nothing to you that only six missionaries have been sent to the foreign fields in 25 years, and of these only three are in active service, and there are seven Presbyterials in Canada. Doctors, nurses, and missionaries are urgently needed.

Speaker Asks Question

Mrs. Harris ended her talk with the heart-searching query, "For God so loved the world". Do you? and quoting the verse, "O God of Love, brood over our souls, and from passion make us free; lead us to the goal where we can love like Thee".

Mrs. Bell favored with a lovely solo, "Thy Will Be Done", which was followed by a reading by Mrs. Tucker, "A Song in the Market-Place", with Mrs. E. M. Hubbs at the piano.

Mrs. Leonard Reid moved a vote of thanks, to Mrs. Harrison for her memorable address; to Mrs. McClellan for her fine talk, and to each member of the Auxiliary who had added so much to the afternoon; to the president, Mrs. Fred Wilson; to the vice president; to the decoration committee for their lovely flowers, and to the group leaders and assistants for their untiring efforts in making the 25th anniversary one long to be remembered.

Afternoon tea was served following the meeting, in the Sunday School room.

Assistant Trade Commissioners Visit City

Visiting the city primarily to acquaint themselves with various aspects of the cheese industry, four assistant trade commissioners with the Department of Trade and Commerce were guests on Tuesday of the executive of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association.

The four assistant commissioners who are slated for duty in foreign countries were guests of the cheese producers' executive for noon luncheon at the Country Club and had earlier conferred with directors on matters pertaining to the cheese industry. In the afternoon they were taken on a tour of two cheese factories in the Belleville area, as well as on a tour of the city.

Visiting the city were William Vanvleit, who will shortly go to Frankfort, Germany; C. J. Small, who is going to The Hague, Netherlands; W. F. Hillhouse, going to London, and D. B. Laughton, going to Bogota, Colombia.

The local Chamber of Commerce received the communication from Ottawa to arrange the meeting with the executive of the cheese producers' association. The four assistant commissioners are agriculture specialists. Cheese factories visited included Foxboro and Zion Hill.

At the luncheon at the Country Club the guests were welcomed by Mayor H. J. Allin and by F. S. Follwell, M.P., for Hastings South. Attending the luncheon were representatives of the local Chamber of Commerce, C. N. Heath, secretary of the Cheese Producers' Association and S. L. Joss, of the Belleville Cheddar Cheese Company.

BRITISH WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

Members of the Women's Institutes will find interest in a belated wedding present which has been received by the Princess Elizabeth. The B.B.C. reporter described the gift recently. It is a book written and compiled by the members of the Women's Institutes throughout England and Wales, the dedication of which reads, "A token of love and loyalty to Her Royal Highness by the Women's Institutes of England and Wales on the occasion of the royal wedding with their best wishes for Princess Elizabeth's future happiness."

How the institutes spread in Britain is mentioned. "Women's Institutes are a feature of British rural life. These village clubs, which were started in Canada in 1897, came to Britain in 1913 and now exist in a very large number of villages. Nearly all women in a district, rich and poor alike, belong to the Institute and one one afternoon a month they meet to hear a talk given sometimes by a local inhabitant but often by a visiting speaker. These talks are widely varied; some deal with domestic subjects, others with life in different countries or problems of the day. There are monthly competitions in discussions and various functions are arranged throughout the year. The regular gatherings do much to weld the different sections of village life firmly together and the Women's Institute at Sandringham, the Royal Family's country home in Norfolk, has Queen Elizabeth as its president and Queen Mary, Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret amongst its members."

The gift of the English and Welsh Institutes to the Princess was recently described in the B.B.C. "Radio News Reel" by Valentine Selsey. He said it served to give the Princess something to remind her of the Kentish hopfields, the Welsh mountains, the Yorkshire dales, the Lincolnshire wolds — all the colorful counties which she visits during the course of her duties. Each county has provided material for two pages, one in writing, the other in pictures and designs. There is amongst many the Somerset legend that Christ came to the county on the ship of Joseph of Armathea; the story of the first Home Guard, said to have been formed in Gloucestershire one hundred and fifty years ago to repulse Napoleon; a picture of buzz bombs flying over the Isle of Thanet and the twelfth century bridges over the Medway. The book is uniform for all writing has been done in Gothic lettering by a single scribe. A colored map of England and Wales shows the number of Institutes at the time of the Princess's wedding and the dedication page bears sixty illuminated coats of arms, one or more for each county. The book is bound in red goat skin and on its cover is a gold leaf patern of flowers ringing the cipher E. This is the only letter on the cover, except for the date of the wedding, November 20, 1947."

The present is a touching and impressive tribute to their future sovereign from the countrywomen of England and Wales.

Ontario Women's Institutes naturally feel proud of the Institutes in Britain which have had such rapid development in the past fifty-three years. Naturally the thousands of the Province's members of the W.I.'s take more than ordinary interest in the gift their English and Welsh sisters made to the Princess.

AIRPORT HOSTEL FOR ANIMALS

A certain sign that the world is moving forward is seen by the latest application of the science of aviation is the news that in London at the airport there is being built the world's first hostel specially designed for animals which are carried by planes. In ancient London the new building is being put up at the airfort for the care of animals. The building will cost about $36,000 and will incorporate a surgery as well as a dispensary.

It will provide comfortable quarters for quarantine or weather-bound flying animals, from cats to elephants and from snakes to crocodiles.

Such progress could scarce have been anticipated when the plane first proved itself. This service had to wait for a while until flying has a great impulse behind it that in the course of time such a hostel could be planned and serve a real need.

Flying has fooled many people with the rapidity of its growth. But it has also the long glance forward which throws out hints that anything like the full sweep of the use of the means of travel by air is now getting into its full stride.

A former communist member of the British House of Commons is being given a pension of 200 pounds per year, due to his 15 years in the House, during which time he did all possible to destroy the system. As some Russian may be prompted to remark, it is a lot better than going to Siberia, comments Port Arthur News Chronicle.

If a man empties his purse into his head, no one can take it from him. An investment in knowledge always pays the best interest. — Benjamin Franklin.

UNDISCOVERED VERSES

I reach my desk at nine to think
Of lines for printer's type and ink,
And many a verse, no doubt, drifts by
To which both blind and deaf am I.

A cardinal upon a tree
Is pouring out his song for me,
But all he tells with joy must wait
For one with magic to translate.

There must be glories round about,
If only I could sort them out,
But undiscovered they must lie
'Til someone wiser passes by.

Someone with clearer sight will see
The touch of charm denied to me,
And he, more sensitive than I,
Will catch the verses drifting by.

U.S. Businesses Closing Down Rapidly in China

By CLARKE BEACH

(Associated Press News Analyst)
(For DeWitt Mackenzie)

The last United States contact with the Chinese people now is maintained by a brave and determined little band — the missionaries, educationists, welfare people and doctors who represent private organizations in China.

Between 1,600 and 1,800 are left, scattered throughout China, according to one official.

All American officials are gone. American businesses are closing down rapidly.

But the private religious, philanthropic and educational organizations have shut few of their establishments. Some of their personnel have been evacuated, but their work is being carried on by native Chinese.

The communist government has not given them much trouble yet, according to Protestant and Roman Catholic sources. But most of them seem reconciled to the belief that their days are numbered. Already the communist government is closely supervising all education — the courses, faculty and so forth. It is generally expected that the missions' religious work will be curtailed when the atheistic reds get around to it.

Last to suffer from communist exclusion, it is believed, will be the medical missionaries, for China is desperately in need of medical help.

The representatives of the private organizations say that their only hope of being tolerated by the new communist masters of China lies in neutrality. They can only carry on the work of religion, charity, welfare and education.

They are aware that they are being closely watched. Restrictions are gradually being tightened. Some leaders who have come from China recently predict that the pattern of red conquest of Eastern Europe eventually will be followed in China—purges, spy trials, religious persecution.

Just now the new Chinese government is too busy with gigantic problems of administration which are more urgent.

Letter to the Editor

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

One hundred and sixty-six years ago, the 16th of June, a considerable sized band of United Empire Loyalists arrived at the township of Adolphustown in the united counties of Lennox and Addington and formed what is generally regarded as the first permanent settlement of a good size in this locality, which at that time was part of the colony of Quebec. A few years after the arrival of the Loyalists, in 1792 there was built at the abovementioned township a Methodist Church and an Anglican Church. The old Methodist Church still stands, the Anglican Church was destroyed by fire many years ago and was replaced by a fine stone church. From Adolphustown, the Loyalists gradually made their way up the Bay of Quinte from time to time. In 1797, Colonel William Bell started a store at what is now Belleville, and in 1799 a group of about fifty families landed at what is now Belleville, near where the U.E.L. Monument now stands.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

TAILOR FROM THE VIENNA WOODS

A New York paper recently carried the following U.P. dispatch from Paris:

Quote—

Rudolf Bing, new general manager of the Metropolitan Opera House, said today that he had come to Europe on the biggest talent search in operatic history.

Asked about the offer last year of Billy Rose, Broadway producer and columnist, to take over the Met and make it pay, Mr. Bing asked:

"Who's he?"

When reminded of Rose's identity, the impresario laughed and added:

"The problems of the Met will never be solved by Broadway methods."

Close quote . . .

Judging from the above, its evident that Mr. Bing has a sense of humor and, as Groucho Marx once said, if there's anything I like in a man or an opera director it's a sense of humor. But on the offchance that some folks may have missed the hilarious overtones of Rudy's remarks, perhaps I ought to translate them and let everybody in on the joke.

First off, our Viennese friend wants us to know that he's in Europe on what he modestly calls "the biggest talent search in operatic history." An admirable undertaking, but seeing as how the Herr Direktor recently put Kirsten Flagsadt on the Met payroll, the natural question is whether the talent he's lokoing for is in the tonsil or treason department.

A second question, equally natural, is why Mr. Bing doesn't case this country for talent before taking his eyes and eardrums to the Continent. After all, when a gent with threadbare spats is imported to boss our No. 1 opera house and handed plenty of steak and salary for so doing, it would seem the part of good public relations for him to first give the home talent a careful look-listen. It may very well be that the larynxes in Filadelfia, Germany, are superior to those in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, but you can't prove it by Marian Anderson. Plus which, if there's a burgeoning Brunhilde on this side of the Atlantic, at least her nose and dossier are clean.

Next we come to Rudy's sidesplitting "Who dat?" when asked about me. When you come right down to it, there's no reason why Mr. B. should ever have heard his or hosannah of an American producer who has spent the last quarter of a century in the entertainment business. After all, it wasn't until recently that this Dapper Danubian had either time or incentive to keep up with theatrical news. According to the record, he had spent a good deal of his adult life as amanuensis and assistant to various assistants, but nowhere do I find any mention of his having produced so much as a necktie — although, come to think of it, he did sell a few of them when he clerked in a London haberdashery during the war.

Actually, unless he suffers from a slapsy-lapsey memory, Brother Bing was only kidding when he said, "Who dat?" The fact is that he's made two tries in recent years to strike up a nodding acquaintance with me — both of which left me nodding. Once in London and once in New York, he did his darnedest to fast-talk me into backing some arty venture he was fronting for, and each time I shooed him off with the polite explanation that my policy was, "Neither a borrower nor a sucker be."

There is, of course, an outside chance that this joker no longer remembers trying to put the bite on me — in which event we're even because I didn't know who he was when the Met announced his appointment. For a long time, I thought the Bing in question was Herman Bing, the baggy-pantsed Dutch comedian—who else would hire Flagstadt and fire Melchior? Who else would substitute the grunt-and-groan German operas for the melodic Italian ones?

The final jest is rollicking Rudy's statement that "the problems of the Met will never be solved by Broadway methods." Mebbe so, but it seems to me that this carpy contention doesn't quite jibe with his much publicized efforts to sign Garson Kanin, Margaret Webster, Danny Kaye and Oscar Hammerstein II. If any of these Times Square tots ever set foot or adenoids in La Scala, then I'm a monkey's uncle and Mr. Bing is an opera impresario.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE EVENING

It is the dusk of a beautiful day that has always appealed to me most. The lowering sun, the quiet of the setting wind, the evening orchestration of the birds in their Good Night songs, and the lengthening shadows of the day, all contribute to peace of mind and to one's gratitude for having lived to experience this holiest of hours.

When the idea of growing older was remarked to John Burroughs, the naturalist, he said this: "The mornings has its delights and enticements, the noon has its triumphs and satisfactions, but there are a charm and tranquillity and a spiritual uplift about the close of the day that belongs to neither."

Poets have acclaimed this most peaceful part of the day in many a beautiful poem. "Sunset and Evening Star," wrote Tennyson, and the poet Thomas Gray wrote these lines in his famous "Elegy:"

"Now fades the glimmering landscape on the sight,
And all the air a solemn stillness holds,
Save where the beetle wheels his droning flight,
And drowsy tinklings lull the distant folds."

The evening is for meditation, friendly conversation, and good cheer. It is a time for review of the day's deeds, as well. Time for appraisements. Time for relaxation and pleasant reading, as the lights are turned on, and time for silent thanksgiving for having lived to experience this most welcomed time of the day.

All over this great land, and world, during the Summer months, with millions of people taking their vacations, as the evening comes around, there will be laughter and gaiety on many a verandah, water edge, cottage, and gathering place, to celebrate the evening under the stars.

How inspiring the angelus at sunset in its call for prayer! And a benediction to close the day, wrapped in its evening drapery, and ready for "pleasant dreams."

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

It is wonderful to live near enough one of these modern housing projects to be able to see the little darlings of brick or frame pop, so to speak, into existence.

There is a sort of popcorn quality about the whole enterprise. We might call them the popcorn suburbs.

One day, in a large vacant tract of land on the margins of the city, you see a mighty bulldozer start work. Coming home from down-town, at eventide, you behold great heaps of earth in orderly rows. The excavations, the cellars, are being dug in modern, mechanized style.

A few days later, the trucks are delivering the wooden materials in tidy piles all over the pasture. A few days later come the bricks. The whole enterprise follows the most modern streamlined industrial technique. It has the grisly quality of wartime production. These housing projects are laid on, the way Montgomery and Eisenhower built up the supply dumps in Italy and France.

There is a sort of "command performance" air about these miniature suburbs. Across the centuries, men built their homes almost as birds built their nests. They chose a site, and slowly added stick upon stick and stone upon stone. Building a house was a thoughtful business; a house was the taking-shape of men's thoughts.

But now, a great blind machine scoops out a hundred cellars in a week; a hundred identical frameworks are methodically delivered to the exact spots; the bricks, the roofing materials, some green, some red, artfully differentiated every other house, arrive not a day before, not a day after they are needed.

Up until now, none of these housing projects have dropped a cellophane cover over each of the little houses on completion. Probably only because they are already occupied the day before completion.

PREVENTION AND RELIEF OF LIVER TROUBLE

What I said about the asininity of approaching the doctor with your own ready-made diagnosis of "high blood pressure," "bad nerves," "acidosis," "autointoxication," "lazy liver," "mucous colitis" or the like, is just plain common sense. But I concede that is merely telling you what not to do about liver trouble, if you think that's what ails you. Oh, ah! Read the preceding article on this subject again, stupid, and you'll find I did tell you what to do about it. What! You don't see it in the paper? Well, then, we must conclude that you are stupid, or else the paper omitted part of the copy I supplied—the part saying:

"When you consult a physician leave your own funny notions as to the cause and nature of your trouble out of it . . . in other words, tell the doctor what you complain of, not what you think a doctor would diagnose."

I offer today some suggestions which can do no harm in any case and may do good in many cases of real or imaginary liver trouble, including chronic gall-bladder trouble. The measures I suggest are primarily preventive but a great many reports from readers indicate that these measures may bring considerable relief in chronic cases.

First in massage of liver and gall-sac twice a day ,automatic massage, that is. There isn't room here to give the necessary practical instructions for this; if you care to try it out send twenty-five cents and stamped self-addressed envelope for booklet How to Breathe and begin regular practice of the breathing exercise described on pages 9, 10 11 and 12.

Second is a dozen rolls every day, half a dozen first thing in the morning on rising, another half dozen last thing at night before retiring. I call 'em somersaults. What Webster calls 'em I don't know, but my kind of somersaults are not what Webster calls somersaults, so if you try a flying leap in the air sue Webster for any damage you suffer. One rolling my kind of somersault never loses contact with ground or floor. Rolling a dozen somersaults daily is particularly beneficial for persons with or without chronic liver and/or gall-bladder trouble who are subject to "poor circulation," sallow complexion and cold feet. Not that these are in any way symptomatic of liver or gall-bladder trouble. A commodity you will find me always fresh out of is symptoms. I have no lists or catalogues of them for you to try on, and I leave to lesser quacks the long-distance interpretation of any symptoms you may have in mind.

Third is increased efficiency of digestion, to be obtained through good dentistry—that is, the proper treatment of decayed or infected teeth by your dentist and immediate dentures to replace missing teeth, so that you keep all 28 to 32 teeth—your own or the artificial ones made and installed by your dentist—functioning. Only by good mastication of food can anyone have or maintain good digestion. This is no mere fancy or history. It is a plain statement of fact based on elementary physiology and many years of study and observation. With good, functioning teeth or dentures one with liver or gall-bladder trouble has a fair chance to prevent serious complications or even to get complete relief. With neglected teeth there is little chance of any such satisfactory results from any treatment.

The fourth suggestion I offer people who have chronic liver and/or gall-bladder trouble is moderate reduction in the total caloric value of the daily food intake. Not rigid dieting for a week or a month, but limiting oneself to, say, two-thirds or one-half of the amount of sugar or white flour one has habitually consumed daily; or potato; or any other carbohydrate (sugar or starch) item that has contributed most of the calories from day to day.

In the next talk on this subject we'll tell how to live happily on a moderate intake of carbohydrate.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Alcohol and Vitamin B-Complex

Please explain the relation between alcohol and vitamin B. Does alcohol destroy it, absorb it or destroy one's appetite for foods rich in vitamin B? (M. M. B.)

Answer—The person who consumes more or less alcoholic beverage or liquor daily gets enough calories from the alcohol to partly satisfy requirements and hence has less appetite or desire for regular food. Even nondrinkers get scarcely enough vitamin B and other nutrients which are essential to maintain health and vite, from our refined modern diet. The alcoholic individual's daily intake of the essential vitamins and minerals is so low that he or she nearly always develops multiple neuritis or other modification of beri-beri eventually.

Odd Notion of Nutrition

Young woman from Baltic Europe refuses to eat soup made from beef, chicken or any kind of bones, as she says it is the cause of arthritis and rheumatism. (Mrs. T. V. M.)

Answer—Little Lessons Noc. 8 and 12 might clear some of the confusion from the young woman's mind. No. 8 is What to Eat and Why. No. 12 is The Ills Called Rheumatism. For either booklet send 25 cents and stamped self-addressed envelope.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WITHIN A WALL

Regardless of what we may believe about predestination as applied to the life of individuals, certainly there is a setting with a wall built around it within which life operates. It is probably best expressed in the statement found in the Bible: "Behold, I set before you this day life and good, death and evil."

We can have life and good, or, on the other hand, we can have death and evil. We are perfectly free to choose between them. But the framework within which we choose is rigid and unyielding. We cannot have life and evil, nor can we have good and death. They do not go together because the universe is not built that way. Man seems to have a certain freedom of choice but he has it within a rigid, prescribed order built into the nature of the universe.

In other words, we cannot beat the game. There is a wall round about us within which we are perfectly free to operate and within which also we can be very happy. But the wall is there. This wall consists of God's moral requirements, which we cannot break or transgress. We can never break one of the Ten Commandments; if we disobey them, they break us.

Play the game according to the rules which a higher power has laid down, and everything will be all right. Try to break those rules and everything — including the very destiny of life itself—will be all wrong.

'Job Opportunities Good' Says Local Employment Officer In Releasing Figures for May

Trenton —(Special)— According to figures released today by the local National Employment Office, the employment situation in Trenton has changed very little from last year at this time.

"Employment opportunities in this vicinity are very good, due to the fact there is a great deal of construction going on at the present time," said Acting Manager J. K. White in making the announcement.

"At the present time, the demand is particularly strong for heavy construction laborers. It is expected that as the summer progresses, we may not be able to satisfy the demand for workers in the building trades locally," Mr. White continued.

Mr. White expressed the opinion that the "big housing projects being carried out in Trenton will take up the slack caused by reductions in canning factory operations."

Last year on June 1st there were 310 unplaced job applicants registered with the local office. This year 313 are listed as being available for work. As of May 31, there were 269 Unemployment Insurance claimants as compared with 307 on May 31, 1949.

These figures do not apply to Trenton alone but to the surrounding territory served by the Trenton office as well. This 500 square mile area includes; Sidney township in Hastings county; Hillier and Ameliasburg in Prince Edward, and Brighton, Cramahe and Murray in Northumberland.

Two Trenton textile firms reduced their working week from five days to four last month. Mr. White said that this means "it is especially difficult to place female workers, as the textile factories which used to absorb many girls are reducing their operations." Of the 269 Unemployment Insurance applicants, 97 are women.

Trenton Defeats Grafton Girls By 14-5 Score

Trenton—(Special)— In eight-and-one-half innings, Trenton Spotless handed Grafton a 14 to 5 defeat in a Lakeshore Ladies Softball League encounter at Bayshore Park Tuesday evening.

Trenton collected 11 hits off Grafton pitcher Pat Kernaghan. Sally Twigg and Jean Robertson each hit a triple for the cleaners. Helen Drake and Marie Jeffery both hit doubles. Audrey Carswell was the most consistent hitter on the local team, racking up four singles in four trips to the plate.

In holding the visitors to six hits, Trenton pitcher Sally Twigg gave up five walks and struck out seven.

For Grafton, Pat Kernaghan allowed only two free trips to first base and struck out five. Trailing by a score of 11 to 2, Grafton almost got back into the game in the top half of the eighth when Kernaghan slammed out an inside the park homer with two on and nobody out. However, Sally Twigg stood the test and stopped the rally at three runs as the next three batters were retired in order.

Errors proved costly for Grafton girls who committed 10 to Trenton's seven. In the base stealing department, Grafton stole six compared with the four picked up by the local lassies. Both pitchers went all the way.

The campaign is being carried out on three fronts. Fred Parker is supervising the collections from industries. William Browne and W. B. McClung are joint chairmen of the committee canvassing retail merchants and Mrs. A. S. McConnell is co-ordinating the efforts of local women's organizations.

On Saturday, June 10, a tag day will be held to raise money for the flood relief fund under the auspices of all Trenton Women's Clubs. As this Saturday is Air Force Day, the RCAF has given permission to tag the Air Station in view of the national emergency nature of the cause.

E. H. Hicks, Bank of Montreal, accountant is treasurer of the joint town effort and contributors are urged to let Mr. Hicks know about any donations made through other chartered banks before the present campaign was started so that Trenton will get credit for all money turned over to the fund by Trenton residents.

PASSES BUCK IS CLAIM

Ottawa, June 7 — (CP) — Clarie Gillis, C. C. F. member of the Commons for Cape Breton South Tuesday night accused the government of 'passing the buck' on the question of combatting unemployment.

In an address on the CBC's program of free time for political parties, he said Canada has a dangerous unemployment problem which demands immediate federal action.

On the same program, Hazen Argue (CCF — Assiniboia) said the government "stands idly by while our markets slip away and the spectre of agricultural surpluses returns to haunt the producer."

WEDDINGS

PULVER—BROOKS

A lovely double ring ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Stirling, on Saturday, June 3, when Doris Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald S. Brooks, became the bride of Morris William George Pulver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin G. Pulver, of Carrying Place, Ont. The Rev. J. P. Henderson officiated before a background of apple blossoms, carnations, tulips, and lilacs, with pink and white streamers carrying out the nuptial effect.

Miss Nina Hodgins provided the wedding music, and Miss Jean Rathbun, soloist, pleasingly rendered "Because", during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in her bridal gown of white slipper satin with sweetheart neckline, long, tight fitting sleeves ending in lily points over the hands, long-waisted, molded bodice, to whose scalloped waistline, the full skirt was gathered. Her silk net, lace-trimmed finger-length veil was held by a white satin Juliet cap. She carried an open white Bible with lily-of-the-valley and cream roses.

Miss Elsie Richardson, of Belleville, her only attendant, was gowned in pale green taffeta, with matching braided halo and mitts, and carried Talisman roses and sweetpeas in line arrangement.

Mr. Wilbert Green, Carrying Place, was groomsman.

At the reception, which was held at the bride's home, the bride's mother, attired in figured grey silk and corsage of Talisman roses and lily-of-the-valley, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a brown figured silk, with corsage of cream roses and sweetpeas, received the guests.

For the wedding trip to Toronto, and points west, the bride chose an ensemble of robin's egg blue with black accessories. Upon their return, they will reside in Rednersville, Ont.

Out-of-town guests were present from Selby, Lansdowne, Consecon, Carrying Place, Thomasburg, and Belleville.

LAPALM—FRANKLIN

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday, June 3, at 10 o'clock at Madoc, by the Rev. Father J. D. Hyland, of Betty Laura Victoria Franklin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Franklin, of Queensboro, and Raymond Adolphus Lapalm, Madoc township, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Felix Lapalm.

The bride wore a wine gabardine suit with navy accessories and a corsage of cream roses.

The bridesmaid, Mrs. Wm. Franklin, sister-in-law of the bride, wore a grey gabardine suit, black accessories and corsage of red roses.

Mr. Bernard Lapalm, brother of the groom, was groomsman.

Dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents to the immediate families.

Mr. and Mrs. Lapalm will reside on his farm in Madoc township.

Women Can Make Bet In Royal Enclosure

London —(Reuters)— Women in the royal enclosure from which the Royal Family watch the races can bet at this month's Ascot race meeting "on the rail" if they wish to do so.

"The Duke of Norfolk, who is His Majesty's representative, has never received instructions that women may not, equally with men, place bets with the bookmakers who line the rails of the royal enclosure," said an official at the Ascot offices in St. James' Palace.

The official made it clear that there was no foundation for a suggestion at last year's royal meeting that some women had been asked to leave because they placed their bets in this way, or that their names had been taken and that they would be barred from the enclosure this year.

"There has been no change of policy," the official said. "There seemed to be a great deal of doubt and uncertainty among some racegoers on the point last year. The position was precisely the same last year as it is now."

Declaration of Human Rights Topic Under Discussion

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights was the topic for discussion at the meeting of the Women's Guild held Monday evening at the home of Miss Josephine Tickell, Church Street.

Hazel Thompson presided and welcomed the guests. Mrs. Wishart invited the Guild to have the June meeting at her home for a pot luck garden supper.

The nominating committee was appointed consisting of Mrs. M. P. Buck, Mrs. G. Wishart, and Miss Hazel Thompson.

Mrs. A. Wells conducted the devotional period based on the spirit of the Good Samaritan.

Mrs. S. D. Scripture chaired the discussion on Human Rights and Freedoms, assisted by Mrs. Wilkes, and Miss R. Fox.

30 Articles

On Dec. 10, 1948, the United Nations Assembly meeting in Paris adopted the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. This document of 30 articles sets forth the familiar civil liberties. It declares that everyone without distinction of race, color, language, creed, or sex, has the right to employment to the free choice of a job to a fair remuneration, to equal pay for equal work, to as much education as his abilities merit. It proclaims that everyone everywhere has the right to an existence worthy of human dignity and to economic and social well being. The Declaration has been lauded as one of the greatest achievements of our times, a milestone in the long road to freedom. It has also been derided as a collection of high flown platitudes signifying nothing. However, it sets a goal for mankind. The 58 nations who signed signified their desire to accept its ideals and pledge themselves to work towards its realization.

Committee at Work

A permanent committee of the United Nations is at work on a draft covenant which will require the nations to comply with a minimum set of standards. This looks as though it will not be allowed to remain just a noble achievement in words.

The Second World War brought to people all over the world a fresh realization of the need to assert and safeguard human rights. Most countries protect human rights in some way, but no country has achieved all these rights for all its citizens.

Can we guarantee Human Rights in Canada? Our representative Mr. L. B. Pearson, at times found himself in a difficult situation when voting on some of the articles, due to the fact that some of the matters under discussion fell within the responsibility of the individual provinces, while other problems come under federal jurisdiction.

Canada Stands High

In the matter of freedom Canada stands well in the vanguard of the 58 nations who signed the Declaration, nevertheless there have been some very striking examples of instances when some of the freedoms have been violated. There are cases of discrimination on account of color and creed.

It is apparent that many Canadians now believe that traditional liberties cannot be maintained without a written constitution. The Senate Committee has been urged to recommend that a Bill of Rights be made part of the Canadian Constitution. The appointment of a Senate Committee on human rights at this time is significant.

Great Part to Play

With or without a Bill of Rights it is clear that each citizen has a great part to play. It is the individual who keeps it from becoming a frozen and static thing. Therefore, whatever course is pursued in Canada in the revision of our laws, freedom must remain an expanding program of action, otherwise we cannot ever hope to live up to the United Nations Declaration.

Gregg and Cara Butler played as a duet "Valses Nobels" by Schubert. Mrs. L. Stirland thanked these two talented artists for their contributions.

Actual Case Cited

The guest speaker was Mr. W. S. Herrington, K.C., of Kingston, who was introduced by Mrs. Frances Bennett. Mr. Herrington chose as his subject "The Sad Case of Mr. and Mrs. X". This was an actual case of minors, who were married without parental consent and the difficulties encountered in order to discover whether or not an annulment could be procured.

After tracing the wording of the Marriage Act from the 1914 Statutes through the various changes, amendments and repeals, it was found that contrary to generally accepted public and private opinion no annulment of such a marriage could be legally obtained.

Mrs. Tillie Mazer thanked Mr. Herrington for his interesting address.

Officers Installed

The installation of officers was conducted by Charter President Georgia Smith, with the traditional candlelighting ceremony.

Mrs. Flora McKay was officially received as a new member of the Club.

The officers for the year 1950-51 —President, Leona Riggs; 1st vice, Rachel Fox; 2nd vice, Gladys MacDonald, Rec.-Sec., Inda Drew; Treas., Lillian Courneya; Corresp. Sec., Frances Bennett; directors, Helen Keeler, Laura MacLauchlin, Harriett McGeary, Mary Quinn.

Mrs. Smith expressed the appreciation of the Club to retiring president, Sally Caton, for her very capable leadership during the past year.

Miss Leona Riggs, the new president, spoke briefly after being installed stating her beliefs in Soroptimism and the ideals for which it stands, and expressed the hope that the coming year would be successful in every way.

Wife reproves husband for complimenting hostess on her cooking

Dear Mrs. Beeckamn:
How wrong was I? A few evenings ago my wife and I were invited to dine with a couple (in their home) whom we met only recently, but whom we like very much and who have dined with us in our home. There was one other couple present. For the main course the hostess herself had cooked the most delicious chicken casserole I have ever tasted. . . and I told her so. She seemed delighted to have me say so, and indeed this comment of mine led to her telling us how she "acquire[illegible](I believe that's the word!) t[illegible] recipe, and that she had made it her specialty. But in spite of this my good wife reproved me roundly for "commenting about the food", as she said, particularly since the hosts are not intimate friends of ours and also since we had just met the other couple at this dinner. So, Mrs. Beeckman— How wrong was I?

Husband in the Dog-house.

Come right out of that dog-house, sir, and assure your wife that (as she really must know) there doesn't live the woman who doesn't greatly rejoice to have someone say enthusiastic things about her cooking! Naturally she's thrilled . . . she should be! And why not praise a work of art. . . and making such a delicious and delectable chicken casserole is an Art! . . . even though you've just recently met the artist. And besides, today it's smart to know about foods and to be observing a[illegible] cooking . . .to comment o[illegible]hem intelligently and discriminatingly and enthusiastically makes (as in your case) a conversation piece. . . and so what's wrong about making your pleasantly-approving comments?

At wedding reception bride should stand at right of groom

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:
Recently I have been to several wedding receptions, and I have noticed that sometimes the bride stands at the right of the groom, and sometimes at his left. Is this a question of what others are included in the receiving-line, how many are included, or what is the basis for this difference? Or isn't it at all important or has it no rule, only preference of the bride? I didn't used to notice these details, but now that I am planning my own formal wedding and reception, to take place quite soon, I try to notice everything in the [illegible]ddings I go to, and I read [illegible]ything I can about wedding forms.

Therese S.

There is an absolutely definite rule about this . . . the bride should stand at the right of the bridegroom. The basic reason is that on all occasions, and certainly on such an important occasion as a wedding, the right is the place of honor. (What you have observed is, unfortunately, very true. . .that apparently so many brides and grooms do not know this fundamental rule, and therefore pay no attention to it.) In other words, no matter who stands in the first places in the receiving-line (and this varies according to family circumstances and preference) these positions are definite: the bride at the groom's right; the bride's honor attendant at the bride's right. Usually, too, the bridesmaids are in line at the right of the maid (or matron) of honor.

Also, at the bridal table, the bride sits at the right of the groom.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Treatment of oily skin

No girl is particularly happy if her nose shines like a good deed in a naughty world. This trouble makes itself particularly obnoxious in the summer time and, though the powder pad does its best, the complexion continues to look as if it had been freshly buttered.

Let's get down to brass tacks and consider the cause. The sebaceous glands serve a useful purpose, but under certain conditions are over stimulated and over-do the business. The function of the oil produced by these glands is to remove waste matter, to keep the skin soft and pliable, and to protect it from dry heat, wind and dust by imposing a film between it and the elements.

The oil also serves as an agent which keeps the body from losing heat too rapidly. When there is more of it than is needed, it is usually because the diet is rich in materials that excite the glands and cause over-production. These materials include fat in its various forms — butter, cream, especially pastries.

The complexion looks as if it had been freshly buttered

During the teen-age period the glands are particularly active, due possibly to the intake of too much ice cream and chocolate, and to casual face-washing. When the skin is over-lubricated, there should be two rousing face-washings night and morning, with a clean washcloth every day and a fresh towel.

A bland soap will serve. Some skin specialists prescribe the use of a shaving soap that lathers quickly. The lather should be frictioned into the flesh with the fingers, the flesh lifted slightly to stir up the circulation.

Remove the suds with warm water. Dip a heavy washcloth in hot water and give the face a prolonged steaming. Immediately afterward cold compresses should be applied. After that it is a good idea to dab on a lotion made by dissolving a teaspoonful of ordinary baking soda in a cup of water. Use cotton for the application and let the solution dry.

If blackheads have appeared, an occasional dry cleaning is helpful. Moisten a small portion of the washcloth, pour on a small quantity of eau de cologne, pass over the skin lightly. The alcohol content will seep into the pores, softening the wax-like contents that catch atmospheric dust and form unsightly black points.

If these must be removed, do not trust your fingers to do the job as you may cause slight wounds that can develop into scars. Get a comedon extractor from your druggist. This instrument has a small open circle that is placed over the blackhead. With slight pressure the obstruction is removed with no injury to the skin.

Fashion Flashes

COMING BACK to favor is the good corde bag, an accessory not seen in many seasons. Fine corde is used for an ovel box shape made on a gold frame with mirror inside the lid. Shown in dark and pastel shades.

THE CRYSTAL BALL reveals tremendous emphasis on velvet for Fall fashions. Especially created for a big showing is an evening ensemble by Jacques Fath. It is of snow-white pin wale corduroy and has a peg-top skirt, camisole-top bodice and hip-length tuxedo. The bodice, to below the waist, is scattered with rhinestones and sequins.

A FAD that has taken hold of the younger set is the "gilded" skirt. Black cotton taffeta, allover hand-painted in heavy gold bubble motifs, makes a full skirt that teams up with a strapless top of black linen for an impressive informal evening costume.

PERFECT for wear with filmy summer dress is a long scarf of pearl gray fox, with inserts of pleated chiffon in matching color dividing each end of the stole.

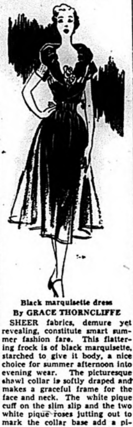
Crisp Sheer Fashion Fare



Black marquisette dress

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

SHEER fabrics, demure yet revealing, constitute smart summer fashion fare. This flattering frock is of black marquisette, starched to give it body, a nice choice for summer afternoon into evening wear. The picturesque shawl collar is softly draped and makes a graceful frame for the face and neck. The white pique cuff on the slim slip and the two white pique roses jutting out to mark the collar base add a piquant note to the overall picture.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

The retailers in Shreveport, Louisiana, who are paying their customers' 10 cents trolley fare have a long way to go. They are not nearly as generous as the Grand Rapids, Michigan, supermarket which offers its customers free taxi service for every purchase over $10.

Both offers of free toting reflect the fact that, in spite of high prices, many foods are now super-abundant. The government seems to have contracted an incurable surplus food headache.

Among the foods which the government is now giving away to needy families are butter, cheese, eggs, milk and potatoes.

Of surplus foods, powdered milk is one of the most useful staples to have on the pantry shelf. In almost any recipe calling for milk, powdered skim milk can be used in place of fresh milk at a real saving.

Even for a delicate dessert like custard with caramel sauce, you can use powdered milk and get excellent results.

Custard With Caramel Sauce
Serves 4.

Put 2 cups of cold water in a mixing bowl. Sprinkle 1-2 cup powdered milk on water. Beat with a rotary egg beater until free of lumps. Fresh milk can be substituted if desired.

Strain milk into a saucepan. Heat over a slow flame until bubbles appear around edge of saucepan.

In a mixing bowl beat 3 whole eggs until whites are no longer visible. Add 1-3 cup sugar and 1-4 teaspoon salt. Stir well. Slowly pour hot milk into egg mixture while stirring. Add 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

Grease 4 custard cups with butter or margarine. Fill cups with custard mixture. Place cups in a pan of hot water. Bake at 350 degrees for 50-60 minutes.

The usual test for custard is to insert a silver knife and see if it comes out clean. This test is not always reliable. The custard may be overdone and the knife will still come out clean. If custard is firm on top after 1 hour's baking, remove and cool. If the centre is still somewhat liquid, it will become firm after being chilled.

Chill custard thoroughly. Run a knife along sides of custard cups and invert over serving plates. Shake to loosen custard.

To prepare caramel sauce: Place 1 cup of sugar in a heavy saucepan or frying pan. Melt sugar over a low flame, stirring until light brown. Remove pan from fire. Add 2-3 cup boiling water. Stir well. Add 1 tablespoon butter and 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Return to flame and cook 5 minutes.

Pour caramel sauce over custard in serving dishes.

king advantage of several ite miscues, while fielding antly behind the five-hit ng of Lum Carson, Brew- Warehouse last night won second victory in as many s as they downed Stewart- ner 11-1 in a regular league at the Alemite Field.

e contest was a tensely wag- ffair in the early innings tempers being short on both . Both teams were lectured the umpires relative to the excessive jockeying going on between the pitchers and the batters.

Brewers opened the scoring in the top of the first frame with a walk to Nolan, and errors to first baseman Moon and pitcher Harold Dracup giving them two runs and the ball game.

Stewart-Warner counted their single run in the bottom of the first with Ronsky, who had walked and taken third on an error to the pitcher, sliding home on a passed ball.

Three-run Splurge

Brewers relieved the tension somewhat with a three-run splurge in the third on two singles, an error and a double. They put the game off ice in the sixth with a five run rally. Locke opened the inning with a wrong-field home run to left centre. Halsey got a life on an error to the third baseman and went to third on a single by Carl Wood. Carson walked to load the bases. Barriage got to first as Halsey was forced at the plate. Wood scored as Carson was called out at third on a fielder's choice while Nolan took first. Glen Young then unloaded a three run homer to right and that was all for Harold Dracup, the cautious chucker.

Marty Halloran came in to retire Harold Reid to end the inning.

Brewers added their final run in the seventh on a walk, a sacrifice and an error to the centre fielder.

Goes All The Way

Carson went all the way for the winners, walking three, striking out eight, and being nicked for five hits and one run.

Harold Dracup started on the hill for Alemite and in five and two-thirds innings walker three, struck out two, and gave up seven hits for ten runs.

Marty Halloran was nicked for one hit and one run over the rest of the course.

NO MASSED INFANTRY FOR ATLANTIC POWERS' DEFENCE

North Atlantic Pact nations may give up entirely reliance on massed infantry to repel an attack, External Affairs Minister Pearson reported to the House of Commons in Ottawa. At the recent North Atlantic conference, he said, discussion of the exposed geographical position of several of the pact nations made it necessary to revise the traditional concept of military tactics. Masses of infantry, above, are still being trained in large numbers in the Soviet, and, according to reports, the Soviet army in manpower, is equal to the total number of men under arms in the western countries. Defence of the pact countries would rest with few infantry available, on the fast flying planes such as the Canadian jet fighter below. — Central Press Canadian.

FRANKFORD

Merchants Win From Campbellford By 7 to 4 Score

Frankford — Frankford Merchants moved into first place in the Trent Valley Softball League as they took a 7-4 decision from Campbellford Monday night on the Frankford diamond before a fair crowd. However, they share that position with Stirling, who edged Wooler 8-7, to hand the last year champions their second straight set-back. Don Boyle pitched a good game for the winners, holding Campbellford to four scattered hits, while striking out fourteen. Three of Campbellford's four runs were unearned. Bruce McComb worked in the box for the visitors, and gave up a total of thirteen safeties, while striking out ten Frankfordites. In the hitting, it was all Frankford with Wickson, Boyle, Murphy and Gilmour all collecting a pair, and the other hits being distributed among the rest of the team.

Line score:

Campbellford	100 300 000—4	4	2
Frankford	000 111 04x—7	13	2

This win holds intact the record that no Frankford team has yet tasted defeat, for the current season.

New York Winning Battle For Water as Reserves Grow

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York — (CP) — It takes about 900,000,000 gallons of water daily to slake New York City's thirst. But conservation-minded civic officials aren't too unhappy about the drain on the water supply.

Instead, Stephen J. Carney, commissioner of water supply for this metropolis of about 8,000,000 people, is buoyed by figures showing that average daily consumption has fallen during the last eight months by approximately 300,000,000 gallons.

The average last October was 1,192,000,000 gallons a day.

Carney and his officials since then have waged an unceasing "save water" campaign. The reason was a drop in the level of the city's up-state reservoirs to near-crisis levels. By mid-December of 1949 they held only 87,000,000,000 gallons, a mere 33.4 per cent of capacity. Warnings of water rationing were issued. Many restrictions were imposed.

The campaign has borne fruit. As June began, the level was up to 91.2 per cent of capacity of 253,136,000,000 gallons.

The reason for the city's water plight is as simple as turning on a faucet. As New York's population has grown, water consumption has increased. The expanding use threatens shortages at any time until 1956. By then, engineers hope to have tapped new reserves from sources of the Delaware River on the slopes of the Catskill Mountains, about 90 miles northwest of New York. They estimate an additional 540,000,000 gallons daily then will be available.

The water shortage has been a prime topic of cartoonists, writers and conversationalists since civic authorities last autumn warned that New York taps might literally run dry.

Restrictions Imposed

Drastic restrictions on water use were imposed by the city. It forbade use of city water for cleaning automobiles. It cut out flushing streets. It prohibited washing the outside of buildings with water.

Dr. Wallace Howell, a consulting meteorologist, was hired to try to fill reservoirs by artificially-induced rain. Dr. Howell, for a fee of $100 a day, has been working at this problem by "sprinkling" clouds with silver iodide.

Dr. Howell and his associates have not claimed any major success in their rain-making endeavors. But several times they have expressed cautious belief their efforts may have caused showers over the reservoir-watershed area.

Some disgruntled New Yorkers, irked by long spells of cloudy weather shrouding Manhattan this spring, have been inclined to blame Howell. One magazine cartoonist depicted a weather bureau official telephoning the rainmaker and asking: "We wondered whether you're planning anything for tomorrow."

The expert consultant, however, has declined to assume responsibility for the city's prevailing grey skies.

June 1st Target Day

Six months ago Water Commissioner Carney set June 1 as the target date for full reservoirs. Weather statistics show that the six-month period starting then usually is relatively dry while the six-month period from Dec. 1 to May 31 usually is wet. In other words, if reservoirs are not full as June starts they may be perilously low when December rolls round.

Rainfall over the reservoir-watershed area to date this year has been approximately normal. During the 12 months of 1949 it was eight to nine inches less than normal.

If late spring rains continue, Carney is hopeful the reservoirs soon will overflow again as they did a year back.

They are easing restrictions on water use, as proof of their optimism. Curbs on garden sprinkling and swimming pools using circulating water will be modified for the 30 days starting June 15, Carney announces.

The ban on washing the outside of buildings will be lifted the same date, effective for an indefinite period. But city water still may not be used for washing automobiles.

Diplomat Seeks Divorce From Russian Ballerina

Toronto, June 7 (CP)— George Power, Canadian diplomat, is seeking an air-mail divorce from a Russian ballerina.

Power, 38-year-old former Canadian vice-consul at Detroit, was granted permission by the courts Tuesday to serve divorce papers by mail on his Russian wife in Moscow.

He married the ballerina, the former Eleanora Kuznetsova, in 1945 while he was serving as private secretary to the Canadian ambassador to the Soviet Union. He left Russia five months later and since that time Russian authorities have refused his wife permission to leave the country to join him. His wife obtained a Russian divorce from him in 1947 and is reported to have married again.

Canadian divorce papers will be served on Powers' wife by registered air mail. There is just one catch—in order to complete the divorce Power must receive acknowledgement of receipt of the papers.

Frankford Midgets outslugged their Stirling opponents to the tune of 21-10 in a softball contest on the Frankford diamond Saturday evening. The Frankford boys looked very good in the game, showing a decided improvement defensively over Thursday night's game with Minto. The game moved along on fairly even terms for three innings, and then the Frankford sluggers came to life, scoring five times in the fourth, and four more in the fifth. The sixth and seventh were a runaway for the local boys, as Stirling booted the ball around badly, along with some good solid Frankford hitting. Although they went down to defeat, the Stirling team hustled all the way, and looked good even in losing. Next Saturday night, Minto moves in, and from last Thursday night's exhibition, it promises to be a battle royal between these two clubs.

London Letter:

Thames Will be 145 Feet Thinner at Waterloo Bridge As Engineers Reclaim Land

By WILLIAM BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 7 — (CP) — Old Father Thames is being corsetted. By the time the job is done, he'll be 145 feet thinner at Waterloo Bridge.

For one-third of a mile, between Westminster and Waterloo bridges, the ancient stream is losing an average of 110 feet in width as engineers reclaim land from the river bed. At Waterloo Bridge the shrinkage is from 1,125 to 980 feet.

The activity is on the south bank, fast being made ready for the Festival of Britain 1951.

Conversion of derelict blitz sites near County Hall into next year's gigantic festival, besides proving a multi-million-dollar tourist attraction, it is expected to give Britons themselves a relief from drab austerity.

While the festival will embrace a good many buildings — such as a hall of science and a hall of industry — only a few will remain after the fair.

They are the new concert hall, the new National Theatre and a government block. In the construction of these Londoners are taking especial interest. Since the Queen's Hall went down under the blitz they have been pressing for an auditorium worthy of the finest orchestras. Agitation for a National Theatre has gone on for a quarter-century.

Concert Hall Costly

The concert hall alone will cost £1,250,000 ($3,875,000). It is to be sound proof from the trains nearby and under it and from airplanes overhead, and will accommodate 3,450 persons.

The job has top priority and even trade unions are co-operating in its tempo by allowing labor-saving devices to be used.

Said Contractor R. R. Costain: "Work on the new wall alone entails the movement of thousands of tons of material, but we are doing it with a labor force that does not number more than 60.

"That is equivalent to the provision of 12 H. P. per man, which must represent a higher proportion than has ever been used before in any comparable operation. To achieve this it has been necessary to employ not merely standard equipment but to supplement it by the invention of numerous gadgets."

Lumberman Makes Serious Charge Against Government

London, Ont., June 7 — (CP) — The Provincial Government dares not implement the recommendations of the Kennedy forest report because the pulp and paper companies don't want any part of them, E. E. Johnson, Fort William lumberman said in an address to members of the Progress Club here Tuesday.

He said the Kennedy report urged the government to end single-purpose operation (cutting by one forest industry for one use only) and to permit all groups of operators to work co-operatively, diverting the timber from each area to its proper and sensible use.

Mr. Johnson charged that Ontario government policy has allowed an "iron curtain" to rise around Northern Ontario's forest areas to the exclusion of all but pulp and paper companies.

Lumbering and other forest industries will be put out of business he charged, and a program of maximum use of Ontario's trees will be impossible. A program of full utilization would mean greatly increased employment and a higher living standard in wide areas of the province, he said.

He said that the Ontario forest industry has fallen under control of a monopoly which he said is wasting and destroying a main natural resource.

Memorial Baptismal Font Dedicated at Wellman's United Ch.

Rawdon—On Sunday afternoon last, at Wellman's United Church on the Rawdon circuit, a special service of dedication was held with the Rev. H. C. Vaclavik officiating when Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Martin, Stirling, presented an Oak pedestal baptismal font in loving memory of Mrs. Martin's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Clancy, who worshipped at Wellman's for many years.

The font was engraved with the United Church symbols and matched the border in the church decorations. Other relatives in attendance at this service were Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hubble of Stockdale; Mrs. Milton Morgan and Gail of Frankford and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Morgan of Belleville.

Mrs. Hubble is a sister of Mrs. Martin and the return visit to their old home church brought back many memories.

Wellman's choir rendered an anthem "Living for Jesus."

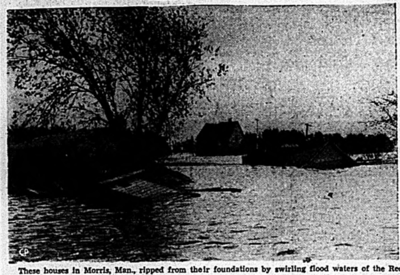
FLOATING HOUSES



These houses in Morris, Man., ripped from their foundations by swirling flood waters of the Red River, present many obstacles to rehabilitation workers. Several navy ducks are used to tow the houses back to higher land. Many of the dwellings are damaged beyond repair and often crash into boats carting working or returning evacuees. — (CP Photo.)

Labor, Industry Urged to Adopt Annual Scheme

Montreal, June 7. (CP)—Organized Labor and Industrial leaders must think, plan and work in terms of community values, Rev. Dr. J. R. Mutchmor of Toronto, secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada, said Tuesday.

In an address on "The Church and Industry" presented at the annual meeting of the Montreal and Ottawa conference of the church, he deplored "stalling" in negotiations betwen the heads of industry and labor.

"Small grievances may be magnified. Some industries with hign assets feel they can stand a strike—they may welcome or even provoke industrial strife". He urged the solving of these difficulties through good will.

"Canada's little people—the organized and unorganized workers in industry—are being caught in a giant squeeze caused by a free-for-all drive for gain and power between management and labor, Dr. Mutchmor charged.

He called upon churches to spearhead local action to end competition in industry which has led to widespread unemployment.

He attacked the rising cost of living in the face of wages which have not kept pace. He urged industry to adopt the guaranteed annual wage scheme, the start of the Trans-Canada highway project ,and the adoption of vigorous efforts to provide subsidized housing to the non-veteran low-income groups.

Dr. Mutchmor said the United Church's program of action on the industrial front should include the following findings and principles:

1. It should stand strongly for the four essential freedoms of worship, speech, press and assembly.

2. It must challenge industry if and when the wage of a father of a family of small children, plus that family's allowance, is below the "health and decency" line.

3. It should join with industry and government in an effort to provide the maximum of social security.

4. It should plan with industry now for an unemployment program. The church should urge industry to adopt the guaranteed annual wage, and the church and industry should make it plain that unemployment can be dealt with on a local as well as a national basis.

Token Payment Made to Winner Of Victoria Cross

Ottawa, June 7 (CP) — The war office in London continues to make token payments in sterling to Canadian winners of the Victoria Cross and the Distinguished Conduct Medal in the First World War, veterans Minister Gregg said Tuesday night in the Commons.

Mr. Gregg, himself a V.C. winner in the First World War, said that a token payment of £10 a year ($30 at current exchange) was made if the man won the decoration while in the ranks. An officer received nothing.

During the Second World War the Canadian Government decided it would assume the responsibility for token payments.

L. E. Cardiff (PC-Huron North) said that since devaluation of the pound the V.C. winners of the First World War were receiving less. He wondered if something could be done to change that situation. Mr. Gregg promised to consider the representations.

Toronto, June 7 — (CP) — Flood or fire — it makes no difference to the McCanns.

The McCanns were hosts to Mrs. Nellie Kelsch of Winnipeg and her four children until the end of May. By Monday their house returned to its normal routine with the Kelschs on their way back to the flooded Manitoba city.

Research Development Brings Democracies Step Further Along Atomic Energy Trail

FIND COMFORT IN BIBLE READING AWAITING TRIAL

Charged with robbery and murder, Tommy Cook, 17, is shown in his Los Angeles jail cell reading a Bible. A trio of teen-agers including Tommy, admitted participation in the hold-up slaying of a liquor store owner. Referring to his reading of the [illegible]le, Tommy told newsmen, "it [illegible]ps, especially at night." — Central Press Canadian.

Kingston, June 7 (CP)—The democracies have blazed a new trail in atomic energy development.

This one deals specifically with the technical and highly-complicated field of the hitherto unaccountable movements of tiny electrons in an atom explosion.

The trail-blazer, Dr. J. M. Robson, said today that it "affords an important check that the basic theory of radioactivity is correct."

Dr. Robson, one of a team of United Kingdom scientists working at Canada's Chalk River atomic project, disclosed some of the results of his experiments before the annual meeting of the Royal Society of Canada.

His discovery, gleaned from two years of laboratory work, permits scientists to "tape" the exact amount of energy carried off by the tiny electrons, one of two infinitesimal particles which result when the neutron walls of the hydrogen atom are split.

Knowledge of this discovery, which Canadian scientists hope is not yet in Russia's hands, will be passed along to the United Kingdom and the United States as part of tri-nation co-operation on atomic development.

Project Ideal

Dr. Robson had a tough job overcoming a string of barriers before he could perfect his experiments. The Chalk River project, he found, as ideal. It was the only known project in the world which contained a sufficiently heavy and varied concentration of neutrons to allow him to pick out those travelling slow enough to count.

Imagine a stream of 10,000,000,000 cars passing by you every second. That's the normal flow of the number of neutrons set free in an atomic explosion.

However, the concentration at Chalk River is so varied that Dr. Robson, using what is called an electron multiplier, a sensitive instrument somewhat similar to the geiger counter, was able to pick out of the stream the electrons of certain particles which flowed by the rate of only one every two minutes.

Bumped Into Success

On the road to his latest discovery, Dr. Robson bumped into another success. His previous experiments established that the neutron, one of the basic particles of atomic nuclei, split up within minutes by a process of radioactive decay.

Scientists knew that the particles that grabbed off the energy were the protons and the electrons but there was no way of finding out how much energy each of them took. Dr. Robson's discovery of measuring the amount of energy taken by the electrons is an important step in unravelling the whole story of the disappearance of radioactive energy.

Lightning Strikes Money in Pocket Man is Killed

London, June 7 (AP)—Lorenzo Matthew may have been killed because he had money in his pocket. He was struck by lightning during a storm at the Kempton Park race last Friday. At an inquest Tuesday, the coroner said lightning had split in two several pound notes in Matthew's pocket. Each note has a metal strip inside it as a guard aganist forgery. The strips were burned. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

Will Try to Find out Why Fireflies Glow

Oak Ridge, Tenn., June 7 (AP) —Science wants to know what makes a fire-fly glow.

Dr. Bernard L. Strehler, a Johns Hopkins University scientist ordered 100,000 fireflies today to try to find out.

He told Oak Ridge youngsters he'd pay 25 cents a 100 for all the live lightning bugs they bring in. Scientists know a substance called luciferin causes the fireflies to glow, but they don't know how the bugs make the stuff.

"That's what we want to find out," Dr. Strehler said. "I think this research should be very en[illegible]htening."

ALWAYS COLLECTING THINGS

Barrie, June 7—(CP) — Jack Steele, Allanburg tobacconist, just can't help collecting things. A collection which he began at the age of 10 now numbers 600 items, including guns, spinning wheels, spurs, documents stamps, birds and fish. They hang on the walls of his store.

11 Congressmen Urge Disarmament Parley

Washington, June 7 (AP) — Eleven congress members Tuesday urged the United Nations to call an immediate disarmament conference as a move to avert the threat of hydrogen bomb warfare. Seven Democrats and four Republicans signed a resolution calling for a world peace crusade and declaring: "The prospect of the hydrogen bomb propels the peoples of the earth into danger above and beyond anything heretofore conceived by man."

Roadblocks Bring Arrest of Two In Robbery Case

New Liskeard, June 7 (CP) — Roadblocks thrown up through use of Provincial Police radio figured in the arrest early today of Donald Vallier, 28, and Herman Koch, 27, charged with the armed robbery of Stanley Borkowski, Kirkland Lake taxi driver.

Borkowski told police he was slugged and pushed out of his cab on the highway near Dane, about seven miles south of Kirkland Lake.

Provincial Constable Robert Bagg of Haileybury said Koch gave himself up to him here about two hours after the hold-up. The officer arrested Vallier as the man, travelling in a taxi-cab, tried to pass a roadblock here.

Police quoted Borkowski as saying two men called his cab in Kirkland Lake Tuesday night. He drove them to the Dane area where one of the men struck him on the head. Then, the cabbie told police, they pushed or threw him out of the cab and sped south towards New Liskeard.

Stunned and bleeding, Borkowski stumbled to a nearby dwelling or store, from where a telephone call was put in to police in Kirkland Lake.

A radio call immediately went out from district headquarters at Haileybury to put all radio patrol cars in the area between North Bay and Kirkland Lake on the alert. Within 2 1-2 hours after the robbery was reported, the two suspects were in custody.

Ontario Hydro Employees Honor Retired Pioneers

Trenton, (Special)—A new organization came into being last night at the Queensway Hotel, Trenton, when seventy employees of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission met to organize a new club for the retired members of the Ontario Hydro and those with long service. The attendance exceeded the expectations of the executive. Employees, who had pioneered in the building of the great Hydro organization came from all parts of the region including Fenelon Falls, Oshawa, Peterborough, Kingston, Cobourg Eldorado, Norwood and Campbellford.

Mr. William Osborne Waldorf, load supervisor at Belleville was honored by being elected president. The total service of the members totals over 2,300 years. Their faithful, creditable and efficient service, has in no small way helped the Ontario Hydro to provide the low cost power in abundance which is the greatest single factor in the continuing industrial expansion of our province.

It was the unanimous wish of all the special speakers present that this new organization would fill an important place in the good employer-employee relations of the Commission and its staff and that retired members would feel that they were not forgotten.

The following members were also elected for 1950:- Mr. E. G. Gurnett, Honorary President; Mr. H. B. Beatty, Vice President; Mr. P. T. Seibert, Honorary Vice President; Mr. A. H. Fisher, Treasurer; Mr. J. G. Ritchie, Secretary.

The special visitors were the retired members as follows: Mr. J. F. Anderson, Belleville; Mr. Richard Arnott, Belleville; Mr. John H. Bleecker, Frankford; Mr. W. M. Burrowes, Belleville; Mr. Forrest R. Dennis, Campbellford; Mr. A. H. Fisher, Belleville; Mr. Harry Hall, Deseronto; Mr. Edward A. Hogle, Belleville; Mr. Martin C. Haskell, Fenelon Falls; Mr. Herbert L. Mack, Port Hope; Mr. Michael Murphy, Belleville; Mr. Jas. H. McNamara, Belleville; Mr. Fred Russell, Port Hope; Mr. J. G. Searles, Colborne; Mr. L. C. PRINTER DIES AT 94

Hoquiam, Wash., June 7 (AP) —Ariel W. Tweedie, 94, believed to be the oldest active printer west of the Mississippi River, died Monday. Tweedie was born in Three Rivers, Mich., and took up the trade there 80 years ago. He once was part owner of the Michigan State Democrat, a newspaper at Cadillac, Mich. He owned his own print shop here.

THE KING'S COLOR

Parliament Hill was crowded Monday for the presentation of the King's Color to the Royal Canadian Air Force in a ceremony unmatched for pageantry since the war. Here, the Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, is shown presenting the King's Color, a square Union Jack fringed with red and gold tassels, to the R.C.A.F. color-bearer. Searching Investigation Begins Into C-46 Plane Crash In Which 28 Puerto Ricans Die

Miami, Fla., June 7 — (CP) — A searching investigation began today into the crash of a C-46 plane in which 28 Puerto Ricans apparently lost their lives.

Representatives of the civil areonautics board and the Puerto Rican government flew to San Juan— and Charleston, S.C., to open inquiries.

Meanwhile the destroyer Eaufley steamed toward Charleston with 37 survivors. It was due to dock at 5 p.m. EDT.

Eight were known dead and scant hope was held for 20 others aboard the twin-engine plane that went down in the Atlantic 275 miles east northeast of Miami Monday night.

The 165-foot cutter Aurora, three coast guard planes and one air force craft continued to search the area for possible survivors, but officials said there was little hope of finding any more.

The pilot, co-pilot and steward were among those rescued from the plane, which was enroute from San Juan to Wilmington, N.C., with 62 Puerto Rican migrants aboard.

The civil aeronautics administration said officials of Westair Company, operators of the plane, were under investigation for alleged violation of safety regulations.

Complaint Filed

A complaint was filed with the C.A.B. in October against the Aviation Corporation of Seattle, Wash., which does business under the name of Westair Company, the C.A.A. said.

The complaint asked for revocation of the company's operating authority. It alleged the company's planes had been overloaded that equipment had been operated while not in good condition, and that there had been other departures from federal regulations.

A C.A.B. examiner completed hearings on the complaint last month but has not yet submitted his findings.

Irving H. Mansfield, treasurer of Westair Company, said many of the charges were based on "badly confused" or "actually perjured" testimony.

Reports from San Juan said the C-46 passed inspection before taking off at 6:24 p.m. Monday. It carried seven 10-man life rafts and 65 Mae West life jackets.

The migratory workers aboard were among more than 5,000 being flown to the United States to help harvest crops.

The plane was the same type as one that went into the Atlantic on June 7, 1949, a few minutes after taking off from San Juan, killing 53 persons.

Another Miami-bound charter plane disappeared on a flight from San Juan Dec. 27, 1948, with 32 aboard.

Lord Alexander Decorates Vet In Wheelchair

Kingston, June 7 — (CP) — Seated in a wheelchair, a former RCAF navigator Tuesday received the Distinguished Flying Cross from Governor-General Alexander.

Cited for devotion to duty during a coastal patrol operation out of Reykjavik, Iceland, in 1944, Flt. Lt. W. E. Wiskin was decorated at a private investiture at his home, where he is confined by a severe case of poliomyelitis.

The simple ceremony was the highlight of a day during which the Governor-General and Lady Alexander toured points of interest in Kingston.

Escorted to historic Fort Henry by military police in a jeep, Lady Alexander was challenged in the traditional manner by an army veteran who served under her husband in North Africa.

The drawbridge of the old fort was lowered when she answered the challenge and two 24-pounders were fired in her honor as she inspected a guard of honor.

Lady Alexander paid a brief visit to Royal Military College and joined the Governor-General in a tour of Fort Frontenac and Queen's University.

Capt. Chas. Ford Has Possibly Made Last Trip

London, June 7 (Reuters) — Capt. Charles Ford, Commodore of the Cunard fleet, Tuesday night took the 83,000 ton liner Queen Elizabeth into Southampton after the fastest crossing he has made in her—and possibly his last.

Ford, master of the world's largest ship, doubts whether he will take her to sea again.

"I shall be 63—the normal Cunard retiring age—this month" he said, "but I have not yet been told whether this is my last trip or not. Some masters of the Queen have gone on for a time beyond the 63 age limit."

The Elizabeth crossed from New York in four days, 15 hours —an average of 28.81 knots.

Roman Catholics In Hungary Are Threatened

Budapest, Hungary, June 7 — (AP)—Hungary's Roman Catholics were threatened today with what appeared to be a new government campaign against their church. Criticism was levelled, too, at segments of the Jewish and Protestant churches in the country.

Education Minister Joszef Revai, deputy secretary-general of the Hungarian communist party, attacked the Catholic clergy as an "imperialist agency." He said the teaching of religion probably would be abolished in secondary schools.

Roman Catholics, he said, had "abused the loyal and patient attitude of the government and the (communist) party toward religious education."

The minister's statement was published in the press as the text of a recent speech. In it he also attacked certain elements of the Jewish Church for "supporting reactionary Zionism" and predicted an "increased fight" against such "servants of "American Imperialism" as the Baptist and Adventist Protestant groups.

Revai attacked Catholic leaders for refusing to take an oath of allegiance to the government on the grounds they needed permission from the Vatican. He questioned whether Hungary could permit the existence of 63 various Catholic orders of monks and nuns with more than 11,000 members in 646 cloisters and monasteries.

"They tour the country in hundreds and thousands as Imperialist agitators and reactionary newsmongers," he asserted.

(Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia already has acted to close Catholic nunneries and monasteries and to reduce the membership in Catholic orders.)

Revai told communist party members their children should not attend religious instruction or church ceremonies.

Work of Research Board Outlined by Director-General To Kiwanis Club Members

"The purpose of the Defence Research Board of Canada is to prevent war, if possible, and to win one if it starts," stated Dr. O. M. Solandt, director-general of the Defence Research Board in an address to the weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club held Tuesday afternoon at Kiwanis Centre.

"The work of the Board is just one aspect of the effort which Canada is putting into the preservation of peace," Dr. Solandt said.

The speaker outlined the organizational setup of the Defence Research Board and sketched its program.

"Defence research is essential," Dr. Solandt continued, "and the Defence Research Board has been set up within the Department of National Defence with as much freedom as possible."

"Canada is a small and peace-loving country and would not undertake a war on her own. If we have to fight, we shall do so alongside powerful allies. Therefore the policy of the Defence Board has been to specialize in certain aspects of defensive warfare for which we have the facilities and the personnel, for example research on the problems of the Arctic. We are putting a great deal of work into certain specialized fields, and since the best work possible is the only work that is valuable we have tried to maintain a rigid standard of research with as rapid an advance as possible."

Duplication Avoided

In order to make the best use of the 25 million dollar a year budget under which they operate, Dr. Solandt pointed out that duplication of research facilities has been avoided and that "where civilian research facilities have been available we have made use of them."

The speaker then listed for his audience the number of research establishments across Canada and the type of work which is being done in these stations. Included among these stations is one at Suffield, Alberta, "the only field trial area in the democracies for the testing of new developments in chemical and bacteriological warfare."

In addition to the work being done by the Board many other agencies are involved in working on various defence problems. Speaking particularly of the atomic energy developments at Chalk River Dr. Solandt noted that "the work done there, which is primarily concerned with peacetime work, has been of great value to the army and to civilian defence authorities. This excellent work has given Canada favorable bargaining position for the exchange of information with the United States and Great Britain."

"We have kept our program within the policy limits laid down at its inauguration and, though its success cannot be measured, the work done has been accepted in Canada and in other countries as first class defence research," Dr. Solandt concluded.

Discusses A-Explosions

Dr. Solandt, at the request of the club, then discussed the effects of the atomic explosions in Japan and gave, briefly, an outline of the role which atomic power is playing and will play in the strategic concepts of war. Dr. Solandt was appointed to the Commonwealth investigating committee which examined the atomic bomb damage at Hiroshima following the Japanese surrender.

"The effects of the bomb depend on the way in which they are used," the speaker stated. "When exploded in the air—as the bombs were in Japan—they bring about the greatest possible area of destruction, and for this reason they will be used against cities."

"Casualties are the same as from other types of explosions with certain added effects. There is no fragmentary damage from the bomb as the case vaporizes with the explosion. Blast damage is due to the high velocity of the blast wave which destroys homes for a radius of a mile and well constructed buildings for half a mile.

Caused by Radiation

"The special types of casualties are caused by radiation which is of two types. Radiant heat produces the so-called "flash-burns". This heat causes effects which are the same as severe sunburn and will produce burning on exposed skin surfaces within a three mile radius of the blast."

Such is the strength of the heat that it burned permanently, the shadows of people exposed to it into the sides of buildings, into roads, and across tombstones.

"Because the heat lasts for just a fraction of a second light clothing provides enough protection to ward off its evil effects."

Dr. Solandt went on to explain the peculiar changes which are effected by gamma radiation. These penetrating rays pass completely through the body and bring about their harmful effects on the deep tissues, particularly those tissues whose cells divide rapidly. He then went on to give specific examples of the effects caused by gamma radiation.

May Last Months

"If a bomb is exploded in the air there is no residual radio-activity," Dr. Solandt said. "But if the bomb goes off on the ground, under the ground, or under water, the resulting residual radio-activity may last for weeks or months."

In discussing the strategic importance of the bomb he said, "the bombs are scarce and expensive at present and their chief value is a strategic weapon against cities and industry. However there are defences against the atomic bomb."

In conclusion Dr. Solandt stated, "We must not let the threat of the A-bomb rob us of our freedom. It is not the ultimate weapon."

Dr. Solandt was introduced by Fraser Fulton and thanked by Lou Maraskas.

Several brief announcements of interest to Kiwanians were made, and a report on the Gracie Fields' concert was given. A sing-song was led by Harold Carruthers accompanied by Phil Huddlestone.

Missionary Charges Chinese Govt. In Alliance With Communist Russia

Montreal, June 7. (CP)—The present government in China is an out-and-out communist movement working in close alliance with communist Russia and Cominform, Rev. Allan Reoch, veteran Presbyterian Missionary declared Tuesday night.

Speaking before delegates attending the Pre-assembly Congress of the Presbyterian Church, he described Manchuria under communist domination.

Mr. Reoch, who returned from Manchuria, last December, said the Christian church in China "will survive".

"The Chinese people are level-headed, they have the faculty of being bent without breaking. The church may have to go under ground, but it will survive," he said.

In Manchuria, where the Presbyterian Church in Canada had 50 congregations before the Japanese invasion, there are 44 still in existence, although in the towns and rural places they have largely gone underground.

Mr. Reoch said that where Christianity is strong and in action communism cannot gain control, but where communist minority gets the upper hand the church has to fight for its very existence.

Laura K. Pelto, executive secretary of the Women's Missionary Society, emphasized that wherever missionaries work today they are working within an existing church. She outlined the needs of the future in lands where Canadian Presbyterian Mission work is established.

Tuesday night Rev. G. Deane Johnston of Brantford, chairman of the General Board of Missions, presided over the Congress.

Today the theme will be "The Church and its Resources" with emphasis at the morning session on recruitment of men and women for full-time service.

ALL FOREST FIRES OUT

St. John's, Nfld., June 7—(AP) —The Newfoundland Natural Resources Department Tuesday night reported that all forest fires in the province were out. Fires during the last few days ran wild in tall timber between Lewisporte, Brown's Arm and Larencetown, burning over 12 square miles.

Mrs. John McKeown gave the address of welcome to which Mrs. McMaster of Ivanhoe, replied

Mrs. W. J. Barlow gave the minutes of the last meeting, the financial report and auditors' report, which showed a substantial amount of cash on hand.

The reports of Standing committees were given by Mrs. Ken Bateman, Agriculture and Canadian Industries, whose paper was much enjoyed and pointed out possibilities in Alaska.

Mrs. Moore, who was in charge of Citizenship and Education, showed how the W.I. must help the new Canadians and the youth and asked "Are we easy to live with?"

Community Activities in charge of Mrs. Milton Shaw, of Ivanhoe, who said each should take part in a community activity. Many showers have been held in the district for the Dutch families. Some had chartered buses and enjoyed trips to the 1000 Islands. She stressed that all keep busy with community activity and public relations.

Historical Research, was given in a well prepared paper by Miss Grace Warren, of Marmora, who gave an account of the early settlement of McArthur's Mills and stated that four Life membership cards had been given to members of Madoc W.I. and that all members should gather material for the Lady Tweedsmuir book.

Mrs. M. Meiklejohn gave Health and Home Economics, and gave as items for her address: Overweight, My Favorite Labor-saving Hint, More Vitamin "C", goes down the sink than is imported from United States; Hints for Hot Weather, Asthma and First Aid and many more. She stressed the point of no waste, sanitary conditions, make children happy, good health before wealth and more milk must be used by all, mentioning that over $6,000 had been raised by the March of Dimes for health by CJBQ, Belleville, which was the second largest amount raised in Canada.

Mrs. E. Moore, Madoc, was in charge of the resolutions handed in. Several were that Daylight Saving Time be abolished, as railways and rural districts are on Standard Time, also the inconvenience it is to young school children as well as those engaged in agriculture.

McArthur's Mills asked that electricity be installed in that community to help stop the migration of young people from that community to the cities.

Activities Report

Mrs. J. Thompson of Eldorado, gave the report of the junior activities and their achievements.

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the Shannonville W.M.S. of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Sam Elliott, recently, with 12 ladies in attendance.

The president, Mrs. L. W. Scott, read a beautiful poem on "June." A card of thanks was read from Mrs. Robert Little for the sympathy card she had received at the time of her brother's death. Mrs. Lorne Uens also expressed her thanks for that which she received at the time of her grandmother's death.

It was decided to send the quilt made at the home of Mrs. Hudson Cook to Manitoba, and it was planned to get another ready at the church hall on the afternoon of June 13th.

Mrs. Everett Stratton, group leader, then took charge with the 23rd Psalm being read responsively. Mrs. W. D. Robertson read the Scripture Lesson from Luke 2. Mrs. Stratton gave a reading entitled "Great Thoughts," and Mrs. Frank Doxtator read a selection, "The Person You Don't Like," which was followed by "The Gospel of Power" by Mrs. William Houston, and "Learning Realities" by Mrs. Claude Clarke.

Thanks were extended to the hostess and group leader by Mrs. L. W. Scott, and to the ladies of her group, by Mrs. Stratton for their help with the program and lunch for the two meetings of which she was in charge.

Gum Plays Part In This Swim Suit

London, June 6 — (CP) — A new idea in swim suits designed to give the utmost nudity for purposes of suntanning is the shortest of briefs combined with two strapless bra cups stuck on with gum.

The idea was devised by Charles L. Lang to solve the problem of women who desired an evenly tanned back and shoulders. Trouble was that backless bras had to have straps and strapless bras had to have backs. The only answer seemed to be gum. So Charles set about inventing a gum that left no trace on the skin.

This he has done, but there's still a snag. The gum must be renewed after every swim. So far Charles has not managed to solve that one.

LEAD HALF DOLLARS

Sudbury, June 6 (CP)—Police are investigating the appearance of bogus 50-cent pieces in the Sudbury district. A lead half-dollar was passed at a park concession Sunday.

Women's Catholic League Holds 25th Anniversary

The 25th anniversary of the Point Anne sub-division of the Catholic Women's League was held in the Point Anne Parish Hall on May 29th. Progressive euchre was played, and the following were the prize winners: Mrs. Andrew Bennett, Mrs. James Dunely, Mrs. F. E. Simmons, Mrs. Art Genereux and lone hands Miss Teresa DeForge. The door prize was won by Mrs. James MacKay.

The members, and past members were invited by the president, Mrs. James MacKay, to partake of refreshments at the banquet table decorated with bouquets of spring flowers, surrounding the beautifully decorated anniversary cake which was flanked by pink tapers in silver candle sticks. The following address was read by the president, Mrs. MacKay:

"Dear Sister Members—past and present of the sub-division of Point Anne of Catholic Women's League.

On this twenty-fifth anniversary of Point Anne's Catholic Women's League, I take great pleasure in welcoming you, one and all, to help celebrate this occasion.

There are 13 twenty-five year members, who have held the various offices during this period. But it is the sad duty to remember those members who have passed away during that time, of which there are nine."

Refreshments were then served which brought the evening to a close.

CUSTOMARY REPLY GIVEN

London, June 6. (CP)—Buckingham Palace gave its customary reply today to an old question—why does the King celebrate his birthday June 8 when he was born Dec. 14?

The answer is that if the King celebrated his birthday in December, his 'Birthday Honors' list would clash with the New Year's Honors list. So he celebrates it in June instead, making a six-month break between the two.

The King now is 54. His birthday was celebrated Monday in Canada.

SUMMER PUNCH: "Could you give me a good recipe for a concentrated summer punch which I could keep in the refrigerator and hand out as hospitably as necessary? We do not drink or serve liquor and we are not fond of soft drinks. Something home-made, please."

We have exactly the cold drink concentrate you want. It's sharp and pungent, yet satisfying. Combine 7 cups white sugar and 7 cups hot water and boil for five minutes. Cool slightly and pour over 4 tablespoons grated lemon rind and 1 cup lemon juice. Add 1 ounce citric acid and 1 ounce tartaric acid; stir till dissolved. Store in the refrigerator and dilute as required with ice cold water, using one part syrup to three parts water. This will yield 3½ quarts of syrup, sufficient to make 2 gallons of beverage.

ARTHRITIS VICTIM: "My four-and-a-half-year-old girl has had rheumatoid arthritis for three and a half years. She is totally crippled and has been carried about for that length of time. But I am sure I could get her walking if I had the apparatus used by polio patients. Where can I get it?"

The J. F. Hartz Co. advise that first you consult your doctor and see what type of equipment he would recommend. Then if he does suggest this walker they can rent you one. You pay a $40 deposit which is applied on your rent. It is $10 for the first 2 weeks and $3.50 a week from then on. The Hartz Co. are at 34 Grenville Street and they will be happy to be of assistance to you.

Drew Asks Debate New Concept of Canadian Defence

Ottawa, June 6—(CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, called today for an early House of Commons defence debate in view of the "entirely new concept of Canadian defence". He said this was outlined Monday by External Affairs Minister Pearson.

The House leader, Works Minister Fournier, said defence matters will be discussed tomorrow. A House committee was expected to complete its study of certain defence bills later today and report back to the House.

They would be studied tomorrow and once they were concluded, defence estimates would be called.

Mr. Drew raised the issue at House opening by asking when defence estimates will be debated. He referred to Mr. Pearson's speech in which the minister said the accepted principle of balanced Atlantic Pact forces may eventually mean an end of the concept of defence through massed infantry.

Four Escape In Night Clothes

Lindsay, June 6 — (CP) — Awakened by a crackling noise at 3 a.m. today, four people escaped in night clothing from a two-storey frame house owned by John Bliss, three miles south of nearby Omemee, which was destroyed by fire.

George McGee, father of Mrs. Bliss, was badly burned about the head, face and hands when he returned to the blazing home in an attempt to recover a small wagon for his three-year-old grandson.

Cause of the $10,000 fire is unknown although it is believed that a high wind may have fanned ashes put out near the rear of the home where the blaze originated.

The Omemee fire department was unable to halt the blaze which had too much headway. Mr. Bliss, who works in Peterborough, recently purchased the home, only partly covered by insurance.

Weighs 800 lbs. And Lives in Two Counties

Fishhook, Ill., June 6—(AP) —Robert Earl Hughes is not sure he's the fattest person in the world—he weighs 800 pounds—but he is positive of one thing.

He says: "I'll bet there's nobody as big as me living in two counties at the same time."

Hughes, 24, lives on his father's farm which is astride the boundary of two Illinois counties. The line separating Pike and Brown counties run through the middle of the Hughes living room. So Robert claims he lives in two counties.

Hughes was 24 last Sunday—but he didn't get any gifts of clothing. All his clothes are made to order. His chest measures 106 inches; his waistline is eight feet, 10 inches; his legs at the knees measure 33 inches.

A message to Canadian Motorists about our new 88 and 98 Gasoline

TWO NEW HIGHER OCTANE GASOLINES HAVE BEEN PERFECTED FOR CANADIAN USE. 40 YEARS OF CONTINUOUS RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT HAVE RESULTED IN THIS GASOLINE ACHIEVEMENT.

B-A has added the most modern process equipment available to their refineries. And with this new equipment in operation, B-A can now supply Canadian motorists with new B-A 88 gasoline—excellent performance with economy ... and new B-A 98 gasoline—peak performance in any car.

The difference between B-A's new gasolines and other gasolines is in the refining. A completely new modern refining technique is being employed. B-A has found a way to tailor-make the new B-A 88 and 98 gasolines so that the octane numbers of all the different fractions are relatively close.

So the new gasolines at your B-A service station are "high-jump" gasolines ... gasolines that give better acceleration over a wider range of speeds. Better performance over the entire speed range. The new gasolines have balanced volatility. They vaporize readily to give dependable acceleration, more "get up and go." And the new gasolines give you cleaner combustion. They reduce lubricating oil consumption. Give you lower maintenance costs. Prolong your valve, ring and spark plug life. Give you worthwhile gasoline savings and greater economy.

The new gasolines, because of their more uniform octane number, eliminate engine roughness. They give you knock-free power and smoother performance.

Yes, there's a new experience awaiting you at your B-A service station. Drive in today and fill up with new B-A 88 or 98 gasoline. You'll get more power and better performance than ever before. At the sign of the big B-A!

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The potent Sixardee team will be the guests of the Belleville Cubs in a Belleville District Baseball League game at Exhibition Park tonight in their first meeting of the season. The air force laddybucks are undefeated thus far and have three victories under their belts. They knocked off the Napanee team 33-8, that's right, 33-8 in the opening game and have since defeated Picton and Cannifton by 18-2 and 7-0 scores respectively. Apparently the RCAF possesses plenty of power with the bludgeon as they racked up 46 hits in three games or an average of 15 per tilt. Not bad clouting in any man's league.

Looking over the line-up we noted names formerly associated with the Trenton Flyers team. Christie, Coursol, Maracle, Coe, Ellis and company. Cummings, Garrett, Maloney and Ellis appear to be the hurling corps with Maloney having the best record to date.

* * *

So it looks as though the St. Louis Cubs will have to be on their best baseball behavior tonight if they are to emerge with their first win of the season. They have lost one; one game was declared no contest after eight innings of stirring up the mud on the Exhibition Park diamond last Friday night against Cannifton. Coach Saint Lou has been drilling his charges and the crew is said to be all ready to pin back the baseball ears of the thus-far invincible lads from the Repair Depot. St. Louis was undecided this afternoon as to whom he will start but it will likely be Bobby Moynes, Cuffer Noakes or the veteran "Chuck" Barriage. Game gets under way at 8:30.

SCORES NEEDED

President Jack Carson of the Belleville District Baseball League said the other day that he had issued instructions to all teams to forward box scores to this office. Thus far the Sixardee team is the only one that has complied. What we are interested in securing are the scores of games played between out-of-town teams. We shall take care of those played in the city It is important that these scores of outside games be sent in because of the fact that records must be kept in order to ascertain winners of the various trophies awarded annually to various stars. Without the records this cannot be done. Box scores whenever possible should be forwarded along with notes on how the runs were scored. Comment on outstanding plays should be sent in.

AND UP CAME . . .?

There was head-scratching among the master minds of the Batawa Shoemen today before the team left for Picton to take on the Athletics. With Gordie Muffitt out for a time, the teams' pitching staff has been reduced to Art. Wright and Ken Peacock. And it is likely the tall centre-fielder will get the starting assignment in tonight's twilight fray "over in Spain". Just what Batawa will do in case Muffitt is out for an extended period is not known at the moment, but in any case a couple of extra pitchers would not come amiss. The opposition will get tougher as the season advances and two first-string pitchers cannot carry the load. Then again the game with Brockville Memos looms up on Saturday. The down-east team looks like a well-balanced squad and should be tough nuts to crack in their own backyard.

THAT MAN AGAIN!

It will be a return match between Yukon Eric, the wrestling Alaska lumberjack, and Ray Villmer, the St. Louis buzz-saw, on Friday night at the Memorial Arena in the feature wrestling bout. Many fans thought the popular Villmer had the almost-invincible Yukon Eric on the verge of defeat in last week's clash and figure Ray can do it in this forthcoming test.

After each of these high-powered opponents had scored one fall, Villmer, who is something of a pocket-Hercules, had the huge Yukon in a dizzy airplane spin. Villmer overbalanced, however, under the weight of that twirling 280 pounds It will be interesting to see who will win Friday night's re-match. There appears to be plenty of fireworks in store in the semi-final, in which Sky-Hi Lee, the giant Ozark hillbilly, will go against Pat Flanagan, the tricky Toronto speed artist. Al "Krusher" Korman may get the lesson many fans would like to see administered to him when this stocky disturber of the mat comes up against Toar Morgan in the first bout.

Interest in the game next Wednesday between Turk Broda's National Hockey League All-Stars is gradually mounting and present indications point to a large crowd turning out to view the diamond calisthenics between the Men o' Broda and the Stars of Barriage. The youngsters with eyes on those five autographed softballs and the hockey stick used by the Turk in the Stanley Cup playoffs are forging ahead with their tickets and there will be six happy youngsters the night of the game. Manager Cy. Barriage who will master-mind the Belleville All-Stars has selected his "feudin' "pal Herbie (We'll Mow 'Em Down) Henn, of the Sudsmen and Gordie Booth of Stewart Warner as his coaching henchmen, for the evening. There'll be a band, visiting dignitaries, introduction of the hockey stars and other special attractions.

* * *

President Jack Carson of the Belleville and District Baseball Loop announced today that the Picton entry has dropped out of the league running. A revision of the schedule will take place immediately.

Lee Savold Wins British Version of Heavyweight Title By Stopping Bruce Woodcock

By MICHAEL O'MARA

London, June 7 (Reuters) — Lee Savold, of Englewood, N.J., hammered Bruce Woodcock of Doncaster, Yorkshire, out of world heavyweight contention Tuesday night and laid claim to the British version of the world championship.

Savold's victory, scored via a fourth-round technical knockout, was clean-cut.

The American appeared well ahead on points when referee Andy Smyth stopped the contest with blood pouring from a cut over Bruce's left eye.

The fight, scheduled for 15 rounds, was recognized by the British Boxing Board of Control as filling the world championships. Ezzard Charles, Cincinnati Negro is recognized by the National Boxing Association of the United States as world champion.

Bill Daly, Lee's manager, said: "We're in the money now. We're all set to go places."

Nat Fleischer, editor of Ring magazine who saw the contest told reporters: "I expected Savold to win just like that, and now he can be regarded as very high indeed in the world heavyweight class."

"He is not, however, as far as we in America are concerned the world champion until he has a fight with at least another leading American."

Never Connected Solidly

Chief weapon in Savold's armory was a jabbing, drumming left, which never stopped playing over Woodcock's head and body.

Woodcock's rattlesnake right lacked venom and though the former railway man threw it several times with all his might he never connected solidly.

The fight before 50,000 fans in White City Stadium opened slowly with Woodcock seeking an opening for his right hand, but failing to pierce the American's guard.

The second round started with Savold scoring a left to Bruce's head but the loser retaliated and at this point the fight was about even.

Woodcock came back strong in the third with two heavy rights to the head but for every long-range blow he landed Savold scored three in close.

Lee piled up further points in the fourth with two lefts and a right to the body then drove a heavy left to the midriff.

Bruce swung short with a right to the head and Savold punished him with snapping rapid-fire lefts about the face. Blood began to trickle from Woodcock's eye as Savold landed two more damaging lefts at the bell.

Smyth took just one look at the damaged eye and raised Lee's hand.

Ihde is Solid Man Behind Springfield Cubs

By The Associated Press

"Winner—Ihde."

Typographical error, you say. Nope, just Al Ihde winning another game for Springfield Cubs.

Ihde, property of Chicago Cubs, is the solid man behind Stan Hack's Springfield club. His seven victorie sare why the little Cubs today are challenging for the International League lead.

Ihde stopped the front-running Rochester Red Wings 12-3 Tuesday night in the second game of a twilight-night doubleheader. It was a "must" victory for Springfield, since it lost the opener 4-1. A loss would have dropped the Cubs 4 1-2 games off the pace.

Instead, they're in thi rdplace, 2 1-2 lengths behind.

Rochester won the first game behind the effective pitching of John Wittig, who scattered six hits. Larry Ciaffone and Steve Bilko acounted for the Wings' run with a brace of two-run homers.

Olther League action saw Montreal clp second-place Baltimore 8-3; Jersey City sweep Toronto 7-6 and 12-1 and Buffalo and Syracuse split, the Bisons taking the opener 3-0 and Syracuse the nightcap 3-2.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Ardmore, Pa., June 7 (AP) — When Lew Worsham won the United States Open Golf championship in 1947, he probably was as long a shot as there has been on top since Sam Parks won at Oakmont, in 1935. . .Coincidentally, Lew is the Oakmont pro now and he's hardly getting a thought in the pre-tournament predictions. . But he'll be in there shooting tomorrow probably with a grin on his face. . .

After those celebrated deep ridged sand traps and leg-straining hills at his home course, Worsham shouldn't be worried too much by Merion's horrendous rough that has the golf pros talking in their sleep this week. . . "I never saw a course that puts more premium on good driving." Lew remarked after Tuesday's practice round. "I've been giving a lot of lessons and that doesn't leave you much time for practice" . . .Still, its a good business for a golf pro who doesn't win many tournaments—and besides he can stay at home.

The Open and Shut

Jacques Houdry, who should know the Merion course as well as anybody—he's a member and shoots it occasionally in the 60s—figures a score of 284 or 285 will win the 1950 U.S. Open. . . Youngest qualifier for the Open is 15-year-old Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., who politely calls all the older players "Mister." . . .Do you remember when Bobby Jones played in the U.S. amateur on the same course at the age of 14?

What Makes Sammy Laugh

Sam Snead, who takes a lot of ribbing from golfers because of has liking for money, tells about an incident couple of years ago when a writer for a magazine approached Bobby Locke about a "cover" photo and story. . .Locke replied briefly and firmly: "For $500" and the deal fell flat. . . Whereupon Snead, knowing the value of publicity, remarked: "You can have me for nothing."

Around Detroit They're Saying Johnny Lipon Real Reason Why Tigers Are so High

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Around Detroit they're saying that Johnny Lipon is the real reason why the Tigers are giving New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox their battle of their lives in the tense American League pennant race.

Today, the Tigers, with Lipton playing every one of their 41 games, were in first place to the start of their three-game series at the Yankee Stadium. The Tiger shortstop is enjoying his greatest year at bat and in the field.

The 27-year-old native of Detroit is hitting .335. He's hit safely in his last 19 games, the best mark in the majors this season. His fine work at shortstop is responsible for the Tigers owning one of the best double play records in the league.

Lipon is not the only Tiger on a hitting spree. George Kell, last year's batting king, is back at the head of the class with a .388 figure. Hoot Evers is hitting .362 and Vic Wertz .318.

All but Wertz contributed heavily to the Tigers' 11-8 slugfest victory over Washington Senators Tuesday. The triumph, seventh in succession for the bengals, pushed them into first place by two percentage points over the Yankees.

The Yankees were blasted from the top by Cleveland's Indians, who pummelled two pitchers for 22 hits for a lopsided 16-2 triumph

Sox Handed Shock

Luke Easter and Bob Kennedy each collected four hits for the Indians.

The White Sox handed Joe McCarthy's Red Sox a rude shock when little Kenny Holcombe won his first game of the year, turning back Boston's sluggers 8-4.

St. Louis Cardinals deadlocked Brooklyn for the National League lead by shading Philadelphia 5-4 after Chicago dumped the Dodgers, 7-6.

Walks with the bases filled decided both games.

At St. Louis, Curt Simmons passed Johnny Lindell in the eighth inning, forcing in Harry Walker with the tie-breaking run.

Brooklyn reliefer Jack Banta walked pinch-hitter Emil Verban with none out and the bases full in the last of the tenth inning at Chicago to force in the deciding run for the Cubs.

Bobby Thompson blasted two home runs and a triple, driving home six runs, to lead the New Yorkers to a 10-4 victory over Pittsburgh. It was the Pirates' 13th loss in 14 games.

Earl Torgeson's three-run triple was the key hit as the Boston Braves let loose with five runs in the ninth inning to sink Cincinnati 8-3.

St. Louis Browns, who've been showing signs of life recently, came from behind to nip Philadelphia Athletics 6-5.

Louis Will Not Take a Crack At Lee Savold

(By The Canadian Press)

Joe Louis, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, does not intend to take a crack at Lee Savold's new heavyweight crown, Louis' secretary said Tuesday night at New Liskeard.

The secretary, Leonard Reed, was asked if Joe intended to take on the Englewood, N.J. battler who won the British and European versions of the world heavyweight title Tuesday by defeating Bruce Woodcock of England at London.

"Joe certainly does not intend to take a crack at him," replied Reed. "The proper thing would be for the winner to take on Ezzard Charles, the current champion. Joe hasn't made his mind up yet on any comeback. His next statement in this regard will depend on what the doctors say about Ezzard Charles."

Charles, recognized as world champion by the United States National Boxing Association, now is laid up with a heart ailment.

The N.B.A. covers all the states except New York, which never recognized a successor to Louis after his retirement in 1949.

Louis, who is travelling through Northern Ontario, was not available for comment. New Liskeard is some 300 miles north of Toronto.

At Cambridge, England, Rich Ferguson of Toronto and Bob McFarlane of London, Ont., ran second and third respectively in races at a track meet Tuesday night.

The Canadian track stars visiting Britain competed as members of a team representing the amateur Athletic Association of Britain against a squad made up of Oxford and Cambridge University students.

Ferguson was 25 yards behind J. I. Disley who clocked 9:21.2 to win the two mile race.

In the 220-yard dash, MacFarlane placed behind McDonald Bailey who set a track record of 21.6 seconds, and J. C. M. Wilkinson who was second.

Al Pickard of Regina, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Tuesday at Calgary he doesn't plan to run for re-election when the C.A.H.A. holds its annual general meeting in Banff, Alta., starting today.

Election of officers will be held Friday.

Pickard declined to comment on a report that he may take over leadership of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League if D. P. McDonald of Calgary, now president, resigns. It has been predicted that McDonald will resign the post because of pressure of business.

One of the major points to come up will be the matter of signing all hockey players to contracts. At present they are all signed to playing cards but only a few are signed to contracts. This would apply to senior and junior 'A' players only.

Defending champion Bobby Riggs and Welby Van Horn, four-ranking professional, won their way into the quarter-finals of the 24th National Professional tennis championships Tuesday night at Cleveland.

Riggs whipped Pierre Pellizza, former French Davis Cup star, 6-1, 8-6. The little Los Angeles netter looked sharp in spite of his comparative inactivity on the courts this winter.

Van Horn, a Philadelphian, who like Riggs had a first-round bye, also looked impressive in his first tournament victory. He won from Joe Whalen of Ponte Vedra, Fla., 1936 pro champ, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2.

ON THE INCREASE

Alberta's crude oil and natural gas production at the end of February this year rose to 132,038,642 pounds, and gross revenue climbed to an estimated $275,234,916.

Savold Has Glittering Offers From Louis, Charles, Walcott

By JACK HAND

New York, June 7 (AP)—Lee Savold, newly crowned "world" heavyweight boxing champion of Britain and Europe, has glittering offers to fight Joe Louis, Ezzard Charles or Jersey Joe Walcott.

Abe Greene, commissioner of the National Boxing Association made public the bids from an unidentified promoter today.

"I am empowered to speak for persons who will guarantee a $350,000 purse for a Savold-Louis fight," said Greene, "a $175,000 purse for a Savold-Charles bout or $150,000 for a Savold-Walcott contest. The fighters to agree on their own percentage split.

"The proposed bout would be staged in the Jersey City baseball park, probably in September.

"I can not say who the promoters are but I do not think they would have any objections to an affiliation with the International boxing clubs of which Louis is a stockholder."

Louis, who retired unbeaten March 1, 1949, has repeatedly said he would not return to the ring. However, of late he has wavered somewhat.

The latest statement on Louis' position came from his secretary Tuesday night at New Liskeard, Ont. The Brown Bomber currently is touring Canada giving exhibitions with a circus.

The secretary, Leonard Reed, said that Joe does not intend to meet Savold. He added that the proper thing for Savold to do is to meet Charles.

Hasn't Made up Mind

As to Joe's future, Reed said: "Joe hasn't made his mind up yet on any comeback. His next statement is this regard will depend on what the doctors say about Ezzard Charles."

Charles, sidelined by an injured heart muscle, still is recognized as world titleholder by the N.B.A. This will hold good, pending another physical examination of the Cincinnati Negro in August. New York State has never recognized him as a successor to Louis.

Walcott is in Germany where he signed to meet Berlin's Conny Rux at Cologne, July 9. Walcott recently whipped Hein Ten Hoff, German heavy.

When Greene announced, March 1, 1949, that the N.B.A. would recognize the Charles-Walcott winner as world champion, he stipulated certain conditions.

The winner, who turned out to be Charles, must meet either Gus Lesnevich or Savold within 90 days. He did meet and knock out Lesnevich but Savold already had signed for a bout with Britain's Bruce Woodcock.

Savold's fight with Woodcock, scheduled for last September, was postponed when Woodcock wrapped a truck around a tree.

Although Bill Daly, Savold's manager, said Tuesday in London he has a "gentleman's agreement" to make his next fight for promoter Jack Solomons in London, he may listen to Greene's offer.

South starts with an opening bid of one diamond and north hops right to five diamonds. This is the correct immediate response with the north holding. Do you know where to find the rule for it?

Don't get up. Let me bring it to you. First swallow this: A jump is a game-going signal. Gulp it. Now wash it down with this:: Different jumps show different types of holdings.

If it is an immediate jump of one more than necessary it shows two sure tricks among tricks enough for game. If it is an immediate high jump it denies two sure; an immediate jump to game is a shutout.

What is the purpose of showing the different types of holdings? So that partner will know if the jump includes slam material. Thus, a high jump to game discourages slam hopes.

Consider the logic. If the jump is low, it invites exchange of more information to determine slam possibilities. If the jump is high, it shuts out further exploratory ambitions.

The north hand here has what it takes for a responding bid. It has at least three tricks with two high cards among them. So, follow T-A-N and see what the first response should be.

North has what it takes for a responding bid of some kind but no new biddable suit for a takeout. He lacks two sure for a one-jump assist. With a count of six he sees 11 for game in the pair.

Thus, north must tell partner they have a game in diamonds. He has too much for a simple assist of two diamonds. Not enough for a one-jump. Enough for an immediate game jump.

What's that? You don't get it? You say you must first fix something to settle your thoughts? Well, what's keeping you? And while you are at it make it two.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 7 — (AP) — She seemed to be a girl who was amazingly lucky, and yet her whole life was dogged by ill fortune. That was Jean Harlow, who died 13 years ago today

"No matter what I do, I always end up on page one," sighed the platinum blonde. And she was right. In the eight short years that she flashed across the Hollywood scene, she created an impression that is still vivid in the public mind.

Born Harlean Carpentier, she took her mother's maiden name for her film career. But Hollywood did not immediately recognize her talents. She played bits and bathing beauties.

Grandpa Interferes

Her career nearly ended when her grandfather in Kansas City saw her on the screen in lacy black underthings. He protested and she got a release from her contract. After dropping out of films, she was signed by Howard Hughes to play the vamp in "Hell's Angels."

Then she soared to the top, her platinum tresses sending millions of American women to the drug store for peroxide.

While her movie luck was great, love was an elusive thing for Jean. At 16, she ran away from home to marry Chicago sportsman Charles McGrew and come to California. They were divorced two years later.

In 1932, she married Paul Bern, film executive. A month later, his nude body was found on the bathroom floor of their Beverly Hills home, a bullet in his temple and the gun in his hand. He left a cryptic note:

"Dearest Dear: Unfortunately this is the only way to make good the frightful wrong I have done you and to wipe out my abject humiliation. I love you. P. S. — You understand that last night was only a comedy"

Great Love

The following year, the actress married cameraman Hal Rossen, but a divorce followed a few months later.

Perhaps her greatest love was William Powell. She and the actor had the same kind of humor and enjoyed each other's company tremendously. But whatever plans they had for marriage ended with her death June 7, 1937.

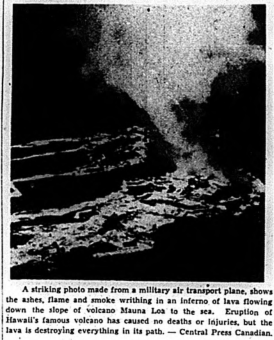
Powell was at her bedside, trying to comfort her in the last hours as uremic poisoning spread to her brain. Doctors gave her two blood transfusions but her breathing faded and stopped. She was only 26.

TOURS FAR EAST

Cairo, Egypt, June 7 (Reuters) — Field Marshal Sir William Slim, chief of the Imperial General Staff, left Cairo last night in an RAF plane on a tour of the Far East.

AT THE BELLE — Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn in the hilarious M.G.M. comedy, "Adam's Rib," closing tonight at the Belle Theatre.

HAWAIIAN VOLCANO SETS SEA AFIRE



A striking photo made from a military air transport plane, shows the ashes, flame and smoke writhing in an inferno of lava flowing down the slope of volcano Mauna Loa to the sea. Eruption of Hawaii's famous volcano has caused no deaths or injuries, but the lava is destroying everything in its path. — Central Press Canadian.

Woman Against Paying High Taxes on Home

Brampton, June 7 — (CP) — An aroused Brampton housewife told town council Tuesday she would go to jail sooner than pay taxes on her home.

Mrs. Annie Potter complained that her tax bill of $218.06 was $45 higher than last year.

"You can put me in jail," she said, "I am not paying $20 a month taxes to live in this town. I would hate myself if I did."

She said her house was not in a good residential section, and that there was a dump across from it. She told council she had appealed, unsuccessfully to the court of revision about her taxes.

Council decided to consider the complaint at a finance committee meeting.

AT THE CAPITOL — Dan Dailey and Anne Baxter are co-starred in the 20th. Century-Fox Technicolor laugh riot, "A Ticket to Tomahawk," now showing at the Capitol Theatre for its first Belleville showing. Dailey plays the part of a foot-loose drummer romantically involved with a lady marshal who knows everything about guns and very little about men. Walter Brennan and Rory Calhoun lead the supporting cast. For added enjoyment, a featurette "Perils of the Jungle," Color Cartoon, Dream Walking and a Sports Reel, "Future Champs."

B.C. Patrol Boats Protect Fish Laws

Vancouver —(CP)— Canada's Department of Fisheries' 30 patrol and protection boats are chugging out to tend their 500 Canadian and 500 American charges.

Acting as watchdogs of the halibut fleet and mother protectors of Canada's fishing laws keeps the tiny vessels more than busy. But they still manage to find time for scouting tuna, checking for lobsters, looking for prawns and crabs and keeping a watchful eye on every fishing boat from the Strait of Juan de Fuca to Alaska.

Queens of the pack are the Vancouver-built twins. Howay and Laurier. Each is 113 feet of trim, sea-grey steel, powered by 800 horse-powered diesels.

During the summer months, these boats patrol 200 miles or farther out to sea. Until then their beat takes them 60 or 70 miles off shore with the halibutters.

Now that the halibut men are out to sea, the two big boats are on constant contact with their Vancouver headquarters.

Besides their wireless they have radiophones with which they take part in seven daily conferences with headquarters.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was walking home from school with Puds Simkins talking and arguing about different subjects sutch as whether it's more fun to eat in resterants or in other people's houses, and Puds said, Hay, I got an idea. You ask your mother if you can invite me to eat with you at your house tonight, and I'll ask my mother if you can come and eat with us and we'll each find out what we're going to have for supper, and whichever has the best thing that's where we'll both eat, he said.

Sure, G, one of us is libel to have chilly beans, or frankferters and sowerkraut or something, I said.

Sounding like a swell idea, and he went in his house and I went in mine, and ma was sewing up in her room, and I said, Hay ma, will it be all rite if Puds eats with us tonight?

Oh, I suppose so, if his mother is willing, ma said, and I said, G that's swell, ma what are we having?

A nice lam stew, ma said, and I said, Will there be any dumplings in it?

No, and I only hope and pray there will be enough lam in it, at the present price of meat, ma said.

Me thinking, Aw heck, and I went out again, and Puds came out saying, My mother says okay, if your mother is willing.

That's the same thing mine said, I said. What's you having for supper? I said, and he said, Lam stew.

Gosh, that's what we're having, I said. Is yours going to be with or without dumplings? I said, and he said, Without, how about yours?

Without, I said, and Puds said, Aw heck, I'm going to eat mine in my own house where I can have a 3rd helping if I want to, and still feel naturel.

I'm going to eat mine home too, and then at least I wont have to worry about my manners, I said.

$90,000 Worth Of Beaver Skins Returned

Sudbury, June 7 (CP)— Some $90,000 worth of beaver skins seized recently in this area are being released to dealers, Lands and Forests Department officials said Tuesday. They said the furs were seized because their American buyer had not taken out an export licence.

Officials were inclined to discount earlier reports that the buyer was linked with a fur-smuggling ring. They indicated, however, that a charge will be laid against the New York man if he returned to Canada. They did not identify him.

Officials said he made only partial payments on the furs and at least half the furs have already been released. They emphasized that the furs were trapped legally and bought legally by Canadian dealers. Only the American buyer was at fault.

The New Yorker, travelling by plane, was said by officials to have visited Sault Ste. Marie, Cochrane, Sudbury, North Bay and Pembroke recently.

At the same time, department officials disclosed that a shipment of 1,235 skins, bound from Sudbury to New York, was seized two weeks ago in North Bay.

They alleged that 1,831 skins were purchased without a buyer's permit in Cochrane and 2,072 in the Sudbury area. In each case, the furs were valued at roughly $45,000 altogether. It is reported that the pelts were shipped to freezing-locker plants in several United States cities.

The department's officers said they believe the aim of the transactions was to escape payment of a $7.50 manufacturing tax which the U.S. government levies on each imported beaver pelt.

They also said charges of selling to an illegal buyer are pending against at least one Northern Ontario fur dealer.

Skins Released

North Bay—About $45,000 in beaver skins, seized aboard a train here on May 31, were released 10 days later, Frank E. Sider, district forester of North Bay, said Tuesday night.

He was commenting on a Sudbury report that Lands Department officials have smashed a $90,000 fur-buying ring which smuggled Northern Ontario beaver pelts to the United States.

Sider said the [illegible] skins were seized in the hope they would lead to the capture of a smuggler in the United States. They didn't.

He said he had been tipped off that there might be an irregularity in the shipment. A minor irregularity was found but this did not allow the department to hold the shipment.

THREE MEN ARE KILLED

Bogota, Colombia, June 6 — (AP) — A landslide near Chin-China, 100 miles southwest of Bogota, Monday killed three men and injured several others, the newspaper El Tiempo said. Another paper, El Espectador, said Heavy rains falling again in Caldas province, after a brief respite, had flooded rich farmlands and left hundreds of families homeless. The village of Sanuario, about 65 miles west of Bogota was flooded.

HEAVY HAIL STORM

Saskatoon, June 6 (CP)—The northwest section of Saskatoon was lashed Monday night by a short, but heavy hail storm. Hail stones about an inch in diameter broke several windows in one home and also beat down tree branches and gardens in the same area. Heavy rain fell for about a half hour in the one section of the city.

GIRL CATTLE RUSTLER

Oakland, Calif., June 6—(AP)—A tall blonde nurse, accused of cattle rustling, was placed on 10 years probation Monday. Mrs. Firth Band, 23, had pleaded guilty to two charges of grand theft of cattle. As a condition of parole, she must pay $1,202 to ranchers for stock taken from their barns. Judge Charles W. Snook ordered her to pay the money at the rate of $30 a month.

CO-FOUNDER OF FOUNDATION

Dr. Wilfred Shute who, with his brother Dr. Evan Shute, founded the Shute Foundation of London, Ont., is involved in a controversy over the use of Vitamin E in treatment of persons suffering congestive heart troubles. Both doctors support use of Vitamin E and have done extensive research in the use of vitamins for various disorders.—(CP Photo.)

Says Bergman Wants to Wed In London

London, June 6 — (AP) — A London solicitor said today Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini want to be married in London.

The solicitor, E. Gordon Lawrence, told a reporter he handles the Swedish-born film star's legal affairs in Britain and has been asked to find out if the couple can be married here.

Lawrence said preliminary investigation showed it was probable Britain would recognize Miss Bergman's Mexican divorce.

She was divorced from Dr. Peter Lindstrom in Juarez, Mexico, last Feb. 10, exactly a week after the birth of a child registered as Rossellini's son.

Miss Bergman and the volatile Italian director were married by proxy in Juarez, May 25.

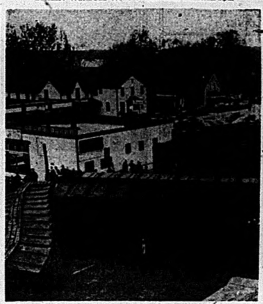
TRAIN WRECK WAS MONKEY PARADISE



A carnival show put on an unscheduled act at Callander, Ont., Sunday, when train carrying its equipment to Timmins was derailed on the main street, blocking road to home of Dionne Quintuplets. When these cars were first derailed, monkeys leaped happily among the wreckage but were soon captured. — Central Press Canadian.

U. S. SKIPPER HELD BY REDS

U. S. sea captain, William Murray, skipper of the Pacific Far East Line freighter California Bear, is being "detained' ' by Chinese communists at Tientsin because his ship was involved in a collision with a Chinese steamer. The communist action was reported when the freighter arrived in San Francisco without Murray. One of the vessel's junior officers said he was on the bridge with Captain Murray when the Chinese steamer sideswiped the Bear in a heavy fog off North China on the night of April 20. The officer said two lifeboats were lowered from the Bear and picked up 37 persons from the sinking vessel. Communist officials charged the American ship's officers were guilty of negligence in the collision and claimed that 70 persons were lost from the Chinese ship. — Central Press Canadian.

Kingsridge

By Alice Ross Colver

She was sure she was safe—Lester had gone to his meeting—but she felt anxious just the same. She was troubled by the premonition of danger that had been with her ever since she had learned Gerry was at the plant. Lester meant no good to him there, of that she was certain. Yet what could he do except fail to promote him?

She moved from the window to the davenport and lit a cigaret which she took from a box on a stand there. But she did not sit down. Instead she paced restlessly back and forth across the huge room, the lettuce green skirt of her bolero suit swinging with her stride, her white sport shoes making no sound on the thick carpet.

Lester had told her at dinner of his interview with Gerry. In a precise, carefully restrained tone, he had given it to her word for word. Yet for all his colorless manner, how he had enjoyed himself! For he was telling her that Gerry's goose was just about cooked. It was simply up to Gerry when he would admit it and quit. Then—no job, no Susan. No Susan and Gerry being what he was, no Kingsridge. Lester had planned not only for his downfall but for his departure.

Yet did he imagine that with Gerry gone, Alicia would return to him? A smile curled her lip at the idea.

She had known after Lester's story, that Gerry would telephone her. She could not guess what he had to say or ask. She had simply known he would come. For though success might carry him far from her, ill luck would bring him to her side. She thought she had done quite well with her phone message to him while Lester watched and listened. She was sure she had thrown him off the track by implying her "committee" was to get together at nine in the morning. And she was certain of it when he had left, as usual for his council meeting at the Town Hall. She had heard his car go down the drive. Now she thought with relief that he would not return before eleven, and Gerry would be gone long before eleven.

The ringing of the doorbell startled her. She had not heard Donald's car. But that was Gerry's voice saying to the Butler "Is Mrs. Brandt at home?" A moment later his familiar figure appeared between the half-drawn curtains in the wide doorway.

She said "good evening, Gerry. Thank you, Mott."

"Will that be all, Mrs. Brandt?"

"You want to go out, don't you?"

"Yes, Mrs. Brandt. It's my night and the others are all waiting in the station wagon for me. But-if there's something more?"

"No, nothing Mott. Goodnight."

Gerry and Alicia waited until the door leading from the hall to the rear of the house closed. As he moved toward her across the room they heard the station wagon pull away.

"This is very dangerous, Gerry."

"For you, yes. And I'm sorry. But I had to see you."

"For you, too, I'm afraid."

"It's all right for me. Susan knows I'm here."

"Does she? I wasn't thinking of her, though." She was silent a moment. Then, "Lester told me about today."

"He did? Well, that saves time for me." He looked at her, all his face sharp and alive and angry as it had been when she first knew him. "He's on to things, isn't he." he said.

"You mean. . ."

"I mean he knows that we. . ." He checked himself. "That you," he corrected, "feel an interest in me."

She smiled. "The way you started to say it first is the way it really is. Why not admit it, Gerry?"

He made an impatient gesture. "However it is, it gives him an edge."

"Of course."

"He's having a wonderful time" Gerry's tone rasped, "playing a cat and mouse game with me because of it."

"I can imagine."

"But when he gets tired or bored, or jealous enough—" He made a scooping, flinging motion with his arms.

She nodded.

He stepped close to her. His mind had cleared on the way over here and he knew that if he went back to Susan and apologized, she would forgive him. She was extraordinary that way. But things might be different between them. He was not sure about that. He was only aware that it was much more difficult for him to win a battle as a gentleman in a drawing room than a battle as a vagabond in the streets. The tactics required were not the same and he had not enough training in the former. He had not learned how to keep cool. And now only Alicia could help him. Only Alicia could make it possible for him to go back to Susan with the humble apology he had half planned. Would she be that generous? But she had been before.

He said, "what I want to know—what I want you to tell me, is how the Judge ever got Lester to hire me in the first place."

"I've puzzled over that, too."

He stared at her. He couldn't believe she wasn't aware of what he was driving at.

"Think!" he said, taking her by the arm. "What's the Judge got on him? When did Lester ever do something on the shady side? When did he ever get into a scrape that Steven King had to get him out of? Think.

"I'm trying to, but I can't remember a thing. Lester's clever you know. And he always gets good advice." She stopped frowning slightly. "Wait a minute. Yes, there was something. I vaguely remember now."

He caught her other arm and shook her gently.

"Go on!"

She said slowly. "It's come back to me. But it wasn't anything, Gerry. I mean, it turned out to be nothing. Some man Lester had fired once came back at him with serious charges. At least they seemed serious though I forget exactly—"

"Think!"

"You're hurting me, Gerry."

"I'm sorry." He slipped his arms around her and drew her to him. "If you knew what this means to me," he begged.

"I do know what this means to you. But it's no good, my dear."

"No good?"

"No. The man was a fanatic. Judge King found out he'd been in a psychopathic ward once and the whole thing was dropped. It could have been ugly but it wasn't. I suppose," she finished. "Lester hired you out of gratitude to Steven King for that. I can't think of any other reason."

"There is another reason, though."

It was Lester speaking, and Alicia and Gerry, springing apart whirled to face him. He stood in the wide doorway to the hall, his police dog Max, on a leash he held in his hand.

"I hired you to keep an eye on you. I hired you so that I would know, through the days, at least, just where you were, Mr. Barton, and what you were doing." He advanced a step or two into the room, the great dog straining ahead of him, growling menacingly. "And now I see I shall have to keep track of you through the nights too." He smiled faintly. "Do you think Judge King will like your being here, Mr. Barton? Do you think your fiancee will be pleased to have me tell her I discovered you embracing my wife on an evening when I was out? Supposed to be out," he corrected glancing at Alicia, "but I wasn't fooled by that telephone message, my dear. Fortunately my hearing is still excellent and Mr. Barton's voice is familiar to me. So that was just Henry driving my car away. Henry, going to the village to do an errand for me. And told not to hurry back."

"Lester!"

Alicia's sharp cry held a note of sudden desperate fear. She was watching Lester's hands, slowly shortening the leash as he talked, slowly reaching down inch by inch toward the snaplock on the dog's collar and she was remembering something he had said long ago. If he ever appears on my place again, I will put my dogs on him.

But Gerry, too, had seen and was moving, with cautious step, backward until he was in front of the fireplace with the davenport between him and the growling brute. Alicia had just time to glimpse the glitter in her husband's pale eyes before she heard the tiny click of the snaplock. In the next instant, with white fangs bared and a skin-freezing snarl, the great dark form of Max came hurtling over the top of the sofa straight for Gerry's throat.

Quick as he was however, Gerry was quicker. His whole life, together with his army training had prepared him for this kind of battle. With one hand he smashed a pillow he had caught up from the davenport into the face of the dog, while at the same time he sidestepped neatly and seized the brass fire tongs from the stand directly behind him. With this, and another pillow, he was ready for Max who had crashed first into the mantel shelf and then to the floor, before he bounded back to the attack.

Alicia never knew exactly how Gerry won that fight. Crouching in a huddle in the big chair into which he had pushed her, she saw only the terrible violence of the struggle, the wild melee of ferocious black dog, of flying green pillows, of sudden red blood, of flashing fire tongs, of Gerry's white leaping figure that seemed to be everywhere in the room at once. She heard the crunch of bone as the tongs came down the ripping of cloth in the animal's teeth, the splintering of wood as a small table crashed, the dog's throaty rumble and Gerry's loud breathing. She heard too, like a summons from another world, the clear sharp ringing of the telephone bell.

And then it was over. In one moment, this desperate activity and in the next the dog lay dying, his skull crushed, while Gerry stood triumphant above him. It was then that Alicia's instinct impelled her to glance toward her husband and her sharp "Look out!" made Gerry turn quickly.

Lester was advancing upon him, beside himself with rage over his defeat and his loss, and utterly forgetful of the fact that he was no match for Gerry's young strength. A single blow from Gerry's fist was sufficient to crumple him senseless on the couch.

"I had to," said Gerry, staring down.

"I know." Alicia came to him and took his arm. "Come," she said, and led him away to the kitchen where she poured him a stiff drink and then helped him clean himself up.

"You were lucky," she said, surveying him when they had finished. "Those scratches aren't too deep. But your suit is a wreck. I'll get you a raincoat."

She went out into the hall and came back with one in her hand.

"Put this on and then wait for me. I'll be right down," she said.

He heard her going upstairs as he fumbled with buttons and buttonholes with hands that shook from the reaction. But when she came back to him presently he was steady once more and he noticed that she had changed from a dress into a gray suit, gray shoes and stockings, and that she carried a suitcase and a handbag. She wore no hat.

"Come," she said.

They went out into the darkness and closed the front door quietly behind them. Donald's red car stood at the steps.

"I'll drive," she said.

She took the wheel. He sank down beside her.

"I can't think," he said.

"Everything's gone, Gerry," she told him gently.

He made no reply.

"Lester will come around. And when he does, what he will say will finish you here in Kingsridge."

"I suppose so."

With Susan, he was thinking. Yes, he was finished with Susan. It was a thought that twisted through him with a sharp agony for a moment and then that vanished and he knew a strange quiet peace.

"I'm going to Reno," she went on. "Tonight. At least, I'll go to New York tonight, and I'll start for Reno as soon as I can get a ticket." She patted the handbag on her lap. "I changed my jewels into travellers checks long ago I've just been waiting—" She broke off.

He did not need to ask but did, anyway. "For what?"

"For you."

He was silent. She was silent, too, for awhile. then she said what she had said before. "Come with me, Gerry. I'll help you pack. I'll wait for you my dear. We can drive this car straight into the city and leave a note at the inn telling exactly where it can be found. We'll disappear. And what people may say after we're gone won't hurt us. How about it Gerry?"

He made no answer. He was thinking. Susan was out of his life now without a question. Already she was the sweetest, most fragrant memory he would ever have. But she was out. The only thing he could do for her to show her how much he had cared was to give her back to herself. She deserved more, but it was the best he could do.

Yes, Susan was a part of his past. But there was still his future. His mind went on.

Prime Minister Insists On Paying $5,000 for Food And Lodging in New Home

Ottawa, June 8. (CP)—The Commons was told today that Prime Minister St. Laurent insisted that he be allowed to pay $5,000 a year toward the cost of food and lodging for himself and his family in the home being established for Canadian Prime Ministers.

Acting Prime Minister Howe said that Mr. St. Laurent would not welcome any move aimed at preventing him from paying.

He made the statement after several Liberal and opposition members stated that the present Prime Minister and future Prime Ministers should not be required to pay toward the upkeep of the residence provided by the State.

House Respects Views

Mr. Howe said Mr. St. Laurent estimated that his present living expenses amount to about $5,000 a year and he wanted to go on paying that sum. Mr. Howe said he considered the sum reasonable and if he was Prime Minister he would want to pay for the board and lodging of his family.

At his request, the House agreed to respect the views of Mr. St. Laurent.

The argument developed before members adopted a bill providing for the operation and maintenance of a home for Prime Ministers.

A former mansion on the shores of the Ottawa river now is being renovated. It is not yet known when it will be ready for occupation by Mr. and Mrs. St. Laurent.

In the debate, C.C.F. members suggested it would have been cheaper to demolish the mansion and build a modern home. Progressive Conservative members called for more details on the costs of renovation.

Costs More Than Planned

Mr. Howe indicated that the renovation was costing more than originally anticipated. He said the costs could be discussed during study of public works department estimates.

He told members it was impossible to say what the operation and maintenance would cost.

In reply to a suggestion from Joseph Bradette (L-Cochrane) that the Prime Minister's salary be increased to at least $30,000 a year, Mr. Howe said it was proper for members to discuss that matter, but not in connection with the bill.

FIFTH SURVIVOR AND DEAD AIRMAN PLUCKED FROM SEA

London, June 8 (AP)— A fifth survivor and another dead crew member of a United States B-29 bomber were plucked from the North Sea today, nearly 24 hours after their flaming plane plunged into the water.

This left four men still missing from the crash, off the Norfolk coast of Southeast England. Five of the 11-man crew have been picked up alive and two dead. Ships and planes pressed the hunt for the men still missing.

An RAF rescue launch found the fifth survivor, who was injured and suffering from his long stay in the cold water.

The survivors were Capt. Henry J. Walsh, the plane's commander, Sgt. Warren J. Ebert, Sgt. Charles F. Allen and an unidentified airman.

The air force said the plane was in Britain on a training mission. Walsh and Ebert, in a rubber dinghy, were pulled from the sea almost immediately by the British trawler Warren, which at the same time recovered the dead airman.

Allen and the fourth survivor were rescued early today by combined British - American search forces after the airmen had floated for more than 13 hours in "Mae West" life jackets.

BURNED TO DEATH

He had been on a drinking party with his next-door neighbor, who lives in a junked car next to Miller's.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, June 8 (CP)—Synopsis: Temperatures soared into the 80s in Southern Ontario on Wednesday for the second successive day. Highest values reported were Malton airport 88, Hamilton 87, Toronto, Killaloe and Porquis Junction 86.

The hot weather covered the entire southeastern quarter of the continent. Although the cooler air which has been giving showers over Northern Ontario has [illegible] slowly southward, it will [illegible] retreat northward again. A storm centre 400 miles west of Lake Superior is moving toward Winnipeg. It is responsible for the snow to the west of it and is also giving an extensive area of rain and thundershowers activity to the north.

Another sunny hot day is forecast for southern and central Ontario, while northern Ontario will be somewhat cooler with scattered shower activity continuing.

COMMONS HANDS OVER POWER TO SET ARMY'S SIZE

Cabinet Henceforth Will Have Final Say

Ottawa, June 8. (CP)—The Commons has agreed to strip away parliament's traditional formal power to set the size of the regular army—but it still will have power of it indirectly, through control of defence expenditures.

This agreement came Wednesday after Defence Minister Claxton said manpower has become far less important than equipment in modern military establishments.

Mr. Claxton indicated, too, that Canada's regular forces are virtually at the ceiling intended for them in peacetime. The ceiling envisaged, he said, is 50,000. The three services now contain just about that many men.

The discussion arose as the House sped through a 251-clause bill to consolidated and modernize defence legislation in one act, so swiftly in fact that A. L. Smith (PC-Calgary West) complained that he missed 12 sections when he turned away to blow his nose.

Earlier the House gave final approval to a number of bills. They included one amending the Prairie Farm Assistance Act which provides crop failure bonuses, another amending the militia pension act, and another embracing Senate amendments to the Income Tax Act.

Given first reading was a measure to amend the Indian Act and a bill to provide for the operation and maintenance of a residence for the Prime Minister.

Approve 40 Amendments

The rapid approval of the Defence Bill contrasted with the slow, serious study by a special House committee that approved 40 amendments and thrashed over virtually every clause. It was that committee study that made the swift House study possible. The bill now goes to the Senate.

The clause about the size of the army was raised by Percy Wright (CCF-Melfort) who said the bill would, for the first time, place in the hands of the Cabinet instead of parliament the power to set that seize. This ended a tradition that dated back to Cromwell's day in England. It was a distinct departure which members should weigh.

Mr. Claxton said the justification "is that, under existing arrangements, the number of men actually involved in the defence of any country at one time is only one of a great number of factors that constitute the control of defence."

The provision, he said, went back 200 years or so when the size of England's army could be a threat to the State.

Not a Threat

"In Canada there never has been such a possibility and I am sure there never could be such a possibility," he added.

"With forces such as we envisage . the army could not be a threat. But in modern times I think that what is far more important really than the size of the forces is the kind of equipment they have.

"Then in order to effect control it would be desirable not only to control the number of men but the number of aircraft, tanks and so on."

40 O. P. P. Officers, Airplane, Radio Cars Hunt for Stolen Gold

Timmins, June 8 — (CP) — Radio-equipped police cars and an airplane today were pressed into the hunt for three bars of stolen gold.

District Inspector E. R. Robbie of the Ontario Provincial Police announced the widening of the search, which so far has revealed no trace of the $75,000 worth of gold taken last Friday from the Delnite Mine, five miles south of here.

The inspector said all road blocks, at which police have been questioning motorists passing through this Northern Ontario gold mining area, have been tightened. The entire area from Hearst and Kapuskasing to Cochrane, Matheson and Iroquois Falls is being combed for the thieves who blasted open a vault of the mine and carried off the gold in a 500-pound safe.

Forty Provincial Police officers now are working on the case. Sixteen officers were brought in this week from Kapuskasing, Cochrane and Iroquois Falls.

Edward Clement, 20, charged with breaking and entering and theft in connection with the case, was released Wednesday on $40,000 property bail. The case was adjourned until June 20.

Civilians Named to Replace Military Rulers in E. Germany, Red Move for Prestige Seen

Berlin, June 8 (AP)—Russia today named civilians to replace four military rulers in east Germany in a move apparently designed to bolster the prestige of the communist east German state.

The changes accelerated the switch from military to civilian control in the Russian zone and were accompanied by indications that new responsibilities were being delegated to the area's communist-controlled German government.

Allied observers believed, however, the changes did not mean that Moscow was loosening its grip on east Germany but rather was pulling the Kremlin-created state closer toward early partnership as a full-fledged satellite in the Soviet bloc.

The best known of the four military men recalled to Moscow was Maj.-Gen. Alexander G. Kotikov, 58-year-old former Red commandant of Berlin and representative of the Soviet control commission in Berlin since the establishment of the east German government last November.

It was Kotikov's frequent use of the veto power which wrecked co-ordinated four-power rule of the city. He was replaced by Sergei Alexeivitch Dengin.

Showing his government's new powers, east German Premier Otto Grotewohl announced today his cabinet planned direct and extensive political - economic negotiations with Soviet-bloc countries. Similar to those just concluded with Poland.

Grotewohl specifically mentioned Hungary and Czechoslovakia. He said also the negotiators who went to Warsaw would be sent to negotiate with the Chinese communist government.

London, (AP)—A foreign office spokesman said today appointment of a civilian to replace the Soviet military commandant in Berlin seems inconsistent with four-power agreements.

He recalled that the big four foreign ministers agreed last year to try to set up again as a functioning organization the four-power military kommandatura which ran Berlin affairs. This agreement was reached at the same meeting which resulted in lifting the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

King George Takes Salute At Trooping-the-Color

London, June 8—(Reuters) —The King, in scarlet uniform and towering bearskin, stood under a hot sun during London's Horseguards parade today to take his birthday salute at the annual trooping-the-color ceremony.

Londoners thronged the route from Buckingham Palace to the parade ground to cheer the royal family.

The sun blazed down from clear blue skies as the King left the Palaces wearing the uniform of Colonel-in-Chief of the Coldstream Guards.

Parade in 75 Degree Temperature

Earlier, the crowd outside the Palace had seen the Queen driven off for the parade ground with Princess Margaret in an open carriage. Queen Mother Mary and Princess Elizabeth, expecting her second baby, drove by car.

On the parade ground, 45 officers and 1,306 other ranks of His Majesty's Brigade of Guards, wearing their 22-inch-high bearskins and full dress uniforms, paraded in a 75-degree temperature.

Massed bands, drums, and pipes of the brigade provided martial music for the royal inspection, the trooping of the color, and the march-past.

Stands overlooking the parade ground, reserved for distinguished visitors, were full, the men wearing grey top hats and formal morning dress and the women making a colorful spectacle in gay summer dresses.

The Queen, the Princesses and Queen Mary watched the ceremony from a window above the parade ground.

Senior officers of the three services, members of the diplomatic corps, and service attaches from the Embassies in London were among the official guests.

The King returned to Buckingham Palace at the head of his Guards, where there was another march-past. At noon the Royal Horse Artillery fired a royal salute of 41 guns in Hyde Park.

From the balcony of the Palace the King watched a fly-past of 18 planes of the R.A.F. bomber command—the first time that the Air Force had taken part in the birthday celebrations.

The birthday was celebrated in other parts of the world today, though last Monday was set aside in Canada to honor the anniversary.

Abbott Visits Flood District To Assess Damage

Winnipeg, June 7. (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott and Premier Campbell met today to discuss preliminary estimates of overall flood damage in Southern Manitoba. The press was excluded.

Mr. Abbott, who arrived Tuesday night by plane from Ottawa, spent the morning touring flooded areas. His visit is expected to result in agreement on a figure for initial federal aid to the province.

Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated in the Commons recently that Manitoba can expect assistance on the same scale as that given the Fraser Valley district of British Columbia in 1948. Then, the Dominion paid about 81 per cent of total damages, including 100 per cent of repair costs.

Total payments were $14,122,000 of the $17,493,000 damage.

Manitoba's bill is expected to run considerably higher.

CAR NOT WORTH IT

Farmer Given 60-Day Term for Cruelty to Horse

Guelph, June 8 — (CP) — A 60-day sentence for mistreating a horse, imposed on William A. Wilson of nearby Maryboro township, was upheld here Wednesday by County Judge R. Stewart Clark.

Wilson, who appealed the sentence, was convicted of cruelty to animals. Evidence was that he drove 10 miles with a 12-year-old blind horse hitched behind his automobile. Witnesses said they saw the horse stumble several times and at one point saw it dragged about 25 feet.

Humane Society inspector said the horse had a four-by-eight-inch wound on its rump and rope burns on its neck.

Wilson said he did not know the horse was being dragged and that he stopped the car each time it fell.

Washington, June 8 — (AP) — United States government maps and papers henceforth will carry a little Oklahoma town near Ardmore as "Gene Autry, Okla." The government's Board of Geographic names made it official today, giving the cowboy movie star's name to a community that has been known as Berwyn.

U.S. SHIPPING BEST EQUIPMENT TO WEST EUROPE

Would be in Path Of Possible Attack

Washington, June 8 (AP)—The United States is reported to be shipping some of its best anti-tank weapons to European Allies which might be in the path of massive Russian armored forces in a future war.

Defence officials said the weapons—bound mostly for France under the arms aid program—include bazookas, rocket launchers, and recoilless power rifles still in the secret stage.

At the same time, the U.S. army is pressing a long-range program aimed at countering the threat of Russia's potent armored forces by the "development and limited production of a family of tanks superior to those of any possible future enemy."

Officials told a reporter Wednesday that U.S medium tanks—including some modernized second World War types—are among the weapons being sent to Europe.

The senate armed forces and foreign relations committees are holding point hearings on the Truman administration's request for $1,222,500,000 for the second year of the program to rearm the western Allies.

Most Practical Step

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge (Rep. Mass.), a foreign relations committee member, told reporters that this program "is the most practical step toward world peace we can take at present.

Lodge, an army officer in the Second World War, said that under the arms program "within three or four years western Europe can be made an unattractive target for Russian aggression—and without bankrupting the United States." He added:

"If we do nothing we run a very real risk of World War III."

Gen. George C. Marshall, wartime army chief of staff and former secretary of state, met behind closed doors with the two senate committees. One senator afterwards quoted the general as saying there is a second danger in the arms program: That the U.S. may rearm some country which ultimately will elect a communist government.

Not to be Quoted by Name

The senator, who asked not to be quoted by name, said:

"Marshall said that was a calculated risk that must be taken—but that the risk was worth the gamble."

On the question of armored strength, U.S. military officials estimate Russia and her satellites have more than 40,000 medium and heavy tanks of all types—compared with about 6,000 combat-worthy U.S. medium and light tanks.

While the army has ordered production of what it considers the best light tank in the world, it says it will be years before enough of these are delivered to equip all units which will use them.

3 Others Taken To Hospital With Severe Burns

Father and Seven Children Escape From Home Safely

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 8 — (CP) —Two young girls were burned to death early today in a fire that destroyed their home in adjacent Stamford township. Three other persons were taken to hospital with severe burns.

Dead are Aileen Waugh, 16, and her sister, Fanny 5.

In hospital are Mrs. Hazel Waugh, 36, mother of the girls; a son, Kenneth, 12; and a daughter, Sylvia, 7.

The father, Gordon Waugh, and seven other children ranging in age from one month to 14 years, escaped unharmed.

One of the children, 13-year-old Donald, said the blaze was caused by a cigaret. He said his mother apparently fell asleep while lying on a couch and smoking.

Aileen's body was found just inside the front door. Fanny died in her bed.

Donald Waugh, who discovered the fire, quickly tossed his brother, Gerald, out the window. Kenneth threw Leslie out and Sylvia tried vainly to rouse Fanny.

Michael McNeill, a neighbor, entered the small house on Church's Lane in an attempt to save Fanny but flames drove him out.

Roger Hunt, St. John Ambulance instructor, was credited with saving the life of one-month-old Gwendolyn Waugh.

Hunt, who had given first aid to Mrs. Waugh and her son and daughter, before taking them to hospital, returned to the fire scene a second time. He was asked to look at the tiny black-haired baby who had been carried into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McNeil, immediately behind the burning house. Hunt realized the child was nearly dead and immediately began artificial respiration.

"She was just about gone," Hunt said. "It was lucky. they called me in."

Two doctors who had attended the burned victims at the scene had left before the baby's condition was noticed.

Firemen said the fire started about 3 a.m. in the living-room of the four-room stucco cottage. Fire Chief Earl Embleton of Stamford said that by the time he and his volunteer brigade arrived, the dwelling was "just a bonfire."

The father said Arline apparently gave her life to save little Anny. After counting faces, she realized the little girl had not left the burning house with the others. She dashed through the front door leading into the living-room and was engulfed in a surge of flames.

"Arline looked after the children just like a mother," her father said.

Mercury Drops Below Freezing In West, While East is Sweltering

(By The Canadian Press)

Calgary and Toronto represented the extremes in a topsy-turvey Canadian weather picture today as the east sweltered in a June heat wave while temperatures dropped below freezing in parts of the west.

The mercury fell to 27 during the night in Calgary—lowest in the country—while Malton airport, just north of Toronto, reported 88 Wednesday.
